3. Gilbert.

4. John, m. and had issue,

- 1. Robert, an eminent merchant of York, and twice lord-mayor thereof, viz., in 1591 and 1603; in the latter year, after especially satisfying himself of ELIZABETH's death, he proclaimed JAMES VI. of Scotland king of England, and entertained that monarch on his arrival at York, having met him at Tadcaster, where he was knighted, and received as a grant of arms, Ar., on a chev., engr., between three chess-rooks, sa., as many crescents, or; and for a crest, an arm, vested, gu., turned up, ar, holding in the hand, ppr., a chess-rook, sa. He purchased the Cundall estate. He m. and had three sons, all of whom d. s. p. in his lifetime.
- 2. William, also of York, and likewise lord-mayor thereof, on his brother's death, s. as his heir to the Cundall estate, m. and had (with two daus., viz., Margaret, m. to Sir Guilford Slingisbye, whose eldest son was created a haronet; and Mary, m. to Edward Cayley, whose eldest son was also created a haronet) two sons, Christopher and Rowland: the elder, and by her had issue, ROBERT, William, Joseph, Thomas, Benjamin; Dorothy, Marie, Margaret, Anne, and Elizabeth.

ROBERT, of Cundall, son and heir of Christopher, was high-sheriff of Yorkshire in 1659; he bore the aforesaid arms and crest, without the crescents. Subsequent to the Restoration, Ralph Oates, on 21 Oct. 1663, endeavoured, before the committee of the House of Commons, to mix this Robert up in the Farnley Wood attempt to overturn the government. He m. Lettice, dau. of Thomas Stockdale, Esq. of Bilton Park, near Knaresborough, and had issue, ROBERT, Christopher, Margaret, Anne, Lettice, Elizabeth, Catherine, and Mary.

ROBERT, of Cundall, son and heir of Robert, m. and had an only child, Ann, m. to William Robinson, of Rookby, both of whom were buried at Martin Abbey, Surrey. Their eldest son and heir, THOMAS, was created a baronet in 1730, and under his patent the present Baron Rookby derives title as a bart. He erected an obelisk in the old Roman highway, passing by Rookby Park wall, to his mother's memory, wherein he describes her as

"Antiquæ et generosæ familiæ de Walter (Quæ in villa de Cundall in com. Ebor Per longam annorum seriem duravit) Hæredis ultime."

WOTTON, Bart., v. 226.

Lineage.

In the sixteenth century this family was exceedingly numerous in the West Riding of the county of York, and especially within the large parish of Halifax, wherein in several branches it was possessed of much landed property, and in many also engaged in trade and manufactures.

The fecundity of the race is so remarkable, when contrasted with the population of that district, so much less then than at the present day, as to make its details worth recording in a work of this kind.

In the parish register of Halifax church alone, are entered in the century from 1538 to 1638 the baptisms of 445 of this name, who, it is pretty well ascertained, were all of this family; of these 231 were males, and 214 females. The marriages in the same period were 200; of which 81 are of males, and 119 of females. The burials are 300; of which 164 are of males: of these, 81 were grown up or aged men; 83 were boys, infants, or young men; and 136 females, of whom 46 were wives, 19 were widows, 4 spinsters, and 67 young women or girls, whose fathers were living.

The numbers of the family, or of persons bearing the name of Waterhouse, began to decline from this time. Several of the wealthy branches had removed or had become extinct, and others appear to have been reduced in estate, very probably in consequence of the largeness of their families.

From 1638 to 1745, the baptisms are 90; 42 males and 48 females. The marriages, 54—viz., 30 males and 28 females. The burials from 1638 to 1720 are 108: 56 males; of these, 29 were grown up or aged men, 27 young men and boys; and 52 are of females: 14 of these were wives, 10 widows, 8 spinsters, and 20 young women or girls, whose fathers were living. This diminution has steadily continued. There are now few among the middle or poorer class bearing this name, and among the wealthier none remain in the county except the members of the family here recorded. The lineage of the family is as follows:—

SIR GILBERT WATERHOUSE, of AB AQUÉ DOMO, Knt. was of Kirton, in the division of Low Lindsey, in Lincolnshire, in the reign of HENRY III. He m. Isabella, dau. of Sir Richard de Longvale, and sister and co-heir* of her brother, Sir John de Longvale, Knt., and had issue,

I. ROGER, who m. Johan, dau. and heir of Sir John Castel, Knt. From him descended the Waterhouses of the Bury of Hemel Hempstead, Herts; of Whitchurch, Bucks; of London; of Castle Waterhouse, in Fermanagh. Thomas Waterhouse, last Prior of Ashbridge, and Sir Edward Waterhouse, Chancellor of the Exchequer in Ireland, in the reign of ELIZABETH, were of the Herts family; and Edward Waterhouse, LL.D., an antiquarian and ethical writer, was of the same race in London.

II. GILBERT.

- vii. A dau., wife of — Wincfield.
- viii. Elizabeth, wife of — Aykeroyde, of Howorth.

The eldest son,

JOHN WATERHOUSE, d. 2 Jan. 1539. His grandson, John Waterhouse, of Shibden, records of him, that in the time of John Waterhouse, "who dyed at Candlemas, twenty-six years ago, at his death being very neare one hundred years of age, I trow three years under: when he was but a child there were but in Halifax in all thirteen houses; now, 1565, twenty and six score. God be prayed for his increase." He m. Agnes, dau. of John Ryshworth, of Coley Hall, who was buried 30 Oct. 1542. Their monument in brass yet remains in Halifax church. They had issue,

- i. Richard, of Hollins, in Warley, who m. Isabel, dau. of Nicholas Saville, of Newhall. He continued the line of the Waterhouses of Warley, and from him came Jonas Waterhouse, of Bradford, who d. 13 Feb. 1716, aged 90; and from an illegitimate branch sprang Richard Waterhouse, of Inchowleran Castle, in Kilkenny, in 1608.
- ii. Robert, of the Moot Hall of Halifax. He d. 26 Aug. 20 ELIZABETH, and his will was proved 15 March, 1581. He m. about 1522, Sibill, dau. and co-heir of Robert Saville, of Shibden Hall, in Southowram, in Halifax. She was buried 28 Feb. 1559. From him descended the Waterhouses of Shibden Hall; of Braithwell, near Doncaster; of Harthill; of the Wyther, co. York; of Wallingwells, co. Notts; and of St. Andrew, Holborn, London.
- iii. Christopher, d. s. p., a student at Oxford.
- i. Elizabeth, wife of Christopher Both, of Both.
- ii. Margaret, wife of Gilbert Otes, of Halifax.

- ii. Lawrence (Sir).
- iii. Edward.
- iv. Robert, who had by gift from his father, Bankhouse, in Skircot, and d. 20 May, 7 EDWARD VI. From him came the Waterhouses of Bankhouse.
- v. Gilbert, from whom others in Skircot.
- i. Margaret, m. Henry Batte, of Birstall.
- ii. Sibill, m. Richard Holdsworth.

The eldest son,

JOHN WATERHOUSE, of Newhouse, was buried 10 July, 1545; his will was proved 19 Aug. 1546. By his wife, Elizabeth, he had issue (with three daus.) two sons,

- i. JOHN, of Newhouse, under age in 1545, d. 24 Dec. 1571; will proved 9 March following, m. a dau. of — Armytage, of Huddersfield Hall. From him descended Waterhouse of Norwood Greeu, in Hipperholme, and of Pontefract; and so Waterhouses of Kingston-on-Thames; and so John-Wright Waterhouse, and Wilmot-Henry Waterhouse, Esquires, now living, of Hammersmith.
- ii. MICHAEL, of whom we treat.

The second son,

MICHAEL WATERHOUSE, of Woodhouse, in Skircot, which he inherited from his father, was buried 25 Nov. 1587; his will, proved 30 Jan. 1587-8. He m. 18 Nov. 1530

1555, Grace Wilkinson, who was buried 3 March, 1581; and 2ndly, Cecilia, relict of William Rayner. By his second wife he had one son, Nathaniel, dry-salter, bapt. 11 Sept. 1586, and d. s. p. 3 June, 1645, m. 16 Nov. 1607, Dorothy Wilson, of Eland, whose will was proved 9 March, 1669. He was a benefactor to his native town, and left his estate to the alms-houses which bear his name. By the first wife, Michael had issue,

ISAAC, his heir, of the Woodhouse, bapt. 3 Nov. 1556, was buried 23 Feb. 1609-10; will proved 3 Oct. 1611. He m. Mary, sister of John Crowther, and had issue, eight sons and five daus., viz.,

In 1832, he was elected M.P. for the borough of Brecknock.

Lineage.

This family represents, in the female line, the ancient and distinguished house of Vaughan of Golden Grove, which derived from

HUGH VAUGHAN, Esq. of Kidwelly, gentleman-usher to King HENRY VII. During the great tournament held by that monarch at Richmond, in Surrey, in May, 1492, this Hugh Vaughan fought a duel with one Sir James Parker, Knt., concerning the arms which Mr. Garter had given to the said Hugh, and which the king permitted him to use, when Parker was slain accidentally, as it should appear, in the first encounter. From the following entry in a book of the household expenses of King HENRY VII., it appears that Hugh Vaughan was living and in his service in 1497. "It. to Hugh Vaughan for ij harpers xiijs. 10d., 2 Jan. 1497." He m. Jane, dau. of Morris ap Owen, and had one son,

JOHN VAUGHAN, Esq. of Golden Grove, who having m. Katherine, dau. of Henry Morgan, Esq. of Moddescombe, was father of one son,

WALTER VAUGHAN, Esq. of Golden Grove, living in 1590, who m. Katherine, dau. of Griffith ap Rhys, of Newton, co. Carmarthen, and granddau. of Rhys ap Griffith, by Katherine, his wife, who was dau. of Thomas Howard, Duke of Norfolk, earl-marshal of England, K.G., &c., by his first wife, Agnes, sister and co-heir of Sir Philip Tilney, of Boston, co. Lincoln, and consequently a relation in blood to Queen ELIZABETH, who was great-grand-dau. of the said Thomas Howard, Duke of Norfolk, by his second wife, Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Sir Frederic Tilney, Knt. By the said Katherine, his wife, Walter Vaughan, had issue,

- I. JOHN (Sir), of Golden Grove, Knt., comptroller of the household to King CHARLES I. while Prince of Wales, created by patent, 13 July, 1623, Baron Vaughan of Mullingar, in Ireland, and (4 CHARLES I.) Earl of Carbery. He m. 1st, Margaret, dau. of Sir Gelly Meyrick, Knt.; and 2ndly, Jane, dau. of Sir Thomas Palmer, Knt. of Wingham, co. Kent, and widow of Sir William Meredith, of Leers Castle, co. WATLINGTON OF BERKSHIRE.

WATLINGTON, GEORGE, Esq. of Caldecot House, co. Herts, barrister-at-law, Prothonotary of the Common Pleas, and Recorder of St. Albans, b. in 1769; m. Charlotte, dau. of Charles Nevinson, Esq., and has issue,

Charlotte-Eliza, m. to James-Shammar Chauvel, major

E. I. Co.'s service, Madras, who d. 9 May, 1835, s. p. Maria-Jane, m. to Thomas Perry, Esq. of Moor Hall, co. Essex, and by him (who d. 15 Oct. 1833) was mother of the present John Watlington-Perry, Esq. of Moor Hall, and has issue. (See PERRY OF MOOR HALL.)

He m. 2ndly, Louisa, second dau. and co-heir of Robert Bodle, Esq. of Woolston Hall, Essex, grandson of William Bodle, Esq., by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of George Scott, Esq. of Woolston Hall, the representative of a family of great antiquity, which was seated at a very early period at Stapleford Tony Hall, Essex, and of which was Sir William Scott, chief justice, temp. EDWARD III.

Lineage.

This very ancient family derives from SIR ROBERT DE WATLINGTON, living temp. STEPHEN, who was father of two sons, PETER (Sir), and Alane, both living temp. HENRY II. The elder, SIR PETER DE WATLINGTON, had, with two younger sons, Peter and Thomas, another son, WILLIAM DE WATLINGTON, who d. 17 HENRY III., leaving two sons. The elder, ROBERT DE WATLINGTON, came of age 34 HENRY III., 1250. He m. Basilia de Wathelington, and by her was father of RALPH DE WATLINGTON, whose son, RICHARD DE WATLINGTON, was father of WILLIAM DE WATLINGTON, living 3 EDWARD I., 1275. His son, SIR ROBERT DE WATLINGTON, living about 1306, part of whose monument remains in Watlington Church, Norfolk, had, by Agnes, his wife, (who m. 2ndly, Gefery de Beussyard,) three sons, GEORGE, Richard, and John. The eldest, GEORGE DE WATLINGTON, was father of WILLIAM DE WATLINGTON, whose son, JOHN DE WATLINGTON, living 20 EDW. III., (1347,) left a son, THOMAS DE WATLINGTON, who was father, with a dau., Joan, wife of William Steward, of a son, JOHN DE WATLINGTON, who had three sons, RICHARD; Thomas, in holy orders, rector of North Lynn; and John, Prior of Westacre in 1414. The eldest, RICHARD DE WATLINGTON, had three sons, Raaf, or Ralph Watlyngton, father, with a dau. m. to William Osbond, of Robert Watlyngton, of Redyng, owner of the Whitley estate, who d. in 1542, leaving, by Elizabeth, his wife, sister of Thomas Vabell, M.P. for Reading from 1539 to 1557, with two daus., a son and heir, Nicholas Watlyngton, of Whitley, who by Alice Kent, his wife, left an only dau. and heiress, Joane, m. to John Kingston, who sold the Whitley estate to Richard Watlyngton, as hereafter.

Hugo Watlyngton, Prior of Wormgay from 1416 to 1447. JOHN, of whom we treat.

JOHN WATLINGTON had, with three daus., two sons,

WILLIAM, of whom presently.

John, of Nalely Skewers, co. Hants, who d. in 1558, leaving by Anna Holwell, his wife, a son, Christopher, father, by Joan-Sherwood, his wife, of another, Christopher, who m. a sister of Thomas Pash, A.M., of Clare Hall, father of Thomas Pash, LL.D., and M.P. for the university of Cambridge, and by her was father of, with a dau., Elizabeth, m. to Anthony Thompson, M.P. for Cambridge in 1702,* Isaac Watlington, M.P. for Cambridge in 1695, who m. twice: by his first wife, Margaret Lambert, he had a son, James, B.A. of Emanuel College, Cambridge, and a dau., Elizabeth, m. to — Young, Esq.; and by his second wife, Dorothy, had a son, Isaac, of the Audit Office, Exchequer; and three daus., Elizabeth; Ellen; and Judith, m. 1st, to Gresham Page, Esq. of Saxthorpe, co. Norfolk, and 2ndly, in 1741, to Sir Jacob Astley, Bart.

The elder son,

WILLIAM WATLINGTON, had, with a dau., Joane, who d. in 1582, two sons,

William, a state prisoner temp. PHILIP and MARY, d. in 1556, having had, by Elizabeth, his wife, with two daus., Alice, m. to John Bull, and Margaret, two sons, Robert, and William, of Winchfield, who d. in 1578, leaving, by Agnes, his wife, three sons, Valentine, Edmund, and Robert; and two daus., Joan-Thomasine and Alice. RICHARD.

The latter,

RICHARD WATLINGTON, Esq., five times mayor of Reading, purchased the estate of Whitley from John Kingston, and Joan, his wife, (as before.) He d. 16 Aug. 1601, having had, by Mary, his wife, (who d. in 1607,) with two daus., Elizabeth, m. to William Ironmonger, and Anne, a son,

WALTER WATLINGTON, Esq. of Whitley, who d. in March, 1629, having had by his wife, Mary, (with three daus., and a son, Richard, who d. s. p. in 1638,) an elder son,

ABRAHAM WATLINGTON, Esq., who m. Martha Hales, and by her (who d. 22 Sept. 1643) left, at his decease, 15 July, 1643, (with three daus., Lydia, Martha, and Hannah, wife of Edmund Austen, Esq., and three sons, Abraham, John, and Joseph) an eldest son and heir,

SAMUEL WATLINGTON, Esq. of Reading, owner of the Whitley estates, who d. in 1684, leaving, by Barbara, his wife, a son and heir,

SAMUEL WATLINGTON, Esq. of Reading, owner of the Whitley estate, who m. twice: by his first wife, Sarah, he had a dau., Hannah, who d. an infant; and by his second, Anne, who predeceased him, he had,

* The issue of the marriage of Elizabeth Watlington with Anthony Thompson were a son, Sir James Thompson, of Trumpington, co. Cambridge, knighted by GEORGE I., at Cambridge, 5 Oct. 1717, and a dau., m. to Dr. Christopher Anstey, father of Christopher Anstey, Esq., author of the Bath Guide.

I. Samuel, owner of the Whitley estate, bapt. in May, 1689-90, d. 16 Nov. 1757, leaving, by Esther, his wife, who d. 24 Feb. 1772, with several daus., Esther; Mary; Martha, Sarah, and Elizabeth, m. to — Hooper, Esq.; two sons, Samuel, who d. s. p.; and Richard, also d. s. p.

II. John, bapt. 4 Jan. 1693, m. Elizabeth-Wheelon, and d. 23 Nov. 1738.

III. Edward, bapt. in May, 1699, d. in Feb. 1724.

IV. Thomas, bapt. in March, 1702, d. in May, 1732.

V. WILLIAM, of whose line we treat.

VI. Abraham, b. in June, 1697, mayor of Reading in 1734, 1743, and 1755, d. 10 Dec. 1766, having had, by Elizabeth, his wife, with a dau., Hannah, m. to — Goswell, Esq., and d. in 1798, two sons, Abraham, who d. in Dec. 1773, aged 51, and William, who d. in 1776, aged 52, leaving, by Catherine, his wife, a son, William, of Reading.

VII. Benjamin, bapt. in May, 1707.

VIII. James, d. young in 1711.

I. Mary, d. unm. in 1729.

II. Anne, m. to John Perry, Esq. of Blackwall, co. Middlesex, and was great-grandmother of John-Watlington Perry, Esq. of Moor Hall.

The fifth son,

WILLIAM WATLINGTON, Esq., merchant of London, bapt. in April, 1691, m. Elizabeth Flowerdew, and d. in Dec. 1743, having had by her (who d. in Oct. 1760) two sons and a dau.,

Samuel, warden of the Brewers' Company, London, b. in 1725, d. in Jan. 1789, having been m. twice: by his first wife, he had a son, Thomas-Flowerdew, b. in 1754, and d. s. p. in America, in 1787: by his second wife, Abigail Worsfold, of Mitcham, co. Surrey, who d. 19 Feb. 1812, he left a son, George, b. in 1767, d. unm. in 1841; and a dau., Mary, who d. 13 Aug. 1835.

WILLIAM, of whom presently.

Elizabeth, m. to George-Coulson Smith, Esq., and d. s. p. in Nov. 1794.

The younger son,

WILLIAM WATLINGTON, Esq., merchant of London, b. 9 Aug. 1728, m. Grace Porter, and by her (who d. 17 March, 1780) left, at his decease, 10 March, 1808, one surviving son and two daus., viz.,

WATSON.

WATSON, JOHN JOHNSON, Esq. of Clonbrogan and Buffana, co. Tipperary, m. Maria-Tracy, dau. of Anthony Johnson, Esq. of Castlebrack, Queen's co., and had issue, John, lieut. in H. M.'s 5th regt. dragoon-guards, d. at Vevay, in Switzerland, in 1826; and ELIZABETH, m. in Dec. 1829, to Augustus, Count of Degenfeld-Schomberg, Count of the Holy Roman Empire, descended in right line from Mynhard, the last English Duke of Schomberg and Leinster, his ancestor, Count Christopher Martin, of Degenfeld, having m. Mary, dau. of the said Duke, and co-heiress, with Frederica, from whom are descended the Duke of Leeds and Marquess of Lothian.

Lineage.

The ancestor of this family (that of the Marquess of Rockingham, now extinct) went from Rutlandshire, in England, and settled in Ireland, when the government of King WILLIAM was established there. He m. the dau. of John Boles, Esq. of Wodehouse, co. Tipperary, who settled the estates of Clonbrogan and Buffana, and others, on the eldest son of that marriage, from whom they have descended to the present possessor.

Arms—Arg., on a chev., engr., az., between three martlets, sa., as many crescents, or.

WATT OF BELL VALE, AND OF MORRIS BROOK HOUSE.

WATT, FITZJAMES, Esq. of Bell Vale, co. Lancaster; and of Morris Brook House, co. Chester, b. 9 March, 1809; m. in Oct. 1836, Phœbe-Elizabeth Hough, only child and heiress of John Fowler, Esq. of Leek, banker, by whom he has issue, a son and heir, b. in 1837, and other children. Mr. Watt is M.A. of Caius College, Cambridge, and a capt. in the Royal Lancashire militia.

Lineage.

The ancestors of this family were settled and possessed freehold property at Warrington, in Lancashire, early in the last century; and, doubtless, had been resident there for several generations prior. Thomas Watt, of Warrington, merchant, who purchased the Morris Brook estate, together with other property in Cheshire, m. Mary Chorley, by whom he had issue,

JAMES, his heir.

Rebecca, d. unm., and was buried at Penketh, near Warrington, 8 June, 1819.

Another dau., m. John Whitwell, of Warrington, merchant.

Mr. Watt d. 5 Sept. 1806, and was s. by his only son,

JAMES WATT, Esq. of Fairfield House, near Warrington, who inherited the Morris Brook estate, with a considerable landed property at Halton, in Cheshire, purchased by his father. He m. at St. Nicholas' church, Liverpool, in 1806, his cousin, Hannah Chorley, eldest dau. of Alexander Chorley, Esq. of Hanley Bank, by whom (who d. 3 June, 1834) he had issue two sons, viz.,

- i. Thomas-Alexander, b. 2 June, 1807, who d. 3 June, 1827.
- ii. FITZJAMES, eventually his heir, and present representative of the family.

Mr. Watt d. 8 Jan. 1814, and was interred in the family vault at Penketh.

WATTS OF HAWKESDALE HALL.

WATTS, JOHN-JAMES, Esq. of Hawkesdale Hall, co. Cumberland, b. 15 March, 1803; s. his father in 1815. Mr. Watts holds a commission in the Cumberland and Westmoreland Yeomanry-cavalry.

Lineage.

This family claims descent from the old Yorkshire house of Le Fleming, of Wath. From an ancient pedigree, it appears that

SIR JOHN LE FLEMING, Lord of Wath on Dearn, co. York, who d. 14 EDWARD II., left, by Joan, his wife, dau. of Walter de Fauconberg, three sons, viz.,

THOMAS, of Wath on Dearn, ancestor of the Flemings of Wath, whose eventual heiress m. Saville, of New Hall.

RAINIER, of whose descendants we treat.

Lambert, a Knight Templar, put to death at Paris with the Grand Master, by order of Philip le Bel.

The second son,

RAINIER LE FLEMING, called "Rainier de Wath, Chevalier," was in the Scottish wars in the retinue of Lord Percy. He m. Ada, dau. and heir of Thomas de Bethune, and had, with other issue, a second son,

SMON DE WATH, who m. Alice, dau. and co-heir of John de Eston, and was father of

JOHN DE WATH, or WATHES, who possessed, jure matris, a moiety of Eston, co. Worcester, and considerable landed property in Yorkshire temp. EDWARD III. He m. Emma, dau. of Sir Hugh Galafre, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM WATHES, of Eston, living in 1397, who m. Blanche, dau. of William de Wellesburne, and had a son,

SIR THOMAS WATHES, of Eston, who served in the French wars, and is frequently mentioned in the acts of the parliament of Paris as "Sir Thomas Wathes de Eston," and as "Sir Thomas d'Eston, Chevalier Anglais." He had a grant from HENRY V. of the seignury of Langeais, on the Loire, and other property in France, the forfeited possessions of the Vicomte de Brosse, who had deserted the English faction. Sir Thomas m. Isaheau, dau. of Bertrand Goyon, Seigneur de Marignon, and widow of Amboise, Vicomte de Thouars, and dying in 1424, left a son,

SIMON WATHES, of Eston, 7 HENRY VI., 1428. He m. Margery, dau. and heir of Thomas de Stotesbury, of Whitfield, co. Northampton, and left a son,

SIR RICHARD WATTYS, who fought under the banner of York at the battle of Wakefield, where he fell, or died soon after the conflict, of his wounds, leaving, by his wife, Isahel Stafford, a son and heir,

THOMAS WATTYS, who was plaintiff in an action at law against William de Stotesbury, William de Lovett, and others, for the recovery of the manor of Whitfield, the last year of the reign of HENRY VI., 1461. By his wife, Alice, heiress to an estate at Beby, co. Leicester, he had issue,

i. JOHN, his heir.

ii. Richard, who had a son, Richard, and two daus., Mary, the wife of George Gage, of Raunds, in the co. Northampton, and Joan, the wife of Gervas Astley.

iii. Thomas, the father of John, from whom descended the family of Watts, seated in Norfolk.

i. Elizabeth, the wife of Richard Osborne, who received with her in frank marriage the manor of Whitfield.

The eldest son,

JOHN WATTES, of Behy, co. Leicester, was party to a deed of surrender of the manor of Mykelham, and other lands, 2 HENRY VIII., 1511. He was twice married: by his second wife, whose name has not been preserved, he had issue,

i. John, the father of Thomas Wattes, and Stafford Wattes, of Barleston, in the co. Leicester, who d. in 1619, and was buried in St. Martin's Church, in the city of Leicester, leaving issue by his wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Stephen Everard, of Flether, co. Leicester, by Joan, dau. of Thomas Babington, of Rotbley Temple, in that co., descended from the house of Dethic, in Derbyshire.

i. Francis, father of, 1. Hugh; 2. Francis; and 3. Robert.

By his first wife, Magdelaine, dau. and heiress of Thomas Berkeley, of the city of Worcester, John Wattes had a son and heir,

THOMAS WATTES, Esq. of Beby, who was aged 24, 27 HENRY VIII., 1535. In 2 ELIZABETH, 1560, upon the final suppression of the religious houses in England, this Thomas had a grant of the lands and lordship of Blakesley, co. Northampton, together with the rectory and advowson of the vicarage, all which had been part and parcel of the possessions of the order of Knights-Hospitallers of St. John of Jerusalem, of which possessions he levied a fine in the 9th year of the same reign. This gentleman was twice married: by his first wife, the dau. of — Crouch, he had a son and heir, WILLIAM. His second wife was Catharine, dau. of — Sulyard, of the co. Essex. Mr. Watts d. 35 ELIZABETH, 1593, aged 82, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM WATTS, Esq. of Blakesley. This gentleman added to his patrimonial property of Blakesley the neighbouring lordship, called Zoueh's manor, which he purchased of Nicholas Baynton, to whom it had been sold by the Lord de la Zoueh. He also acquired, by purchase, part of the hamlet of "Woodende," within the lordship of Blakesley. Mr. Watts departed this life 16 June, 1614, and was buried in the parish church of Blakesley, where there was a monument with a quaint epitaph, in Roman capitals. This gentleman m. Mary,* dau. of the famous Lord Chief Justice Sir Edward Montagu,† Knt. of Bough-

* By this match, Mr. Watts' posterity are founder's kin to All Souls' College, Oxford.

† Sir Edward Montagu was lineally descended from the royal blood of Plantagenet; his immediate ancestor, Sir John Montagu, having m. Margaret de Monthermer, granddau. of Ralph de Monthermer, Earl of Gloucester, by Joan Plantagenet, called D'Acre, dau. of King EDWARD I. of England.

ton, co. Northampton, (ancestor of the Dukes of Montagu and Manchester, the Earls of Halifax, Sandwich, &c.) by which lady he had issue,

- i. EDWARD, his heir.
- ii. Montagu, barrister-at-law, of Lincoln's Inn, who m. Dorothy, dau. of Sir George Paule, of Lambeth, in Surrey, and had issue.
- i. Mary, wife of Anthony Palmer, Esq. of Stoke-Doyley, in the same co.

The elder son and heir,

EDWARD WATTS, Esq. of Blakesley, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Ralph Coningsby, Knt. of North Mymms, Herts. This gentleman was summoned by the heralds, in their visitation of the county of Northampton, in 1615, and attended accordingly to certify his descent. By his lady above mentioned he had,

- i. WILLIAM.
- ii. Edward, who was engaged in the royalist army during the civil war, left by his wife, Elizabeth Rudd, an only dau., Mary, who conveyed the estate and manor of Blakesley to her husband, the Rev. John Pettyfer. Their only surviving child, Maria-Penelope-Watts Pettyfer, m. William Wight, Esq. of Little Ilford, Essex, by whom she had William, Henry, and Elizabeth, (the wife of Sir James Harrington, of Burton or Burford,) all of whom d. s. p. William Wight, Esq., the last possessor of Blakesley, dying without issue in 1739, bequeathed all his property, by will, to his nearest relatives, with remainder to a perfect stranger, with whom he was not even personally acquainted, merely because he bore the same name and arms; into whose possession, accordingly, Blakesley, and the other property of the said William Wight, passed about the close of the last century.
- iii. CONINGSBY, of whom presently.
- iv. Amphilus.
- v. Ralph.
- i. Mary.
- ii. Elizabeth.

The third son,

CONINGSBY WATTS, early embarked in the royal cause, and suffered in consequence both in person and property. By his wife, Barbara, dau. and eventually sole heir of George Danet, Esq. of the city of London, he had,

- i. Montagu, who d. young.
- ii. John, from whom descended a family of the name of Watts, in the co. Leicester, which became extinct at the close of the last century.
- iii. GEORGE, of whom hereafter.
- i. Barbara, wife of George Bentley, Esq. of Monmouth.

The third, but second surviving son,

GEORGE WATTS, a Turkey merchant in the city of Bristol, having a strong predilection for antiquarian researches, accumulated, at great cost and labour, many documents concerning his own family. He made himself remarkable by his zeal for a protestant succession, which brought him into difficulty during the Duke of Monmouth's rebellion. He was the first of his family who bore his coat of arms quartered as at present borne. By his first wife, Mary, dau. of George Dennis, Esq. of Bideford, he had a dau., Mary, who m. Andrew Nelthorpe, Esq. By his second wife, Miss Anne Harrington, he had,

- i. CHARLES, of whom presently.
- ii. Montagu, who inherited the greater part of his father's fortune, which he lost by embarking in the South Sea Bubble. He m. Miss Jane Seymour, and left issue.
- iii. William, M.A., a clergyman.
- i. Florence, d. young.
- ii. Anne, wife of Captain Frazer.

The eldest son,

CHARLES WATTS, who was captain of the Royal Lifeguards, and d. abroad in 1745, offended his father and was disinherited. He m. Katherine,* dau. of Robert Scrope, Esq., colonel in the French service, and Chevalier of St. Louis, descended from the Scropes of Hameldon, Bucks, (by his wife, Katherine Middleton, of the family of Stockeld,) and had,

- i. George,
- ii. Robert,
- iii. William-Middleton,
- iv. WILLIAM.
- i. Katherine, d. young.

* This lady had two brothers, who emigrated to America in the beginning of the last century; since which nothing is known of them; so it is presumed that in her posterity she was their heir.

The youngest son,

THE REV. WILLIAM WATTS, A.M. of Queen's College, Oxford, rector of Moresby, Cumberland. This gentleman, inheriting from his grandfather a taste for antiquities, made many valuable collections, principally concerning the county of Cumberland, and mainly assisted Joseph Nicolson, Esq. of Hawkesdale Hall, in that co., (whose niece he married,) in his arduous undertaking of compiling the history of his native county, of which Mr. Watts was for many years an active magistrate. He m. Mary, dau. (by Mary, his wife, dau. of Bellingham Maul-ever, Esq. of Arncliffe) of John Nicolson, Esq., and sister and eventually sole heir of John Nicolson, Esq. of Hawkesdale Hall, in Cumberland, and great-niece of Dr. William Nicolson,* Bishop of Carlisle, afterwards of Londonderry, and eventually Archbishop of Cashel, by which lady he left issue, a dau., Mary, wife of the Rev. William Brisco, of Langrigg, co. Cumberland, (descended from a younger branch of the house of Crofton,) whose widow she died, without issue, in 1826, and a son,

THE REV. CLEMENT WATTS, M.A. of Queen's College, Oxford, vicar of Holm Cultram, co. Cumberland, and a magistrate for the county, m. Mary, dau. of William Benn, Esq. of More Row, and only sister of Sir John-Benn Walsb, Bart. of Ormthwaite Hall, in the same co., by whom (who survived him till 1818) he had,

- i. JOHN-NICOLSON, his heir.
- ii. William, who d. young.
- iii. Thomas, of the Madras civil service, m. Miss Catherine Garling, and d. in 1812, without issue.
- i. Mary, wife of John Brocklebank, Esq. of Hazleholm, Cumberland.

The eldest son,

JOHN NICOLSON WATTS, Esq., succeeded upon the death of his great-uncle, John Nicolson, Esq. of Hawkesdale, to that and other estates in the county of Cumberland. Mr. Watts went out to India, early in life, in the Company's civil service, on the Madras establishment, where he d., at the early age of 35, and was buried at St. Thomé, in 1815. He m. in 1800, Ann-Pitt, dau. of James Dodson, Esq. of Readinghill, Berks, by Sarah, his wife, dau. and co-heir of John-Philip Carey, Esq. of Compton, co. Gloucester, and by her (who d. 17 July, 1826) had issue,

- i. JOHN-JAMES, successor to his father.
- ii. Montagu, captain in the Madras Horse Artillery, b. 5 March, 1808.
- iii. Henry, Lieut. in the Madras Engineers, b. 26 Jan. 1810, d. unm. in India in 1838.

* The family of Nicolson were of note in the cos. Cumberland and Westmoreland for the best part of three centuries, and matched with some of the most distinguished houses of those and the neighbouring counties, as with the Curwens of Poulton, co. Lancaster; the Gilpins of Kentmere; the Senhouses of Netherhall; the Scotts of the Park-broom; the Featherstonhaughs of Kirkoswald; the Kynnarsleys of Kendal, (by an heiress of a younger son of the Salkelds of Whitehall); the Briscos of Crofton, &c. &c. They were members of the corporation of Carlisle, and served the office of mayor of that ancient city. The Hawkesdale branch of the family, by the death of the Rev. Clement Nicolson, in 1827, became totally extinct in the male line.

Of one branch, descended from Robert, brother to Joseph Nicolson, of Park-broom, (the grandfather of the Bishop Nicolson,) the last representative was the memorable Margery Jackson, so famous in Cumbrian song, the recollection of whose eccentricities yet survives among the aged inhabitants of the city of Carlisle.

Dr. Nicolson, Archbishop of Cashel, who for his transcendent learning was called the "Star of the North," was b. in 1655, and at the age of 15 was admitted of Queen's College, Oxford. In 1679, he was elected fellow of Queen's College, having first completed his degree of M.A. In 1681, he was collated to a prebendal stall in the cathedral church of Carlisle, and also into the vicarage of Torpenhow, and in the year following, to the archdeaconry of Carlisle. In 1696-97 and 99, he published his English Historical Library, and in 1705, his Leges Marchiarum, or Border Laws. In 1702, he was elected Bishop of Carlisle, and in 1715, appointed by the king lord almoner. In 1718, he was translated to the see of Londonderry; and in 1726 he was promoted to the archbishopric of Cashel, but d. suddenly a few days after, and was buried in the cathedral church of Londonderry. He left to the dean and chapter of Carlisle many folio vols. of MSS., consisting of copies and extracts from various books, MSS., registers, records, and charters, relating to the diocese of Carlisle. By his wife, Elizabeth, dau. of John Archer, of Oxenholme, in the co. Westmoreland, he had a numerous family.—Vide Nicolson's Cumberland, vol. ii.

WAUCHOPE OF NIDDRIE MARIS-CHALL.

WAUCHOPE, ANDREW, Esq. of Niddrie, co. Mid-Lothian, b. in Dec. 1818; m. 26 March, 1840, Frances-Maria, dau. of Henry Lloyd, Esq. of Lloydsborough, co. Tipperary, by Harriet-Amelia, his wife, youngest dau. of Sir John Craven Carden, Bart. of Templemore, and has issue, WILLIAM, b. in Sept. 1841.

Harriet-Elizabeth-Frances.

Mr. Wauchope s. his father, the late Lieut.-Col. William Wauchope, in 1826.

Lineage.

This very ancient family was originally settled in the south of Scotland, in the district of Wauchopedale, in Dumfriesshire, but from the destruction of their papers by fire, and the defect of the records, their undoubted descendants cannot be distinctly connected with their older ancestors beyond about four centuries. It will be proper, first, to give such scattered notices as occur previously regarding the original ancestors.

Besides Wauchopedale, ALANUS DE WAUCHOPE had also the lands of Culter, in Aberdeenshire, confirmed to his son, Robert, by King ALEXANDER II., in 1246.

ROBERT DE WALYKOP, in the North, submitted to King EDWARD, when all Scotland was overrun, in 1296-97. But soon afterwards, by a dau. of Sir Adam Wauchope, Coulter was carried to Cumin of Innerallachie, a branch of the Earls of Buchan, from whom came the Cumins of Culter.

The Wauchopes of Wauchope were connected with the warlike family of Clendonwyn, and by a charter dated 4 Dec. 1389, it appears that Alexander Wauchope resigned that estate, failing his own male issue, to Sir Adam de Clendonwyn, Knt., (an ally of the Earls of Douglas) whose mother was a dau. of Wauchope of Wauchope.

But the direct ancestors of the existing family were hereditary haillies in Mid-Lothian, to the Keiths, marischals of Scotland, afterwards earls-marischal, from whom they got the lands of Niddrie Marischal, and they are now by far the oldest possessors of land in the male line for a wide range round Edinburgh.

ROBERT WAUCHOPE, of Niddrie Marischal, inscribed his name upon a tomb which he built or higgied in 1387. GILBERT WAUCHOPE had a charter of Niddrie from Ro-BERT III.; and PATRICK WAUCHOPE, of Niddrie, and Isabel, his spouse, occur in a deed, 6 Nov. 1479.

ARCHIBALD WAUCHOPE, of Niddrie, and Eupheme Scougal, his wife, give a charter, 4 June, 1491, and they grant two mortifications of twelve merks yearly, out of Niddry Marischal, to a chaplain of Holyrood. From them the chain of evidence is complete to the present time. They had, GILBERT, who succeeded; and Margaret, m. to Sir William Dundas, of Dundas. The son and heir,

GILBERT WAUCHOPE, of Niddrie had a charter, as heir apparent to Archibald, 6 Nov. 1504. He appeared repeatedly as deputy to Earl-marischal, from 1527 to 1540. His wife is unknown, but he had a son, GILBERT, his heir; and Eupheme, m. in 1529, to Sir John Edmonstone, Knt. of Edmonstone. They probably had another son, as at this time also lived Robert Wauchope, whom Bishop Lesley states, was primate of Ireland, doctor of Sorbonne, and d. at Paris, 10 Nov. 1551. The son,

GILBERT WAUCHOPE, of Niddrie, m. Alison, dau. of Hamilton, of Innerwick. He d. in Aug. 1571, and his relict in 1589, leaving, I. WILLIAM, who succeeded; II. Gilhert; III. Abraham; IV. John; V. Adam; I. Eupheme, m. to Henry Halyburton, of Merton, in 1574. The eldest son,

WILLIAM WAUCHOPE, in 1560, m. 1st, Anne, dau. of Hephurn of Wauchton, by whom he had, ROBERT, his heir; and, 2ndly, Margaret, widow of Sir James Dundas, of Dundas, dau. of Sir James Sandilands, of Calder, and sister of the first Lord Torphichen. The son and successor,

ROBERT WAUCHOPE, of Niddrie, m. in 1558, Margaret Dundas, dau. of his stepmother, by whom he had, ARCHIBALD, his heir; and Mary, m. in 1583, to Gavin Sandilands, of Lumfodda. He m. 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of Sir J. Douglas, of Drumlanrig, ancestor of the Dukes of Queensberry, widow of William, Earl of Menteith, and of Edward Crichton, of Sanguhar. Robert, and Archibald, the younger, of Niddrie, his son and heir apparent, were both forfeited in 1587. The said Archibald Wauchope had m. in 1584, Rachel McGill, dau. of Sir James McGill, Knt. of Rankellor, and widow of George Stewart, of Rosyth. He was a papist, and under attainer, when, in 1592, his spouse petitioned parliament for an aliment, "that she and her bairns were reduced to want from his arrie leving, and heis being all consumit in his vane uses and ungodlie fantasies." He had a son, FRANCIS, who succeeded before 1604, when he was served heir to his grandfather, Robert, and in 1609, there was an act passed of restitution of the house of Niddrie. This

FRANCIS WAUCHOPE, of Niddrie, m. Jean Sandilands, (said to be dau. of Lord Torphichen,) and had, I. JOHN, his heir; II. Francis; III. William; I. Margaret, first wife of James Rait, of Edmonstone. The elder son,

SIR JOHN WAUCHOPE, was knighted by King CHAS I. when he visited Scotland, with great pomp, in 1633. According to the general escutcheon of his granddau., Mrs. Carr, of Cavers, dau. of his son, the laird of Edmonstone, which, by the Scotch practice, gave what in Germany is called the quarterings or alliances of his immediate ancestors, Sir John's first wife was Anne, dau. of Sir Andrew Hamilton, of Redhouse, next brother of Thomas, Earl of Haddington. An old stone on the house of Niddrie corroborates these marriages, in giving the initials of Francis and Sir John, and those of their wives, when they altered the house, which are F. W. and J. S., 1636, J. W., A. H. Sir John by her had two sons, I. ANDREW, his heir; II. JOHN, who m. the heiress of Edmonstone. Sir John m. 2ndly, in 1653, Jean, widow of Sir John Ker, of Tochtoun, by whom he had, JAMES, whose son succeeded, and was ancestor of the present laird: of him hereafter. Sir John made a settlement of his estate on the heirs male of his eldest son, Andrew's marriage, in 1656, on which a charter passed the great seal, 17 Jan. 1662. He was dead in 1683.

ANDREW WAUCHOPE, then younger of Niddrie, m. in 1656, Margaret, dau. of Sir John Gilmour, Knt. of Craigmillar, president of the Court of Session, by whom he had three sons, I. WILLIAM, his heir; II. James; III. Gilbert, Lord Fountainhall. He made an entail on the heirs male of the family, 12 Feb. 1711, and d. immediately after. William, his son, survived until 1725, when his two brothers being dead, and his uncle, Lord Edmonstone's two sons being also dead, all without issue, and Lord Edmonstone's daus. being excluded by the settlement on heirs male, the son of James, his uncle, by the half blood, succeeded. This

JAMES WAUCHOPE was served heir male of his father's second marriage in 1685, and claimed Lochtour in right of his mother, in 1683. He m. Jane, dau. of Sir William Wallace, Bart. of Craigie, by a dau. of William Menzies, of Pitfoddles, and had,

ANDREW WAUCHOPE, who succeeded his cousin, in 1725. In June, 1735, he m. Helen, b. in 1712, dau. of the Hon. Sir Andrew Home, of Kimmerghame, son of Patrick, first Earl of Marchmont, and had, I. ANDREW, his heir; II. William; III. John. The eldest son,

CAPTAIN ANDREW WAUCHOPE, of Niddrie, succeeded, and m. 26 Sept. 1776, Alicia, dau. of William Baird, of Newhyth, and sister of the late General Sir David Baird, Bart., and had, I. Andrew, who was killed at the battle of the Pyrenees, in command of the 20th foot; II. WILLIAM, his heir; III. John; IV. George; V. Robert (Captain); I. Alice, Mrs. Mackenzie; II. Helen, Mrs. Spottiswoode, of Spottiswoode; III. Jane; IV. Mary; V. Anne, Mrs. Wauchope; and VI. Sophia. The second, but eldest surviving son, WILLIAM WAUCHOPE, Esq. of Niddrie, lieut.-col. in the army, m. in 1817, Elizabeth, dau. of Robert Baird, Esq. of Newhyth, and niece of the Marchioness of Breadalbane, and had, ANDREW, his heir; and Hersey-Susan-Sidney, m. in 1842, to George Elliot, Esq., capt. R.N., eldest son of the Hon. Admiral Elliot. Col. Wauchope d. in 1826, and was s. by his son, the present ANDREW WAUCHOPE, Esq. of Niddrie.

WAUCHOPE OF EDMONSTONE.

WAUCHOPE, JOHN, Esq. of Edmonstone, co. Edinburgh, b. 10 July, 1816; s. his father in 1837.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the very ancient and distinguished family of WAUCHOPE OF NIDDRIE, which see.

JOHN WAUCHOPE, second son of SIR JOHN WAUCHOPE, of Niddrie, by his wife, Anne Hamilton, of Redhouse, was christened in 1633, when King CHARLES I. was in Scotland, who took from his own neck, and put round that of the child, a most beautiful gold and enamel chain, which is still in possession of the family. He got a charter of Edmonstone, 9 June, 1671, having acquired that estate by his wife, Anna, dau. of James Rait, of Edmonstone, by his second wife, Anna, dau. of Alexander Hay, of Monkton. In 1682, this gentleman was appointed a lord of Session, when Charles Maitland, of Hatton, brother to the Duke of Lauderdale, was superseded; but having dis-oblged King JAMES II., by voting against a scheme for educating the young Marquess of Montrose in the Roman-catholic faith, was displaced in 1688. This was the more remarkable, as his brother, Niddrie, was a Catholic. Lord Edmonstone had issue,

I. JOHN, his heir.

II. ANDREW, successor to his brother.

I. Anne, m. 26 June, 1683, Patrick Don, of Aldtounehurn, third son of Sir Alexander Don, Bart. of Newton, and had issue,

ANDREW WAUCHOPE, Esq. of Edmonstone, advocate, who also d. unm., and was s. by his nephew,

JOHN DON, who, on succeeding to Edmonstone, assumed the surname of WAUCHOPE, but dying unm. in 1732, was s. by his brother,

JAMES DON, who also assumed the name of WAUCHOPE, upon acquiring Edmonstone. He m. in 1733, Christian, second dau. of Sir John Inglis, Bart. of Cramond, and had two sons, JOHN, his heir; and Patrick, general in the army, d. unm., and two daus., Anne and Jane, both d. unm. He was s. by his elder son,

JOHN WAUCHOPE, Esq. of Edmonstone, who m. in 1766, Anne, eldest daughter of John Erskine, of Dun, and aunt of the Marchioness of Ailsa, and by her had issue,

James, d. unm. in his father's lifetime.

JOHN, successor to his father.

David, in holy orders, rector of Warkton, co. Northampton, m. 1st, Mary, eldest dau. of Sir William Dick, Bart. of Prestonfield, by whom he had one son, who d. young. He m. 2ndly, Anne, 4th dau. of Andrew Wauchope, Esq. of Niddrie, and by her had a son, David; and two daus., viz., Alice, d. young; and Anne. He d. in 1826.

Mr. Wauchope d. in 1810, and was s. by his eldest surviving son,

JOHN WAUCHOPE, Esq. of Edmonstone, who m. in 1815, Henrietta-Cecilia, second dau. of Sir James Gardiner Baird, Bart. of Saughton Hall, and by her had issue,

I. JOHN, his heir.

I. Henrietta-Mary.

III. Jane-Alice.

II. Anne-Erskine.

WAY, BENJAMIN, Esq. of Denham Place, co. Bucks, b. 2 Aug. 1802; s. his father in 1834; m. Miss Susan Burrell, of Berkshire, by whom he has a son and heir, BENJAMIN.

Lineage.

The family of Waye, originally of Somersetshire, removed in the reign of HENRY VII. or early in that of HENRY VIII. to Torrington, in Devon.

WILLIAM WAYE, of Great Torrington, son of Alexander Waye, had a confirmation of arms from Robert Cooke, Clarencieux, 1574, at which time two coats that had been borne by different branches of the family appear to have been incorporated and thenceforth were borne quarterly. This William had by Margaret, dau. of Nicholas Berry, of Berry Nerber, in Devon, four sons, of whom the eldest, WILLIAM, was ancestor of the family that shortly after removed to Bridport, co. Dorset; and from the younger, RICHARD, proceeded a branch settled in Hertfordshire at Willian and Bostock. The former,

WILLIAM WAYE, of Torrington, in Devon, living in 1620, d. about 1630, leaving three sons, viz.,

- i. WILLIAM, b. in 1610, d. s. p.
- ii. JOHN, of whom presently.
- iii. Richard, to whom his father bequeathed a house in Exeter.

The second son,

JOHN WAYE, of Bridport, Dorset, d. before 1680, leaving by Elizabeth, his wife, JOHN,* of Bridport; and

BENJAMIN WAY, of Dorchester, vicar of Barking, Essex; who was ejected from his living in the time of the Commonwealth. He d. at Bristol in 1680, leaving with other issue, a son,

BENJAMIN WAY, Esq., who settled in London as a merchant, and resided at Walthamstow. He d. at Bath, in 1709, leaving by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Samuel Lewis, of the Island of Jamaica, two sons and two daus., besides a numerous issue, commemorated on his monument in Bunhill-fields. The eldest son,

LEWIS WAY, Esq. of Streatham, and the Old Court, Richmond, co. Surrey, built on part of the site of the ancient royal palace of West Sheen, was a member of the Inner Temple, director of the South Sea company, and president of Guy's Hospital. He d. 24 Jan. 1771, having been four times married. He m. 1st, Sophia, second dau. of Sir Gregory Page, Bart. of Greenwich, and sister of Sir Gregory Page, the last baronet, whose dau. m. Sir Gregory-Page Turner, Bart., (see BURKE'S Baronetage.) but this lady d. without issue, 2 Jan. 1735. He m. 2ndly, Philadelphia, second dau. of Nathaniel Newnham, Esq. of Streatham, Surrey, and sister of Anne, the wife of Sir Dudley Ryder, lord chief justice, father of the first Baron Harrowby. By this lady (who d. 4 Sept. 1737) he had no issue. He m. 3rdly, Abigail, only dau. and heir of Edward Lockey, Esq. of the Middle Temple, and Home Hill, Hertfordshire, by Abigail, his wife, second dau. of Sir Roger Hill,† of Denham Place, Bucks, and had by her

Lineage.

According to the authority of historians, this noble and ancient family, derives its origin from Sir Alexander Carron, a brave knight, who in the first year of the reign of ALEXANDER I., 1107, accompanied him in his pursuit of the rebels, who had conspired against the king's life, and seizing the standard from—Bannerman, crossed the Spey, and planted it on the other side of the river in sight of the rebels. In reward of this gallant service, the king constituted Alexander Carron and his heirs, the heritable standard-bearers of Scotland; he also made him a grant of lands, and conferred on him the name of Skirmisher, or Scrymgeour, signifying a hardy fighter, and gave him a part of the royal arms of Scotland for his armorial bearing, viz., gules, a lion rampant, argent, holding in his dexter paw a crooked sword, proper, and the word "Dissipate" for his motto. He was the first banneret in Scotland.—See NISBET'S Heraldry, vol. ii. p. 49. Sir William Wallace, as governor of Scotland, conferred the constabulary of Dundee on his descendant, Sir Alexander, for his faithful aid in bearing the royal banner of Scotland. This curious grant is dated at Torphichen, 29 March, 1298. The representative of the family in 1641 was created Lord Scrymgeour, Viscount Dudhope, by CHARLES I. His son, the second viscount, fell at the battle of Marston-Moor in 1644, leaving issue, by Lady Isabel Kerr, dau. of Robert, first Earl of Roxburgh, a son,

JOHN, the third viscount, who accompanied CHARLES II. to the battle of Worcester in 1651, and was by him created Earl of Dundee. He m. Lady Anne Ramsay, dau. of the Earl of Dalhousie, and d. without issue in 1668; whereupon the representation devolved upon John Scrymgeour, of Kirkton, who was not only his lordship's heir male and of line, but also heir of entail, by two solemn deeds, confirmed by charters under the great seal in 1541 and 1587. The Duke of Lauderdale, however, had interest with King CHARLES to procure a gift in favour of Charles Maitland, of Hatton, his brother, whereby Kirkton was deprived of his just right. This John Scrymgeour m.

WELD OF LULWORTH.

WELD, JOSEPH, Esq. of Lulworth Castle, co. Dorset, and of Pilewell, Hants, b. 27 Jan. 1777; m. 23 Nov. 1802, the Hon. Elizabeth-Charlotte Stourton, dau. of Charles-Philip, sixteenth Lord Stourton, and has issue,

I. EDWARD-JOSEPH.

II. Thomas, who has assumed the additional surname of BLUNDELL, (see WELD-BLUNDELL.)

III. Joseph.

I. Mary.

II. Mary-Anne.

Lineage.

The family of WELD derives from EDRIC, surnamed WILD, or SYLVATICUS, who was nephew to Edric, Duke of Mercia, husband of Edina, dau. of King ETHELRED. From him descended

WILLIAM WELD, sheriff of London, 25 EDWARD III., who settled at Eaton, co. Chester. He m. Anne, dau. of Nicholas de Whitnall, and had (with two younger sons, who settled in Bucks and Suffolk) a son and heir,

WILLIAM WELD, of Eaton, who m. Margaret, dau. of William Bostock, and was father of

JOHN Weld, of Eaton, who m. Ellen, dau. of John Bruen, of Tarporley, and had a son and successor,

EDWARD WELD, who m. Margaret, dau. of Thomas Cotgreave, of Chustleton, co. Chester, and was s. by his son,

JOHN WELD, of Eaton, who m. Margaret, only dau. and heir of James Boton, of Tiverton, co. Devon, and was father of

JOHN WELD, who marrying Joanna, dau. of John Fitz Hugh, of Congleton, had three sons, viz.,

- i. ROBERT, of Eaton, who m. Elenora, dau. of Robert Oldton, of Wetten Hall, and from him sprung the Welds of Eaton.
- ii. John, who settled at Willey, co. Salop, and was patriarch of the Welds of that place.
- iii. Richard, of Holt.
- iv. HUMPHREY (Sir).

The fourth son,

SIR HUMPHREY WELD, Knt., took up his abode at Holdwell, co. Herts. He was sheriff of London in 1599, and lord-mayor in ten years afterwards. Sir Humphrey m. Ann, dau. of Nicholas Wheler, Esq., and left with two daus., at his decease in 1610, a son and successor,

SIR JOHN WELD, Knt. of Arnolds, co. Middlesex, who m. Frances, dau. of William Whitmore, Esq., by whom (who d. in 1656) he had issue,

- i. Thomas, who d. young.
- ii. HUMPHREY, his heir.
- iii. John (Sir), of Compton Bassett, co. Wilts, a knight-banneret. This gallant person m. in 1648, Mary, dau. of William, Lord Stourton, and dying 11 July, 1674, left an only son, WILLIAM, who s. his uncle Humphrey.

- iv. George, who m. Bridget, dau. of — Thimblethorp, Esq. co. Lincoln, and d. in 1696, leaving two daus.,
- Cicely, m. to James Mahony, Viscount of Oldcastle, in Spain.

Elizabeth, m. 1st, to — Dickenson, Esq., and 2ndly, to Philip Stafford, Esq.

- i. Anne, m. to Sir J. Cutts, of Childerley.
- ii. Mary, m. to Thomas Allen, Esq. of Finchley.
- iii. Frances, m. to — Martin, Esq. of co. Buckingham.
- iv. Margaret, m. to William Bowyer, Esq. of Denham Court, Bucks.

Sir John Weld d. in 1622, and was s. by his eldest son,

HUMPHREY Weld, Esq. of Holdwell. This gentleman was governor of Portland Castle. He purchased in 1641, from the Howard family, the manor of Lulworth,* and divers other extensive estates in the county of Dorset. He m. Clare, youngest dau. of Thomas, Lord Arundel of Wardour, by whom he had an only dau., MARY, m. to Nicholas Taaffe, Earl of Carlingford. Mr. Weld d. about the year 1684, and was buried in King HENRY VII's chapel, Westminster. His nephew,

WILLIAM WELD, Esq., s. to his estates, and thus became of "Lulworth." This gentleman m. in 1672, Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Shireburn, Esq. of Stonyhurst, in Lancashire, by whom he had issue,

John, who d. young.

HUMPHREY, his heir.

Mary, who m. Nicholas Fairfax, Esq., nephew of Lord Fairfax, and after his decease m. Sir Francis Hungate, Bart.; by the latter she had an only dau.,

Mary Hungate, who m. Sir Edward Gascoigne, of Partington.

Mr. Weld d. in 1698, and was s. by his only surviving son,

HUMPHREY WELD, Esq. of Lulworth Castle, who m. in 1701, Margaret, only dau. of Sir James Simeons, Bart. of Chilworth, by whom he had issue, Nicholas, } who both predeceased their father.

James, }

EDWARD, his heir.

Thomas, who assumed the surname of Simeons. He m. Mary, dau. of Thomas Fitzherbert, Esq. of Swinnerton, by whom (who d. in 1767) he had an only dau.,

Mary Simeons, who took the veil at Bruges, in Flanders. Mary, m. in 1728, to Edmund Widdrington, Esq. of Horsley, in Northumberland, by whom (who d. in 1749) she had an only dau.,

ELIZABETH WIDDRINGTON, heiress of her father, who m. Thomas Riddel, Esq. of Swinhurn Castle, Northumberland.

Elizabeth, d. unm. in 1791.

* The first possessors of this manor are said to have been the De Lolleworths; but the powerful family of the Newburghs held it as early as the reign of John. Christian, the sole heiress of Sir Roger Newburgh, carried the estate in 1514, to her husband, Sir John Marney, Lord Marney, and her second dau. and eventual heiress, Elizabeth Marney, marrying Thomas, Lord Howard of Bindon, conveyed it, with several other considerable estates in Dorsetshire, amongst which was the manor of Bindon, to the Howards, from whom, as stated above, it was purchased in 1641, by Humphrey Weld.

Humphrey Weld d. in 1722, and was s. by his elder surviving son,

EDWARD WELD, Esq. of Lulworth Castle, b. in 1705. This gentleman m. 1st, in 1727, Catherine-Elizabeth, dau. of Walter, Lord Aston of Forfar, but had no issue by that lady. He m. 2ndly, in 1740, Mary-Theresa, dau. of John Vaughan, Esq. of Courtfield, by whom (who d. in 1754) he had,

EDWARD, his heir.

John, } both d. young.

Joseph, }

THOMAS, successor to his brother.

Mary, who became "a Poor Clare," at Aire, in Artois.

Mr Weld "lived," says Hutchins, "in great credit and hospitality at Lulworth, maintaining a good correspondence and harmony with the neighbouring gentry and clergy, nor did difference of opinion create reserve or distance; although he ever behaved as a peaceful subject, he was ordered into custody in 1745, on account of his name being mentioned in a treasonable anonymous letter dropped near Poole; but his immediate and honourable discharge is the most convincing proof of his innocence." He d. 8 Dec. 1761, and was s. by his eldest son,

EDWARD WELD, Esq. of Lulworth, b. in 1731, m. 1st, in 1763, Juliana, dau. of Robert, Lord Petre, and m. 2ndly, in 1775, Mary-Anne, youngest dau. of Walter Smythe, Esq. of Brambridge, co. Hants, but had no issue. He d. in 1775, and his widow m. Thomas Fitzherbert, Esq. of Swinnerton, whom she survived, and afterwards held a distinguished place in society as Mrs. Fitzherbert. Mr. Weld was s. by his only surviving brother,

THOMAS WELD, Esq. of Lulworth Castle, b. 24 Aug. 1750, who founded the catholic college at Stonyhurst.* He m. in 1772, Mary, eldest dau. of Sir John Stanley Massey-Stanley, Bart. of Hooton, and had issue,

i. THOMAS, his heir.

ii. Edward, b. 18 Dec. 1775, d. young.

iii. JOSEPH, now of Lulworth Castle.

vi. Theresa, m. to William Vaughan, Esq. of Courtfield, in Monmouthshire.

Mr. Weld d. in 1810, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS WELD, Esq. of Lulworth Castle, b. 22 Jan. 1773, who m. in 1796, Lucy, dau. of the Hon. Thomas Clifford, and had an only child,

* At the demise, issueless, in 1754, of Maria-Winifreda-Francisca, Duchess of Norfolk, who was dau. and heir of Sir Nicholas Sherburne, Bart. of Stonyhurst, in Lancashire, her estates devolved to the Weld family, in right of Elizabeth, her aunt, dau. of Richard Sherburne, Esq. of Stonyhurst, who m. William Weld, Esq. of Compton Bassett, co. Wilts.

MARY-LUCY, m. in 1818, Hugh-Charles, present Lord Clifford of Chudleigh, and d. in May, 1831, leaving issue.

Upon the decease of his wife, Mr. Weld became a catholic clergyman, and was soon afterwards promoted to a bishopric. He obtained a cardinal's hat in 1829. His Eminence for several years devoted his time and large fortune entirely to the wants and services of the unfortunate, and justly acquired the highest reputation for piety and benevolence. Mr. Weld was the first Englishman who had a seat in the Conclave since the pontificate of CLEMENT IX. He d. 10 April, 1837, and was s. hy his brother, the present JOSEPH WELD, Esq. of Lulworth.

WELD-BLUNDELL OF INCE BLUNDELL.

WELD-BLUNDELL, THOMAS, Esq. of Ince Blundell, co. Lancaster, m. Theresa-Mary-Eleonora, youngest dau. of William-Michael-Thomas-John Vaughan, Esq. of Courtfield, and has issue. This gentleman, who is second son of the present Joseph Weld, Esq. of Lulworth, s. by will to the estate of the late Charles-Robert Blundell, Esq., and assumed, in consequence, the additional surname of BLUNDELL.

Lineage.

The ancestors of this family are stated to have been lords of the manor of Ince at the time of the Conquest. The first of the name on record,

WILLIAM BLUNDELL, of Ince Blundell, was grandfather of

RICHARD BLUNDELL, of Ince Blundell, (1241,) whose son,

WILLIAM BLUNDELL, of Ince Blundell, was father, by his wife, Elena, of William, who d. s. p.; HENRY; and John, living 48 EDWARD III. The second son,

HENRY BLUNDELL, of Ince Blundell, m. Katherine, dau. of William Fitzadam, of Leverpole, and was grandfather of

WILLIAM BLUNDELL, of Ince Blundell (3 HENRY IV.) He m. Alice, dau. of Nicholas Blundell, who was son of John Blundell, living 48 EDWARD III., mentioned above. His son,

ROBERT BLUNDELL, of Ince Blundell, (25 HENRY VI.,) m. Elizabeth Dawnc, and was father of

WILLIAM BLUNDELL, of Ince Blundell, who m. Johanna, dau. of Roger Ashawe, and had two sons, ROBERT; and Thomas, who m. and had issue. The eldest son,

ROBERT BLUNDELL, Esq. of Ince Blundell, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Roger Molyneux, Esq., and had issue, William, d. s. p.; JAMES; and four daus. He d. in 1511. His son,

JAMES BLUNDELL, Esq. of Ince Blundell, aged eight at his father's death, m. Emma, dau. of Richard Banbury, and had two sons. The elder, William, m., but d. s. p.; the younger,

ROBERT BLUNDELL, Esq. of Ince Blundell, m. Ann, dau. of Robert Molyneux, Esq. of the Wood, and was father of

ROBERT BLUNDELL, Esq. of Ince Blundell, who m. Maria, dau. of Richard Massey, Esq. of Rixton, and had three sons, ROBERT; Thomas, who had male issue in 1614; and Richard. The eldest son,

ROBERT BLUNDELL, Esq. of Ince Blundell, aged 40 at the visitation of Lancashire in 1614. From this time the pedigree is imperfect, and BAINES (Hist. Lanc. vol. iv. p. 213) says that nothing is certain till the time of ROBERT BLUNDELL, Esq. of Ince Blundell, who m. 1st, Catherine, dau. of Sir Rowland Stanley, Bart. of Hooton, co. Chester; and 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of Hugh Anderton, Esq. of Euxton. Mr. Blundell d. 5 Aug. 1763, aged 78, and was s. hy

HENRY BLUNDELL, Esq. of Ince Blundell, who m.

Elizabeth, dau. of Sir George Mostyn, Bart. of Talacre, co. Flint., and had issue, CHARLES-ROBERT, his heir.

Catharine, m. to Thomas Stonor, Esq. of Stonor, co. Oxford.

Elizabeth, m. in 1789, to Stephen Tempest, Esq. of Broughton.

Mr. Blundell, who formed a very fine collection of paintings, sculpture, and other works of art, d. in 1810, aged 86, and was s. by his son,

CHARLES-ROBERT BLUNDELL, Esq. of Ince Blundell, b. in 1761, who d. unm. 29 Oct. 1837, aged 76, having devised his estates to Thomas Weld, Esq., who assumed the additional surname of BLUNDELL, and is the present THOMAS WELD-BLUNDELL, Esq. of Ince.

Arms—Az., ten billets, four, three, two, and one, and a canton, or, charged with a raven, ppr., quarterly with WELD.

Crest—A squirrel, sejant, gu., collared, and holding a nut, or.

Seat—Ince Blundell Park, near Liverpool.

* * From a younger son of this family derived the Blundells of Cardington, co. Bedford, raised to the peerage of Ireland in 1720. (See BURKE'S Extinct Peerage, p. 641.)

WELLES OF GREBBY HALL.

WELLES, DYMOKE, Esq. of Grebby Hall, co. Lincoln, inherited the estates at the decease of his brother, 31 July, 1833. Mr. Welles petitioned the Crown in 1839, for the termination of the abeyance of the Barony of Kyme in his favour.

Lineage.

This family, which claims paternal* descent from the haronial house of WELLES, represents, through an heir female, a senior branch of the DYMOKEs of Scrivelsby, hereditary champions of England.

SIR EDWARD DYMOKE, Knt. of Scrivelsby, who was champion at the coronation of CHARLES II., m. in 1624, Jane, dau. of Nicholas Cressy, Esq. and had issue,

I. CHARLES (Sir), who inherited Scrivelsby, and was champion at the coronation of King JAMES II. His youngest son and eventual heir,

LEWIS DYMOKE, Esq., who officiated as champion at the coronations of the first two monarchs of the line of Brunswick, dying unm. in 1760, bequeathed the estates at Scrivelsby to his cousin, Edward, the grandson of his uncle John.

II. EDWARD, of whom presently.

III. Nicholas.
IV. John, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Welborne, Esq., and was grandfather of EDWARD DYMOKE, Esq., who inherited Scrivelsby by bequest from his cousin, Lewis Dymoke, Esq. His (Edward's) great-grandson is the present

HENRY DYMOKE, Esq. of Scrivelsby, champion, by proxy, for his father, at the coronation of GEORGE IV.

The second son of Sir Edward Dymoke,

EDWARD DYMOKE, Esq. of Grebby Hall, co. Lincoln, m. Ahigail Snowden, and dying 1 April, 1694, left the Grebby estate to his eldest son,

ROBERT DYMOKE, Esq. of Grebby Hall, who m. Elizabeth Kniveton, and d. in 1714, leaving two sons and a dau., viz.,

REUBEN, b. in 1692, who m. Sarah Dove, and left at his decease, in 1724, aged 26, an only son, Kniveton, who d. at Brigg School, in 1735.

Robert, M.A., accidentally drowned in the Chequer Well, at Lincoln, in 1735, buried in Lincoln Minster.

ELIZABETH, buried at Willingham.

The only dau.,

ELIZABETH DYMOKE, b. in 1701, m. the Rev. Thomas Welles, rector of Willingham and Springthorpe, co. Lincoln, and by him (who d. in 1781, aged 80, left at her decease, in 1780) a son and successor,

THE REV. ROBERT WELLES, D.D., rector of Willingham and Springthorpe-in-Stow, co. Lincoln, who m. Susannah, dau. of John Clayton, Esq. of Owersby, in that shire, and by her (who d. 18 Nov. 1795, and was buried at Willingham) had one son and four daus.,

* The maternal descent of the Welleses of Grebby Hall, from the BARONS WELLES, is clearly deduced through the Dymokes.

DYMOKE, his heir.

Elizabeth. Mary, m. William Close, Esq.
Susan, m. to William Prest, Esq. of Searthingwell Park, in Yorkshire.

Lætitia, who m. Joseph Ridley, Esq. of Yorkshire, and had issue, one son, John, and one dau., Isabella.

Dr. Welles d. 22 March, 1807, was interred at Willingham, and s. by his only son,

DYMOKE WELLES, Esq. of Grebby Hall, co. Lincoln,
b. 12 May, 1772, who preferred his claim to the Barony of Marmion in 1819. He m. in 1793, Anne, dau. and co-heir
(with her sister, Elizabeth, wife of Thomas Massingberd, Esq. of Candlesby House, co. Lincoln) of Thomas Waterhouse, Esq. of Beckingham Hall, high-sheriff of Nottinghamshire in 1787, by Anne, his wife, co-heir to her uncle, Eastland Hawksmore, Esq., and dau. of Charles Hurt, Esq., son of the marriage of Francis Hurt, Esq. fourth son of Nicholas Hurt, Esq. of Casterne and Alderwasley, co. Derby, with Eleanor, dau. of Gervase Rosell, Esq. of Ratcliffe-on-Trent, and sister of Elizabeth, wife of Richard, second Lord Byron. By this lady Mr. Welles had issue,

THOMAS-WATERHOUSE, his heir.

DYMOKE, successor to his brother.

Edmund-Lionel, of The Grange, West Molesey, co. Surrey, WELLWOOD OF GARVOCK.

WELLWOOD, ANDREW-MOFFATT, Esq. of Garvock, co. Fife, b. in Sept. 1764, a deputy-lieut.
for that shire; m. 14 March, 1794, Miss Taylor, dau. of Martin Taylor, Esq. of Amble, and has an only dau., ANNE, m. to J.-James Boswell, Esq., Advocate. Mr. Wellwood s. to the estates upon the decease, issueless, of his brother in 1820.

Lineage.

The Wellwoods of Touch and Garvock are of long standing, and considerable antiquity. They were originally nobles of Denmark, but the degree of rank which they enjoyed in that kingdom, before their settlement in Scotland, cannot now be ascertained. The name, anciently written Veloved, Velvod, Welwod, was brought into North Britain by a Danish courtier, entrusted by the King of Denmark with the conduct to Scotland of his daughter, Princess Anne, the queen-consort to King JAMES VI. This honourable personage, bearing the name of VELVUD, received from his royal mistress the lands of Touch, (which have ever since formed part of the estate,) and the armorial bearings of the house.

VELVUD OF TOUCH, son of the founder, left two sons, viz.,

I. WILLIAM, his heir.

II. Henry, whose son,

Sir Thomas Wellwood, b. in 1652, was a physician, and an historical writer of eminence. He d. in 1716.

The elder son of the second possessor of Touch,

WILLIAM WELLWOOD, Esq. of Touch, m. in 1635,
Margaret, youngest dau. of Nichol Wardlaw, of Wester-Luscar, and great-graunddau., paternally, of the head of that most ancient house, Sir Alexander Wardlaw, of Torrie, by Lady Agnes Leslie, dau. of the Earl of Rothes, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT WELLWOOD, Esq. of Touch, who acquired the estate of Garvock, in addition to his patrimonial property.
He m. about the year 1690, Catherine, sixth dau. of John Denham, Esq. of Muirhouse and Shiels, by whom he had two sons,

HENRY, his heir.

ROBERT, successor to his brother.

The elder son,

HENRY WELLWOOD, Esq. of Garvock, dying unm., left to the son of his brother's dau., Sir Henry Moncrieff, the castle and estate of Tulliebole, upon condition that he bore the surname of Wellwood, and quartered the Moncrieff coat with the Wellwood arms. The other estates, of Garvock and Touch, passed, on Henry's death, to his brother,

ROBERT WELLWOOD, Esq. of Garvock, who m. and had issue,

ROBERT, his heir.

Catherine, m. Sir William Moncrieff, Bart., and had, with other issue, SIR HENRY WELLWOOD-MONCRIEFF, Bart., an eminent divine, who inherited from his uncle, as stated above, the castle and lands of Tulliebole.

The son and successor,

ROBERT WELLWOOD, Esq. of Garvock, m. Anne, eldest
dau. of Sir George Preston, Bart. of Valleyfield, by Lady Anne Cochrane, sister to the Earl of Dundonald, and had issue,

I. ROBERT, his heir.

WELMAN OF POUNDSFORD PARK.

WELMAN, CHARLES-NOEL, Esq. of Poundsford Park, co. Somerset, b. 4 Dec. 1814; m. 1 May, 1835, Anne-Eliza, eldest dau. of Cornelius-Henry Bolton, Esq., eldest son of the late Cornelius Bolton, Esq. of Faithlake, co. Waterford, and has surviving issue, CHARLES-CESAR, b. in March, 1840.

Alice-Rebecca. Augusta-Charlotte.

Emily-Georgiana.

Mr. Welman s. his father, 28 Jan. 1829. He is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for Somersetshire, and a lieut. in the Somerset Yeomanry.

Lineage.

The descent of the Welman family cannot authentically be traced further back than the sixteenth century, at the close of which and at the beginning of the seventeenth there were several persons of the name residing in the co. Somerset, all in some degree related. The chief branch resided at Ilchester, and from it the present family of Poundsford Park derives. The first ancestor on record left seven children, viz.,

- i. TRISTRAM, his heir.
- ii. William, who m. and settled at Cudworth. He d. in 1653.
- iii. Nicholas, who d. in Feb. 1664.
- iv. Edward, who m. and settled at Ilminster. He d. in July, 1672.
- v. Thomas, who being educated for the church, and having graduated at Oxford, obtained from — Northcot, Esq., the living of Luppit, but was thence ejected for nonconformity, in 1662. He m. and left several children at his decease, in 1685, aged 80.
- i. Elizabeth, d. unm.
- ii. Juliana, m. and had issue.

The eldest son,

TRISTRAM WELMAN, removed to Taunton, in Somersetshire, where he d. in July, 1650, leaving, with other issue, a son and successor,

SMON WELMAN, Esq., who continued to reside at Taunton, where he possessed considerable property, and was one of the burgesses of that town. He m. and had issue,

- i. ISAAC, his heir.
- ii. Simon, who at first was educated for the church, but afterwards, owing to the circumstances of the times, applied himself to the study of medicine, and became an eminent physician in London, where he realized by his profession a considerable fortune. In 1686, he obtained the degree of doctor of medicine, and in 1689 was admitted one of the licentiates of the College of Physicians. He m. Miss Smith, and had one son, who d. young. Dying without surviving issue, in 1707, Dr. Welman bequeathed all his estates and property to his brother Isaac, and according to his request was buried in the church of Battersea, Surrey. A portrait of him is still preserved in the hall at Poundsford Park.

- i. Margaret, m. to John Satchell, Esq., and had issue.
- ii. Katharine, m. to John Langdon, Esq., and has issue.
- iii. Mary, d. unm.
- iv. Grace, m. to John Gold, Esq., and had issue.

Simon Welman d. in 1670, and was s. by his eldest son, ISAAC WELMAN, Esq., who first resided at Upcott, near Taunton, but subsequently, in 1708, removed to Poundsford Park: in two years after, he served the office of high-sheriff for Somersetshire. He m. 1st, Miss Babb, and had by her two daus., viz.,

- i. Mary, m. to William Buncombe, Esq. of Trull, near Taunton, and d. s. p. in 1718.
- ii. Elizabeth, d. unm. at Poundsford Lodge, in 1755, aged 78.

Mr. Welman m. 2ndly, Miss Prudence Bennet, and by her, who survived a widow until 1729, had issue,

- i. SIMON, his heir.
- ii. Isaac, d. unm. at Poundsford Park, in 1709, aged 24.
- iii. Thomas, b. in 1693, who settled at Poundsford Lodge, a property which had been purchased with that of the Park by his uncle, Dr. Simon Welman, and served as high-sheriff for Somersetshire in 1733. He m. in 1731, Mary, dau. of Benjamin Hawkins, Esq. of Exeter, and by her (who d. in 1760) left at his decease, 6 Nov. 1757, an only dau., who m. William Hawker, Esq., nephew of the Rev. M. Towgood, and dying in 1769, aged 36, left issue.
- i. Prudence, m. to John Whyatt, Esq. of Bishopshull, and d. s. p. in 1761.
- ii. Hannah, m. to the Rev. Farnham Haskol, a nonconforming minister at Bishopshull, and d. in 1746, leaving a dau., m. to the Rev. Peard Jillard.

Mr. Welman d. in 1715, aged 69, was buried in a vault at Pitminster Church, and s. by his eldest son, SIMON WELMAN, Esq., b. in Dec. 1683, who was appointed in 1715 a deputy-lieutenant for Somersetshire, and lieut.-col. of the Taunton Yellow regt. of militia, of which Sir William Pynsent was colonel. He m. in 1709, Elizabeth, dau. of Benjamin Hawkins, merchant, of Exeter, and by her (who d. at Yard House, in 1764, aged 81, had issue,

- i. ISAAC, his heir.
- ii. Simon, who never married, but always resided, after his brother's marriage, with his sister, Mrs. Halliday, at Yard House, where he d. 12 Sept. 1799, aged 83.
- i. Mary, m. to John Halliday, Esq. of Yard House, and d. in 1792, leaving issue.
- ii. Elizabeth, d. unm. at the age of 16, in 1727.

Mr. Welman, who resided at Cutcliffe, survived his father but a few months, and never removed to Poundsford Park. He d. in 1716, and was s. by his son,

ISAAC WELMAN, Esq. of Poundsford Park, b. in Feb. 1710, who m. in 1737, Jane, only dau. of Robert Tristram, Esq., merchant, of Barnstaple, and granddau. of the Rev. John Hammer, and had by her (who d. at Bath, 4 March, 1775) two sons and three daus., viz.,

- i. Isaac, d. young in 1754.
- ii. THOMAS, his heir.
- i. Jane, d. unm. 25 Feb. 1821, aged 82.
- ii. Elizabeth, m. in July, 1769, to John Meech, Esq. of Bridehead, and d. s. p.
- iii. Rebecca, d. unm. 6 Sept. 1831, aged 83.

Mr. Welman, who was in the commission of the peace, d. 9 Feb. 1783, and was s. by his only surviving son,

THOMAS WELMAN, Esq. of Poundsford Park, b. 14 June, 1746, who m. 1st, in 1785, Elizabeth, dau. and co-heiress of John Locke, Esq. of Hawleigh, a distant relation of the celebrated John Locke, and had by her (who d. in March, 1788, aged 21) one son and one dau., viz.,

- i. Isaac, d. in infancy.
- i. Elizabeth, m. in 1809, to Charles-Noel Noel, now Earl of Gainsborough, and d. in 1811.

Mr. Welman m. 2ndly, in Jan. 1813, the Hon. Charlotte Noel, dau. of Sir Gerard Noel, by Diana, his wife, Baroness Barham, and dying 28 Jan. 1829, aged 83, left by her an only child, the present CHARLES-NOEL WELMAN, Esq. of Poundsford Park.

WENTWORTH OF WENTWORTH CASTLE.

VERNON-WENTWORTH, FREDERICK-WILLIAM-THOMAS, Esq. of Wentworth Castle, co. York, b. 20 Sept. 1795; m. 23 May, 1826, the Lady Augusta-Brudenell Bruce, second dau. of Charles, Marquess of Ailesbury, and has issue, THOMAS-FREDERICK-CHARLES, b. 20 Oct. 1831.

Louisa-Mary-Henrietta.

Henrietta-Frances-Elizabeth.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is VERNON, assumed the additional surname and arms of WENTWORTH, in compliance with the testamentary injunction of his kinswoman, AUGUSTA HATFIELD-KAYE, wife of John Hatfield-Kaye, Esq. of Hatfield Hall, and sister and heiress of Frederick-Thomas Wentworth, third EARL OF STAFFORD.

Lineage.

The family of Wentworth, originally Winterwade, is said by genealogists to have derived its designation, in Saxon times, from the lordship of Winterwade, (so written in Domesday Book,) in the wapentake of Strafford, and county of York. In the reign of HENRY III.,

WILLIAM DE WYNTWORD, of Wyntword, m. Emma, dau. and heir of William Wodehouse, of Wodehouse, by whom he acquired that estate; and taking up his abode there, the family have ever since been denominated "the Wentworths of Wentworth Woodhouse." The descendant, in a direct line, from this William, and his wife, Emma, (for the intermediate generations, see BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage.)

THOMAS WENTWORTH, Esq. of Wentworth Woodhouse, was high-sheriff of the county of York, 25 Queen ELIZABETH. He m. Margaret, dau. and heir of Sir William Gascoigne,* Knt. of Gawthorpe, and by her acquired the manor and seat of Gawthorpe, Cusworth, &c., and his descendants became co-heirs to the baronies of Ferrers of Wemme and Boteler of Wemme, then (and still) in abeyance. Mr. Wentworth d. 14 Feb. 1586-87, possessed of lands in Yorkshire to the amount of £6000 a year. He was s. by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM WENTWORTH, of Wentworth Woodhouse. This gentleman was high-sheriff of the county of York in the last year of ELIZABETH, and was created a Baronet, 29 June, 1611. He m. Anne, dau. and heir of Sir Robert Atkins, Knt. of Stowell, co. Gloucester, and had, with other issue, (for which see BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage.)

THOMAS, his successor, the celebrated SIR THOMAS WENTWORTH, EARL OF STRAFFORD, lord-lieut. of Ireland, who suffered decapitation, 12 May, 1641. His honours were, however, restored, after the re-establishment of the monarchy, to his son, WILLIAM WENTWORTH, by patent, as second EARL OF STRATFORD, &c., and his lordship was installed a knight of the Garter. He d. without issue in 1695.

WILLIAM (Sir.)

The second son,

SIR WILLIAM WENTWORTH, of Ashby Puerorum, co. Lincoln, was knighted by King CHARLES I., and fell at Marston Moor. He m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Savile, Esq. of Hasseldon Hall, and had (with a dau., Anne, who m. Edward Skinner, Esq. of Thornton College, in Lincolnshire) one surviving son,

SIR WILLIAM WENTWORTH, who was sheriff of the co. York, 24 CHARLES II. He m. Isabella, dau. of Sir Allan

* MARY FERRERS, younger dau. and heir of Sir Robert Ferrers, Lord Ferrers of Wemme, m. RALPH NEVIL, a younger son of Ralph, Earl of Westmorland, and had a son,

JOHN NEVIL, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Robert Newmarch, and left an only dau. and heiress,

JOANE NEVIL, who m. Sir William Gascoigne, and her dau. and heiress,

MARGARET GASCOIGNE, became the wife of Thomas Wentworth, as in the text.

Apsley, Knt., treasurer of the household to James, Duke of York, and had issue,

- i. William, a military officer, d. unm. in 1693, while serving as a captain of horse, in Flanders.
- ii. THOMAS, of whom presently, as successor to the barony of Raby.
- iii. Peter, of Henbury, in the co. Dorset, who m. Juliana, only dau. of Thomas Horde, Esq. of Cote, in Oxfordshire, and had issue,

1. WILLIAM, his successor, gentleman-usher of the privy chamber to the Princess Dowager of Wales, who m. Susanna, dau. of Chamberlayne Slaughter, Esq. of Slaughter Hall, in the co. Gloucester, and had one son and two daus., namely,

FREDERICK-THOMAS, who s. his cousin as third Earl of Strafford.

George.

Caroline.

AUGUSTA-ANNE, m. 30 May, 1772, to John Hatfield-Kaye, Esq. of Hatfield Hall, in the co. York. Mrs. Hatfield-Kaye, who became heiress to her brother, the Earl of Strafford, at his lordship's decease, s. p., in 1799, dying herself likewise without issue, (in 1802,) bequeathed the estates to her kinsman, FREDERICK-WILLIAM-THOMAS VERNON, Esq., who assuming in consequence the additional surname and arms of WENTWORTH, is the present MR. VERNON-WENTWORTH, of Wentworth Castle.

2. Harriet, m. to Thomas, son of Francis Arundel, Esq. of Stoke-Bruers Park, co. Northampton.

The second son and eventual heir,

THOMAS WENTWORTH, Esq., inherited, at the decease, in 1695, of his cousin, William, second Earl of Strafford, (son of the beheaded lord,) the barony of Raby. His lordship, who was an eminent military character, temp. King WILLIAM III. and Queen ANNE, (in the latter reign he participated in Marlborough's victories,) was created by letters patent, 4 Sept. 1711, Viscount Wentworth, of Wentworth Woodhouse, and Earl of Strafford, with especial remainder to his brother, Peter Wentworth, Esq. of Henbury, and that gentleman's heirs male. He m. Anne, dau. and heir of Sir Henry Johnson, Knt. of Bradenham, in Bucks, and had one son and three daus., viz.,

- i. WILLIAM, his successor, and second Earl of Strafford. This nobleman m. Lady Anne Campbell, dau. of John, Duke of Argyll, but dying s. p., in 1791, his honours passed, according to the limitation, to his first cousin, (the son and heir of Peter of Henbury,)

FREDERICK-THOMAS WENTWORTH, as third Earl, who d. at his seat, Henbury, in Dorsetshire, without issue, in 1799, when all the honours expired, and his estates devolved upon his only surviving sister,

AUGUSTA-ANNE HATFIELD-KAYE.

- i. Anne, m. in 1733, to the Right Hon. William Conolly, of Castletown, in Ireland, and d. s. p.
- ii. Lucy, m. to Field-Marshal Sir George Howard, K.B.
- iii. HENRIETTA

The youngest dau.,

LADY HENRIETTA WENTWORTH, m. in 1743, Henry Vernon, Esq. of Hilton, co. Stafford, and had issue,

- i. HENRY, heir to his father.
- ii. William, d. unm. in 1775.
- iii. Leveson, of Stoke, co. Northampton, and Aldborough, Suffolk, d. unm. in 1831.
- i. Anne, m. to Lord Berwick.
- ii. Henrietta, m. 1st, to Richard, Earl Grosvenor, and was mother of the late Marquess of Westminster. Her ladyship m. 2ndly, General George Porter, M.P., and d. in 1838.
- iii. Lucy, d. unm. in 1783.
- iv. Caroline, maid of honour to CHARLOTTE, queen-consort of GEORGE III., d. unm. in 1829.
- v. Jane, d. unm. in 1805.

The elder son,

HENRY VERNON, Esq., s. his father at Hilton. Of this gentleman Miss Seward makes the following observations:—"Mr. Vernon roamed, in a ten years' tour, with enthusiastic curiosity, not only 'the Celtic and Iberian fields,' but almost every scene upon the globe which has been dignified by martial prowess, or has obtained poetic celebrity. He has seen, in tolerable preservation, a great part of the Temple of Ceres, has stood upon Mount Calvary, Olympus, and the Aonian hills, and has drank of the now exhausted waters of the Simois and Scamander; has fought, since England sheathed the sword, the Indians for America, and the Turks for the empress. He was some time at Gibraltar, with General Elliot, and obtained the friendship of that illustrious being. It gives me pleasure that he, my neighbour, Mr. Vernon, stands so high in Lord Heathfield's esteem." Mr. Vernon m. 1st, in 1775, Penelope, dau. and co-heir of Arthur Graham, Esq. of Dublin, and had by her a son, the present Henry-Charles-Edward Vernon, Esq. of Hilton. He m. 2ndly, 23 April, 1794, Margaret, dau. of Thomas Fisber, Esq. of Acton, co. Mr. Wentworth is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for Yorkshire.

Lincage.

This is a distinguished and powerful branch of the ancient stock of Wentworth Woodhouse, co. York, a family which has been rooted there from the earliest period to which the genealogist can usually ascend in his investigations. Of the orthography of the lands, whence originated the name, Domesday Book, and all the old charters have it Winteworth, and such is still the pronunciation of the common people, who do not easily fall into new modes of speech. As to its derivation, Mr. HUNTER, in his History of Doncaster, makes the following remarks:—"The latter half of the name (worth) is one of the most frequent local terminals, and appears to denote some degree of cultivation. The former half affords room for conjecture. It has been suggested that it may be the word givent, preserved in the Breton language, which is a dialect of the Celtic, where it denotes elevation. This sense would undoubtedly apply well to Wentworth, which stands high, as does also another place of the same name, in the Isle of Ely, relatively to the fens around it. Celtic etymologies are, however, to be admitted with great caution in investigating the names of places cultivated or populated; and perhaps the scribe of Domesday, who, in one of the five instances in which the word occurs, has written it thus, Winteworde, may have presented us with an ancient and expiring orthography, from whence we may conclude that the name of Wentworth is to be classed with Winterton, Winterburn, Winteredge, and other places, which have obtained those names from their high, exposed, or cold situations." While the lands of Wentworth Woodhouse continued to be the seat of the chiefs, and descended from sire to son, in an unbroken series, till the succession of male heirs failed with William, the second Earl of Strafford, the junior scions of the family founded, in several instances, houses of rank and influence, the Wentworths of Woolley, of North and South Elmsal,* of Bretton, of Wentworth Castle, of Nettlested, &c.

* The Wentworths of North Elmsal acquired that estate temp. EDWARD III., in marriage with Alice, dau. and heiress of John Bissett, and continued there for several centuries, until the year 1741, when their male line expired with Sir Butler-Cavendish Wentworth, Bart., the estates devolving on that gentleman's half-sister, CATHERINE WENTWORTH, who m. Hugh Cholmley, Esq. of Whitby, in the co. York, M.P. for Hedon, and sheriff of that shire in 1724. The Wentworths of South Elmsal sprung from a younger son of Thomas Wentworth, of North Elmsal, are also now extinct.

The Wentworths of Bretton, deriving from Richard

THOMAS WENTWORTH, of Wentworth Woodhouse, son of William Wentworth, by Isabel, his wife, dau. of Sir Richard Fitzwilliam, of Aldwark, s. to the estates and representation of the family, 23 HENRY VII. He m. Beatrix, dau. of Sir Richard Woodruffe, Knt. of Woolley, whose house was then in the plenitude of its prosperity, and had issue,

- i. WILLIAM, of Wentworth Woodhouse, who enjoyed the estates only a few months, dying 4 July, 1549. He m. Catherine, dau. of Ralph Beeston, of Beeston, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS WENTWORTH, Esq. of Wentworth Woodhouse, high-sheriff of Yorkshire, 24 ELIZABETH. This gentleman augmented, in a great degree, his inheritance, by his marriage with Margaret, dau. of William Gascoigne, Esq. of Gawthorpe, long one of the principal families of the West Riding, and whose pedigree hoisted of the name of Chief Justice Gascoigne. By this lady, Mr. Wentworth left at his decease, in 1587, one son and four daus. (See WENTWORTH of WENTWORTH CASTLE.)

- ii. MICHAEL, of whom presently.
- iii. Thomas, who m. Grace, dau. of John Gascoigne, Esq. of Lasingcroft, in Yorkshire, and had (with three daus., Mary, Grace, and Elizabeth) an only son, Thomas.
- iv. Bryan.
- i. Elizabeth, m. to Ralph Denam.
- ii. Isabella, m. to Nicholas Wombwell, Esq. of Greesbrook, in Yorkshire.
- iii. Beatrix, m. to Thomas Worrall, Esq. of Loversall, in Yorkshire.

Thomas Wentworth d. 5 Dec. 1548, and was buried at Wentworth. His second son,

MICHAEL WENTWORTH, Esq. of Mendam Priory, co. Suffolk, living 39 HENRY VIII., was cofferer to the king and comptroller to the queen. He m. Isabel, dau. and heir of Percival Whitley, Esq. of Whitley, in Yorkshire, and had by her (who d. in 1560) three sons and three daus. He d. 13 Oct. 1558, and in the inquisition taken 30 April following, it is found that his son and heir,

THOMAS WENTWORTH, Esq. of Mendam Priory, in Suffolk, and of Whitley, co. York, was then aged seventeen years and two months. This gentleman m. Susan, dau. of Christopher Hopton, Esq. of Armley Hall, in the latter shire, and had (with two daus., Beatrix, m. to John Green, Esq. of Dean Grange, in Horsforth; and Mary, the wife of Robert Coningsby, Esq. of Herefordshire) a son and successor,

MICHAEL WENTWORTH, Esq., who purchased Woolley, and other lands in the county of York, in 1599, from Francis Woodruffe, Esq. He m. Frances, dau. and sole heir of George Downes, Esq. of Paunton, in Herefordshire, and had issue,

- i. Thomas, b. in 1595, who predeceased him, unm.
- ii. MICHAEL, heir to his father.
- iii. GEORGE (Sir), successor to his brother.
- iv. Matthew, capt. of a troop of horse, d. s. p., will dated in 1646, proved in 1651.
- v. JOHN, successor to his brother, Sir George.
- i. Dorothy, m. to John Wood, Esq. of Copmanthorpe.
- ii. Elizabeth, m. 1st, to Thomas Oldfield, Esq. of Wadlands; and 2ndly, to Richard Beaumont, Esq. of Mirfield.
- iii. Alice, d. unm.
- iv. Mary, m. to Richard Langley, Esq. of Millington, in Yorkshire.
- v. Rosamond, m. 1st, to Bertram Reveley, Esq. of Throple; and 2ndly, to Robert Widdrington, Esq. of Carlington, both in Northumberland.
- vi. Margaret, m. 11 Feb. 1628, to William Wombwell, Esq. of Wombwell.

Wentworth, of Everton, in the co. Nottingham, third son of John Wentworth, of Elmsal, by Agnes, his wife, sister and co-heir of Sir William Dronsfield, of Bretton, became extinct in the male line upon the demise of Sir Thomas Wentworth Blackett, Bart., 9 July, 1792. The estates of Bretton &c. are now enjoyed by the Beaumont family.

The Wentworths of Wentworth Castle were founded by Sir William Wentworth, of Ashby, in Lincolnshire, slain at Marston Moor, who was a younger son of Sir William Wentworth, Bart. of Wentworth Woodhouse, and brother to Thomas, first Earl of Strafford. They became extinct in the male line in 1799. The estates are now possessed by Frederick-William-Thomas Vernon-Wentworth, Esq. of Wentworth Castle.

For an account of the Wentworths of Nettlosted, Earls of Cleveland, and Barons Wentworth, now represented by Anna-Isabella, Dowager Lady Byron, and the Hon. Nathaniel Curzon, between whom the barony of Wentworth is in abeyance, refer to BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage.

Michael Wentworth, who enjoyed his purchase of Woolley more than forty years, died just at the commencement of the civil wars, and by the inquisition taken 9 Sept. 1642, it was found that he had died seised of the manors of Woolley, Notton, Kirshell, Pool, and Brackenholm, the manor or grange of Owston, alias Wolston, in the county of the city of York, and half the tithe of garbs in Notton and Chevet. He was s. by his eldest son,

MICHAEL WENTWORTH, Esq. of Woolley, aged 45 in 1642, who d. unm., and was s. by his next brother,

SIR GEORGE WENTWORTH, Kut. of Woolley, who, on the breaking out of the civil war, zealously followed the example of the whole race of Wentworth, and espoused the cause of the king. Amongst other acts of devotion, he raised for his majesty a regiment of foot, at his own expense, and, as colonel, commanded it himself. He m. 1st, Anne, dau. of Thomas, Lord Fairfax of Denton, by whom he had two sons, namely,

MICHAEL, b. in 1622, who m. Catherine, dau. of Sir William St. Quintin, Bart., but predeceased his father without issue, in 1658. His widow m. 2ndly, Sir John Kaye, Bart. of Woodsom; 3rdly, Henry Sandys, Esq. of Down, in Kent; and 4thly, Alexander, Earl of Eglintoun. William, b. in 1624, and d. in 1625.

The family of Were, or, as it was formerly spelt, Weare, is of great antiquity in the counties of Devon and Somerset. Tradition states, that their original name was Giffard, a younger branch, it is represented, of the Giffards of Brightley and Halsworthy; and that they took the name of Weare only, upon inheriting that part of the property of the house of Giffard called Weare-Giffard, whereupon, as was the custom at that period, they assumed different arms. How far this statement is correct, it is impossible at this distant date to establish, but these facts have been asserted by authorities entitled to consideration. Certain it is, however, the family of WEARE, or, as now spelt, WERE, is of long standing in Somersetshire, as well as in Devonshire, and the arms annexed have been used by the existing branch, whose genealogy we now give, for many generations, as various engravings of them on old seals, plate, &c., still in possession of its different members, fully confirm. Those arms are to be found in the third edition of GULLIM'S Heraldry, published in 1638, and again in the edition published in 1679, wherein it is stated, at p. 206, "He beareth, argent, on a bend, vert, between six cross-crosslets, fitched, gules, three croysiers, or, by the name of Weare of Devon, and is quartered by Fortescue of Filley," (the ancestor of the present Earl Fortescue.) "This coat standeth in Weare Church in com: pradiet." The estate of Weare Giffard, it is believed, passed to the family of Deynall, by the marriage of an heiress of the house of Weare, between the years 1440 and 1450, and it was carried to that of Fortescue, about the year 1480, by the heiress of Deynall. In a collection of abstracts of early charters in the library of Sir Richard Phillips, Bart., there is a deed relating to the family of Weare, of the concluding part of which the following is a correct translation:

"This indenture made at Weare-Giffard, between William de Sallem on the one part, and William Weare, Lord of Weare-Giffard, on the other part,

"Anno 13 Henry IV. (1411)

The arms attached to this deed are precisely the same as those now used by the family as herein described; but the crest, instead of being a demi-lion, holding a cross-crosslet, fitchée, is a basket of fish. We are unable, at this moment, to go further back with the genealogy than to

THOMAS WERE, eldest surviving son of Robert Weare, Esq. of Sampford Arundell, in Devon, who, it appears, spelt his name in the ancient style.

THOMAS WERE,* his son, however, wrote it in the modern mode, which has been continued by his descendants. He resided at Wellington in the beginning of the last century, and was possessed of the lands of Great and Little Sowden, the West Leigh estates, Old Baums, Escotts, Osmonds, Penslade, and other property in the county of Devon; together with the manor of Runnington, Landcox, Rockwell-Green, Perry-Elm, Jurston, and other estates in the co. Somerset. He m. about the year 1716, Elizabeth, dau. of Peter Berry, Esq., and had issue eight sons, between whom he divided his different estates, and three daus., viz.,

- i. ROBERT, of Runnington Manor, of whom presently.
- ii. Peter,
- iii. Thomas, } all d. s. p.
- iv. John,
- v. Nicholas, of Landcox, Osmonds, Penslade, &c., m. Mary,† dau. of George Colesworthy, Esq. of Mount Radford, in Devonshire, and had issue,
1. Nicholas, formerly of Landcox, in the co. Somerset, m. Frances Binns, and has issue, four sons and three daus., viz., Nicholas; Thomas-Naramore, an officer in the East India service; Jonathan, m. in 1833,

* Thomas Were's second brother was Peter Were, Esq. of Sampford Arundell and Were's Cot, near Wellington, whose son, Ellis, was a partner in the firm of Curtis, Were, Roberts, and Co., bankers in London. Ellis's descendants are Thomas, of Were's Cot and Sampford Arundell, who is married, and has issue.

Thomas Were had also one sister, Elizabeth, who m. George Fox, of Perran, near Falmouth.

Another branch of the ancient family of Were became settled in the vicinity of Plymouth about the year 1700, by a marriage with Joan, dau., and at length sole heir, of John Reid, Esq. of Burrington, in Devonshire. The son of this marriage, John Were, Esq. of Burrington, who d. in 1778, left the whole of his property to his only child and heiress, Mary, who m. Richard Hall Clarke, Esq. of Bridwell House, in Devonshire.

† This Mary Colesworthy, and her sister, Elizabeth, who m. Joseph Were, descended maternally from the old family of Harford, thus:

CHARLES HARFORD was father of

EDWARD HARFORD, who left a dau. and heiress,

Crest—A demi-lion, rampant, ppr., holding a cross-crosslet, fitchée, gu.

Motto (as assumed of late by some members of the family)—Fuimus.

 There is another branch of the family which still retain the original orthography of the name, and were formerly possessed of Mauox and Giddis Court, in Herefordshire. They also appear to have used the arms as annexed for many generations, as is to be seen on various old monuments in the parish church of Goodrick. Of this branch the present representative is LIEUT.-COL. THOMAS WEARE, of Hampton Bishop, co. Hereford, Knight of the Royal Hanoverian Guelphic Order, and a magistrate for the said county, (at present commanding the provisional battalion at Chatham,) only son of the late Rev. Thomas Weare, of Jesus College, Oxford, who resided, and was a distinguished preacher, in that university, for many years, and descended from the Weares of Manox, and Giddis Court, co. Hereford, where it appears, by reference to deeds &c., they were residing previously to the year 1611. Lieut.-Col. Weare m. Ann, dau. of the late John Pugh, Esq. of Lowes, Radnorshire, and has two sons and one dau., Thomas-William Weare, B.A., one of the Westminster students of Christ Church College, Oxford; Henry-Edwin Weare; and Charlotte-Maria Weare.

Manox, and Giddis Court, in Herefordshire, having descended to a female branch of the elder son, has since passed from the family by sale.

WERGE, FORMERLY OF OXFORDSHIRE AND WILTSHIRE, SUBSEQUENTLY OF THE COUNTIES OF NORTHUMBERLAND AND NOTTINGHAM.

WERGE, JOHN-INGALL, Esq. of Woodborough, Notts, lately an officer in the 99th regt., b. 18 March, 1812; m. 30 June, 1836, Fanny, dau. of David Melville, Esq. of Standard Hill, Nottingham, and has issue, five daus., Fanny-Melville, Ellen-Mary, Lucy-Theresa, Elizabeth, and Alice-Margaret.

Lineage.

Of the family of WERGE, WEARG, WIRGE, or WORGE, as the name has been variously written, several branches were spread over the counties of Oxford, Wilts, Sussex, Middlesex, and Northumberland. Of one of these was SIR CLEMENT WEARG, Knt., solicitor-general, counsel for the Crown on Bishop Atterbury's trial, who was grandson of Thomas Wearg, Esq. of St. Botolph's, in the city of London, who, in his will, proved in 1684, mentions, among others, his cousin, Richard Wearg, of Gateshead, the direct ancestor of the family of which we are about to treat. This REV. RICHARD WERGE, rector of Nailston, in Leicestershire, before 1648, exchanged his living, temp. CHARLES II., with the Rev. John Cave, A.M., for the rectory of St. Mary's, Gateshead, in the county of Durham, and d. in 1685, leaving an only son,

THE REV. JOHN WERGE, A.M., vicar of Kirknewton, in Northumberland. Of this gentleman the following extraordinary circumstance is well authenticated, and has been handed down in many families in the north. About the year 1680, when the feeling in Scotland was so strong against episcopacy, on the night before Christmas-day, about ten o'clock, a knock was heard at the door of the vicarage, and upon the servant inquiring who was there, the answer was—a friend from Gateshead, (where the rev. gentleman's father was rector,) upon which orders were given to open the door, when a person rushed in, armed, and found his way into the room where Mr. Werge was sitting. He, without preface, declared his intention, and made a stroke with a sword, which in all probability would have proved fatal, but the room being low, and a large beam projecting across the ceiling, the weapon caught the beam, and only inflicted a trifling wound on one shoulder. The reverend gentleman, who was a powerful man, and in the act of rising when the blow was given, immediately closed with the assassin, but not before he had received a thrust, which only pierced the flesh next his ribs; a severe struggle ensued, in which the light was extinguished, and terminated in Mr. Werge extricating himself, and making his way out at the front door, where he found two other ruffians, who eagerly inquired if he had killed him. Mr. Werge, with great presence of mind, answered—"Yes, yes," (upon which they gave way) and ran into the garden, but not before the villains had discovered their mistake, and one of them had discharged a pistol, happily without effect. The alarm being given by the servants, the assassins made their escape. Some few years after, the confession of a man executed at Edinburgh for murder appeared in print, in which he acknowledged many crimes, but none had distressed his conscience more than the belief of having murdered a clergyman, near the foot of Cheviot, of whom every person spoke well, and which he was hired to perform. Mr. Werge m. Elizabeth, dau. of — Wood, Esq. of Falloiden, in Northumberland. (into which family Henry Grey, Esq. of Howick, the grandfather of Earl Grey, also married,) and had issue,

WESTBY OF MOWBRECK AND RAWCLIFFE.

WESTBY, JOSCELYN-TATE, Esq. of Mowbreck and Rawcliffe, both in co. Lancaster, b. 19 Aug. 1831; s. at the decease of his father.

Lineage.

The Westhys were originally from Yorkshire, but had a settlement in Lancashire prior to the CONQUEST, and are of Saxon descent. In the general survey, the township and lands of Westhy are distinctly set forth as then existing in the hundred of Amounderness, in the north-western part of Lancashire. All these lands were once held under the great Saxon chief, Tosti, the brother of HAROLD, afterwards by Roger de Poitou, the Norman, and are now in the possession of J. Clifton, Esq. of Lytham.

The Westhys have, at various periods, held lands at Mowbreck, near Kirkham, Bourn, in Poulton, Much Urswick, in Furness, in Alston, Balderston Thorton, Thorton Stanoe, and Great and Little Eccleston, co. Lancaster, and at Westby, near Gishourn, in Yorkshire, but they have been deprived of the greater portion of these broad and fertile domains, by religious persecutions, and for their active zeal in support of the ill-fated house of Stuart. In 1233,

GILBERT WESTBYE was sheriff of Lancashire. From him descended

WILLIAM WESTBIE, Esq. of Westhie, co. York, living temp. HENRY VII., who was father of

WILLIAM WESTBIE, Esq. of Westhie, who, in 1553, when a muster of soldiers was made in the co. palatine of Lancaster, and when the hundred of Amounderness furnished three hundred men to her majesty, was appointed one of the commanders. He m. a dau. of Reginald of Wideacre, and was s. by his son,

JOHN WESTBYE, of Westhye, who was granted, 2 ELIZABETH, a crest, by a curious patent, which sets forth at some length, the origin of armorial bearings, heralds, and officers of arms, and states that John Westhye had long been "in nobleness bearing arms." This gentleman seems to have been a bold and stirring man, for when ELIZABETH found that the Reformation had rather retrograded than advanced in Lancashire, and that her commissioners, with the bishop of the diocese at their head, made but small progress in the work, her majesty, in 1567, issued a royal reproof to the bishop in her usual style of decision, reminding him of his duty, and requiring his vigilant performance, enforcing a conformity to common prayer, &c. It appears by his lordship's reply, that the mandate of the haughty queen, when applied to this John Westhye, was treated with scorn and contempt, instead of the submission and thanks with which it had been received by many, and his name was sent up to the council as one not unlikely to promote resistance, and who would willingly lose blood in those matters. Nevertheless, a few years after, when the nation's strength was called out for the general welfare, this John appears to have arrayed himself and furnished the queen with his quota of light horse, coat plate, pyke, long howes, shafts of arrows, steel caps, and other armour. (Subsequently to this period, a further patent or certificate was granted by the College of arms, temp. JAMES II., setting forth that "this family were gentlemen of blood and coat-armour, and lineally descended from the principal male branch of the ancient family of Westbye, of Westhye, in Yorkshire, and that since their coming into Lancashire, they had matched with some of the chiefest families of the county, and their pedigree and arms are registered in the visitation of Yorkshire, in 1584, and three several visitations of Lancashire made in 1613 and 1665.") This John Westhye m. Ellyn, dau. of Kirhy, of Rawcliffe, co. Lancaster, and had one son and two daus., viz.,

THOMAS, his heir.

Mary, m. to Thomas Hesketh, son and heir of Hugh Hesketh, Esq. of the Maynes.

Ellyn, m. to Robert Molyneux, Esq. of the Wood.

The only son and heir,

THOMAS WESTBY, Esq., styled in the pedigree, "of Mouldhury, or Mowbreck," alienated, in 1610, all the Westby lands in Much Urswick within Furness, by granting leases for 1000 years, on the compliance with most eccentric observances and dues, which are still paid, and at something like peppercorn rents. He m. twice: 1st, Perpetua, dau. of Edward Norris, Esq. of Speke, in Lancashire; and, secondly, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Preston, Esq. of Holkar. By the first he had, with three daus., five sons, viz.,

JOHN, who m. in 1619, Dorothy, dau. of Richard Brathwayte, Esq. of Burnside, in the co. Westmorland, but dying s. p., settled, by deed dated 10 July, 1662, the estates of Mowbreck and Burne, in Lancaster, and Westby, in Yorkshire, on his nephew, Thomas, with remainder to his half-brothers, George and Robert.

Thomas, a medical man, who d. fighting for the king (CHARLES I.), in the latter wars, without issue.

Edward, } both d. s. p.
William, }

Francis, of Myrscough, b. about the year 1624, who m. Ann, dau. of Richard Bakehouse, Esq. of Myrscough, in Lancashire, and had four sons and six daus., all of whom d. s. p., excepting Perpetua, m. to Richard Blackburn, Esq. of Thistleton, and his eldest son and successor,

THOMAS, of Burne, b. in 1641, who m. twice: 1st, in 1661, Bridget, dau. of Thomas Clifton, Esq. of Westby and Lytham, in Lancashire; and 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of — Braithwaite, Esq. of the co. Westmorland. He d. about the year 1649, leaving (with other issue, who d. unm.) two sons, viz.,

1. JOHN, of Mowbreck and Burne, b. in 1662, who m. in 1688, Jane, dau. of Christopher Parker, Esq. of Bradkirk Hall, in Lancashire, and had four daus.,

1. CATHERINE, m. to Alexander Osbaldiston, Esq. of Sunderland Hall.

2. BRIDGET, m. to William Shuttleworth, Esq. of Turnover Hall, Upper Rawcliffe, Lancashire, and had an only dau.,

MARGARET, who inherited her mother's portion of the Mowbreck estates. She m. in 1744, Thomas Westby, Esq. of White Hall.

3. MARY, m. to the Rev. Thomas Alderson.*

4. ANN, m. to the Rev. John Bennison.

II. ROBERT, who inherited the estates of his brother John. At this gentleman's decease, s. p. m. in 1762, Mowbreck and Burne devolved on his four nieces as co-heirs; but the Yorkshire property, never having been diverted by any deed from that prescribed by lineal descent in the heirs male, consequently passed to the then existing eldest male descendant of George Westby, of Rawcliffe, eldest son of Thomas Westby, of Mowbreck, by his second marriage.

By his second wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Preston, Esq. of Holkar, he had five sons and a dau.,

GEORGE, who founded the Rawcliffe branch, of which we are about to treat.

Robert, who resided at Killington, in the co. Westmorland.

Charles, } who in 1664 were serving in the Life-guards.
Bernard, }

Richard, who lived at Wynder, in Lancashire. He m. Jeanette, dau. of Bryan Taylor, Esq. of Milthorpe, and had three daus.

Elizabeth.

Thomas Westby, (the elder,) of Mowbreck, having purchased, temp. CHARLES I., Rawcliffe (now White) Hall, from the Kirby family, settled that estate on his eldest son by his second marriage,

GEORGE WESTBY, Esq. of Rawcliffe, who attained the rank of major in the army. The family had taken, with the Kirhys and others, too active a part in the misfortunes of their unhappy sovereign not to feel the pressure of his enemies, and their estates of Rawcliffe were seized by the parliament, and in Sept. 1653, were sold by the commissioners, as being forfeited for treason to the state. They were repurchased by friends, but as the Westbys were catholics, and labouring under the then tyrannical disabilities regarding the tenure of land, the titles were taken in the name of protestants, and by repeated transfers thus secured. It was not until many years after that Major Westby was known to be the real owner of these estates. He m. 1st, about the year 1650, Margaret, dau. of Thomas Hesketh, Esq. of Mayne, in Lancashire, and had one son, JOHN, his heir. He m. 2ndly, a lady named Rosomond, by whom he had issue, THOMAS, who settled at Clonmel, in Ireland, and hence sprang, it is presumed, a large and highly respectable family, seated in the co. Tipperary.

Elizabeth. Ann.

Major Westby was s. at his demise by his eldest son,

JOHN WESTBY, Esq. of Rawcliffe, who m. in 1684, Jane, dau. of Thomas Bleasdale, Esq. of Alston, co. Lancaster, and had issue, JOHN, his heir; Joseph and James, who both d. s. p. in 1725; and Alice, m. in 1706, to Thomas Gillibrand, Esq. Mr. Westby d. in 1708, and was s. by his son,

JOHN WESTBY, Esq. of Rawcliffe, who m. in 1709, Mary, dau. of Thomas Hawett, Esq. of Ormskirk, and granddau. of Hugh Holland, Esq. of Raby, by whom he had issue,

I. THOMAS.

II. GEORGE, b. at White Hall, in 1720, who m. in 1755, Mary, dau. of — Field, Esq. of Middlesex, and had issue, John, Thomas, George, George-Valentine, John, Ann, and Mary; all the sons but Thomas d. in their infancy, as did also Ann. Mr. Westby d. in 1776. His only surviving son,

Thomas, b. 30 July, 1757, inherited, as heir-at-law to his cousin, Thomas Westby, Esq. of White Hall, the landed property of Eccleston and Turnover Hall, which that gentleman had purchased after making his will. Mr. Thomas Westby has by deed settled those estates on his younger children. He m. 7 Feb. 1787, Ann, dau. of John Ashley, Esq. of London, a branch of the Shropshire family of that name, and had surviving issue,

1. GEORGE, of White Hall.

2. EDMUND, b. in 1804, sometime secretary to the governor at Honduras.

3. MARY-ANNE.

4. JULIA, m. 30 Aug. 1830, to Samuel-George Gardom, Esq. of Hunter-street, Brunswick-square, and has issue, Edmund-Westhy Gardom, b. 13 Sept. 1820.

Julia-Georgiana.

III. JOHN.

I. JANE.

IV. CUTHBERT.

Mr. John Westby d. in 1728, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS WESTBY, Esq. of Rawcliffe, b. in 1715. This gentleman m. in Nov. 1744, his relative, Margaret, dau. of William Shuttleworth, Esq. of Turnover Hall, in Lancashire, by Bridget, his wife, dau. and co-heir of John Westby, Esq. of Mowbreck. This lady inherited her mother's fourth share of the Mowbreck estates, and this alliance united the descendants of the children of the first and second marriage of Thomas Westby, of Mowbreck, the common ancestor, who had then been dead more than one hundred years. By the co-beiress of Mowbreck (who d. at an advanced age, in 1806) Mr. Westby had issue,

JOHN, his heir.

William, M.D., cupper to his Majesty GEORGE IV., who d. unm.

Joseph, d. young.

Robert, a merchant in Lancaster, who d. s. p. in 1800.

THOMAS, eventual inheritor.

Bridget, a nun.

Mary, m. to J. Menzies, Esq. of Aberdeen, and d. s. p. in 1805.

The eldest son and heir,

JOHN WESTBY, Esq. of Rawcliffe, inherited likewise his mother's fourth share of Mowbreck. This gentleman sold the estate of Westby, in Yorkshire, to Lord Ribblesdale. He d. unm. 1 March, 1811, having bequeathed the White Hall or Rawcliffe estates to his brother, William, and his portion of Mowbreck to his younger brother, Thomas. William dying, however, unm., in 1811, two days previously to John, the whole of the possessions devolved on

THOMAS WESTBY, Esq. of Rawcliffe and Mowbreck, who greatly improved the property, by purchasing three other estates, named Boggerly Gate, Eccleston Hall, and Turnover Hall, the seat of his maternal ancestors. He d. unm. 17 Nov. 1829, and devised Rawcliffe, Mowbreck, and Boggerly Gate, to

GEORGE WESTBY, Esq., grandson of his uncle, George. His other lands passed to that gentleman's father, the heir-at-law. Mr. George Westby, b. 9 March, 1789, m.

* The Rev. Christopher-Westby Alderson, (son of this marriage,) m. in 1767, Agnes, only dau. of George Bickerstaffe, Esq. of Hambleton, and had an only child, Mary, m. in 1789, Rowland Ramsden, Esq. of Halifax, and had an only dau., Agnes, m. to John-Rhodes Ralph, Esq. of Halifax, and has issue.

8 Sept. 1827, Mary, eldest dau. of the late Major John Tate, of his majesty's 6th West India regiment of foot, and had issue, JOSCELYN-TATE, the present representative.

Mary-Virginia. Matilda-Julia. Ada-Perpetua.

This gentleman filled for many years the most influential civil offices in the colony of Honduras, and was appointed, in 1817, one of the royal commissioners for holding the high criminal courts there. He was advocate for the crown on several important occasions, and enjoyed the rank of major in the militia. Having succeeded to the estates of his ancestors, upon the demise of his cousin, Thomas Westby, Esq. of Rawcliffe, in 1829, he resigned soon after into the hands of his majesty's secretary of state for the Colonies, the civil appointments he then held, of clerk of the Supreme and Lower Courts, and keeper of the records in Honduras. He was s. at his decease by his only son.

Seat—White Hall, Upper Rawcliffe, Lancashire.

WESTBY OF THORNHILL.

WESTBY, NICHOLAS, Esq. of the co. of Clare, present representative of the family, b. 23 Oct. 1787; m. 26 Aug. 1815, the Hon. Emily Susan-Laura Waldegrave, eldest dau. of William, late Lord Radstock, and has had,

- I. William-Waldegrave, } d. young.
- II. Nicholas-Granville, }
- III. EDWARD-PERCEVAL, b. 11 July, 1828.
- I. Emily-Elizabeth.
- II. Erina-Laura, d. 1 March, 1834.
- III. Caroline-Mary. IV. Louisa-Isabella.
- V. Horatia-Caroline.

Lineage.

Owing, it is stated, to the destruction of the parish registry of Ennis, co. Clare, there is no possibility of now ascertaining the actual founder of this family in Ireland. He is presumed to have been a

THOMAS WESTBY, son of Major Westby, of Rawcliffe, co. Lancaster, who settled at Clonmel. (See preceding article.) Of this Thomas little is known, neither the name of his wife nor the time of his death: he is supposed, however, to have left the following issue, NICHOLAS, of Ennis, in the co. Clare.

James, who had a son and dau., namely,

Nicholas, who d. unm. in 1729.

Mary, d. unm. in 1775.

Humberston, of Strokestown, in the co. Roscommon, m. 1st, in 1684, Rhodia, dau. of Col. Perceval; and 2ndly, a Miss Mahon, and had,

Edward, who d. unm. 9 Nov. 1732.

George.

The eldest son, (and first authenticated ancestor of the family,)

NICHOLAS WESTBY, Esq. of Ennis, co. Clare, collector of the Customs of that port, m. in 1698, Frances, dau. of John Stepney, Esq. of Durrow, Queen's County, and acquired, as the marriage portion of his wife, the estate of High Park, co. Wicklow. By this lady (who d. 29 March, 1732, proof of her will bears date in 1734) he had one son and two daus., viz.,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Jane, b. at Ennis, 12 Sept. 1699, m. 13 June, 1717, to Robert Perceval, Esq. of Knightsbrooke, in the co. Meath.

Frances, b. at Ennis, 10 Oct. 1701, d. on the 13th of the same month.

Nicholas Westby d. 19 Oct. 1716, (his will was proved in the Court of Prerogative of Dublin, in the same year,) and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM WESTBY, Esq. of High Park, co. Wicklow, b. 3 Nov. 1702, m. in 1743, Mary, dau. of Brigadier-General 1558

Jones, by Mary, dau. and sole heiress of Richard Neville, Esq. of Furnace, co. Kildare, and had issue,

I. WILLIAM, b. 19 Nov. 1745, d. young.

II. NICHOLAS, heir to his father.

III. Edward, b. 5 May, 1752, d. young.

IV. WILLIAM, of Thornhill, of whom presently.

V. EDWARD, who inherited High Park, under the will of his eldest brother, and became EDWARD WESTBY, Esq. of High Park. (See WESTBY OF HIGH PARK.)

VI. George, b. 20 Oct. 1756, d. in Jan. 1763.

I. Mary, b. 8 July, 1744, m. Thomas Brown, Esq. of New Grove, in the co. Clare, and d. in Feb. 1776, leaving issue.

II. Frances, b. 28 Feb. 1747, d. unm. 6 July, 1808, and was buried in St. Peter's, Dublin. Will proved in 1809.

III. Jane, b. 5 Oct. 1748, d. unm. 11 March, 1825. Will proved in that year.

IV. Martha, b. 29 Nov. 1749, d. unm. 13 Dec. 1779, at the Hot Wells, near Bristol, and was buried in St. Peter's, Dublin.

Mr. Westby, who served the office of sheriff for the co. of Wicklow in 1733, d. 12 Oct. 1757. His lady, surviving him above thirty years, d. 3 Oct. 1794. Their wills were proved in Dublin the respective years of their decease, and they were both interred in St. Peter's, in that city. He was s. by his eldest surviving son, NICHOLAS WESTBY, Esq. of High Park, b. 26 March, 1751, old style. This gentleman, who represented the borough of Tusk, as well as the co. of Wicklow, in several parliaments, rejected with scorn a peerage offered by the government to influence his vote on the important question of union, and patriotically opposed that measure to the last. He served the office of sheriff for the county of Wicklow, and d. unm. 30 Nov. 1800. His will was proved in 1801, under which the mansion and estate of High Park passed to the younger of his two surviving brothers, Edward Westby, Esq., while the representation of the family &c. devolved upon the elder,

WILLIAM WESTBY, Esq. of Thornhill, co. Dublin, b. 18 June, 1753, who m. 1st, 18 April, 1781, Mary, dau. of George Fletcher, Esq. of Tottenham, and by her (who d. 17 May, 1797) had issue,

I. NICHOLAS, present head of the family.

II. George, lieut. in the 95th, or Rifle regiment, b. 2 June, 1790; killed 5 May, 1811, at Fuentes D'Onore, in Spain. He d. unm.

III. Edward, cornet in the 2nd North British dragoons, b. 25 Aug. 1794; killed at Waterloo, 18 June, 1815. He d. unm.

I. Mary.

II. Louisa.

III. Wilhelmina, m. Richard Moore, Esq. of the co. Tipperary, barrister-at-law, and has issue.

Mr. Westby m. 2ndly, 28 Aug. 1809, Elizabeth, dau. of George Boleyn Whitney, Esq. of Newpass, co. Westmeath, but by her had no issue. He d. 5 Nov. 1835.

Arms, Crest, and Motto—see BURKE'S Heraldic Illustrations.

WESTBY OF HIGH PARK.

WESTBY, EDWARD, Esq. of High Park, co. Wicklow, b. 11 Sept. 1755; called to the bar of Ireland in Hilary term in 1779; made a bencher of King's Inn, Dublin, Trinity term in 1789; and was one of the Masters in Chancery from 1788 to 1814; m. 1st, in 1787, Anne, dau. of Richard Palmer, Esq. of Glannacurragh Castle, in the King's County, and by her (who d. 22 June, 1791, had issue, Frances, m. 18 Oct. 1816, to Richard Donovan, Esq. of Ballymore, co. Wexford, and has issue.

Mary, m. in 1817, to Joshua Nunn, Esq. of St. Margaret's, co. Wexford, and has issue.

Mr. Westby m. 2ndly, Phœbie, third dau. of Richard Palmer, Esq. of Glannacurragh Castle, and has three sons, with three other daus., namely,

WILLIAM-JONES, b. 23 Nov. 1802, a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for Wicklow, and high-sheriff in 1827; m. 9 June, 1828, Catharine, dau. of Colonel Grogan, of Seafield, co. Dublin, and has issue,

1. WILLIAM-HENRY-JONES, b. 23 July, 1831, hapt. at Kiltegan, 23 Aug. following.
2. George-Jones, b. in York-street, Duhlin, 3 Jan. 1834, hapt. at Kiltegan.
1. Maria-Palmer.

Nicholas-Henry-Jones, b. 13 July, 1805, formerly a lieut. in the 2nd regiment of foot, and subsequently in the 1st Royal dragoons, married, and has issue.

WEBBE-WESTON, JOHN-JOSEPH, Esq. of Sutton Place, co. Surrey, captain in the 3rd Light Dragoons, of his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Austria, and Knight of the Order of Malta, s. his father in 1840.

Lineage.

This very ancient Saxon family derived its name from Weston, near Spalding, co. Lincoln. In the reign of HENRY I., flourished HAYLERIKEDE WESTON, SAXONICUS: he was father of ASCINUS DE WESTON, (living temp. STEPHEN,) who had a son, NIGEL, (whose uame appears to a deed in the time of HENRY II.) He was father of SIR LAMBERT DE WESTON, Knt., temp. King JOHN: by Alice, his wife, he had two sous, NIGEL, his heir; and William. The elder, NIGEL DE WESTON, (dead 41 HEN. III.,) left, by Margaret, his wife, two sons and two daus. The elder of the former, LAMBERT DE WESTON, (living 1285,) was father, by Matilda, his wife, of HENRY DE WESTON, living temp. EDWARD II.: his wife's name was Elena; by her he had four sons and five daus. The eldest son, SIR LAMBERT DE WESTON, Knt., living temp. EDW. III., had, by Catherine, his wife, a son and heir, HUMPHREY DE WESTON, of Fering, living in the reigns of EDWARD III. and RICHARD II. He m. 1st, Catherine, relict of John de Beaumont, and by her had two sons, JOHN, his heir, and Thomas; he m. 2ndly, a lady named Joan, and had by her two sons, of whom the elder was Robert Weston, of Prested Hall. The elder son of the first marriage, JOHN DE WESTON, of Boston, co. Lincoln, living temp. RICHARD II., m. a dau. of Welch, of Sudbury, and was s. by his son, PETER WESTON, of Boston, living temp. HENRY VI., who m. Agnes, dau. of John Dawney, of Escrick, co. York, and had three sous, EDMUND, his heir; John (Sir), Lord Prior of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem; and William (Sir), Knight of Rhodes. The eldest son, EDMUND WESTON, of Boston, temp. HENRY VII., m. Catherine, dau. and heir of John Camell, son and heir of Robert Camell, of Shapwick, co. Dorset, by Joan, his wife, sister and heir of John de Plessey, of Hedley, and had issue, two sons and two daus., RICHARD, his heir; William (Sir), Lord Prior of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem, in England, who d. 32 HENRY VIII.; Mabel, wife of John Dingley, Esq.; and Ann, wife of Sir Ralph Verney. The elder son,

SIR RICHARD WESTON, Knt., under-treasurer of England, Master of the Court of Wards and Liveries, temp. HEN. VIII., erected, in 1521, the splendid mansion of Sutton, on a demesne granted to him by the king in the previous year. He m. Ann Compton, widow, dau. and co-heir of Oliver Sandys, of Shire, co. Surrey, and had issue, FRANCIS, his heir; Catherine, wife of John Rogers, son and heir of Sir John Rogers, of co. Dorset; and Margaret, m. 1st, to Walter Denys, Esq., and 2ndly, to Richard Stanton, Esq. of Warvill, co. Berks. The son and heir,

SIR FRANCIS WESTON, of Sutton, co. Surrey, was made a knight of the Bath at the coronation of ANNE BOLEYN. He m. Anne, only dau. and heir of Christopher Pickering, and by her (who m. 2ndly, Sir Henry Knivet) he left at his decease, having been executed for an alleged criminal intercourse with ANNE BOLEYN, in 1536, a son and heir,

SIR HENRY WESTON, of Sutton, a Knight-Banneret under HENRY VIII. He m. Margaret, dau. of Sir Thomas Arundell, of Wardour, by Margaret, his wife, dau. of Lord Edmund Howard, third son of Thomas, Duke of Norfolk, and was father of

SIR RICHARD WESTON, of Sutton, who m. Jane, dau. and heir of John Dister, Esq. of Bergholt, in Essex, and was s. by his son,

SIR RICHARD WESTON, of Sutton Place, who was knighted at Whitehall, 27 July, 1622, an ingenious agriculturist and engineer in water-works, whom Aubrey quaintly describes as the inventor of "Tumbling bays and turnpikes for water." This Sir Richard was denounced as a recusant, temp. CHARLES I. He m. Grace, dau. and heir of John Harper, Esq. of Cholson, co. Hereford, and dying before 1669, was s. by his son,

JOHN WESTON, Esq. of Sutton Place, whose will, dated 8 July, 1684, was proved 30 Sept. 1690. By Mary, his wife, dau. of Richard Copley, Esq. of Gratton, in Surrey, he left two sons and three daus. The elder son,

RICHARD WESTON, Esq. of Sutton Place, whose will, dated 2 Feb. 1698, was proved 2 May, 1701. He m. Melior, dau. of William Nevill, Esq. of Holt, co. Leicester, and by her (who d. 13 Feb. 1716) had issue,

The Weylands, (whose name implies "wet land,") originally of Norfolk, to which county they subsequently returned during the last century, are a branch of the family which in the time of EDWARD I. held large possessions, with the manors of Wigenhalls, Oxburgh, Garboldisham, Shipden, &c., in that county, as appears from deeds cited by Blomefield. According to the pedigree by that historian, SIR HERBERT WEYLAND, living in the reign of HENRY III., left, by Beatrix, his wife, three sons, viz., SIR THOMAS DE WEYLAND, living in 1276, who d. s. p.; SIR WILLIAM WEYLAND, whose widow, Marsilia, m. John Brandon; and John Weyland. SIR WILLIAM WEYLAND was father of Sir Richard Weyland, (who had two daus. and co-heirs, Clemeuce, m. to Sir John Peyton, of Isleham, co. Cambridge, and Beatrix, wife of Heury Harvey,) and SIR NICHOLAS WEYLAND, who m. Julian, dau. and heir of Robert Burnel, of Oxburgh, co. Norfolk, and left issue, SIR WILLIAM, who d. in 1327, leaving, by his wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Lawrence de Ruston, a son, SIR ROBERT WEYLAND, who m. Cecily, dau. of Thomas de Baldock, who d. in 1384; and two daus., Joan, m. to Sir John de Ingaldesthorpe, of Norfolk, and Mariotta, m. to Robert Rokewood, of Suffolk. The issue of Sir Robert Weyland and Cicely Baldock was, SIR EDMUND WEYLAND, who d. s. p. in 1368, having m. Eleanor, dau. of John Wesenham; and SIR JOHN DE WEYLAND, living in 1374, who m. Burga, dau. and heir of John Sparrowe, of Yorkshire, and by her (who d. in 1392) had issue, Peter Weyland, who d. s. p., and ELIZABETH, dau. and heir, who m. John Harewell, of Warwickshire, whose dau. and heir, JOAN, m. in 1427, John Streche, of Devonshire, and thus ended the elder line of the Weylands.

SIR THOMAS WEYLAND, Lord Chief Justice of England, younger son of SIR WILLIAM WEYLAND, and Marsilia, his wife, was forced to abjure the realm, 17 EDWARD I., (1290,) when his estates were confiscated to the crown, on the plea of not duly administering justice in his exalted function. It seems that he left issue by his wife, Margery, a dau., Oliva, m. to Sir James Iketeshale, of Hedenham, Norfolk, and a son, THOMAS DE WEYLAND, living in 1303, from whom sprung RICHARD, who left two daus., Joan, and Cicely, m. in 1336, to Bartholomew de Burghersh, and JOHN WEYLAND, who had a dau., Maud, who m. John Pecock, and was buried at St. Albans.

The present family of Weyland are presumed to derive directly from this ancient house.

MARK WEYLAND, of St. Saviour's, Southwark, buried there, 1 May, 1688. He left, by Mary, his wife, a son, MARK WEYLAND, Esq., b. 14, and bapt. at St. Saviour's, 18 June, 1671, who was an eminent merchant in London, and became a Bank director in 1742. He was buried at St. George's, Botolph, 24 Aug. of the same year, leaving, by Ann, his wife, (who d. 26 Feb. 1744-5.)

Lineage.

This family, which derived its surname from "a fair lordship," situated upon the river Eden, is of great antiquity in the north of England. One of its members m. in the reign of King EDWARD I., the dau. and heiress of Hastings, and thereby acquiring the lands of Croglin, in Cumberland, (which remained in the family until the demise of Philip, Duke of Wharton, in 1731,) assumed her arms; ensigns which still continue with their descendant, the present RICHARD WHARTON-MYDDLETON, Esq. The great-grandson of the heiress of Hastings,

HENRY WHARTON, on the banks of the Eden, living in 1409, possessed of Croglin, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Thomas Musgrave, Knt. of Harela Castle, co. Westmorland, and had a son and successor,

THOMAS WHARTON, of Wharton, who held Croglin, and marrying the dau. of Sir Robert Lowther, Knt. of Lowther, had issue,

i. HENRY, of Wharton and Croglin, who was grandfather of Sir Thomas Wharton, Knt., governor of the town and castle of Carlisle, who, in 34 HENRY VIII., assisted by Sir William Musgrave, at the head of only three hundred men, gallantly resisted an incursion of the Scots, put them to the rout, and made prisoners of the Earls of Cassilis and Glencairn, with several other personages of note. In two years afterwards he marched into Scotland with the Lord Dacre, and was at the taking of Dumfries; for which, and other eminent services, he was summoned to parliament as Baron Wharton, 30 Jan. 1545. The lineal descendant and representative of this eminent nobleman, PHILIP WHARTON, sixth Lord, and second Marquis of Wharton, was created DUKE of WHARTON, 20 Jan. 1718. His Grace, who had been attainted for joining the Chevalier, d. in 1731, when all his honours, save the barony of Wharton, independently of the attainder, became extinct, (see BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage;) but, were that act repealed, the barony would then be vested in the existing co-heirs, one of whom is Charles Kemys-Tynte, Esq. of Halsewell House, co. Somerset.

ii. GILBERT, of whom presently.

The second son,

GILBERT WHARTON, m. Joan, dau. and heiress of Kirkby, of Kirkby Thore, co. Westmorland, and had issue,

JOHN, his successor.

Edward, rector of Wharton.

William.

Henry, rector of Kirby Thore.

Gilbert Wharton dying in 1436, was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN WHARTON, of Kirkby Thore, living in 1461, who m. Isabel, dau. and co-heir of John Lancaster, of Brampton, and relict of — De Fleming, by whom he had two sons, viz.,

i. JOHN, his successor.

ii. Christopher, of Offerton, co. Durham, whose great-grandson,

Christopher, of Offerton, marrying Alice Shepperson, left an only dau. and heiress, ELIZABETH WHARTON, who m. George Myddleton, Esq. of Silksworth, lineal descendant of Sir John Myddleton, of Belsea Castle, and thus conveyed the estate of Offerton to that family. Elizabeth Myddleton was s. at her decease by her second son, Francis Myddleton, Esq. of Offerton, who was himself s. by his son, Richard Myddleton, Esq. of Offerton, who m. Catherine, only dau. and heiress of Nicholas Conyers, of Bowbly and Eastington, a staunch royalist, by Jane, dau. of Sir William Lamhton, who was slain at Marston-moor, and had issue, 1. Francis, who d. s. p.; 2. Catharine, who m. Cuthbert Heron, Esq., and had a son, SIR THOMAS HERON, who assumed the surname of MYDDLETON, but dying without male issue in 1801, the estate passed to his cousin, Robert Wharton, Esq.; 3. Mary, who m. Robert Wharton, Esq., and her grandson was Robert Wharton-Myddleton, Esq. of Old Park.

John Wharton was s. at his demise by his eldest son,

JOHN WHARTON, of Kirkby Thore, counsel to Lord Clifford, 21 HENRY VII., who m. Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of — Fenwick, of Wallington, co. Northumberland, and had a son and successor,

GILBERT WHARTON, of Kirkby Thore, who m. 1st, Catherine, dau. of John Machell, Esq. of Crackenthorpe, co. Westmorland, and had a son,

JOHN, his successor.

He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of — Crackenthorpe, of Newbiggen, by whom he had, with other issue,

ANTHONY, of Rigwell Grange, from whom sprang the Whartons of Gillingwood, since extinct in the male line, but now represented through females by JOHN-HALL STEVENSON, Esq. of Skelton Castle, who has assumed, by royal licence the surname and arms of WHARTON, in place of those of Stevenson.

Gilbert Wharton d. in 1551, and was s. by his eldest son, JOHN WHARTON, Esq. of Kirkby Thore, who m. Cicely, dau. of Sir William Thornborough, of Selsall, co. Westmorland, and had issue, THOMAS, of Kirkby Thore, whose male line became extinct in 1664.

JOHN, of whom hereafter.

The second son,

JOHN WHARTON, of Winston, co. Durbam, was s. by his son,

JOHN WHARTON, Esq. of Winston, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Roger Hodgson, of Winston. This gentleman, who purchased Old Park, d. in 1628, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS WHARTON, M.D., of Old Park, b. in 1614. This gentleman was the celebrated Doctor Wharton, who continued to practise physic in London during the dreadful plague of 1665, and to whom King CHARLES II. granted, in consideration of his eminent services in attendance upon the sick of the foot-guards, an honourable augmentation to his paternal coat of arms, viz., a canton, or. Dr. Wharton, the friend and companion of Asbolme and Sir William Lilly, the astrologer, d. in 1674, leaving by his wife, Jane, dau. of William Aldridge, Esq. of London, an only surviving son and successor,

THOMAS WHARTON, M.D., of Old Park, who m. twice, but had issue only by his first wife, Mary, dau. of John Hall, of Durham. Dr. Thomas Wharton dying in 1714, was s. by his eldest son,

GEORGE WHARTON, M.D., of Old Park, at whose decease, without issue, the family possessions devolved upon his brother,

ROBERT WHARTON, Esq. of Old Park, mayor of Durham, who m. Mary, dau. of Richard Myddleton, Esq. of Offerton, in the county palatine, (refer to descendants of CHRISTOPHER, second son of JOHN WHARTON, of Kirkby Thore, living in 1461,) and had issue,

THOMAS, his successor.

Richard, mayor of Durham, b. in 1721, who m. Anne, dau. of William Lloyd, of Wales, and had a son,

Robert, in holy orders, chancellor of Lincoln cathedral, archdeacon of Stowe, and rector of Siggersthorpe, co. York. (See WHARTON OF DRYBURN.)

Tincage.

Whateman, or Hwateman, is a Saxon family of the Weald of Kent, and their Saxon name, Hwateman, is but little changed by the more modern orthography. Subsequently, they were amongst the independent yeomen of Kent, and remained until the 16th century near Romney and Hawkhurst, in both of which they had good property, and left much of the land to monasteries. In 1626, THOMAS WHATMAN, Esq., was recorder of Chichester, and a bencher of the Inner Temple. He m. Cicely, dau. and co-heir of John Sackville, of Dorking and Blechingley, cousin to the first Earl of Dorset, by Anne, dau. and heir of William Harvey, Esq. WHATTON OF LEICESTERSHIRE.

WHATTON, HENRY - WATKINSON, Esq. of Loughborough Park, co. Leicester, s. his father in 1815; m. Anne, dau. of Walter Daniel, Esq. of Hassall Hall, in the palatinate of Chester, a branch of the Daniels of Tabley, with whom he acquired a moiety of the manor of Hassall, Hassall Hall, with the demesne and other lands.

Lineage.

SIR WILLIAM DE WATONE, "Dominus Willielmus de Watuna," was Lord of Watone in the Vale, in Nottinghamshire, temp. HENRY I., where he had a strong castellated mansion, (the only vestige of which is an elevated mound encompassed by a fosse,) with jurisdiction over the lordship, and the vills and hamlets adjoining; he was the son of Rohert, who took the surname of De Watone, a younger son of Gautier de Tirel, Seigneur de Poix, in Picardy. Robert came over to England with the Duke of Normandy, and fought under his banner at the battle of Hastings, and at the time of the survey held Watone under Gislebert de Gand. Sir William, who was a benefactor to the Priory of Blythe, had two sons, I. Robert, de Watton, Lord of Watton in the Vale, whose dau. and heiress, Adeline, m. 1st, William de Heriz, and 2ndly, Adam de Newmarche, to whom she carried the manor in frank-marriage, and 2ndly, Walter de Watbon. The second son,

WALTER DE WATHON, Lord of Holesworde and Haslacton, ratione fratriagii, a knight of the second crusade, had two sons and a dau., I. RICHARD (Sir), his heir; II. Robert, whose son, Allan, was a witness to the grant of Margaret de Quincie, Countess of Winchester, of lands in Long Whatton, in Leicestershire, to Brian Fitzwilliam, her forester, temp. HENRY III.; III. Isabel, who m. a French knight, who s. to the manor of Haslacton, and took the surname. The elder son,

SIR RICHARD DE WHATTON, of Whatton in the Vale, a warrior in the crusade, temp. RICHARD I., carried Argent, a bend sable, between six cross-crosslets, gules; and by Margaret, his wife, the dan. of Ralph de Mandeville, and Amicia, his wife, dau. and co-heiress of Richard, eldest son of Nigel, Lord Lovetot, Baron of Sutho, in Huntingdonshire, had a dan., Amabilia, and five sons,

I. WILLIAM.*

II. SIR JOHN.

III. Bartholomew, Lord of Ridley, in Kent, 55 HENRY III.

IV. Brian, rector of Desford, in Leicestershire, 42 HEN. III.

V. Robert, who, with the Prior of Wymondley, in Hertfordshire, held the manor of Beeston, in Nottinghamshire.

The second son,

SIR JOHN DE WHATTON, high-sheriff of Hertfordshire and Essex, 25 and 26 HENRY III., Lord of Rokeburne, co. Southampton, m. Ella, second dau. and co-heir of John, Lord Biset, Baron of Combe Biset, in Wiltshire, and of East Bridgeford, near Whatton in the Vale, 25 HENRY III., by Alice, his wife, dan. and co-heiress of Thomas, Lord Bassett, Baron of Heddington, in Oxfordshire, and Philippa, his wife, dau. and co-heiress of William de Malhan, Baron of Nantwich, in Cheshire; which Lord Bassett was the second son and heir of Thomas, Lord Bassett, Baron of Heddington, temp. HENRY II., and Alice, his wife, dau. and co-heiress of Walter de Dunstanville, Baron of Castlecomhe, in Wiltshire, by Ursula, his wife, dan. and co-beiress of Reginald Fitzheury, Earl of Cornwall, and Baron of Castlecomhe, temp. HENRY I. Sir John, who had a third part of the baronial estate of Biset, charged his paternal bearing with three bezants: by Ella, his wife, he had two daus. (Cecilia, m. to — De Pierrepont; and Philippa, to Samson de Strelceye) and four sons, I. John; II. Richard (Sir); III. Roger; and IV. Henry, whose son, Richard, settled by fine, 3 EDWARD III., lands on Henry, his son, and Margaret, the dau. of Hugh Saunsfaile. John, surnamed Biset, the eldest son of Sir John and Ella, had a dau. and heiress, Margaret, who carried the Biset estate in marriage to the family of Romsey, and whose lineage, in a few generations afterwards, became entirely extinct. Sir Richard de Whatton, the second son of Sir John and Ella, a commissioner of array in the counties of Nottingham and Derby, 9 EDWARD II., was summoned in the same reign to attend the king against his rebellious barons at that time in arms; hence the castles and possessions of Thomas Plantagenet, Earl of Lancaster, their chief, who was beheaded at Pontefract, were committed to his custody, after which Sir Richard departed this life, s. p., and was interred in the church of Whatton in the Vale. An engraving of his effigy, in chain mail, cross-legged, with sword, mantle, helmet, and shield, and on it his bearing: a bend, between six cross-crosslets, charged with three bezants, is given by Stothard, in his Monumental Effigies of Great Britain; in the circumference of his tomb, this legend: "Priez pur l'alme de Sire Richard Whatton Chivalier." The third son of Sir John and Ella, his wife,

ROGER DE WHATTON, Lord of Scarrington, near Whatton in the Vale, 27 EDWARD I., m. Joan, relict of Robert Moryn, of Moryn Hall, and dau. and co-heiress of Oliver de Lovetot, Lord of Kercolston, lineal heir of Robert, the fourth son of Nigel, Lord Lovetot, by whom he had a dan., Maude, who m. into the baronial family of D'Ayncourt; and a son and heir,

RICHARD DE WHATTON, Lord of Scarrington, who sealed with a bend, between six cross-crosslets, charged Leicester.

Baginton Castle was memorable on the occasion of a joust between the Dukes of Hereford and Norfolk, 20 RICHARD II., the former nobleman being entertained there with great magnificence; whence he proceeded, on the morning of the contest, mounted upon his white courser, and armed at all points, to Coventry, the place of trial.

direct line, of Maldred Fitz Crinan, an eminent thane, and Alghith, his wife, heiress of Raby, granddau. of ETHELRED II. King of England. This John Whatton was at the battle of Bosworth-field, in which contest the two Kendalls, his companions in arms, were slain. He had issue, by Margaret, his wife, I. ROBERT, b. 14 EDWARD IV.; II. Geoffrey, b. 16 EDWARD IV., who had a good moated mansion at Mapplewell, in the forest of Charnwode; III. William; IV. Elizabeth; V. Ambrose; and VI. Mary. William, the third son, was the progenitor of a younger branch of the family, which came to and resided at Long Whatton: this William had a son, Robert, whose son, Robert, by Margaret, his wife, had seven children, the eldest of whom, George, was b. 16 Aug 1555, and d. in 1587, leaving two daus. and co-heiresses, Anne, and Elizabeth, who m. William Eyre, of Belton.

ROBERT WHATTON, of Long Whatton, the eldest son and heir of John, and Margaret, his wife, m. a dau. of William Kendall, of Smithesby Hall, in Derbyshire, and Twyeross, in Leicestershire; he was the grandson of John, son of Thomas Kendall and Elizabeth, his wife, dau. and heiress of Richard Fitzherbert, with whom he had the manor of Twyeross: Robert Whatton bore the same shield of arms as his father, quartered with De Heriz, and impaled: Gules, a fesse chequy, or and azure, between three eagles displayed, or, Keudall, and by her had a son and heir,

ROBERT WHATTON, of Long Whatton, 21 HENRY VII., and of Wykin Hall, Leicestershire, who m. Margaret, the niece of Alice Curteys, of Raunstone, in Leicestershire; this Robert Whatton d. at Long Whatton, and was interred there, 10 March, 1554, leaving, by Margaret, his only wife, who survived him, one dau., Elizabeth, and a son,

JOHN WHATTON, of Thurnby and Raunstone, who m. Senee Penburye, of Loseby, in Leicestershire, the granddau. of Elizabeth Penburye, of Northamptonshire, sometime the wife of William Waryn, and the dau. of William Ashby, of Loseby Hall, and Agnes, his wife, the dau. of Sir Richard Illingworth, chief baron of the Exchequer. By Senee Penburye, his wife, he had two sons,

- I. WILLIAM, of whom hereafter.

II. JOHN, of Raunstone, and of the Nework, Leicester, who was high-sheriff of Leicestershire, 14 CHARLES I., esquire of the body to the king, and in the commission of the peace: his first wife was Elizabeth Orpwood, widow, the niece of Sir William Herriek, of Beaumanor, by whom he had no issue; by his second wife, Catharine, the dau. of Thomas Babington, of Rothley Temple, in Leicestershire, he had three sons and three daus., I. Sir John Whatton, of Leicester Town, and East Sheen, in Surrey, who m. Margaret, the dau. of Sir Thomas Dacre, of St. Andrew-le-Mott, in Hertfordshire, and Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Sir Robert Austen, Bart. of Bexley, co. Kent, by whom he had two daus. and co-heiresses, Angelica and Margaret, who d. in their infancy. The Wykin and Buddon Wood estates came to this branch by a family arrangement, and the former was sold by Sir John Whatton in 1711, and the latter by his mother; from a monument in Cheshunt Church, he was interred there with his wife and children; 2. The Rev. Thomas Whatton, rector of Knaptoft and Moseley, in Leicestershire, whose dau. and heiress, Ann, m. Trafford Smyth, (his second wife,) by whom he had no issue; 3. The Rev. William Whatton, rector of Knaptoft and Moseley, on the decease of his brother Thomas, and who had the Thurnby estate, and d. a bachelor in 1735, possessed of considerable property; 4. Catharine Whatton, who m. the Right Rev. Thomas Hackett, Bishop of Down and Connor, (1672,) and whose dau. and heiress, Conway, m. Trafford Smyth, (his 1st wife,) by whom she had issue, Sir Trafford Smyth, of Upton, the fourth baronet, and three other sons, all of whom d. s. p., and one dau., Conway, ultimately heiress, who m. Hugh Mills, and by whom he had a dau. and heiress, Conway Mills, who was never married; 5. John Whatton d. in 1656, aged 70, and was interred in St. Martin's Church, at Leicester; his monument was placed in the middle of the north-west wall, and on it are the busts of himself and his two wives.

The eldest son and heir of John, and Senee, his wife,

WILLIAM WHATTON, of Newtown Linford, who had there a good family mansion, m. Ann, the dau. of Tydesley Monk, of Whitwick, in Leicestershire, and d. in 1612, aged 74 years, leaving by her a dau., Mary, who m. William Rolleston, of co. Nottingham, and a son and heir,

WILLIAM WHATTON, of Newtown Linford, one of the commissioners, appointed, in 1687, to inquire into and redress the grievances of all the charities in the county, who m. Lucy, dau. of Thomas Babington, Esq. of Rothley Temple, by Catharine, his wife, a dau. of Henry Kendall, of Smithesby Hall, and Helen, his wife, dau. of Henry Sacheverell, of Radcliffe, a descendant of the Sacheverells of Hopwell and the Curzons of Kedleston; William Whatton and Lucy, his wife, had issue, I. William, aged 40 in 1682, who m. and settled in London, and d. s. p.; II. Thomas, who d. in his infancy; III. John, aged 28 in 1682, who d. s. p.; IV. Matthew, who d. in his infancy; V. Babington; VI. Tyldesley, who d. in his infancy; VII. HENRY, a student at Trinity College, Cambridge; in 1683, of whom presently; VIII. Catharine, unm. in 1683. Babington Whatton, the fifth son, aged 24 in 1683, had three children only, 1. Babington, b. 15 July, 1690, and who d. s. p.: he was so named by the desire of his relation, the Rev. William Whatton, the rector of Knaptoft and Moseley, who intended him to have inherited the Thurnby estate; 2. Sence, b. 11 April, 1693; 3. Mary, b. 12 July, 1696, and interred 4 Feb. following. Sence Whatton, the eldest dau. and heiress, never married; she was interred 27 Oct. 1722, in her maiden name of "Sence Whatton;" hence the descendants in the elder line in succession of Henry Whatton, the student, became the next lineal heirs and heirs-general of the family. This gentleman,

THE REV. HENRY WHATTON, M.A. of Trinity College, Cambridge, was vicar of Humberstone, Leicestershire, in 1704; he was interred at Humberstone, and left (with other issue, by Mary, his wife) a son and successor,

HENRY WHATTON, of Nottingham, who m. Margaret, the dau. of Arundel Blunt, or Blount, Esq. of Nottingham, and Elizabeth, his wife, had a dau., Elizabeth, and two sons, HENRY and William,* who were educated for the University; he d. at Nottingham, and was interred in St. Peter's Church. The eldest son and heir of Henry and Margaret,

HENRY WHATTON, of Nottingham, was educated at Queen ELIZABETH'S Grammar School, at Mansfield; he espoused the interest of the Stuart family in their memorable struggle to recover the crown of England, and, after participating in the vicissitudes of that eventful period, retired to Mansfield, and was interred there. By Christiana James, his wife, he left issue, I. HENRY; II. William; III. James, who d. young, and I. Elizabeth. The eldest son, HENRY WHATTON, of Loughborough Park, in Leicestershire, m. Elizabeth, dau. and heiress of John Watkinson, grandson of the Rev. WHITAKER OF SYMONSTONE.

WHITAKER, THE REV. CHARLES, of Symonstone Hall, co. Lancaster, b. 26 May, 1815; s. his father, Charles Whitaker, Esq., 17 Feb. 1843.

Lineage.

At Symonstone has long been seated a branch of the family of Whitaker, of High Whitaker, near Padiham. The name of JOHN DE WHITACRE occurs as attesting a charter relating to Symonstone, 10 EDWARD II., 1317. His son, SIR ROGER, was living in 1326. RICHARD DE WHITACRE, probably son of Roger, granted lands in Symonstone, 7 EDWARD III., 1334. RICHARD WHITAKER, whose wife's name was Margaret, occurs 12 HENRY VI., 1434; HUMPHREY WHITAKER, 7 HENRY VIII., 1516; and MYLES, probably son of Humphrey, d. 43 ELIZABETH, 1601.

THOMAS WHITAKER, Esq., who seems to have been son of Myles, is mentioned in 1633. In 1642, he was high constable for the hundred of Blackburn. Being suspected of favouring the royalist party, he and his son, Miles, were taken prisoners, and confined in Clitheroe Castle, and the property was sequestered, but seems to have been restored in 1647. The document authorizing its restoration, (until further orders,) contains, among other signatures, those of Fleetwood, the parliamentary general, and Bradshaw, president of the high court of justice which tried King CHARLES. He was buried at Padiham, 13 Jan. 1647, leaving a son, MILES WHITAKER, Esq. of Symonstone, who was b. 23 July, 1612, and was buried at Padiham, 30 Aug. 1705, aged 94, having had issue (with two daus., i. Elizabeth, b. 2 Sept. 1672, and m. Henry Cockerof, Esq. of Mayroyde, co. York; ii. Ellen, b. 3 Aug. 1675, m. Robert Parker, Esq. of Alkincoates, co. Lancaster) one son,

THOMAS WHITAKER, Esq. of Symonstone, b. 18 June, 1670, appointed bailiff of Clitheroe about 1728. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. and heiress of James Emmot, Esq. of Emmot, near Colne, co. Lancaster, and by her (who was buried at Padiham, 25 Aug. 1703) had issue,

WHITBY OF CRESWELL.

WHITBY, THE REV. EDWARD, of Creswell, co. Stafford, formerly Minister of the Protestant Chapel at Nice, and Vicar of Seighford, co. Stafford, magistrate of the same county, b. in 1777; m. Mary, fourth dau. of Benjamin Way, Esq. of Denham, co. Bucks, by Mary-Anne, his wife, eldest dau. of the Very Rev. William Cooke, Provost of King's College, Cambridge, and Rector of Denham.

Lineage.

The family who bear this name, variously written Whitbie, Whitbe, Whitbye, Whitechey, and Whitby, believed originally to have migrated from Whitby, in Yorkshire, (whence came their appellation and arms, which contain, besides three pheasants' heads, three "Whitby stones,") have been settled in the co. Stafford for a considerable period; as on the occasion of a dispute between the Bishop of Lichfield and Sir John Aston, concerning the title of Hereditary Master and Ruler of the Game of Cannock Chase, we find, among many others, as Edward Lord Dudley; Abbot of Crokesden; John Mitton, sheriff of the county; William Wolsley, &c., the name of WILLIAM WHITBIE, annexed to a deed in favour of Sir John Aston, purporting to be a certificate from the principal gentry of Staffordshire, 11 HENRY VII., in 1495.

THOMAS WHITBIE, (probably the grandson of William,) b. in 1530, had, on the attaint of William, Lord Paget, 26 ELIZABETH, a grant passed under the great seal of England, of the "site of the manor of Haywood and Shutborowe, with the edifices and void lauds, where edifices were formerly built, within the precinct, walk, and circuit of the said site," &c., for a lease of three lives, his own and his two sons, John and Thomas, in succession, rendering one hundred pounds a year of lawful moules. The rent was, t. mp. 45 ELIZABETH, reduced to forty pounds a year. Thomas Whitbie served on the jury that condemned Sir Walter Raleigh in 1603, as armiger, consisting of four knights, four squires, or armigeri, and four gentlemen. By his wife, Jane, (who was buried at Colwich, 12 Nov. 1592,) he had three sons and one dau.,

JOHN, his heir.

Thomas, m. 22 May, 1592, Ursula Alley. He acted as magistrate for the co. of Stafford in 1620, d. about 1651.

Antony, who, through his son Robert, b. 22 Dec. 1604, was grandfather of Oliver Whitbie, canon-residentiary of Chichester Cathedral in 1664, and archdeacon of that diocese in 1670. By his wife, Ann, he had six children.

Jane.

Thomas Whitbie d. in 1615, when these leaseholds reverted to the crown, as we find JAMES I., in the 11th year of his reign, granting the fee-simple of these same lands to William Whitmore and Jonas Verdon, though in the 18th year of the same reign, JOHN WHITBY, the heir of Thomas Whitbie, bought them back again, (with the exception of the site of Shutborowe.) He resided at Haywood Abbey. He left two sons,

i. THOMAS, his heir.

ii. William, who resided at Lichfield; by his wife, Mary-Anne, (who was buried at Colwich, 24 Jan. 1671,) he had one dau.,

Anna, bapt. 24 July, 1644, and buried unm. at Colwich, 4 May, 1712.

The elder son and heir,

THOMAS WHITBY, of Haywood Abbey, m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Turton, of De la Oak House, West Bromwich, (ancestor of Sir Thomas Turton, of Starborough Castle, co. Surrey,) and Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of John Howe, of Walsall. He was buried at Colwich, 19 Feb. 1664, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS WHITBY, Esq. of Haywood Abbey, J.P., who m. Mary, dau. of Henry Howorth, Esq., and had five children, THOMAS, of whom presently; Elizabeth, m. William Green, Esq.; Mary; Anna, d. unm.; Margaret, m. Humphrey Perry, Esq., as his third wife, d. in 1712. Thomas Whitby was buried at Colwich, 5 Oct. 1711, and was s. by his only son,

THOMAS WHITBY, Esq., bapt. 16 May, 1673, high-sheriff of co. Stafford, 4 GEORGE I.: by his marriage with Jane, dau. of William Green, Esq., he acquired a portion of the Creswell estate, bequeathed her by her relation, H. Perry. They had eight children, six sons and two daus.,

- i. Thomas, bapt. 9 May, 1710, buried at Colwich, in 1716.
- ii. Humphrey, bapt. 16 May, 1712, fell down the hundred steps at Eton, in Feb. 1731.

Margaret-Ann.	Emma.	Lavinia.
Ellen.	Elizabeth-Hagen.	Laura.

Mr. White, whose patronymic was Driver, assumed, by Royal sign-manual in 1835, the surname and arms of White, on succeeding to the estates of his maternal uncle, Samuel White, Esq.

Lineage.

The family of White settled in Poole, co. Dorset, about the year 1550, and in 1553, Thomas White, Esq., merchant, represented that borough in parliament. His son, THOMAS WHITE, resided at Fittleford House, anciently the seat of the Latimers, and became possessed of several manors in the neighbourhood. He d. 28 Dec., 3 and 4 PHILIP and MARY, leaving by Anne, his wife, dau. of John Williams, Esq. of Herrington, Dorset, (besides two daus., Edith, m. Roger Stanton, Esq. of Horningham, Wilts; and Cicely, m. Hugh Bampfild, Esq. of Fittleford,) two sons, THOMAS and Bartholomew. The former, THOMAS WHITE, was father of THOMAS WHITE, who m. Frances, dau. and co-heir of Nicholas Martin,

Esq. of Athelhampton, by Frances, his wife, niece and co-heir of Sir Nicholas Wadham, founder of Wadham College, Oxford. After the Restoration, a portion of the lands of Fittleford was purchased by Thomas Freake, Esq. of Shinton, from Christopher White. The estate of Charlton Marshall came into the family from the marriage of CAPTAIN SAMUEL WHITE, with Edith, heir of John Watson, Esq. of Charlton Marshall. Their son, SAMUEL WHITE, Esq. of Charlton Marshall, d. in 1720, leaving by Mary Tavener, his wife, a son, MARK WHITE, who m. Mary Cox, and was father of SAMUEL WHITE, Esq. of Charlton Marshall, who m. his cousin, Mary, dau. of Samuel White, Esq., and Sarah Tucker, his wife, and dying in 1760, was s. by his son,

SAMUEL WHITE, Esq. of Charlton Marshall, who m. Anne Thomson, niece of Sir Peter Thomson, F.R.S. and F.S.A., of Poole, Dorset, high-sheriff of Surrey in 1745, and M.P. for St. Albans, whose ancestor m. the sister of Sir Francis Drake, the great circumnavigator. Mr. Thomas d. in 1791, leaving issue, SAMUEL, his heir.

Anne, m. William Driver, Esq., and had a son,

Mr. Whitgreave, who is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for Staffordshire, s. his father 19 Jan. 1816, and served the office of high-sheriff in 1837.*

Lineage.

"It is a reverend thing," says BACON, "to see an ancient castle or building not in decay, or to see a fair timber tree sound and perfect, how much more to behold an ancient family which hath stood against the waves and weathers of time!" In that of Whitgreave precisely such a family as the philosopher contemplates and so beautifully describes, is brought immediately before us; it has endured six hundred years at least in the uninterrupted possession of a fair estate, and the unsullied enjoyment of a fair name, full of honour as of years, and immortalized by the noble deed of preserving from his ruthless pursuers the royal refugee, after the disastrous issue of the battle of Worcester. The original abode of the Whitgreaves was at Burton, near Stafford, and they possessed in early times a village in the vicinity of their seat, from which they derived, or to which they gave, the name of Whitgreave.† The representative of the family, temp. HENRY VI., was

ROBERT WHITGREVE, of Burton, in Staffordshire, who d. 27th of that reign, leaving two sons, HUMPHREY, his heir; and Thomas, of Shropshire. The elder,

HUMPHREY WHITGREVE, Esq. of Burton, living 1 HENRY VII., m. the dau. of Egerton, of Wrynhill, co. Chester, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT WHITGREVE, Esq. of Burton, who m. Margery, dau. of Thomas Staunford, Esq. of Rowley, near Stafford, and had issue,

- i. HUMPHREY, of Burton, living in 1583, who was seised of the manor of Great Bridgeford, and other estates in Bradley, Ronton, and Gnosall. He m. Joyce, dau. of Anthony Astley, Esq. of Oslow, in Staffordshire, and had

* Mr. Whitgreave was the second catholic sheriff of Staffordshire since the repeal of the penal laws. It is worthy of notice, that the clergyman who officiated as his chaplain during the shrievalty was the Rev. Edward Huddleston, the collateral descendant of the loyal Father Huddleston, who with Mr. Whitgreave's ancestor, proved so instrumental in preserving the defeated and fugitive king (CHARLES II.) after the fatal battle of Worcester.

† In 1656, Sir Thomas Whitgreave, Knt., was chosen, with Sir Charles Wolseley, Bart., knight of the shire for Stafford.

with a dau., Elizabeth, wife of Walter Colman, Esq. of Cannock, a son, Robert, of Burton, living in 1614, who m. 1st, a dau. of Skrymshire, of Aqualate, and 2ndly, Jane, dau. of John Erdeswicke, Esq. By the latter he left several children.

Robert Whitgreve, of Burton, d. 3 Dec., 5 EDWARD VI. His second son,

THOMAS WHITGREVE, Esq. of Bridgeford, m. Dorothy, dau. of Robert Noel, Esq. of Hilcott, in Staffordshire, great-grandson of Thomas Noel, Esq. of Newbold, by Jane, his second wife, dau. of Roger Draycott, Esq. of Paynsley, and lineal descendant of Robert Noel, who founded the monastery of Ronton. By this lady Mr. Whitgreave left, at his decease, in Sept. 1590, five sons, Henry, Edward, Humphrey, THOMAS, and Walter: of whom, the fourth,

THOMAS WHITGREAVE, Esq., was of Moseley, co. Stafford. He m. Alice, dau. and co-heir of Henry Pitt, Esq. of Bushbury, in the same shire, and had issue,

THOMAS, his heir.

Joyce, m. to Richard Paylin, Esq. of Darnsdale, and had issue.

Dorothy, m. to John Spencer, of London.

Margaret.

Frances, m. to Jeremiah Harrison, M.D.

Elizabeth, m. to Sampson Erdeswick, Esq. of Hartley.

Sarah, m. to James Richardson, Esq. of Staggsend, Bedfordshire.

Mr. Whitgreave d. in Feb. 1643, was buried at St. Mary's, Stafford, and s. by his only son,

THOMAS WHITGREAVE, Esq. of Moseley, barrister-at-law, through whose devoted loyalty and careful contrivance, the life of King CHARLES II. was saved after the disastrous battle of Worcester: an authentic and most interesting memorial of his majesty's escape, and his concealment at Moseley, in the handwriting of the gentleman himself, is still preserved, and vividly characterizes those troubled times. Mr. Whitgreave, the preserver of King CHARLES* was named in the list of those on whom it was intended to have conferred the knighthood of the Royal Oak. He m. Lady Deggs, widow of Sir Simeon Deggs, and dying 14 March, 1702, aged 84, was buried at Bushbury, in Staffordshire, where, on a mural tablet of marble, appears the following inscription:—

WHITMORE OF APLEY.

WHITMORE, THOMAS-CHARLTON, Esq. of Apley, co. Salop, M.P. for Bridgnorth, b. 6 Jan. 1807; m. 11 April, 1833, the Lady Louisa-Anne Douglas, eldest dau. of Charles, Marquess of Queensbury, and has issue,

I. THOMAS-CHARLES-DOUGLAS, b. in 1839.

II. Walter-Henry, b. in 1842.

And five daus.

Mr. Whitmore s. his father in 1846.

Tincage.

The Whitmores were originally seated at Whytemere, on the north-west side of the parish of Bobbington, in the manor of Claverley,* in Shropshire. Subsequently they removed to Claverley, and acquired considerable possessions there.

JOHN, Lord of Whytemere, in the reigns of HENRY III. and EDWARD I., was father of

PHILIP DE WHYTEMERE, who d. in 1300, and was s. by his son,

JOHN DE WHYTEMERE, living in 1361, whose son,

RICHARD DE WHYTEMERE, of Claverley and Whytemere, m. Margery, dau. and heir of William Attetral, of Claverley, and dying about the year 1386, left a son and heir,

RICHARD DE WHYTEMERE, father of another

RICHARD DE WHYTEMERE, who m. a lady named Joan, but of what family is not ascertained, and was s. at his decease, in 1442, by his son,

THOMAS WHYTEMERE, of Claverley, who d. in 1483. His son,

RICHARD WHYTEMERE, left, at his demise, in 1504, by his wife, Agnes, who d. in 1522, a son and successor,

RICHARD WHITMORE, of Claverley, b. in 1495, who m. Frances Barker, and had two sons,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Thomas, ancestor of the Whitmores of Ludstone, in Claverley.

Richard Whitmore d. in 1549, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM WHITMORE, Esq. of London, merchant, who m. Anne, dau. of Mr. Alderman William Bond, of that city, and by her (who d. 9 Oct. 1615) had issue,

I. WILLIAM (Sir), his heir.

II. Thomas, d. s. p.

III. George (Sir), Knt. of Balme, in Hackney parish, Middlesex, a devoted royalist, and consequently persecuted during the civil wars. The republican newspaper, entitled Certain Information, for the 30th Jan. 1643, relates that Sir George Whitmore, alderman, and others, were carried by sea to Yarmouth, because they would not contribute monies for the defence of the king and parliament, as dethroning the sovereign was then called. Sir George was sheriff of London in 1621, and lord-mayor in 1631-2. He d. 12 Dec. 1654, leaving by Mary, his wife, dau. and heiress of Reginald Copcott, Esq., a son and dau., viz.,

* The post-mortem inquests, and other transactions, are still extant upon the ancient rolls of the manor of Claverley, deposited in an oak chest, hewn out of the solid tree, and standing in Claverley Church.

WILLIAM, of Balmes, who is characterized by Roger North, in his life of Lord Guildford, as "an humour-some old gentleman," and a curious anecdote is told by the same writer touching his resistance to the payment of tithes. (North's Life of the Lord Keeper, p. 48.) His son, WILLIAM WHITMORE, Esq. of Balmes, m. Frances, dau. and co-heir of Sir Thomas Whitmore, K.B. of Bridgnorth, but d. s. p. After the extinction of the branch at Balmes, their house degenerated into a cake-shop, under the name, and well known as Sir George Whitmore's.

ELIZABETH, who m. Sir John Weld, Knt. of Willey, and dying before 1677, left a dau.,

ANNE WELD, who m. Richard Whitmore, Esq. of Lower Slaughter, and her descendants became heirs of the body to Sir John Weld, on the death of that gentleman's great-grandson, George Forrester, Esq., s. p., in 1811.

- i. Elizabeth, m. to Sir William Craven, Bart.
- ii. Anne, m. to Francis Baber, Esq. of Chute, in Somersetshire.
- iii. Margaret, m. to Sir R. Grubham, Knt.
- iv. Mary, m. to Sir Charles Montague, Knt., brother to the Earl of Manchester.
- v. Frances, m. to Sir John Weld, of Arnolds, Middlesex, father of the purchaser of Lulworth.
- vi. Jane, m. to N. Still, Esq.

William Whitmore, of London, d. 8 Aug. 1593, and was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM WHITMORE, Knt. of London, b. 4 Nov. 1572, who purchased and entailed the estate of Apley, co. Salop, for which shire he was high-sheriff in 1620. Sir William m. 1st, Margaret, dau. of Rowland Moseley, of Hough, in Lancashire, and by her (who d. 31 Jan. 1608) had one son and a dau., viz.,

George, who d. s. p.
Anne, m. to Sir Edmund Sawyer, and d. in 1666.

He m. 2ndly, Dorothy, dau. of John Weld, Esq. of London, by whom (who d. in 1626) he had issue,

THOMAS (Sir), his heir.
William, d. young.

Richard, of Lower Slaughter, in the co. Gloucester, b. 21 June, 1614, sheriff of Gloucester in 1667, m. Catherine, dau. and co-heir of Robert Deards, Esq. of London, and by her (who d. 30 Nov. 1673) left at his decease, 20 Aug. 1667, a son,

Richard, of Lower Slaughter, who m. Anne, dau. of Sir John Weld, of Willey, and dying before 1694, left WILLIAM, of Lower Slaughter, of whom presently, as inheritor of Apley.

Anne, who m. Walter Jones, Esq. of Chastleton, and d. in 1738, leaving a son, HENRY JONES, Esq. of Chastleton, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of — Hancock, Esq., and was s. at his decease, in 1761, by his son, ARTHUR JONES, Esq. of Chastleton, the last male heir of the Jones' family, who d. 21 Nov. 1828, and bequeathed the Chastleton estate to his kinsman, JOHN-HENRY WHITMORE, Esq., on condition of his taking the name and arms of JONES.

To Sir William Whitmore and his brother, their learned countryman and relative, Thomas Gataker, inscribed a sermon, entitled, Jacob's Thankfulness, preached before the "Worshipful Company of Haberdashers," in which he calls these Whitmores "the two principals now left of the family." Sir William d. in Dec. 1648, and was s. by his son,

SIR THOMAS WHITMORE, of Apley, b. 28 Nov. 1612, who was created a Baronet, 28 June, 1641. He m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Alderman Sir William Acton, Knt., and by that lady (who d. in 1666) had issue,

- i. WILLIAM (Sir), his heir.
- ii. Thomas (Sir), of Bridgnorth and Buddwas, who m. Frances, dau. of Sir William Brook, alias Cobham, a lady distinguished for great beauty, by whom (who d. in 1690, he had three daus., viz.,
Elizabeth, who d. unm. in 1667.
Dorothy, m. to Jonathan Langley, Esq. of the Abbey, Shropshire, and d. in 1688.
Frances, m. 1st, to her cousin, William Whitmore, Esq. of Balmes, and 2ndly, to Sir Richard Middleton, of Chirk Castle, where she d. in 1694.
- i. Anne, m. to Sir Francis Lawley, Bart.
- ii. Elizabeth, m. to John Bennet, Esq. of Abingdon, Cambridgeshire.
- iii. Dorothy, m. to Sir Eliab Harvey, Knt. of Chigwell.

Sir Thomas d. in 1653, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM WHITMORE, second bart. of Apley, b. 8 April, 1627, who m. Mary, dau. of Eliab Harvey, Esq. of London, but dying without issue, in 1699, the baronetcy expired, while the estates passed to his kinsman,

WILLIAM WHITMORE, Esq. of Lower Slaughter, M.P. for Bridgnorth, who then became of Apley. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Roger Pope, Esq. of Wolstaston, in Shropshire, and sister to Bromwich Pope, Esq., to whom, on the death of Catherine Pope, his dau., in 1754, her issue became heirs. By this lady (who d. about 1736) he had five sons, viz.,

- i. William, who d. s. p. in 1710.
- ii. THOMAS (Sir), heir.
- iii. George, of Apley, who d. s. p. in 1775.

WHITMORE OF DUDMASTON.

WHITMORE, WILLIAM-WOLRYCHE, Esq. of Dudmaston, in Shropshire, b. in 1787; m. 29 Jan. 1810, the Lady Lucy-Elizabeth-Georgiana Bridgman, dau. of Orlando, first Earl of Bradford. Mr. Whitmore has represented Wolverhampton in parliament.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the ancient family of WHITMORE OF APLEY.

WILLIAM WHITMORE, Esq., (second son of Charles Whitmore, Esq. of Southampton, and grandson of William Whitmore, Esq., M.P., of Apley, by Elizabeth, his wife, sister of Bromwich Pope,* Esq. of Wolstaston, inherited, in 1774, at the decease of Lieut. Col. Weld, the estate of Dudmaston, co. Salop. He m. 1st, Frances, dau. of John Lyster, Esq., and by her (who d. in 1792) had issue, WILLIAM-WOLRYCHE, his heir.

Frances, m. 1st, to Captain Williams, R.N., who d. in 1830; and 2ndly, to Dr. Freer, physician, of Cheltenham.
Mary-Dorothea, m. to the Rev. F. Laing.
Catherine, m. to Major Houston, and d. in 1811.

Sophia.
Harriet, m. E. Isaac, Esq. of Boughton, Worcestershire, and has issue.

Anna-Maria, m. to the Rev. Edmund Carr, and d. in 1831.
Georgiana, m. Charles Babbage, Esq., and d. in 1827, leaving issue.

He m. 2ndly, Miss Mary-Louisa Thomas, by whom (who d. in 1813) he had one son and three daus., viz.,

* BROMWICH POPE, of Wolstaston, who served the office of sheriff for Shropshire in 1722, was tenth in descent from Walter Pope, of Tripleton, father of John Pope, admitted a Burgess of Shrewsbury, in 1504. John's son,

LEWIS POPE, was father of

ROGER POPE, Esq., who purchased, in 1544, from Richard Andrews, the sites of the three friaries in Shrewsbury. His grandson,

ROGER POPE, Esq. of Lincoln's Inn, was alderman of Shrewsbury. He d. in 1628, and was grandfather of

ROGER POPE, Esq., who had livery of the manor of Wolstaston, in 1606, as son and heir of Lucia, dau. of Thomas Edwards. His son,

ROGER POPE, Esq. of Wolstaston, equerry to CHARLES II., greatly improved the estate. This gentleman's horse, Diamond, won a race for two thousand guineas, at Wallesey, near Hoylake, and with part of the money Mr. Pope built a handsome house in the lower town of Bridgnorth, which is called "Diamond Hall," and on the cupola of which he placed for a vane a horse and rider. His son and successor was

ROGER POPE, Esq. of Wolstaston, who left a son,

BROMWICH POPE, Esq. of Wolstaston, sheriff of Salop in 1722, whose only dau. and heiress,

CATHARINE POPE, dying unm. in 1754, the Wolstaston estate passed to her cousin-german, Sir Thomas Whitmore, K.B. of Apley, son of her aunt, Elizabeth Pope, and is now enjoyed by William-Wolryche Whitmore, Esq.

John-Henry, who assumed the surname and arms of JONES, by sign-manual, dated 14 March, 1829, on inheriting the estate of Chastleton. (See JONES OF CHASTLETON.)

Janetta, d. unm. in 1826.

Eleonora, m. to John Fawks, Esq.,

Mary-Anne, m. Arndel Sparkes, Esq., and has issue.

Mr. Whitmore d. in Aug. 1816, and was s. by his elder son, the present WILLIAM-WOLRYCHE WHITMORE, Esq. of Dudmaston, M.P.

Arms and Crest—see WHITMORE OF APLEY.

Estates—In the co. Salop. The estate of Dudmaston was acquired by the Wolryches in marriage with the dau. and heiress of Hugh de Dudmaston, ninth in descent from Harlewin* de Butailles, to whom Herbert, son of Hologod, Lord of Castle Holgate, granted "one half hide of land, which is called Dodemaneston," before the year 1167. Andrew Wolryche, the son of William Wolryche, and the heiress of Dudmaston, was M.P. for Bridgnorth in 1435, and his grandson, Humphrey, appears in the list of the lords, knights, esquires, and gentlemen resident in Shropshire, anno 17 HENRY VII. He was father of John Wolryche, who m. "the fair maid of Gatacre," Mary, only dau. of Robert Gatacre, of Gatacre.

THOMAS WOLRYCHE, third in descent from John, was b. in 1598, educated at Cambridge, and admitted of the Inner Temple, 11 Oct. 1615. From 1620 to 1625, he represented Wenlock in parliament, and at the breaking out of the civil wars, joining the royal standard, was appointed by the king governor of Bridgnorth. For his unflinching loyalty, he suffered severely, being, according to his epitaph, twice sequestered from his estates, and "more than once" thrown into prison. The monumental inscription speaks likewise of "the lofty majesty of his person," and states, "that to his pre-eminent skill in heraldry he added the more solid studies of history and mathematics. At length our Ulric, (such was the original name,) was summoned to the assembly of the Saints on the feast of St. Ulric, 4 July, 1668, having been honoured with the successive titles of knight and baronet." His great-grandson, and last male descendant, SIR JOHN WOLRYCHE, Bart., sheriff of Salop, in 1716, was accidentally drowned in the Severn, near his own house, in 1723. After that event, the Dudmaston estate was enjoyed by Sir John's sister, Mary Wolryche, dau. of Elizabeth, dau. of George Weld, Esq. of Willey, who survived her husband sixty-four years, dying in April, 1765. Lady Wolryche was s. at Dudmaston by her brother, Lieut.-Col. Thomas Weld, at whose demise, in 1774, the property passed to William Whitmore, Esq., great-grandson of Richard Whitmore, Esq. of Lower Slaughter, by Anne, dau. of Sir John Weld, of Willey, and aunt to the colonel.

Seat—Dudmaston Hall, Salop.

WHITTAKER OF NEWCASTLE COURT.

WHITTAKER, JOHN-ABRAHAM, Esq. of Newcastle Court, co. Radnor, b. in 1802, formerly Capt. in the 28th regt., is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for co. Radnor, and s. his father, 13 April, 1843.

Lineage.

ABRAHAM WHITTAKER, Esq. of Stratford, co. Essex, descended from a family of long standing in the cos. of Lancaster and York, m. Penelope, dau. of John Tempest, Esq. of Cranbrook, co. Kent, a cadet of the ancient houses of Tempest of Bracewell, Broughton, Tong, &c., and had issue, Abraham, of Lyston House, high-sheriff of the co. Hereford in 1794, commandant of the county yeomanry cavalry, m. Anne, dau. and co-heir of Doctor Cain, M.D., of Hereford, and d. s. p. in 1841, leaving the bulk of his property to his youngest nephew.

Penelope, m. Capt. Finey, and d. s. p.

Diana, m. Sir James-Hamlyn Williams, Bart. of Edwinstford and Clovelly, and was mother of the present bart.

* Harlewin is a name of Scandinavian origin, and is the same as Herlechin. Herlechin, or Harlewyn, or Harlekin, (the derivation of the Arlechino of the Italian comedy, and of the Harlequin of the English pantomime,) was a knight of France, who distinguished himself, under the banners of Charles Martel, against the Saracens, and afterwards subsisted by pillage. Upon his death, says the legend, he would have been doomed to eternal pains for his crimes; but in consideration of his meritorious prowess against the Infidels, his punishment was reduced to an obligation to roam over the earth by night for a certain period, with those of his lineage, and endure the severity of penance.

This tradition is mentioned in the history of Richard sans peur, Duke of Normandy, and quoted by Mr. Tyrwhitt, in his glossary on Chaucer.

Charlotte, m. John, first Earl of Strathrooke, and was mother of the second earl.
Marianne, m. Sir Thomas Gooch, Bart. of Benacre Hall.

The second son,

JOHN WHITTAKER, Esq. of Newcastle Court, J.P. and D.L., and high-sheriff of Radnorshire in 1809, m. Mary, dau. of Francis Garbett, Esq. of Huntington Park, co. Hereford, by Elizabeth, his wife, only child of John Walsham, Esq. of Knill Court, in the same shire, whose ancestors had been lords of Knill in direct descent from parent to child for upwards of six hundred years: by this lady he had issue, JOHN-ABRAHAM, his heir.

WHITTINGHAM OF POTTON, CO. BEDFORD.

The late REV. RICHARD WHITTINGHAM, Vicar of Potton, son of Samuel Whittingham, of Minshul Vernon, in the parish of Middlewich, co. Chester, by Hannah, his wife, dau. of Joseph and Mary Nixon, of Minshul Vernon, m. Mary, dau. of Peter Gaussen, by Anna-Maria, his wife, dau. of Samuel Bosanquet, of Forest House, co. Essex, and had seven children, of whom four still survive, viz.,

- I. SAMUEL-WHITTINGHAM, D.D., Rector of Childrey, co. Berks, late Senior Fellow of Corpus Christi College, Oxford.
- II. John-Whittingham, of Leytonstone, m. Ann, dau. of Robert and Mary Cumming, of Great Barford, co. Bedford, and has issue.
 - I. Marianne.
 - II. Emma, m. to James Morton, of Huntingdon, and has issue.

The Rev. Richard Whittingham possessed an estate at Leytonstone, co. Essex. He d. 14 June, 1845, and although in the eighty-seventh year of his age, had preached twice on the Sunday previous to his death, with his usual surprising energy. His death was deeply deplored, and his loss universally felt by his parishioners. Mr. Whittingham had resided at Potton, or in the neighbourhood, for more than sixty-two years, part of which time he was curate to the Rev. John Berridge, of Everton, and for the last thirty-nine years he had been Vicar of Potton, during the whole of which lengthened period he stood renowned for his Christian integrity and exemplary piety, his urbanity of manners, catholicity of spirit, liberality of sentiment, and moderation of opinion; his unabating zeal and activity in the cause of the Redeemer, and his strenuous exertions faithfully to perform the important duties which devolve upon a minister of the Gospel. He actively distinguished himself in the formation of the various Bible Societies in the county, for one of which he acted as secretary to the time of his death. In acts of charity, he was foremost; in him the poor have lost a kind benefactor, and all classes of his parishioners a valuable counsellor and friend. Mr. Whittingham is believed to be the last, or nearly so, of that race of divines who were instrumental in promoting that revival which took place when the church was sunk into a state of spiritual slumber and indifference. The only works of Mr. Whittingham published were the "Life and Works of the Rev. John Berridge, and an Appendix;" a "Selection of Psalms and Hymns, with many new Compositions," some Sermons and Tracts. In the year 1839, Mr. Whittingham was publicly presented with an elegant silver tea and coffee service, subscribed for by 640 of his parishioners, in testimony of his unwearied exertions in the discharge of all the duties of a Christian minister, friend, and neighbour. The portrait of him which was published was dedicated to the Lady Jane Pym. Mr. Whittingham has left his landed property, part of it to Dr. Whittingham, and part of it to John Whittingham, Esq.

WIDDRINGTON OF NEWTON AND HAUSLEY.

WIDDRINGTON, SAMUEL-EDWARD, Esq. of Newton and Hausley, co. Northumberland, Capt. R.N., m. Dorothy, second dau. of Alexander Davison, Esq. of Swarland.

Lineage.

The Widdringtons of Hausley are descended from the family of that name, which was settled at Widdrington previous to the Norman Conquest. As usual in those times, the name was written in various ways, Udrington, Wdrtrington, Woderington, Woodrington, Widtrington, temp. EDWARD III., and finally Widdrington. After the Conquest, when Gospatrick, the Saxon Earl of Northumberland, ancestor of the present Earl of Zetland, retired into Scotland, the owner of Widdrington remained, like most others, and the property was attached as a manor to the barony of Whalton, near Newcastle. In the middle of the 12th century, Bertram de Widdrington, the possessor, was challenged in his right of tenure, by one Tascha, and the case being referred to Fitzwilliam, the baron, ancestor of the present Earl Fitzwilliam, wager of battle was ordered to decide the question. The lists being formed, the whole barony was summoned to witness the combat. Tascha or his champion did not appear, and being pronounced "craven," the manor was confirmed to the holder, and the deed witnessed by the principal proprietors in the barony.

The first great accession to the property was made by marriage, about 1300, with a co-beiress of Swinburne, ancestor of the Swinburnes of Capheaton, whose sister m. John de Strivelyn, an ancestor of the Myddletons of Belsay Castle. After this, the family rose rapidly to opulence and importance, its members filling many of the most important offices in the county, and scarcely a transaction of war or peace occurs in those ages in which some of them were not concerned. Amongst the more curious memorials, the ballads of "Chevy Chase" and the "Hermit of Warkworth" have transmitted their names to posterity. When the troubles broke out in the time of CHARLES I., SIR WILLIAM WIDDRINGTON, the head of the family, was member for the county, and at one time speaker of the House of Commons, but he was soon committed by his royalist opinions, and espousing the cause of the king, was made a peer, and fell in the battle at Wigan, in 1651, refusing to take quarter when overpowered by the parliamentary forces. His portrait is thus drawn by Clarendon:—

"His lordship was one of the goodliest persons of that age, being near the head higher than most tall men, and of a very fair fortune, and one of the four made choice of to be about the person of his son, the prince, as gentleman of his bedchamber, when he first settled his family, and his affection for the king was most remarkable. As soon as the war broke out, he was one of the first who raised hotb horse and foot at his own charge, and served eminently under the Marquis of Newcastle, to whom he was nearly allied, and for whom he had a particular and entire friendship."

This chivalrous attachment to the ill-fated race of Stuart was unfortunately inherited by his descendants; and William, the third baron, with his brothers, engaged in the Derwentwater rebellion of 1715. He was taken, tried, and condemned, though not executed; but the estate was confiscated and sold, and a family, notwithstanding this ill-judged and foolish enterprise, entitled to very different treatment, ejected from a seat they had held with honour for so many ages. In this harsh and cruel transaction, in which cupidity appears to have been the principal mover, the parliament were more culpable than the sovereign, who is generally blamed for it. The estate of Stella, near Newcastle, which had been recently acquired by marriage with the Tempests, was saved from the wreck, and is possessed by Mr. Towneley, of Lancashire, by bequest of the last

Lord Widdrington, who was hurried at Helmsley, in Yorkshire, in 1741. The precise period at which the Hausley branch separated from the main line is at present unknown, but it was probably in the 15th century, about the time at which the Plessy and Blayden family, with which they were closely connected, in 1500, separated. About this time, the line from which the Riddells of Felton and of Cheesburn are descended, also divided from the main stock; and many other scions, none of which now remain, were planted in various parts of the northern counties.

NATHANIEL WIDDRINGTON, the last male of the direct line of Hausley, d. in 1780, leaving his estates to his grandnieces, descended from his sisters, one of whom m. Mr. Brown, a gentleman in Northumberland, and the other an officer from Westmorland, called Teasdale. Each had a daughter. The life interest was left to a distant connexion of the same name, who, not being tied sufficiently up, engaged in hanking speculations, and materially injured the property, entailing a chancery suit on his successors. At his death, in 1797, the property returned to the rightful heirs, one of whom, Sarah Brown, had married the Rev. Joseph Cook, of Newton; the other, Col. Tinning, afterwards General Sir D. Widdrington. By the entail, the females in possession were required to take the name of WIDDRINGTON, and the whole property has, by recent purchase, passed to the Northumberland branch.

Cook of Newton.

The ancestor of this family came into Northumberland immediately after the civil wars, with a considerable fortune, and purchased estates at Newton, Low Newton, Braimbaugh, Blakemore, Togstone, Easfield, &c., which instead of concentrating, he divided amongst five of his sons, providing the rest of his numerous family, no less than seventeen in number, with money portions. His origin is not known, but, from his wearing the arms, which was not only unusual, without authority, at that time, but subjected the party to a penalty, and one other circumstance, there is no doubt he was descended from the Cooks of Gidea Hall, in Essex, an ancient family now extinct. His name appears as trustee in a settlement of the Hausley estates in 1690. The name of Cook, written Coke and Cok, appears at Newcastle, soon after the CONQUEST, and a family of the name long resided at Stanington, but the circumstances above mentioned, and the total absence of all tradition respecting the Northumberland origin of this gentleman, leave little doubt that the fact is as above stated.

His grandson, SAMUEL, b. in 1722, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Parker, Esq., and had issue, JOSEPH, the late possessor, d. in 1844; Samuel, a lieutenant-col. in the 8th dragoons, d. at the Cape of Good Hope, in 1800; and Mary, d. at Newcastle, in 1840.

JOSEPH COOK, M.A., of Newton, m. Sarah Brown, as before mentioned, and had issue,

- I. SAMUEL-EDWARD, present proprietor.
- II. John, d. at school, in 1800.
- III. Joseph, in holy orders, d. in the Holy Land in 1825.
- I. Frances, m. Shalcross Jackson, Esq. of Cheshire, and had issue, 1. Shalcross-Fitzherbert, d. in 1824; 2. Widdrington, was killed by a fall from his horse, in 1845; 3. Shalcross-Fitzherbert; 1. Elizabeth, m. James Smith Barry, Esq. of Marbury and Foaty, and has issue, Arthur-Hugh and James-Hugh; and 2. Frances-Isabella.
- II. Elizabeth, d. in 1820.

WIGHTWICK OF GREAT BLOXWICH.

WIGHTWICK, STUBBS, Esq. of Great Bloxwich, co. Stafford, and of Capel Court, Cheltenham, co. Gloucester, b. 31 Oct. 1794; m. 2 May, 1829, Dorothea, third dau. of Richard Fryer, Esq. of The Wergs. Mr. Wightwick is a magistrate for the counties of Gloucester and Stafford, and deputy-lieut. for Staffordshire.

Lineage.

This ancient family, which derives from the same source as the Wightwicks of Surrey, Berks, and Coventry, has been seated for centuries in the counties of Stafford and Salop: in Domesday Book, it is recorded that a place called Westewike is a member of the lordship of Tettenthal Regis, co. Stafford, and hath given name to a family of Wyghtwiche, Wightwyche, or Wightwick. The first is William de Wictewike, who had a dau., Julian, mother of Osbertus de Wictewike, 30 EDWARD I. This Osbert had a son, Simon de Witewike, and he a son, John, from whom William de Wightwyke, 42 EDWARD III.

JOHN DE WIGHTWICKE, living 20 RICHARD II., left, by Agnes, his wife, a son,

JOHN DE WIGHTWICKE, whose will bears date 1420. By Alicia, his wife, he had two sons, JOHN, his heir; and WILLIAM, ancestor of the WIGHTWICKS of Coventry. The elder son,

JOHN WIGHTWICK, m. Joanna, dau. of Brooke, of Lichfield, and was father of

HENRY WIGHTWICK, who m. Thomasina Milson, of the Barnhurst, and had issue, JOHN, his heir; and Thomas, whose son RICHARD WIGHTWICK, of Islesley, co. Berks, founded Pembroke College, Oxford. The elder son,

JOHN WIGHTWICK, Esq., m. Margaret, dau. of Brooke, of Blakeland, and dying in 1529, left three sons, by the eldest of whom,

HUMPHREY WIGHTWICK, Esq., he was succeeded. This gentleman m. Margaret, dau. and heir of Jenks, Esq., by his wife, the dau. and heir of Grosvenor, Esq. of Salop, and dying in 1594, left a son,

FRANCIS WIGHTWICK, Esq., who m. Margaret, dau. of Moreton, Esq. of Engleton, co. Stafford, and had issue, ALEXANDER, his heir; and Samuel, whose youngest son, Francis, was of Wombridge, co. Berks. Mr. Wightwick d. in 1616, and was s. by his son, ALEXANDER WIGHTWICK, Esq., who m. 1st, Anna, dau. of John Hunt, Esq. of Shrewsbury, by whom he had (with two daus., Sarah, wife of Richard Bracegirdle, Esq. and Margaret, wife of Edward Jorden, Esq.) two sons: the younger, Samuel, d. unm. in 1684; the elder, FRANCIS, was his father's heir. Mr. Wightwick m. 2ndly, Alicia, dau. of John Lane, Esq. of Bentley, by Jane, his wife, dau. of Sir Edward Lyttleton, Knt., and had by her two daus., Jane, who d. unm.; and Maria, wife, 1st, of James Beverly, Esq., and 2ndly, of Edward Dohson, Esq. Alexander d. in 1658, and was s. by his son,

FRANCIS WIGHTWICK, Esq. of Wightwick and Tunstall, who m. Eliza, dau. of Richard Pyott, Esq., and had issue, FRANCIS, of Tunstall, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Walter Fowler, Esq. of Pendeford.

John, of Farwell, who m. Mary, another dau. of Walter Fowler, Esq., and d. in 1703, leaving issue.

RICHARD, of whom presently.

Elizabeth, m. to Rowland Fryer, Esq. of Thornes, co. Stafford.

The third son,

RICHARD WIGHTWICK, Esq., m. Martha-Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Willet, Esq. of Fulham, co. Middlesex, and was father of

WILLIAM WIGHTWICK, Esq. of Albrighton, b. in 1647, whose name appears among the first six burgesses to the renewal, by CHARLES II., in 1662, of the charter of incorporation to Albrighton. He m. Catherine Luttyge, and had an only son,

THOMAS WIGHTWICK, Esq., who m. 18 May, 1714, Ann, dau. of Tristram, Esq., and d. 15 July, 1754, leaving three sons, WILLIAM, father of Thomas Wightwick, Esq. of Sutton House, Albrighton.

THOMAS, of whom presently.

Tristram, d. unm.

The second son,

THOMAS WIGHTWICK, Esq. of Bilbrook, b. 9 Jan. 1719, m. Margaret, dau. of Thomas Devey, Esq. of Kingslow, co. Salop, and dying 13 Oct. 1798, left an only son,

THOMAS-DEVEY WIGHTWICK, Esq., b. in 1758, who m. Lucy, youngest dau. of Humphrey Stubbs,* Esq., and one

* The family of Stubbs, a very ancient one in the co. of Stafford, resided on an estate at Water Eaton, in the parish of Penkridge, time immemorial; their seat was formerly of the four co-heiresses of their uncle, Matthew Stubbs, Esq. of Water-eaton and Bloxwich, co. Stafford, and dying 25 March, 1828, left (with a dau., Lucy, wife of Samuel-Hall Lord, Esq. of Pool Castle, in the Island of Barbadoes) an only surviving son and heir, the present STUBBS WIGHTWICK, Esq. of Great Bloxwich.

WILBERFORCE OF YORKSHIRE.

WILBERFORCE, WILLIAM, Esq. of Kingston-upon-Hull, co. York, b. in 1798; m. Mary-Fanny, dau. of the Rev. John Owen, rector of Paglesham, in Essex, and has one surviving son,

WILLIAM, b. in 1820.

Mr. Wilberforce s. his father in 1833.

Lineage.

The family of Wilberforce has been established in Yorkshire from a very remote period. In the reign of HENRY II., Igerus de Wilberfosse served in the Scottish wars under Philip de Kyme, with a dau. of whose powerful house he had intermarried. The township of Wilberfoss, eight miles east of York, gave him a mansion and a name; and his property extended to the neighbourhood of Stamford Bridge, a spot then famous for the recent battle between Harold and Tosti, the last victory of the last Saxon monarch.

surrounded by a moat, but of late years the moat has been filled up, and the house modernized. The late

(co-heiresses of their uncle, Matthew Stubbs, Esq. of Water-eaton, from whom they inherited large estates in Penkridge, Walsall, Wolverhampton, Palsall, Shalfield, and Great and Little Bloxwich, co. Stafford,) viz.,

† The following genealogy, down to the year 1612, is copied from The Visitation of Yorkshire, made by Robert Glover, Somerset Herald, &c., 1584 and 1585, and from the Visitation of R. St. George, &c., 1612.

At Wilberfoss, the family was fixed for many generations, until after a gradual decline in wealth and numbers, it disappeared from the place about a century ago. About the middle of the 16th century, Thomas Wilberfoss, the son of William Wilberfoss, of Wilberfoss, by his second marriage, settled in the neighbouring town of Beverley.* His son appears in the Visitation of 1612, as William Wilberfoss, of Brigham; and here and at Beverley, the younger branch rose into importance as the parent stock decayed.†

WILLIAM WILBERFOSS, mayor of Beverley in 1642, at the opening of the great rebellion, son of William, and grandson of William, of Brigham, mentioned in the Visitation of 1612, d. in 1655, leaving a son.

WILLIAM WILBERFOSS, Governor of Beverley in 1674, who was displaced by the charter of JAMES II., in May, 1684, but re-chosen alderman, and restored to his seniority, 7 March, 1699. He d. in 1703, leaving three sons, Thomas, SAMUEL, and Ralph. The second of whom,

SAMUEL WILBERFOSS, of Beverley, m. Anne, dau. of Robert Davyc, Esq. of York, and heiress of her brother, Robert Davyc, Esq. of Markington, (who m. Cordelia, dau. of Sir J. Hoghton, of Hoghton, but d. s. p.) By this lady he left a son and successor,

WILLIAM WILBERFORCE, Esq. of Kingston-upon-Hull, who continued in the Baltic trade, though, beside his patrimonial fortune, he inherited a considerable landed property from the Davyc family. He was a man of much repute for talent and integrity; and the settlement of Joseph Milner in the Grammar School at Hull, is an abiding record of his well-directed influence. He m. Sarah, dau. of John Thornton, Esq. of Hull, and had issue,

Of William Wilberforce, the following anecdote is given in the biography of his distinguished grandson. "The old man had seen much of life; and one of those tales of travel with which he charmed his grandson, is even yet preserved. He had been admitted to the intimacy of the Duke of Marlborough, then commanding the allied armies on the Continent; and was invited by that gentleman to witness, from the safeguard of a neighbouring eminence, the incidents of an approaching battle. Through reluctance to overstep, from idle curiosity, the strict line of professional duty, enforced, perhaps, by a careful regard to his personal safety, the offer was prudently declined by the grateful merchant. Upon a more fitting occasion, he displayed some military ardour when the arsenal of Hull was prepared for an expected attack in the year 1745." His younger son,

Lincage.

The house of WILBRAHAM, one of the most influential and ancient in the co. of Chester, derives its name from the manor of Wilbrabam, in Cambridgeshire, where a family bearing the local name was settled about the time of HENRY II.

SIR RICHARD DE WILBURGHAM, Lord of Wymincham, was sberiff of Cbeshire in 43 HENRY III. He m. 1st, Margery, dau. and co-heiress of WARIN VERNON, Baron of Shipbrook, by whom he had one son, who d. s. p., and two daus., the wives of Richard de Lostock, and of Robert de Winnington. These ladies were eventually co-heirs to their mother. Lineage.

CARADOG VREICHVRAS, or Cradoc Fraich Fras, (which means Cradoc with the strong arm,) lord of Gloucester, in right of his father, was grandson of Brychan Brecheinio, prince and lord of Brecknock, a contemporary with King ARTHUR, who lived about the year 490, one of the knights of his Round Table, and lord-keeper of "y Castell Dolorus," or the Dolorous Tower. Cradoc was lord of Brecon after the death of all the sons of Brychan, his grandfather: he was also lord of Fferregg, or Fferlex, which lies between the Severn and Wye; he obtained it by conquest, previous to his entry into Wales. The surname of Fraich Fras is now known in English as Armstrong and Strongtharm. Cradoc was son of Lliur Merini, or Molwynen, Lord of Gloucester, by Gwen, or Gwenllion, dau. of Brychon Brecheinio. His ensign upon his shield in the field of battle was, "Sa., a chev., between three spear-heads, points imbrued, gu." Cradoc had six sons by his wife, Tegau Eurfron, sole heiress of King PEL-LINOR, or Pyll Mawr. Cradoc Fraich Fras was s. by his eldest son and heir,

CAWRDAFF, King of Fferregg and Brecknock, who was direct ancestor of GWYNNGY AP GWENDDY, King of Fferregg and Brecknock, who left by his wife two sons, viz., Hydd Hwgan or Huganus ap Gwynngy, King of Fferregg and Brecknock, (defeated by Elfeda,) eldest son, (whose son, Dryffin, or Sir Driffen ap Hwgan, Kiug of Fferregg and Brecon, lost Fferreg to Elystan Glodrydd, who became Prince of Fferregg. Sir Driffen's son, Maenyrch ap Dryffin, Lord of Brecon, was founder of many distinguished families in Wales, one of whom was the ancient family of Sais or Seys, of Boverton Castle, in the parish of Llantwitt Major, Glamorganshire, and of the Gaer, in the parish of St. Woollos, co. Monmouth.)

EINION AP GWYNNGY, (second son,) and brother of Huganus ap Gwynngy, left by his wife a son and heir, RHYS GOCH, or the Red-haired, Lord of Ystradyw, (now the hundred of Crickhowell, in Brecknockshire,) who adopted for his arms, "Arg., a wyvern's head, erased, vert, holding in his mouth a hand, couped, gu." He m. Joan, dau. of Cadwgan ap Elystan Glodrydd, Prince of Fferregg, and left a son and heir, Mary.

Annette-Georgina.

Mr. Hanbury-Williams is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for the co. of Monmouth, and s. his uncle in 1819.

Tincage.

This family as well as that of Pont-y-pool Park, derives from a common ancestor with the ancient house of Hanbury, of Hanbury, co. Worcester, of which was ROGER DE HANBURY, who lived at Hanbury in 1125, fifty-nine years after the CONQUEST. From him descended JEFFRY HANBURY, father of HENRY DE HANBURY, ancestor of JOHN DE HANBURY, who m., and left three sons,

I. WILLIAM, of Hanbury Hall, co. Worcester.

II. JOHN, of Benhall, or Beanhall, in the manor of Feckingham, co. Worcester, from whom HANBURY, of Kelmash, co. Northampton, now represented by Lord Bateman.

III. RICHARD.

The third son,

RICHARD HANBURY, was father of

RICHARD HANBURY, Esq., who m. 1st, Catherine, dau. of — Smyth, Esq., and had by her a son, RICHARD, of Elmly Lovet, co. Worcester. He m. 2ndly, Margery, dau. of — Tynton, Esq., and had issue, Henry, ancestor of the Hanburys of co. Southampton, of whom was Thomas Hanbury, Esq. of Redcross-street, London, and of Buriton, co. Hants, auditor. Mr. Hanbury was s. by his son of his first marriage,

RICHARD HANBURY, Esq. of Elmly Lovet, co. Worcester, who m. a dau. of — Basset, Esq., and had issue, I. JOHN, of Elmly Lovet; II. Thomas; and III. William. Mr. Hanbury was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN HANBURY, Esq. of Elmly Lovet, co. Worcester, who m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of John Brode, Esq. of Elmly, and had issue,

RICHARD, of London, goldsmith, afterwards of Riding Court, in the parish of Datchet, Bucks, also of Elmly Lovet, co. Worcester. He m. Alice, dau. of Jasper Fisher, Esq., one of the six clerks in Chancery. She d. 5 Sept. 1593, and was buried in the chancel of Datchet Church, and a brass, representing her husband, herself, and two daus., with an inscription in old English, is still to be seen. Mr. Hanbury was buried in the same vault with his wife, 26 May, 1608, will proved in London, leaving a large fortune behind him amongst his daus. and grandchildren; his daus. were,

I. Alice, m. to William Combes, Esq. of the Middle Temple, London, and of the co. of Warwick, and d. s. p.

II. Elizabeth, m. Sir Edmund Wheler, Knt. of London, goldsmith, and of Riding Court, in the parish of Datchet, Bucks, in right of his wife, second son of Humphrey Wheler, Esq. of Martin Hussingtree, co. Worcester. She d. 5 Nov. 1634, having had four sons and six daus.,

1. Richard Wheler, d. s. p., having m. a dau. of Sir Edward Pitt, of Hampshire.

2. Hanbury Wheler, buried at Datchet.

3. John Wheler, buried at Datchet.

4. William Wheler, Knt., M.P. for Queenborough, created a baronet, 11 Aug. 1660. (See Baronetage.)

1. Alice Wheler, m. to John Peters, Esq. of Horton, near Datchet.

2. Elizabeth Wheler, m. to Symon English, Esq. of the Middle Temple, London.

3. Beatrix Wheler, m. to — Butler, Esq., barrister, of the Middle Temple.

4. Anne Wheler, m. to Henry Cogon, Esq.

5. Mary Wheler, m. to Abraham Delaune, Esq.

6. Susan Wheler.

Mr. Hanbury m. 2ndly, Margery, dau. of Francis Bradley, Esq., and had issue,

I. JOHN, of Fakenham, co. Worcester.

II. Philip, m. and had issue.

I. A dau., m. the Rev. — Cole, of Elmly, and had issue.

II. Rose, m. to Richard Budd, Esq., auditor to King JAMES.

The elder son of the second marriage,

JOHN HANBURY, Esq. of Fakenham, co. Worcester, b. in 1574, living in Gloucester in 1623, m. Anne, dau. of Christopher Capel, alderman of Gloucester, M.P. for the city, sixth son of Edward Capel, Esq. of How Capel, co. Hereford, and had issue,

I. John, of Fakenham, m. Mary, dau. and sole heir of Col. Hawksworth, of the north, and left an only child, Anna-Maria, who m. to Henry Neale, Esq. of Allesley, co. Warwick.

II. Richard, married. III. Christopher.

IV. CAPEL, of whom presently.

I. A dau.

Mr. Hanbury was high-sheriff for the co. Worcester, 2 CHARLES II., and M.P. for the city of Gloucester in 1626. His will was proved in London, in 1659; his son, CAPEL, his executor; buried in the chancel of the church of St. Nicholas, Gloucester, 16 July, 1658, aged 84. The fourth son,

CAPEL HANBURY, Esq., lived in Gloucester, and was also of Wborestone, in Worcestershire. He m. and left issue,

JOHN, of Pontypool, co. Monmouth.

Mary, m. to Mr. Sergeant John Hoo.

Mr. Capel Hanbury having taken a lease of a forge at Pontypool, co. Monmouth, established the iron and tin works. He d. 14 Jan. 1704, aged 78, buried in the chancel at Kidderminster, and was s. by his son,

JOHN HANBURY, Esq. of Pontypool, co. Monmouth, major in the army, b. in 1664, who m. 1st, in 1701, Albinia, dau. of John Selwyn, Esq. of Matson, co. Gloucester, who d. s. p., and 2ndly, in 1703, Bridget, eldest dau. and co-heir of Sir Edward Ayscough, Knt. of Kelsey, co. Lincoln, by whom (who d. in 1741) he had issue,

I. JOHN, d. s. p. in 1736, having m. Ann, dau. of — Price, Esq. of Lower Llanfoist, co. Monmouth.

II. Capel, of Pontypool, b. 2 Dec. 1707. (See HANBURY LEIGH.)

III. CHARLES (Sir), of Coldbrook Park.

IV. GEORGE, successor to his brother.

V. Thomas, d. in 1778.

Major Hanbury was chosen, in 1701, M.P. for the city of Gloucester, and, on the accession of GEORGE I., M.P. for the co. Monmouth, which he represented till his death. In 1720, he obtained a considerable acquisition of property by the death of his friend, Charles Williams, Esq. of Caerleon, who had fled from his native country for killing Mr. Morgau, of Penrose, in a duel, and having amassed a large fortune in Russia, returned to England, and left the bulk of it to his friend, Major Hanbury, with remainder to that gentleman's second son, to whom he was godfather. Major Hanbury d. 14 June, 1734, aged 70, leaving five sons, by the eldest of whom he was s. in his estate at Pontypool; and by his son, Charles, in the estate of Coldbrook, near Abergavenny, which he had purchased with the money left by Mr. Charles Williams.

SIR CHARLES HANBURY-WILLIAMS, K.B., of Coldbrook, b. in 1709, m. in 1732, Lady Frances Coningsby, youngest dau. and eventually co-heiress of Thomas, Earl of Coningsby, of Hampton Court, co. Hereford, by Frances, dau. and co-heir of Richard Jones, Earl of Ranelagh, and had two daus., co-heirs, Frances, m. to William-Anne, Earl of Essex.

Charlotte, m. to Robert-Boyle Walsingham, youngest son of the Earl of Shannon.

Sir Charles Hanbury-Williams, in consequence of the will of his godfather, Charles Williams, Esq. of Caerleon, assumed the name of WILLIAMS after that of HANBURY, and obtained from his father the estate of Coldbrook, near Abergavenny; he was lord-lieutenant and custos-rotulorum of the co. Hereford, and paymaster of the marines, was installed a knight of the Bath in 1746, and appointed envoy to the court of Dresden in 1749, and, at the express desire of the king, he succeeded Mr. Legge as minister-plenipotentiary to the court of Berlin, but in 1751 returned to his embassy at Dresden, and during his residence was dispatched to St. Petersburg, in a time of critical emergency. He returned to England in 1757, and d. 2 Nov. 1759, aged 50. His poem of Isabella, or the Morning, is remarkable for ease and versification. Leaving no son, he was s. in his estate of Coldbrook by his next brother,

GEORGE HANBURY-WILLIAMS, Esq. of Coldbrook, b. 23 Sept. 1715. Mr. Hanbury assumed the surname of WILLIAMS at the decease of his brother, Sir Charles Hanbury-Williams, K.B. He m. Margaret, youngest dau. of John Chambre, Esq. of Llanfoist, co. Monmouth, and left issue, six sons and one dau., (he d. in 1764.)

i. JOHN, of Coldbrook Park, b. 29 June, 1749, m. in 1770, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Johnes, Esq. of Croft Castle, co. Hereford: she d. in 1806. He d. 21 Nov. 1819.

ii. Charles, of London.

WILLINGTON OF HURLEY.

WILLINGTON, KATHARINE, s. to the representation of the ancient family of Willington, upon the demise of her brother, Thomas Willington, Esq. of Hurley Hall, in 1815.

Lineage.

JOHN WILLINGTON, of Willington, co. Derby, lived at, or immediately after, the time of WILLIAM the Conqueror, since we find that his son, NICHOLAS WILLINGTON, was contemporaneous with Robert Abbot, of Burton, in the reign of King STEPHEN. He was s. by his son, NICHOLAS WILLINGTON, in Dugdale's Monasticon: it appears, that both he and his father were liberal benefactors to the convent of Repton, and, according to Lysons, the manor and church of Willington were given to the convent by those Willingtons. He was father of Hugo Willington, to whom s. next in the male line,

RALPH DE WILLINGTON, who settled at Sandhurst, in Gloucestershire, temp. King JOHN, whence the manor-house obtained the name of Willington Court. He afterwards founded St. Mary's Chapel, in the Abbey of St. Peter's Gloucester, now called "The Ladye Chapel." He m. Olympias, dau. and heir of William Frane, grandson and heir of Sir Humphrey Frane, Knt., and was father of

SIR RALPH DE WILLINGTON, living 37 HENRY III., who m. Joan, dau. and heir of Sir William Champernowne, of Umberleigh, in Devon. After this marriage, their descendants took for their arms, those of Champernowne, omitting the billets, viz., Gules, a saltier, vair. Their son,

SIR RALPH DE WILLINGTON, of Willington Court, co. WILLINGTON OF KILLOSKEHANE.

WILLINGTON, JOHN-JAMES, Esq. of Killoskehane Castle, co. Tipperary, b. 26 Nov. 1815, a magistrate for the county; s. to the estates on the death of his father, the late John Willington, Esq., 26 Nov. 1835.

Lineage.

This family descends from a younger son of the very ancient family of WILLINGTON, of Umherleigh, co. Devon, of baronial rank in the time of the early Plantagenets. The patriarch of the line was JOHN DE WILLINGTON, living at the time of the Conquest, and the estate of Umherleigh was acquired by the marriage, temp. HENRY III., of SIR RALPH DE WILLINGTON, with Joan, dau. and heir of Sir William Champernowne, on which occasion the Willingtons took for their arms those of Champernowne, omitting the hillets, viz., Gu., a saltier voire. Subsequently the family became divided into several branches; the Willingtons of Barcheston, Hurley, Whately, &c., from one of which lineally derived,

JAMES WILLINGTON, Esq., grandson of John Willington, the first of the family who went to Ireland. He m. Miss Mary Carden, and had two sons, JOHN, his heir; and JONATHAN, ancestor of the Castle Willington branch, (which see.) The elder son, WILLIS (DE ANYERS) OF HALSNEAD PARK.

WILLIS, RICHARD, Esq. of Halsnead Park, and of Hall-of-the-Hill, both in the co. of Lancaster, b. 16 July, 1787; m. 17 July, 1819, Lucy, dau. and co-heiress of Henry Atherton, Esq., barrister-at-law, of the family of Atherton of Atherton.

Lineage.

The family of DE ANYERS, or DANYEL, whence Mr. Willis derives in lineal descent, accompanied WILLIAM the Conqueror into England in 1066, and the name of its patriarch is to be found inscribed on the Roll of Battel Abbey. Owing, however, to the destruction of deeds in the turbulent times of CHARLES I., the lineage can only be traced with accuracy from the year 1250.

WILLIAM DE ANYERS, sen. of Daresbury, in Cheshire, m. in 1270, Agnes, dau. of Thomas de Legh, of High Legh, of the West Hall, and had (with several daus.) three sons, viz.,

- i. THOMAS.
- ii. William, who inherited his father's lands in Daresbury, and left issue at his decease, in 1306, with several other children, a son and successor,

JOHN (Sir), Knt. of Dareshury, whose son, WILLIAM D'ANYERS, marrying Clemence, dau. and heiress of Alan de Norreys, obtained large possessions in Cheshire and Lancashire; and from this marriage descended the Daniells of Dareshury.

iii. John.

The eldest son,

THOMAS DE ANYERS, bad lands in Lymme by grant of his father, 17 EDWARD II., and purchased, in 1301, Bradley, from Peter Dutton, Lord of Warburton. He m. 1st, Margaret, dau. of Adam de Tabley, and bad, with other children, who all d. s. p.,

THOMAS (Sir), who m. Isabel, dau. and heiress of William Baggiley, and dying in the lifetime of his father, 26 EDWARD III., left an only dau., MARGARET, heiress to all her mother's lands, those of her father being settled on the heirs male of the De Anyers: she m. thrice.

John (Sir), of Gropenhale, who m. twice, hut had issue only by his first wife, Joan, dau. of Sir William Boydell, and sister and co-heir to William Boydell, of Dodelston, co. Cheshire, viz.,

Robert, d. s. p. 43 EDWARD III.

Margaret, affianced to Sir Robert Grosvenor, but d. unm.

Nicola, heiress to her mother's lands, left an only dau. and heiress, Margaret, m. to Alan de Rixton, and d. without issue, 6 RICHARD II.

Thomas De Anyers, of Bradley, m. 2ndly, Joan de Norreys, and left, with two younger sons,

SIR THOMAS DE ANYERS, Knt. of Over Tabley, who inherited his father's estates upon the decease of his half-brother. Sir Thomas was a warrior of note, and served with distinction under the famous Hugh de Calveley, of Lea. He m. Katherine, dau. and heiress of William, son of Adam de Over Tabley, and upon this marriage one-third part of Over Tabley was settled on Sir Thomas De Anyers and his wife. His eldest son,

THOMAS DE ANYERS, of Over Tabley, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Richard Aston, of Aston, and widow of Thomas Boydell, jun., of Gropenhale, and left at his decease, in 1431, with other issue, a son and successor,

THOMAS DE ANYERS, of Over Tabley, styled the elder, who m. in 1413, Isabel, dau. and heiress of John Rixton, of Rixton, by which alliance he acquired lands at Warington. He was s. at his decease by his eldest son,

THOMAS DE ANYERS, Esq. of Over Tabley, who m. in 1440, Maud, dau. of John Leicester, Esq. of Nether Tabley, and had, with other issue, a son,

THOMAS DE ANYERS, Esq. of Over Tabley, who m. Catherine de Middleton, or Milneton, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS DE ANYERS, Esq. of Over Tabley, who took possession of Cherry Tree Hurst, in Lymme, as next heir, upon the decease, in 1493, issueless, of Thomas Daniell, of Lymme, the last heir of that family. The matter, was not, however, fully settled until the award of William Hill, prebendary of Lichfield, 23 HENRY VIII., when William Daniell, of Longdon, in Staffordshire, who claimed, as next heir to Daniel, of Lymme, as son of William, brother of John Daniel, late of Cherry Tree Hurst, conveyed all his rights in those lands to Thomas De Anyers, Esq., grandson of this Thomas.

THOMAS DE ANYERS m. Blanch, dau. of Piers Warburton, Esq. of Arley, and dying in 1494, was s. by his eldest son,

PIERS DE ANYERS, Esq. of Over Tabley, who m. in 1499, Julian, dau. of Sir Peter Newton, secretary to Prince HENRY, and was s. at his demise, in 1522, by his son,

THOMAS DE ANYERS, Esq. of Over Tabley, who purchased from William Sneyd, 36 HENRY VIII., the property called Wicbe's lands. He m. Margaret, dau. of William Wilbraham, Esq. of Woothey, co. Chester, and dying in 1551, was s. by his eldest son,

PETER DE ANYERS, Esq. of Over Tabley. This gentleman purchased, in 1556, the Hall of Woodlands, in Over Tabley, which escheated to the crown upon the attainder of Matthew de Tabley, 22 EDWARD IV. He m. in 1550, Alice, dau. of George Booth, Esq. of Dunbam Massey, by whom he had an only dau.,

Dorothy, who m. William, son and heir of Richard Massy, Esq. of Rixton, in the co. Lancaster.

Peter De Anyers dying thus without male issue, in 1557, was s. by his brother,

THOMAS DE ANYERS, Esq. of Over Tabley, who m. Alice, dau. of Foulk Dutton, Esq. of Chester, and had, with other issue, a son,

PETER DANIELL, or DE ANYERS, Esq. of Over Tabley, his successor in 1575. This gentleman m. in 1574, Anne, dau. of Henry Mainwaring, Esq. of Carinekam, in Cheshire, by whom (who subsequently m. Thomas Ashold, Esq. of Sweteuham, in Cheshire, and d. in 1633) he had issue. The elder son and successor,

PETER DANIELL, or DE ANYERS, Esq. of Over Tabley, was but six years of age when his father died. In 1625, he represented the co. Chester in parliament, and marrying, Christian, dau. of Richard Grosvenor, Esq. of Eaton, in Cheshire, had issue,

1. PETER, of Over Tabley, a captain of a foot company in the regiment of John, Earl of Rivers, raised for the king's service. He d. at Oxford, of a shot received at the siege of Gloucester, leaving (with a dau., Margaret, who probably m. into the Minchull family, a gentleman of that name being mentioned as the uncle of Sir Samuel Daniell) a son, THOMAS, of Over Tabley, who m. Alice, niece of Henry Neville, Esq. of Holt, in Leicestershire, and had (with other children who d. issueless).

1. SAMUEL (Sir), who served as col. in King WILLIAM's army, from which prince he received the honour of knighthood. He m. 1st, Anne, dau. of Robert Tatton, Esq. of Withenshaw, and 2ndly, Frances, dau. of the Hon. Robert Dormer, of Rowsham, in Oxfordshire, by whom he had an only dau., Anne, who d. in infancy. 2. Sarah, who m. Hewitt Parker, Esq. of Mobberley, and had an only dau.,

SARAH, who, marrying Sir C. Duckenfield, Bart., had, with other children, who all d. unm., a son, WILLIAM (Sir), Bart., who assumed, by act of parliament, the surname of DANIELL upon inher-riting the fortune of that family. As he died without issue, the estates passed from his relict to her second husband, John Astley, Esq.

- II. WILLIAM, of whom presently.
- III. Thomas, slain at the battle of Brainford, in 1642.
- IV. Margaret, m. to Richard Green, Esq. of Congleton.
- V. Christian, m. to George Devonport, Esq. of Calveley.
- VI. Mary, m. to Colonel Finch, an officer in the parliament army, and a member of the noble family of Winchelsea and Nottingham.
- VII. Elizabeth.
- VIII. Anne, m. to Robert Sanford, Esq. of Sanford.

The second son,

WILLIAM DE ANYERS, or DANYEL, Esq., was colonel of a regiment of infantry, in the service of the parliament, held under three several commissions, still preserved at Halsnead, viz., of Generals Fairfax, Cromwell, and Monk. He m. Dorothy Forth,* of Wigan, in Lancashire, co-heiress of William Forth, Esq. of Wigan, by whom he had several children, who all d. s. p. except

Mr. Wills, a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for co. Roscommon, s. his father in 1792, and served as high-sheriff of the county in 1802.

Lineage.

The Wills's went to Ireland from Cornwall, and settled in Carrickfergus, where the family was of some consideration in the 16th century, as appears from an old map of the town, of the date 1550, which shows the site of three castles, and gives the names of three Wills's, the owners thereof; the remains of one of these, now called Wills' Castle, is still to be seen. Persons of the name have since filled the offices of mayors and sheriffs, as will be seen by the registry of the town. One of the transcripts of the church is called the Donegal aisle, and contains the burial-place of that family; the other is called the Wills' aisle.

Of this family was General Wills, who commanded a portion of the army against the rebels in 1715. He was godfather, and gave his name to Wills, Lord Hillsborough, great-grandfather of the Marquess of Downshire. A brother of General Wills, viz.,

CAPTAIN THOMAS WILLS, whose name is among the enrolments for receiving compensation after the wars of King WILLIAM III., m. about 1670, the widow of Alexander Montgomery, and by her left two sons. The elder,

CASPER WILLS, Esq., a captain in the army, purchased (with his brother) the Roscommon estates, part of the forfeited possessions of King JAMES II., and settled at Wills-grove, where he erected the mansion. He m. Sarah Cale, of the Enniskillen family, but d. s. p. His brother,

JAMES WILLS, Esq., an officer in the army, built Ballinlough House, and d. in 1731. He m. Martha, dau. of John Curtis, Esq. of Dublin, and left (besides two sons, one of whom, Sarah, m. Mr. Lenox, a banker) two sons, GODFREY, his heir; and Robert, of Annalee, co. Cavan, who d. unm. The eldest son and heir,

GODFREY WILLS, Esq. of Wills-grove, lieut.-col. of the Roscommon Militia, inherited the two estates in co. Roscommon, and others in the Queen's County and Kildare. He m. 1st, Sarah, dau. of Robert Montgomery, Esq. of Ballyleck, co. Monaghan, by whom he had,

WILLIAMS OF CARNANTON.

WILLIAMS, HUMPHRY, Esq. of Carnanton, in Cornwall, Lord of the Royal manor of Carnanton, b. 20 April, 1792; m. 14 Jan. 1822; Ellen-

Frances, youngest dau. of Colonel William-Brydges Neynoe, of Castle Neynoe, co. Sligo, and has issue, JAMES-NEYNOE-VIVIAN, b. 10 April, 1823.

Humphry-John, b. 19 Nov. 1831.
Edward-William-Brydges, b. 6 Nov. 1834.
Ellen-Anne.
Charlotte-Dorotbea.

Mr. Willyams, who s. his father, 10 Feb. 1828, is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for Cornwall, deputy-warden of the Stannaries, and senior Capt. in the Royal Miners' Regiment of Light Infantry.

Lineage.

The family of WILLYAMS, or as it was formerly spelt WYLLIAMS, was long attached to and connected with the Arundells of Wardour and of Lanherne, with one of whom the first common Cornish ancestor came into the county about the year 1485, the parent stock, as Hamon L'Estrange says, being in Wiltshire or Dorsetshire. From this ancestor descended two sons,

- i. ADAM WILLYAMS, b. about 1490, who m. the heiress of Prideaux of Asburton, and became settled at Stowford, in Harford, Devon. He left a son,
THOMAS, b. in 1524, who was speaker of the House of Commons in 1562. He m. the co-heiress of Crues of Chimley, and d. in 1566. In the parish church there is now standing a very handsome monument to his memory, bearing a complimentary but quaint inscription. His only son,
JOHN WILLYAMS, to whom in the same church is erected a monument, stating the period of his decease, 1615, was father of JOHN WILLYAMS, who m. the heiress of Edgcumbe, of Calstock, and left a son and successor, JOHN WILLYAMS, who d. in 1716, without issue.
- ii. THOMAS, of whom we have to treat.

The second son,

THOMAS WILLYAMS, was b. in Cornwall, in 1505. He m. a lady named Jane, and d. in 1580, leaving three sons,

- i. WILLIAM, his heir.
- ii. THOMAS, of Broadoak, b. at Stowford, in 1542, but settled in Cornwall, in 1573. At this period a grant from the crown was made to him (jointly with Thomas Prideaux) of the manor of Broadoak, in Cornwall, part of the lands of the attainted Marquess of Exeter, who was executed in 1538. In 1619, Thomas Willyams was in sole possession. He d. s. p. in 1680.
- iii. A third son, who migrated into Switzerland, and became ancestor of the Vullyamoz of that country.

The eldest son,

WILLIAM WILLYAMS, commonly styled "of Roseworthy," having received that manor as a gift from Sir John Arundell, of Lanherne, 27 ELIZABETH, as shown by the deed which is still in the possession of the family, married four times: by his first wife, Elizabeth Yorke, he had an only son, John, who d. issueless; by the second, Margaret St. Aubyn, he had no child; by the third, Alyce, co-heiress of Roger Honeychurch, of Aviton Gifford, in Devon, he had five children; and by the fourth, Jane, co-heiress of Trevennard, or Trewinnard, no issue. By Alyce Honeychurch, his third wife, who d. in Jan, 1606, he had four sons and one dau. Mr. Willyams d. 12 June, 1623, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM WILLYAMS, Esq., b. 27 Nov. 1598, who m. 26 Nov. 1620, Jane, dau. and heir of Michael Vyvyan, Esq. of Phillack, a branch of the Trelowarren family, and by her (who d. in 1655) had, with other issue, a son,

HUMPHRY WILLYAMS, Esq., b. in Oct. 1629, who m. in Aug. 1658, Dorothy, sister (and eventual heiress in 1668) of Thomas Addington,* Esq. of Leigh, in the parish of High Bickington, Devonshire, and had, with other children who d. young,

- i. JOHN, his heir.
- ii. Thomas, b. in Dec. 1671, capt. R.N., who distinguished himself in various engagements. He commanded a line-of-battle ship in the Mediterranean, and on that occasion made himself more conspicuous for benevolence than discretion. Hearing that a poor Jew was to be the subject of an auto-da-fé, he landed his boats' crew and carried off the unfortunate creature out of the power of his tormentors. The Spanish government preferring a complaint, he was ordered home and deprived of his command, but, by the favour of the queen, was soon afterwards reinstated. Captain Thomas Willyams m. the only dau. of Admiral Cooper, and was s. by his son,

JOHN, also a capt. in the R.N., who m. Miss Goodyer, sister of the unfortunate Sir John Dyneley, (to whom, on the death of her other brother, she s. as heiress,) and had a son,

COOPER, chaplain in the navy, on board the "Swiftsure," at the battle of the Nile, of which he published an interesting account under the title of "A Voyage up the Mediterranean." He was also author of "The Campaign in the West Indies." By the presentation of Lord Chancellor Eldon, Mr. Cooper Willyams became rector of Hardress, a preferment he resigned for the rectories of Kingston and Stourmouth, in Kent, on the presentation of the Bishop of Rochester and Sir Egerton Brydges. He d. in 1816, leaving four children.

- iii. William, b. in April, 1678, collector of the port of Penryn, and mayor of Falmouth in 1739, m. Anne, dau. of — Sandys, Esq., and from him descended the gallant Capt. Edward Dillon, drowned in the daring though fruitless attempt to save the life of his son, who had fallen over the side of his ship into the Tagus.
- iv. Humphry, b. in May, 1680.
v. Charles, b. in July, 1681.
- i. Dorothy, b. in April, 1673, m. to the Rev. William Bedford, vicar of Tregoney and Cuby, ancestor of the late Admiral Bedford, of Tavistock and Plymouth.
- ii. Jane, b. in Nov. 1765, m. to John Lanyon, of Lanyon, in Gwinear, grandfather of Lieutenant William Lanyon, R.N., well known for his various acts of heroism and benevolence in his profession, the last survivor of those gallant officers who accompanied Captain Cook in his voyages. Twice he circumnavigated the globe with that distinguished commander, and was with him at the period of his melancholy end.
- iii. Elizabeth, b. in April, 1683. This lady was so conspicuous for her beauty, that the queen (ANNE) seeing her in the park, sent for her to come to court. She m. Mr. Greenwood, a merchant of London, but d. s. p.
- iv. Tryphena, twin with Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. William Symons, vicar of Cornelly and Merther.
- v. Honour, b. in Jan. 1685, m. to Williams, of Trehane and Trewithan.

The eldest son,

JOHN WILLYAMS, Esq. of Roseworthy, b. in Sept. 1660, m. 1st, in 1685, Bridgeman, youngest dau. and co-heir of Colonel Humphrey Noye, of Carnanton, "only son of William Noye, attorney-general to CHARLES I. of blessed memory," as his monument in Mawgan Church imports, and by whom came the Carnanton estate to the family. Her mother was Hester, sister of the last Baron Sandys of the Vine, which nobleman d. s. p., when the title fell into abeyance among his sisters. By her (who d. in 1699, he had no issue. He m. 2ndly, Dorothy, heiress of Peter Day, Esq. of Resuggan, in St. Columb, and had issue,

- i. JOHN, b. in March, 1701, who held a company and served in the forces raised by Hugh Boscawen, in 1745. He m. in 1723, Ann, dau. and heiress of John Oliver, Esq. of Falmouth, and had one son and one dau., viz.,
John-Oliver, b. in May, 1731, m. Charlotte, dau. of Chauncey Townsend, Esq., M.P. for London, and d. s. p. 3 Dec. 1809.
Anne, m. to William Lemon, Esq., father of the late Sir William Lemon, Bart., M.P. for Cornwall during more than half a century, and grandfather of the present Sir Charles Lemon, Bart., also M.P. for the Western Division of that co.
- ii. Humphry, d. young.
- iii. JAMES, of whom presently.
- i. Bridgeman, b. in July, 1707, m. to Haws, of St. Coose, ancestor of the Rev. Dr. Haws, author of "Church History," and many other works on divinity.

Mr. Willyams, conspicuous for his active and zealous adherence to the Stuarts, suffered much persecution for his attachment to that unfortunate House. He was deprived of his commission of the peace during the reign of WILLIAM and MARY, but restored soon after the accession of Queen ANNE. A good picture of King JAMES, now at Carnanton, was found secreted in the roof of the old mansion, when it was taken down, about eighty years since. His third son,

* Lord Sidmouth is of the same family. There are some memorials of the Addingtons, in a very perfect state, in the parish church.

JAMES WILLYAMS, Esq., b. 8 March, 1780, m. Anne, dau. of William Jane, and bad issue,

- I. JAMES, his heir.
- II. John, b. in 1752, d. in 1774.
- III. Humphry, in holy orders, b. in Feb. 1755, m. 1st, Sarah, only dau. of — Bate, and half-sister to Sir George Shuckburgh, Bart., who d. s. p. He m. 2ndly, Mary, sister of Pascoe Grenfell, Esq., M.P., and d. in Sept. 1732, leaving an only dau.,
Charlotte Bridgeman, m. to Capt. F. Rogers, R.N., son of John Rogers, Esq. of Penrose, by Margaret, his wife, sister of the late Lord De Dunstanville.
- I. Anne, b. in 1774, d. in 1757.
- II. Bridgeman, b. in 1748, d. unm. in 1770.
- III. Jane, b. in 1750, d. also unm. in 1790.

The eldest son and heir,

JAMES WILLYAMS, Esq. of Truro, b. 30 Sept. 1741, travelled, during the earlier period of his life, over various parts of Europe and America, but returning to England, he m. in 1770, Ann, only dau. of William Champion, Esq. of Wormley, in Gloucestershire, and of the city of Bristol, by which lady he had issue,

- I. JAMES-BRYDGES, b. 1 Jan. 1772, took his degrees at St. John's College, Cambridge. This gentleman had, for many years, the command of the Cornwall militia, and on its being disembodied, in 1816, he devoted himself to literature. He published "The Influence of Genius," a poem after the style of Beattie, having already appeared before the public in a work entitled "A Treatise on Modern Education," embellished with designs from his own pencil. He m. Sarah, only dau. and heiress of Mendez Da Costa, and d. in Nov. 1820, leaving no issue.
- II. John-Champion, b. in June, 1785, entered the India service, but d. 2 June, 1803, on board the "Marchioness of Exeter" Indiaman, and was buried at St. Helena.
- III. HUMPHRY, now of Carnanton.
- I. Anne, m. in 1800, to Captain Bowen, of Haverfordwest, who served in Holland, under the Duke of York, at the Helder, and was wounded there. She d. leaving four children.
- II. Eliza-Bridgeman, m. in 1800, to Captain (now Lord) James O'Brien, R.N., brother of the Marquess of Thomond, and d. at Clifton, of consumption.
- III. Charlotte-Champion, m. to the Rev. T. Pascoe, vicar of St. Hilary.
- IV. Jane-Louisa.
- V. Sarah, m. to the Rev. Thomas Grylls, rector of Cardynham, and one of the prebendaries of the cathedral church of Exeter, and has issue.

Mr. Willyams, a magistrate, deputy-lieut., and deputy warden of the Stannaries, served for many years during the war, holding the rank of field-officer in the Cornwall militia, and s., on the demise of his relative, John-Oliver Willyams, in 1809, to the Carnanton estate. He d. 10 Feb. 1828.

Lineage.

The ancestors of this very ancient family resided at Broomhead from the time of EDWARD I., in whose reign a grant of lands was made to Adam Wilson, his scutiger, by Thomas, Lord Furnival, at Wightwistle, in the neighbourhood of Broomhead, for services in the Scottish wars.

JOHN WILSON, living 37 EDWARD III., (son and heir of Adam Wilson, by Judith, his wife, dau. of Sir Elias de Midhope, and grandson, by Joan, his wife, dau. of Sir Robert Rous, of Onesacre, of John Wilson, son of Robert Wilson, and Hawise, his wife, dau. of Thomas Sheffield, Lord of Bolsterstone,) acquired lands at West-thorpe, in Hoyland Swayne, by his marriage with Agnes, dau. of John Hunsheif, of Hunsheif, and transmitted them to his eldest son,

JOHN WILSON, of Broomhead, co. York, 8 RICHARD II. He m. Julian, dau. and co-heir of John, son of Henry de Broomhead, and was father of

WILLIAM WILSON, of Broomhead, 7 HENRY IV., whose son,

JOHN WILSON, of Broomhead, 7 HENRY V., was father of three sons. The eldest,

JOHN WILSON, of Broomhead, 10 HENRY VI., m. and had a son and successor,

CHRISTOPHER WILSON, of Broomhead, 6 HENRY VIII., who d. in Derbyshire about 1492, leaving by Ellen, his wife, who is supposed to have been dau. of Reginald Leigh, of Padley, four sons, JOHN, Ralph, Reginald, and Richard, of Wortley. The eldest,

Mr. Windham, who is a magistrate and deputy-lieut., represented the Eastern Division of co. Norfolk in 1832, and served as sheriff in 1842.

Lineage.

The late

VICE-ADMIRAL WILLIAM WINDHAM, who s., by bequest, to the property of the Right Hon. William Windham, was the eldest son of George-William Lukin, Dean of Wells, by Catherine, his wife, second dau. of Robert Doughty, of Hanworth Park, co. Norfolk, Esq., and grandson of Robert Lukin, Esq.,* by Sarah, his wife, (which lady m. 2ndly, in 1749, William Windham, Esq., and was by him mother of the Right Hon. William Windham).

The family of Lukyn is one of considerable antiquity.

GEOFFREY LUKYN, of Dunmow, co. Essex, had a grant of lands in Dunmow &c. from HENRY VIII., (see Morant's Essex), and was the third son of Richard Lukyn, of Chignal, co. Essex. From the said Geoffrey, Vice-Admiral Windham descended, and from Geoffrey's eldest brother derives the Earl of Verulam. Vice-Admiral Windham took the name and arms of WINDHAM, (in pursuance of the will of his uncle, the late Right Hon. William Windham,) in 1824, when he succeeded Frederica Cecilia, widow of that gentleman, in all his estates in Norfolk, Suffolk, and Essex. He m. Anne, dau. of Peter Thellusson, Esq. of Broadsworth, co. York, and had issue,

Mary-Anne. Sarah.

Elizabeth-Emily. Caroline.

Henrietta. Louisa.

Mr. Wingfield, who is in the commission of the peace and lieutenantcy for the co. of Rutland, s. his father, 14 June, 1773.

Lineage.

"Wingfield," saith ANSTIS, in his elaborate register of the Order of the Garter, "is a manor with an half ruined castle in Suffolk, which, as Mr. Camden writes, gave both a name and a seat to a large family in those parts famous for their knighthood and ancient nobility; but though, in all probability, the name might be originally taken from thence, yet till some further discoveries be made, it may be doubted whether it was the seat of this family before the time of Sir John Wingfield, since the patronage and advowson of that place was in Sir Richard Brews, in 1302, 1323, and 1329." There are pedigrees of the Wingfields which give them possession of the castle of Wingfield in the time of the CONQUEROR, but there is nothing to substantiate the fact.

ROBERT DE WINGFIELD, living in 1087, was father of JOHN DE WINGFIELD, whose son,

ROBERT DE WINGFIELD, m. Joan, dau. of John Falstaff, or Fastolf, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS DE WINGFIELD, who left, by Alice, his wife, dau. of Nicholas de Weyland, a son and heir, WINSTANLEY OF BRAUNSTON.

WINSTANLEY, CLEMENT, Esq. of Braunston Hall, co. Leicester, a magistrate and deputy lieut. of that shire, and for some years lieut.-col. of the militia, b. in 1775; s. to the estates upon the demise of his father in 1808, and served the office of high-sheriff in 1815.

Lineage.

The family of Winstanley is of remote antiquity in the co. of Lancaster, the name occurring in the records of that shire, as far back as the reign of HENRY III. Among its early progenitors, SIR THOMAS WINSTANLEY is mentioned by Froissart and Barnes, as one of the knights attendant upon the BLACK PRINCE, in his expedition into Spain, to place Don Pedro upon the throne. The successors of this gallant warrior, allying with the houses of Standish, Worsley, Waller, Longton, &c., remained seated at Winstanley, in Lancashire, until the close of the sixteenth century, when JAMES WINSTANLEY, of Winstanley, one of the poor knights of Windsor, is presumed to have alienated to the Bankes the patrimonial mansion and estates.

JAMES WINSTANLEY, Esq., b. in 1600, a scion of the Lancashire family, was admitted of Gray's Inn in 1624, and was appointed recorder of Leicester in 1653. member of one of the inns of court. In the grand Rebellion, when the parliament raised an army against the king, he obtained a captain's commission, but disapproving of the course pursued by the Independents, abandoned his colours for the royal standard, and was subsequently of eminent service to the two CHARLESSES. Col. Titus was a man of wit, and author of the celebrated pamphlet, secretly published, called "Killing no Murder." In this satirical production, several cogent reasons are offered to the usurper, why he should put himself to death. CROMWELL is said to have been exceedingly terrified, and to have doubted whether he should not follow the author's advice, to avoid the pistol of the assassin. Titus, who was not known to be the author till after the Restoration, had a colonel's commission given him by King CHARLES II., who made him one of the grooms of his bedchamber. He sometimes, to divert the king, or sink a declining favourite, practised buffoneries better suited to Bartholomew fair than to the court of a prince, who certainly understood decorum and politeness. Though Titus had pleaded strongly in parliament for the exclusion of the Duke of York, he was no less urgent for the abolition of the test and penal laws, as the surest bulwark against popery. In the reign of King JAMES, he was sworn of the privy council. He d. in 1704, aged 82.—GRAINGER.

Lineage.

SAMUEL WINTER, D.D., b. at Balsal, in Warwickshire, in 1603, m. at Boston, co. Lincoln, a lady named Anne Beeston, and had a son, SAMUEL, his heir. In 1650, Dr. Winter was obliged to resign the living of Cottingham, in Yorkshire, of which he was rector, being ordered by the then government to proceed to Ireland, with the commissioners appointed for the settlement of that country, as their chaplain, and was soon after constituted provost of Trinity College, Dublin, which the preceding troubles had left almost desolate. In this office he exerted himself with great zeal and success, to re-assemble the surviving members, and re-establish the discipline of the college. He appears to have been removed from the provostship at the Restoration. Dr. Winter acquired estates in the King's County, Meath, and Westmeath, and dying in 1666, was s. by his eldest son,

WISE OF CLAYTON.

WISE, JOHN-AYSHFORD, Esq. of Clayton Hall, co. Stafford, b. 10 April, 1810; m. 28 March, 1837, Mary-Lovatt, the only dau. and heiress of Hugh Booth, of Cliff Bank, co. Stafford, by Anne, his wife, only dau. and heiress of Thomas Lovatt, Esq. of Clayton, whose predecessors had resided there since the reign of HENRY VIII., and who was the last male of the family of Lovatt of Astwell, and 24th in regular descent from William de Louet, Master of the Wolf-hounds in the reign of WILLIAM the Conqueror. By this lady (who d. 6 May, 1844) he has issue,

I. LEWIS-LOVATT-AYSHFORD.

II. Ida-Muriel-Lovatt-Ayshford.

III. Florence-Isabel-Lovatt-Ayshford.

Mr. Wise is a deputy-lieut. and a magistrate for the counties of Stafford and Devon.

Lineage.

This family, which resided in the west of England before the Norman Conquest, deduces its descent from William Wise, or Gwiss, living at Greston, co. Cornwall, about forty years after that great event. His descendants, by marriage with the families of De Veponte, Thrusselton, Sydenham, and Trevage, acquired several manors in the co. Devon, and finally settled at Sydenham, where John Wise dwelt, 5 HENRY IV. His son,

THOMAS WISE, m. the dau. and heir of Robert Britt, of Stottescomhe and Stoke Damarell, descended from Alured de Brito, whom Risdon and Polwhele seem to think descended from the British race, by whom he had issue,

JOHN WISE, who, by Thomazine, dau. of Sir Baldwin Fulford, had issue, OLIVER; and Alicia, m. to James Russell, father of John, first Earl of Bedford. The son and heir,

OLIVER WISE, of Sydenham, m. Margaret, dau. of John Tremayne, Esq. of Collacombe, Devon, and was s. by his elder son,

JOHN WISE, of Sydenham, who m. 1st, Maria, dau. of James Chudleigh, Esq. of Ashton, Devon, by whom he had, JAMES, Nicholas, and Anna. He m. 2ndly, Dorothy, dau. of Legh, of Legh, and had two other sons and a dau. He m. 3rdly, Anna, dau. of Sir George Mathew, of Rader, in Wales, and had one son, Leonard. He was s. by his eldest son,

JAMES WISE, of Sydenham, who m. Alicia, dau. of James Dinham, Esq. of Wortham, in Devon, and had, with other issue, JOHN, his successor; and William (Sir). James Wise was s. by his eldest son,

* Jane, the eldest dau. of Joseph Robbins, Esq., m. the late Thomas Barnes, Esq., barrister-at-law, and left, with other children, a son, the present Thomas Barnes, Esq. of Dunover, co. Meath.

JOHN WISE, of Sydenham, who m. Alicia, dau. of John Harris, of Hayne, serjeant-at-law to King HENRY VIII., and had, with other issue,

- I. THOMAS, who m. Mary, dau. of Richard Buller, Esq. of Shillingham, in Cornwall, and was s. by his son,

SIR THOMAS WISE, who was made a Knight of the Bath at the coronation of King JAMES I., and was sheriff of Devonshire in the 9th of the same monarch. He represented Beeralston in parliament in 1620, and following years. Sir Thomas built the seats of Sydenham House and Mount Wise. The former, says Westcote, "is the seat of the knightly and dignous family of Wise, and beautified with buildings of such height, as the very foundations are ready to reele under the burthen." Sir Thomas m. Margaret, dau. and heiress of Robert Stafford, Esq. of Stowford, co. Devon, and dying in 1629, left (with a dau., Margaret, m. to Sir Samuel Rolle, M.P.) a son and successor,

THOMAS WISE, of Mount Wyse and Sydenham, who was sheriff of Devonshire in 1638, and representative of that shire in parliament, anno 1640. He m. the Lady Margaret Chichester, dau. of Edward, Earl of Donegal, by whom he had, with other issue, a dau., Margaret, m. to Sir John Molesworth, of Pencarrow, and a son, his successor,

SIR EDWARD WISE, K.B., b. in 1632, of Mount Wise and Sydenham. This gentleman supported the royal cause, and was member for Oakhampton in the parliament which restored King CHARLES II. He m. 1st, in 1651, Arabella, dau. and one of the co-heirs of Oliver, Lord St. John,* and had issue,

St. John, } both d. s. p.
Thomas, }

ARABELLA, m. in 1673, to Edward Tremayne, Esq. of Collacombe. This lady, who was sole heir of her father, conveyed Mount Wise, Stoke Damarell, the manors of Sydenham, Stowford, and other lands, to her husband. She d. 31 Jan. 1696.

Sir Edward Wise m. 2ndly, Radigund, dau. of J. Eliot, Esq. of Port Eliot, and d. in 1675.

II. JOHN.

The second son,

JOHN WISE, Esq., who was of Totnes, m. Emma, dau. of Richard Vavasor, Esq., and was s. by his son,

JOHN WISE, Esq. of Totnes. This gentleman m. in 1631, Susanna, sister and co-heir of T. Prestwood, Esq., and dying 6 Sept. 1670, was s. by his son,

JOHN WISE, Esq. of Totnes, who m. 1st, Mary, dau. of Lewis Full, Esq. of Ash, in Devonshire, and had a dau., Mary, m. in 1697, to A. Champernowne, Esq., and afterwards to J. Sawle, Esq. of Penrice Castle. Mr. Wise m. 2ndly, in 1684, Dorothy, dau. of J. Brookinge, Esq. of Totnes, and had issue, I. JOHN; II. LEWIS; and III. Samuel, m. Trephana, dau. of Thomas Coplestone, Esq. of Bowden, and dying in 1730, left, JOHN, who s. eventually to the estates and representation of the family; Lewis; Samuel, d. in 1746; and Mary, m. to W. Payne, Esq. John Wise d. 26 July, 1702, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN WISE, Esq., who d. in 1743, and was s. by his brother,

LEWIS WISE, Esq., who d. in 1744, and was s. by his nephew,

JOHN WISE, Esq. of Totnes, who m. Margaret, dau. and heir of John Ayshford, Esq. of Wonwell Court, Devon, twenty-third in regular descent from Stephanus de Eisforde, who lived at Eisforde soon after the CONQUEST, whose descendants allied themselves with the houses of Le Bel, Peverell, Bampfylde, Walrond, Wadham, de Boscoe, Fitzbernard, Cary, Ferrers, Paulet, Wilmot, Rolle, Sanford, Courtenay, Acland, Fortescue, de Wonwylle, Coplestone, Strangways, Furlong, Haslewood, and St. Aubin. By the heiress of Ayshford Mr. Wise had, with other issue,

JOHN, his successor.

Lineage.

The Withers were originally a Lancashire family. The first of its members of whom we have any certain record, was

SIR THOMAS WYOTHER, Knt., who was servant and counsellor to Henry, the first Duke of Lancaster, in the time of EDWARD II. Sir Thomas, who, for killing one Sir

W I T

Robert de Holland, was banished from England, but afterwards recalled, left a son,

THOMAS WITHER, of Lancashire, who m., and has three sons, viz.,

THOMAS, servant and steward to the Ahhot of Whalley, co. Lancaster. Having slain Sir Robert Worceley, this Thomas, with his two brothers and their families, fled into Cheshire, and there served the Abbot of Vale Royal. H. m. and had issue.

This eminent person, b. 11 June, 1588, early distinguished himself by several elegant pastoral pieces, but becoming afterwards involved in the political and religious disputes of the times of JAMES I. and CHARLES I., he employed his poetical vein in severe pasquils on the court and clergy, and was occasionally a sufferer for the freedom of his pen. In the civil war he exerted himself in the service of the parliament, and became a considerable sharer in the spoils; but surviving the Restoration, he outlived his power and influence; and giving vent to his chagrin in libels on the court, suffered imprisonment in the Tower. He d. 2 May, 1667. During the whole course of his life, he was a continual publisher, and the long list of his productions may be found in WOOD's Athenæ Oxonienses. His most popular satire is entitled Abuses Whipt and Stript, in 1613. His most poetical pieces were eclogues, called The Shepherd's Hunting, in 1615, and others, printed at the end of BROWNE's Shepherd's Pipe, in 1614. WOLCOTT OF KNOWLE HOUSE.

WOLCOTT, JOHN-MARWOOD, Esq. of Knowle House, co. Devon, b. 15 Dec. 1814. A magistrate for the county; s. to the paternal estates, on attaining his majority, in 1835.

Lineage.

The family of Wolcott, or Walcot, of Wollcott, in the parish of Thurlestone, co. Devon, is of Norman extraction, 1622 and has for a long period been settled in the parishes of Sidbury and Salcombe Regis. The first ancestor of whom we have any authentic record, is

WALTER WOLCOTT, or WALCOT, of Wollcott, in the parish of Thurlestone, living about 1470, whose pedigree, down to the year 1660, is recorded in the Heralds' College, and whose arms are given as now used by the family, with the exception of the augmentation of "a chief," which was acquired by his son. He m. Alice, dau. and heir of Hugh Skerret, and had a son and heir,

JOHN WOLCOTT, of Chagford, co. Devon, of whom it is recorded, "for his good service done unto the king in his warres, had a chief added unto his armes as an augmentation of honor." He left three sons, I. JOHN, of whom presently; II. Richard, whose son, John Walcott, of Lisleigh, was ancestor of the Walcotts of that place; III. Thomas. The eldest son and heir,

JOHN WOLCOTT, of Chidleigh, co. Devon, was father of two sons,

I. JOHN WALCOTT, of Chidleigh, who m. Margery, dau. of John Bozon,* and was father of THOMAS WALCOTT, of Southcotte, whose son and heir, PETER WOLCOTTE, of Southcotte, was s. by his son, JOHN WOLCOTT, of Southcotte, whose son and heir, JOHN WOLCOTT, of Southcotte, was living in 1631.

II. PETER, of whose line we treat.

The latter,

PETER WOLCOTT, was father of

WILLIAM WOLCOTT, of Sidbury, whose son,

WILLIAM WOLCOTT, of Sidbury, living in 1631, m. Laurell, dau. of John Strutte, of Dartmouth, and had three sons,

I. Peter, aged 9, in 1631.

Lineage.

ROBERT WOLFERSTON, Esq. of Wolferston, in Suffolk, made his will in 1492, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS WOLVERSTON, Esq. of Culfye, in Suffolk, who m. Mawde, (or Mary,) dau. of Sir Humphry Stanley, of Pype, knight of the body to King HENRY VII., and had with other issue,

PHILIP, of Wolverston Hall, in Suffolk, who left an only dau., MARY, m. to Sir John Kelligrew, Knt. of Arwenack, in Cornwall.

HUMPHRY, of whom presently.

The second son,

HUMPHRY WOLFERSTON, Esq., m. Katherine, dau. of John Stanley, Esq. of Grove, co. Nottingham, by whom he acquired the manor of Statfold, in Staffordshire, and had (with five daus., the eldest, Maude, wife of Thomas Arblaster, Esq. of Longdon; and the fourth, Katherine, n. to Ralph Thicknesse, Esq.) six sons. Mr. Wolferston d. about the year 1592, and was s. by his eldest son,

HERCY WOLFERSTON, Esq., who m. 18 Sept. 1593, Mary, dau. of Ralph Egerton, Esq. of Betley, and had issue. Mr. Wolferston, who was sometimes styled Captain Wolferston, and is supposed to have been at the taking of Cadiz in 1595, d. 28 July, 1636, and was s. by his eldest surviving son,

FRANCISSE WOLFERSTON, Esq., bapt. 3 May, 1612, who n. 29 Sept. 1631, Frances, eldest of twenty-two children of George Middlemore, Esq. of Haslewell, and had a numerous issue, of which three sons and three daus. lived to maturity, viz.,

FRANCIS, his successor.

Middlemore, b. 18 Aug. 1643, who d. unm.

Stanford, M.A., in holy orders, vicar of Wotton-Wawen, and fellow of King's College, Cambridge, who m. 1st, in 1679, Isabella, dau. of John Hinckley, D.D., rector of Northfield, co. Worcester, by whom (who d. in 1680) he had an only child, Francis, who d. in infancy. He m. 2ndly, Susanna, dau. of Mr. John Creed, of Cambridge, and left issue at his decease, 29 Sept. 1698,

I. STANFORD, of whom hereafter, as heir to his uncle.

II. Edward, b. in 1691, who d. s. p. in 1761, and was buried at Tamworth.

SAMUEL PIPE, in holy orders, M.A., vicar of Croxall, co. Derby, and rector of Walton-on-Trent, in the same shire, b. in Aug. 1719, who m. 19 Sept. 1749, Dorothy, eldest dau. of STANFORD WOLFERSTAN, Esq. of Statfold Hall, by whom (who d. 26 Oct. 1754) he had several children, mentioned hereafter.

The eldest son,

FRANCIS WOLFERSTON, Esq., purchased, in 1685, the manor and a considerable part of the lands of Harlaston, co. Stafford. This gentleman was the particular friend and fellow amateur of Dr. Plot, the historian of Staffordshire, who inscribes his first plate to him, and frequently quotes him as an authority for his narrative. He was likewise a maker of indifferent verses; among others, a translation of Ovid de arte amandi. In 1667 he began to write his name Wolferstan, an orthography his brother and posterity continued. Mr. Wolferstan was a barrister of good practice until the Revolution, but ever after one of the stiffest of nonjurors. He m. twice, but left issue only by his first wife, Hester, dau. of John Bowyer, Esq. of Biddulph, (by Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Bowyer,) viz., an only dau.,

ANN, heiress to her father's purchased estates. She was second wife to Sir John Egerton, Bart. of Wrinchill, but dying in 1726, without surviving issue, devised her possessions to Sir John Egerton's third son, by a former marriage.

At Mr. Wolferstan's decease, thus, without male issue, Statfold devolved upon his nephew and heir in tail,

STANFORD WOLFERSTAN, Esq., an active magistrate for the counties of Stafford and Warwick, who m. Sarah, youngest dau. of Sir Edward Littleton, Bart., and had issue,

I. SAMUEL, inheritor of Statfold, of whom presently.

II. Humphrey, of Uttoxeter, who m. in 1776, Elizabeth, dau. of Charles Pestell, Esq., and had one son, Samuel, who d. young.

I. Sarah-Grace, m. to James Bell, of Uttoxeter, and had issue, a son, Samuel, b. 17 Jan. 1789, who m. Katherine, dau. of Simon Mountfort, Esq. of Beamhurst, and three daus., Sarah-Grace; Ann-Mary, m. to Augustus Aldborough Lloyd Williams, Esq., R.N.; and Dorothy de Pipe, m. to Edward Lloyd Williams, Esq. of Gwernant Park, co. Cardigan.

II. Elizabeth, m. in 1775, the Rev. George Greaves, rector of Stanton, and of Swarkston, both co. Derby, and had issue, a son, George, who d. in 1801, with four daus., Lydia-Elizabeth, the wife of the Rev. Paul Belcher; Dorothy-Catherine; Frances; and Georgiana, m. to W.-D. Flamsteed, Esq.

Sarah, m. in 1737, to Joseph Girdler, Esq., barrister-at-law, son and heir of Serjeant Joseph Girdler, of Haselor, co. Stafford, and dying in 1781, left issue,

I. Joseph-Bayntum Girdler, who d. in 1787.

II. John-Stanford Girdler, b. in 1751, of Haselor, m. Mrs. Letitia Jones, and had issue.

I. Frances-Lucy Girdler, d. in 1801.

Joyce, m. 1st, to Edward Littleton, Esq. of the Moat, by whom she had no issue. She m. 2ndly, Edward Plaisted, Esq. of Bolehall, near Tamworth, and left at her decease, in 1775, an only surviving dau., Mary-Elizabeth, second wife of the Rev. Martin Stafford Smith, of Bath, rector of Fladbury, co. Worcester.

Hester, d. unm. in 1746.

Frances, of Widcombe House, near Bath, d. in 1797, unm.

Elizabeth, m. in 1773, to Thomas Hedges, Esq. of Week, co. Devon, major in the North Devon militia, and d. in 1811, s. p.

Mr. Stanford Wolferstan dying 2 July, 1772, devised his estates,* after the decease of his wife, to his grandson,

SAMUEL PIPE, Esq., who inheriting them, upon the demise of that lady, assumed, in 1776, by sign-manual, the surname and arms of WOLFERSTAN. He m. 1st, Margaret, dau. of Walter Biddulph, Esq. of Barton-under-Nedwood, uncle to Sir Theophilus Biddulph, Bart., and had issue,

STANLEY, present proprietor.

Margaret, m. in 1817, to Charles Salt, Esq.

* With remainder to his grandson, Humphrey Pipe, and his other grandsons, the GIRDLEERS, in strict settlement, and all taking the name and arms of WOLFERSTAN.

He m. 2ndly, 4 Oct. 1796, Elizabeth, eldest dau. of Philip Jervis, Esq., cousin of John, Earl St. Vincent, hut had no further issue. Mr. Pipe-Wolverstan, a diligent and accomplished antiquary, d. in 1820, and was s. by his son, STANLEY PIPE-WOLFERSTAN, Esq., now representative of the family.

WOLLASTON OF SHENTON.

WOLLASTON, FREDERICK-WILLIAM, Esq. of Shenton Hall, co. Leicester, m. 29 July, 1817, at St. George's, Hanover-square, Lucy, dau. of Sir Henry Strachey, Bart. of Sutton Court, in Somersetshire. Colonel Wollaston, formerly Colonel commanding the 22nd Light Dragoons, and Brigadier-General in Ireland, s. his father in 1801. He is a magistrate and deputy-lieut. for Leicestershire, and was his high-sheriff in 1807.

Lineage.

"It appears, by a considerable number of very ancient deeds, that this family flourished before and in the reign of EDWARD III., at Wollaston, in Staffordshire; that it took the name from that place; that Henry, John, and William de Wollaston, were at that time lords of that manor; and that in all those old deeds, or most of them, the name is spelt, as this part of the family spell their name now, (viz. Wollaston,) and only they, until very lately, when others, from example, have spelt it in the same manner. In RICHARD II.'s reign they parted with the said manor to the Aston family, and then dispersed into other parts of that county. Some went to Trescott, and some to Perton, in the parish of Tettenhall, Staffordshire; of which last, the present family of Shenton, in Leicestershire, and of Great Finborough, in Suffolk, is descended, (as appears by a genealogy now in the hands of William Wollaston, and a gift of loaves of bread every Sunday to the poor of Tettenhall, which is still given by the said William Wollaston as a memorial of their residence there.) At that time, it is probable, they left out of their name the de, and were no longer called de Wollaston, hut Wollaston. They were gentlemen: always lived upon their estates, seemingly with the same disposition and character as at present; contented and without ambition so as to make much noise in the world, or to much enlarge their fortunes, until, in the beginning of Queen ELIZABETH's reign, one of the younger sons of the family at Perton was sent up to London, and there, by assiduity, and living to the age of ninety-three, he became very rich. His money he laid out in the purchase of those very estates which are now in the family; first in Staffordshire, (the county in which he was born, and his ancestors and relations lived,) by purchasing Oncote Hall, &c., in the parish of Eccleshall, where he and his son resided; after, by repurchasing, in the very beginning of the reign of JAMES I. the manor of Wollaston, and the estate there of the Lord Aston, in whose family it had been ever since the reign of RICHARD II.*

THOMAS WOLLASTON, of Perton, in Staffordshire, a person of rank and influence in the reign of HENRY VII., had a grant from the crown of the office of keeper of the outwoods of Lyndridge, which he held until 1523. He left,

- i. JOHN, of Perton, whose son was THOMAS WOLLASTON, of Walshall, in Staffordshire, b. in June, 1515.

Lineage.

This family of Wolley (de Woley, de Wolegh, de Woleghe, or de Wolcigh, as in old documents it is variously spelt) is the eldest branch of one settled in Longdendale, co. Chester, as early as the reign of King JOHN. It enjoyed from early times the then highly honourable distinction of bearing a crest, as appears from the will of WILLIAM, son of RAPE DE WOLEY, of Woley, in Hollingworth, which bears date 1308. Sibill, relict of WILLIAM DE WOLEGH, gave to her son RAPE a lease of her dowry in Wolegh, and afterwards of all her lands in Hollingworth: these deeds are dated 1330, and 6 EDWARD III.; and to the second, Robert de Staveley, William de Hyde, Thomas de Honford, John de Hollingworth, Gilbert de Godelegh, and others, are witnesses.

RAPE DE WOLEGH, of Wolegh in Hollingworth, and of Broadtham, in the parish of Moterham-in-Longdendale, leased all his lands in Hollingworth to Dr. Robert, rector of the church of Chedle in 1333. He became possessor of an estate in Broadtham from Robert del' Hageche, which remained in the family for about three hundred years. This Rape bore the arms, which, with the crest above-mentioned, were certified by the heralds in the visitations of Derbyshire in 1636 and 1662, and are still borne by the family. He d. 43 EDWARD III., leaving four sons and two daus.

ROBERT DE WOLEGH, of Broadbotham, eldest son and heir, d. in or before 13 RICHARD II., as in that year, Agnes, his relict, made over her dowry, in Broadbotham, to John de Stanelegh.

JOHN WOLEY, of Broadbotham, lived in the reigns of HENRY IV., HENRY V., and HENRY VI. His son, WILLIAM WOLEY, removed to Riber, in the parish of Matlock, co. Derby, on his marriage with Margaret, dau. and heir of John Robotham, and of Mary, his wife, who was the heiress of the ancient family of Riber (or Ribergh) of Riber. He founded a chantry, and left money for beautifying the north aisle of Matlock Church, by will dated 9 April, 1507.

JOHN WOLEY, of Riber, gave all his lands in Broadbotham, which he had received from William Woley, his father, to ANTHONY, his son and heir apparent, by deed dated 32 HENRY VIII.

ANTHONY WOLEY, of Riber, d. 4 Sept. 1578, and was buried in the north aisle of Matlock Church, where there is a monument erected to his memory, and to that of Ann, his wife, by whom he had issue,

- I. Adam, of Riber, and of Overton Hall, m. Elizabeth, eldest dau. of W. Middleton, Esq. of Wannesley, co. Notts, d. 12 April, 17 JAMES I.: he left issue,
 1. William, of Riber, who d. in Sept. 1666, without surviving offspring.
 2. ANTHONY, to whom his father bequeathed his ancestor's lands in Broadbotham, co. Chester, d. in 1666, leaving three daus., and one only surviving son, who came into possession of the estates on the death of his uncle, ANTHONY, of Riber, d. in 1669, aged 25, unm., when the male descendants of Adam Woley became extinct, and the Riber estates passed away.

- II. JOHN, of Allen Hill. III. Edward.
- IV. Thomas, of Bonsall.

JOHN WOLLEY, of Allen Hill, second son of ANTHONY WOLLEY, of Riber, who gave him his estate at Allen Hill, 15 ELIZABETH, A.D. 1573, which has ever since been the possession of his descendants, m. Mary, dau. of T. Revell, and d. 8 June, 1585, leaving issue,

- I. ADAM.
- II. John, from whom descended the Wolleys of Marston-upon-Dove, of whom the last was William Wolley, Esq. of Darley Abbey, son of William Wolley, who wrote a history of Derbyshire in 1712. A younger branch, the Wolleys of Sapperton Hall, ended in an heiress about 1670.

The eldest son,

ADAM WOLLEY, of Allen Hill, b. in 1558, lived seventy-six years in wedlock with his wife, Grace, dau. of H. Hayward, of Darley, who survived him twelve years; he d. in 1657, aged 100, having had three sons,

- I. ANTHONY, of Allen Hill, d. 5 May, 1655, leaving three sons and one dau.
- II. John, of the Greenhills, buried at Matlock, 30 Dec. 1670.
- III. Edward (Rev.), vicar of Crich, d. in June, 1628.

JOHN WOLLEY, of Allen Hill, eldest son of Anthony, and grandson of Adam Wolley, of Allen Hill, m. Catharine, dau. of Robert Raines, of Wendesley Hall, and d. in April, 1669, leaving his eldest son, ADAM, in possession of the estates.

ADAM WOLLEY, of Allen Hill, grandson of the last-mentioned Adam, b. 8 Oct. 1728, s. to Allen Hill after his brother, John Wolley, who d. unm., 4 April, 1794. He d. 28 July, 1801, having had three sons,

- I. John, b. 23 May, 1752, d. unm. 12 Jan. 1821.
- II. Joseph, b. 16 March, 1754, d. unm. 30 May, 1758.
- III. ADAM, upon whom the real estates devolved on the death of his brother John.

This

ADAM WOLLEY, of Allen Hill and Matlock, b. 18 Jan. 1758, eminent as a genealogist and topographer, bequeathed his MSS. to the British Museum, where they are highly valued, in connexion with the Derbyshire history. He m. 10 Jan. 1793, Ann, dau. of Anthony Eaton, Esq. of Bonsall, and d. 21 July, 1827, leaving his two daus. co-heirs,

- I. MARY, b. 26 April, 1799, m. the Rev. J.-F.-T. Hurt, now the Rev. J.-F.-T. Wolley, of Allen Hill. She d. 3 May, 1844, and was buried in the family vault in Matlock parish church.

- I. Joan. II. Elizabeth.

On his death he was s. in his estates by his eldest son, BENEDICT WODEHOUSE, de Wodehouse, who m. 1st, in 1554, Catharine, widow of John Foxall, Esq., and had by this lady a son, Benedict, who m. and d. early, leaving a son, Thomas, who also d. young. He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, relict of W. Keeling, Esq., and by her had an only son, who succeeded him, viz.,

WALTER WODEHOUSE, de Wodehouse, who inherited the estates of Womburne Wodehouse. He m. Joan, dau. of William Hopkyns, Esq., and had issue, I. FRANCIS, his heir; I. Margery; and II. Elizabeth. The son,

FRANCIS WODEHOUSE, of Wodehouse, s. his father, Walter, in the reign of King JAMES I., and m. Eleanor, dau. of W. Grosvenor, Esq. of Morfe, by which lady he left issue,

- I. JOHN, his heir.
- II. Walter, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of J. Coke, Esq., and left a dau., Elizabeth.
- III. Francis.

This gentleman changed the name of the estate from Wodehouse to Woodhouse—Wood, in the ancient English was written Wode.—See CHAUCER, GOWER, &c.

JOHN WOODHOUSE, of Woodhouse, m., in the reign of King JAMES I., the dau. and heiress of — Huntbach,* Esq., and left five sons,

- I. EDWARD, his successor.
- II. Francis, d. unm.
- III. JOHN, of whom presently.
- IV. Walter, d. s. p.
- V. Jonathan, d. s. p.

John Woodhouse was s. in the Womburne Woodhouse estates by his eldest son, EDWARD WOODHOUSE, of Woodhouse, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of J. Gough, Esq. of Old Fallings, co. Stafford, and had issue, I. John, II. Edward, and III. Francis, who all d. young. Edward Woodhouse, having no son living, and his only surviving brother, JOHN, having separated himself from his family, by the decided part he took against them in the national and religious quarrels of the times, the estates of Woodhouse (not being entailed on the male heir) were left away by him from the legal and rightful successor, and passed in the female line into the family of Huntbach, and thence into that of Sir Samuel Hellier.

JOHN WOODHOUSE,† third son of John Woodhouse, of Woodhouse, by his wife, the dau. of Mr. Huntbach, is erroneously stated, in Shaw's pedigree, to have d. unm. This mistake probably arose from the separation and quarrel, before alluded to, between himself and his family, and also from the fact of his having married late in life, and resided in Leicestershire. He m. the only dau. and heiress of Major Hubbard, of Rearsby Hall, co. Leicester, and left three sons,

- I. WILLIAM, who s. to his mother's estates at Rearsby, which afterwards passed in the female line to JOHN WOODHOUSE SIMPSON, Esq., the present possessor.
- II. George, d. unm.
- III. JOHN.

The third son,

JOHN WOODHOUSE, b. in 1677, m. Hannah, dau. of S. Sully, Esq., and dying in 1783, left (with two daus., Elizabeth and Hannah) an only son,

WILLIAM WOODHOUSE, b. in 1710, who m. Mary Mompesson, granddau. and heir of William Chappell, Esq. of Southwell, Nottinghamshire, and by her (who d. in 1802) had issue,

* Mr. Huntbach, an antiquarian of repute, collected and digested much valuable information respecting the early descent of this family. (See Shaw's History of Staffordshire; Plot also in the map of Staffordshire published in his Natural History of Staffordshire, describes the arms of Woodhouse, with a reference to the residence of the family at Womburne Woodhouse.)

† This gentleman was educated in one of our universities for holy orders, when he took part in the schisms of the presbyterians. Endowed with high talents, he afterwards opened an academy at Sheriff Hales, Salop, for the education of young men whose principles excluded them from the universities. Many of his scholars became able speakers in both houses of parliament, and particularly Harley, Earl of Oxford.

- I. JOHN-CHAPPEL, his heir.

- I. Hannah, } twins, d. young.
- II. Margaret, } twins, d. young.
- III. Mary, d. young.
- IV. Elizabeth, d. in 1817.
- V. Anne, m. to William Holbech, Esq. of Farnborough, co. Warwick.

Mr. Woodhouse d. in 1755, and was s. by his only son,

THE REV. JOHN-CHAPPEL WOODHOUSE, b. in 1749. This eminent divine was educated at Christ Church, Oxford, and, upon taking holy orders, was presented by the late Duke of Sutherland, then Marquess of Stafford, to the living of Donnington, co. Salop. In 1805, he published WOODHOUSE'S Annotations on the Apocalypse, which he re-edited, at the request of Dr. Van Mildert, Regius professor of Divinity at Oxford, and afterwards Bishop of Durham. The following testimony to the excellence of the work may be seen in a copy of this book, preserved in the library of Hartlebury Castle, which Hurd, Bishop of Worcester, bequeathed to his successors in the see, which is thus written in his lordship's own handwriting: "This is the best book of its kind that I have seen; it owes its superiority chiefly to two things—1. The author's understanding, for the most part, the apocalyptic symbols in a spiritual, not in a literal sense. 2. To the care he has taken to fix the precise import to those symbols, from the use made of them by the old prophetic and other writers of the Old and New Testament. Still many difficulties remain, and will remain to the time of the end. R. W. 15th March 1806." Mr. Woodhouse who was archdeacon of Salop was appointed, in 1807, to the deanery of Lichfield, where he chiefly resided in his latter years. He was a great benefactor to the cathedral church, and presented it with the beautiful painted window in the north transept. He d. sincerely lamented, 17 Nov. 1833. He m. Merrey Peate, an heiress to considerable landed property in Lincolnshire, and by this lady (who d. in 1826) he had issue,

- I. Chappel, b. in 1780, who m. 3 Feb. 1812, Amelia, youngest dau. of the late Sir Charles Oakeley, first bart., and d. 8 Feb. 1815, leaving issue, John-Chappel, b. 28 Dec. 1813, d. in Oct. 1821. WILLIAM-HERBERT, successor to his grandfather.
- I. Ellen-Jane, m. 1st, the Rev. W. Robinson, rector of Swinnerton, by whom (who d. in 1812) she had two daus., who both d. young; 2ndly, she m. Hugh-Dyke Acland Esq., second son of the late Sir Thomas Acland, Bart. and left a son, Hugh-Woodhouse Acland; and 3rdly Richard Hinchley, Esq. of Beacon House, Lichfield.
- II. Mary-Anne, who d. 11 June, 1843.

Dean Woodhouse was s. at his decease, by his grandson the present WILLIAM-HERBERT WOODHOUSE, Esq. of Woolmers.

WOODYEARE OF CROOKHILL.

WOODYEARE, THE REV. JOHN-FOUNTAIN-WOODYEARE, of Crookhill, co. York, m. 8 August, 1843, Mary-Jane, dau. of the late William Phillips, Esq., and has a son, FOUNTAIN-WILLIAM, b. 6 April, 1846. Mr. Woodyeare s. his father in Feb. 1841.

Lineage.

This family is of Kentish origin; the earliest mention we have of the name is that of WILLIAM WODIER, of Chatham, co. Kent, in whose will, dated in 1454, he names his son ROBERT: from them (most probably) descended

EDWARD WODYEAR, of Cowling, or Cooling, co. Kent, b. circiter 1520, whose will is dated 1583; he had two sons,

WILLIAM, of whom presently.

Edward, who d. in 1586, leaving issue, one son, Robert, and three daus., Elizabeth, Alice, and Thomasine.

The eldest son,

WILLIAM WODYEARE, of Cowling, co. Kent, m. Ann, dau. of William Fant; his will, dated 5 Jan. 1605, was proved at Rochester, 26 Oct. 1607: they had issue five sons, viz.,

- i. Thomas, of Cowling, who m. Mary, dau. of William Lynche, Gent., and d. 11 June, 1611, leaving issue, one son, William, of North Weald Basset, co. Essex, and two daus.
- ii. William, M.A., of the university of Cambridge.
- iii. George, of Bully Hill, near Rochester, m. Mary, dau. of George Wardegar, of Bully Hill; they both d. in 1640, leaving, besides three sons and four daus.,
GEORGE, his son and heir, who in 1663 appeared and entered his arms and descent at the visitation of Kent. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of John Clarke, Gent., and by her had one dau., Mary; 2ndly, Martha, dau. and heiress of George Hasden, of Shorne, co. Kent, and by her had one son, William, and four daus., all living in 1671, in which year their father died.
- iv. RICHARD, of whom presently.
- v. Robert, who d. in 1607 or 1608.

The fourth son,

RICHARD WOODYEARE, of Cowling, D.D. of the University of Cambridge, and prebendary of Rochester. This gentleman m. Katharine, dau. of Ambrose Eggleston, Esq. of Eggleston Hall, co. Laneaster, and had issue (besides Richard and Thomas) a son, WILLIAM WOODYEARE, Gent. of York and Crookhill, b. at Rochester, St. Andrew's day, 30 Nov. 1616, m. 18 July, 1649, Grace, dau. of Francis Wood, Gent. of the Minster Yard, York. He d. 19 Aug. 1689, having had issue,

- i. Thomas, b. 18 July, 1652, d. in 1667.
- ii. GEORGE, of whom presently.
- i. Judith.
- ii. Katherine, wife of Thomas Thompson, Gent.
- iii. Ann, d. young. iv. Mary.
- v. Elizabeth, wife of the Rev. John Bradley, prebendary of York.

The second son,

GEORGE WOODYEARE, Esq. of Crookhill, b. 20 Aug. 1656, (sometime secretary to Sir William Temple,) m. 21 Feb. 1687, Alice, sole dau. of the Rev. Richard Tatham, rector of Kirklington, co. York, and had (besides two sons, Richard, M.A. of Christ College, Cambridge, and vicar of Hutton Bushel, co. York, and George, and two daus., Eleanor and Katherine, all of whom d. unm.) an eldest son, WILLIAM, his heir; and a dau., Mary, m. to Francis Drake, Esq. of York, F.S.A., author of Eboracum. Mr. Woodyeare d. 11 Nov. 1710, and was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM WOODYEARE, Esq. of Crookhill, and the Middle Temple, London, b. 19 March, 1689, who m. Catherine, dau. of John Revel, Esq. of Ogston, co. Derby, widow of Sir Paul Jenkinson, Bart. of Walton, in the same shire, and sister and co-heir (with Mary, wife of Richard Turbutt, Esq. of Doncaster) of William Revel, Esq. of Ogston. By this lady (who d. at Bath, in 1749) Mr. Woodyeare had issue,

- i. William, d. unm., a student at Cambridge, aged 19.
- ii. JOHN, of whom presently.
- iii. George, d. an infant.
- i. Mary, m. 17 Dec. 1759, the Hon. Morgan Vane, brother of Lord Darlington, and second son of Gilbert, Lord Barnard, and d. 11 July, 1771, leaving an only child, Mary, who d. in 1778.

Mr. Woodyeare, who was deputy-lieut. for co. Derby, and for the West Riding of Yorkshire, d. in 1748, aged 59, and was s. by his son,

JOHN WOODYEARE, Esq. of Crookhill, justice of the peace and deputy-lieutenant for the West Riding of Yorkshire, bapt. 27 Feb. 1727, m. 19 Feb. 1761, Frances, eldest dau. of Richard Turbutt, Esq. of Doncaster. (This gentleman sold the estates at Walton and other places in Derbyshire, which had descended to him from the Jenkinsons and Revels.) By his wife (who d. 28 March, 1810) he had issue (besides two daus., who d. young) three daus. and co-heirs,

- i. Mary, b. 23 Nov. 1763, m. in 1791, Charles Tibbits, Esq. of Barton Seagrave, co. Northampton.
- ii. Eleanor, b. 12 March, 1765, m. in Dec. 1791, John Dod, Esq. of Cloverley, co. Salop.
- iii. FRANCES, of whom we treat, b. 20 May, 1767, m. 10 Feb. 1801, Fountain-John Elwin, Esq., grandson of Peter Elwin, Esq. of Boton, co. Norfolk. This gentleman, in pursuance of a covenant in his marriage settlement, assumed at the death of his father-in-law, in 1812, the surname and arms of WOODYEARE only, and became FOUNTAIN-JOHN WOODYEARE. The issue of this marriage was,
1. JOHN-FOUNTAIN-WOODYEARE, in holy orders, the present proprietor.
2. Richard-Peter, lieut. in H. M. 64th regt., d. at Fort George, Port Antonio, Jamaica, and was there buried, 10 Aug. 1835, aged 25 years.
- i. Frances-Ann, m. in 1846, to the Rev. Edward Mainwaring.

Mr. Fountain-John Woodyeare, of Crookhill, (jure uxoris) d. 25 Feb. 1841, and was s. by his only surviving son, the present REV. JOHN-FOUNTAIN-WOODYEARE WOODYEARE, of Crookhill: his widow survived till 12 June, 1844.

WOOLRYCH OF CROXLEY HOUSE.

WOOLRYCH, HUMPHRY - WILLIAM, Esq. of Croxley House, co. Herts, b. 24 Sept. 1795; m. 3 July, 1817, Penelope, youngest dau. of Frances Bradford, Esq. of Great Westwood, in the same county, and has issue,

- I. HUMPHRY-FITZROY.
- II. Francis-Benson-William.
- III. William-Richard.
- I. Penelope.
- II. Mary-Anne.
- III. Anna-Maria.
- IV. Elizabeth.

Mr. Woolrych is a barrister-at-law of the Inner Temple, and a magistrate for co. Herts, and for the liberty of St. Alban. He s. his father, the late Humphry-Cornewall Woolrych, Esq. of Croxley House.

Lineage.

The family of Wolrich, or Woolrych, took its rise in the county of Chester, where WULFRIC, its founder, was living in the time of EDWARD the Confessor, and derive descent from the Saxon Earls of Mercia. (See family of WOLRICH, under STANSFELD of BURLEYWOOD.) The estate of Dudmaston, where the family were seated in co. Salop, was acquired by WILLIAM WOLRYCHE, Esq. of Wenlock, by his marriage with Mary, dau. and heir of Hugh de Dudmaston, of Dudmaston, co. Salop, ninth in descent from Harlewin de Batailles, to whom Herbert, son of Hologod, Lord of Castle Holgate, granted "one half hide of land which is called Dodemaneston," before the year 1167. About the end of Queen MARY's reign, or the beginning of that of ELIZABETH, a member of the Shropshire family separated from the parent stem, and settled in Herefordshire. This second stock continued there located for a great number of years, and it is believed that its descendants are still extant in that county. The ancient chapel at Dynmore, now in ruins, affords ample proof of the antiquity of the Woolryches, and the old chapel at Quatt, near which Dudmaston is situated, has many splendid monuments which bear testimony to the high consideration of the name. The grandson of William Wolryche and the heiress of Dudmaston,

ANDREW WOLRYCHE, Esq., M.P. for Bridgenorth in 1435, was father of

THOMAS WOLRYCHE, Esq. of Dudmaston, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of William Rowley, Esq. of Staffordshire, and was father of two sons. The younger, SIR WILLIAM WOLRICH, was ancestor of the Wolriches of Alconbury, co. Suffolk, of Bishopbourne, co. Kent, and of Armley House, near Leeds, (see under STANSFELD of BURLEYWOOD.) The elder son,

HUMPHRY WOLRYCHE, Esq., who appears in the list of the lords, knights, esquires, and gentlemen resident in Shropshire, anno 17 HENRY VII., m. Ellen, dau. of Sir Hugh Pershall, Knt., and had issue,

- I. Roger, m. Katherine, sister of Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, and d. s. p.
- II. JOHN, who m. "the fair maid of Gatacre," Mary, only dau. of Gatacre of Gatacre, and was great-grandfather of THOMAS WOLRICH, Esq. of Dudmaston, b. in 1598, M.P. for Wenlock from 1620 to 1625, who, at the breaking out of the civil wars, joined the royal standard, and was appointed governor of Bridgenorth by the king. He was a severe sufferer for his unbending loyalty; he was created a baronet, 4 Aug. 1641, and was ancestor, by Ursula, his wife, dau. of Thomas Oteley, Esq. of Pitchford, co. Salop, of the Wolrich's, baronets, (for which see BURKE's Extinct Baronetage.) Sir John, the fourth and last baronet, was drowned in the Severn. Dudmaston Hall came, afterwards, by family arrangements, into the hands of the Whitmores of Shropshire.

- III. EDWARD, of whose line we treat.

Of EDWARD WOLRYCHE, Esq. of Dynmore, co. Hereford, the third son, the descendant and representative was JOHN WOOLRYCH, Esq. of Dynmore, who m. Ellen, dau. and heiress of Humphrey Cornewall, Esq. of Keppermoule, co. Hereford, and had issue,

- I. Edmund, of Kippermoule, co. Hereford.
- II. John.
- III. HUMPHRY.

The third son,

HUMPHRY WOOLRYCH, Esq. of Wellington, co. Hereford, m. Mary, dau. of Daniel Andrews, Esq. of Wellington, and left an only son and heir, HUMPHRY-CORNEWALL WOOLRYCH, Esq. of Croxley House, who m. 12 Sept. 1793, Elizabeth, eldest dan. and co-heir of William Bentley, Esq. of Red Lion-square, London, and by her had an only son, the present HUMPHRY-WILLIAM WOOLRYCH, Esq. of Croxley House.

Seat—Croxcley House, Rickmansworth, Herts.

WORGE OF BATTLE.

DUKE, GEORGE, Esq. of Hemingfold, Battle, co. Sussex, of Grays-inn, barrister-at-law, eldest son of William Duke, by Jane Worge, b. 26 Feb. 1803; m. in 1829, Emma, dau. of Robert Kirby, Esq., Sheriff of London and Middlesex.

Lineage.

The family of Worge is a very old one in East Sussex.* The first mention of the name on record is in a deed of the year 1312, of Sir Hugh de la Chamhre, of Laughton, settling estates near Eastbourne, and to which Rohertus de Wyrche is one of the witnesses; and several of the family sat as burgesses in parliament for the borough of East Grinstead, in the several reigns of RICHARD II., HENRY IV., V., and VI.

In the beginning of the 17th century, we find settled at Eastbourne, JOHN WORGE, a substantial yeoman and considerable landed proprietor, who d. in 1654, leaving by his wife, Elizabeth, an only son,

THOMAS WORGE, of Eastbourne, who was twice married. His second wife was Rose, widow of Francis Middleton, Esq. of Hurst Barnes, in Chailey, who was fourth dan. of John Roberts, of Waterend, Herts, by Dorothy, only surviving child of Michael Hamon, of Picton, Herefordshire, which Michael m. Etheldred, second dan. of George Butler, Esq., (ancestor of the Earls of Lanesborough,) of Stratford, Beds, 1575, by Dorothy, his wife, dau. of Stephen, and sister of Sir Stephen Beckingham, of Toleshunt Beckingham, in Essex. He d. in 1687, leaving by his first wife, Margaret, two sons, Thomas Worge, whose descendants are all now extinct; and

GEORGE WORGE, of London and Eastbourne, who m. Elizabeth Fleming, a lady of family and fortune, and dying in 1692, left by her two daus., Elizabeth, wife of John Crowhurst, of Searlands, and Ann, wife of Francis Gell, of Westham, and one son,

THOMAS WORGE, of Eastbourne, who m. in 1704, Mary, dau. of Thomas Alchorne, Esq. of Eastbourne Place, sheriff of Sussex in 1700, of an ancient family, lords of the manor of Alchorne, in Sussex, by Frances, dau. of John, and grandchild of Sir Laurence de la Chambre, of Rodmill, Knt. Frances de la Chambre was executrix to her father's will, and devisee under the same, of the estate in Laughton, (called Chambers Court,) which, with Chambers Court in Littleington, had been among the possessions of the family from the time of her ancestors, Hugh de la Chambre, and his son, Gerard de la Chambre, who held an appointment under the crown in the port of Chichester, in the reign of EDWARD II. The family, from the Conquest down, held large estates in many parts of Pevensey Rape and East Sussex.† The issue were,

- I. GEORGE, of Starrs Green, Battle, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Collier, Esq. of Hastings.
- II. Richard-Alchorne, a major-general in the army, and governor of the British settlements in Senegambia, whose only dau. m. Sir Richard de Capell Broke, Bart.
- III. John, Lieut.-col. of the 16th foot, whose only surviving descendants are the children of his dau., Mary, who m. Samuel Smith, of London, merchant.

* From this family descended Sir Clement Wearg, Knt., solicitor-general in the reign of GEORGE I., and also the family of the present Mr. Werge, late of Hexgrave Park, and now of Woodborough Hall, Nottinghamshire.

† The name is written Chamberay, in the Battle Abbey Roll; also Chambrey; in the muniments of Battle Abbey, it is varied sometimes to De Camera, and Camerarius.

I. Jane, m. to David Jenner, Gent. of Eastbourne, by whom she had one son, THOMAS, of whom presently, and two daus., who both d. s. p.

The eldest son,

GEORGE WORGE dying without issue, left his estates in Battle and elsewhere to his nephew, THOMAS, only son of his sister, Jane Jenner, who assumed the name of WORGE, by act of parliament, 8 GEO. III., cap. 29, and became,

THOMAS WORGE, Esq. of Starrs Green, who m. Elizabeth, only child and heiress of George Weller, Gent. of Tonbridge, (son of George and Mary Weller) by Elizabeth Cook, and by her bad,

I. GEORGE, of Starrs Green, who d. s. p. in 1816, and whose representatives have lately, on the termination of some Chancery suits, sold Starrs Green.

I. JANE, who m. William Duke, and dying in 1813, left four children,

1. GEORGE DUKE, heir-at-law to his uncle, George Worge, successor to the property called Cogerst, and Little Hemingfold, in Battle, under the Worge and Weller settlements, and with his brother and sisters, to the remaining Worge and Weller property.

2. William Duke, of the university of Oxford, M.D.

1. Elizabeth, m. to Robert Borradaile, Esq.

2. Jane, m. to Richard Day, Esq.

Mr. Worge, by a second wife, also left one son, JOHN, who s. to the property in Eastbourne and Arlington.

Arms—Gu., a fesse, cotised, or, in chief three lions' heads, erased, of the last, quartering the arms of WELLER, JENNER, ALCHORNE, and DE LA CHAMBE.

Crest—A lion's head, erased.

The family of Duke.

The Dukes are descendants of an old Presbyterian family of that name in Sussex.

WAVERNOT DUKE, of Bexhill, anno 1634, m. Elizabeth Duke, widow, and by her had two sons, Thomas Duke, a Turkey merchant, d. s. p.; and

JOHN DUKE, of Bexhill, who by his wife, Mary, had a numerous family, of whom one was Solomon Duke, Gent. of Battle, m. Mary Durrant, of Waldron; and

THOMAS DUKE, eldest son, of Hirschington, in Bexhill, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Longley, of Battle, by whom he had, William Duke, d. s. p.; Elizabeth, wife of John Cruttenden, (whose family in Burwash, as well as that of his mother, Everenden, of Seddlescomb, and grandmother Roberts, of Tieburst, were all very ancient Sussex families;) Mary, wife of Francis Wood, whose issue is now extinct; and

THOMAS DUKE, of Hirschington, (cousin to William Duke, surgeon, of Battle,) who m. Mary, dau. of William Cramp, by Hannah, dau. of Samuel and Mildred Jury, and had Thomas, d. s. p.; William, of Hirschington, d. s. p. in 1825; John, youngest son, m. and had issue; and

SOLOMON DUKE, surgeon, of Battle, the father (by Elizabeth Weaver, his first wife) of William Duke, Esq. of Battle, Bexhill, and Hastings, who m. Jane Worge.

Arms—Per chev., arg. and az., three chaplets, two and one, counterchanged.

Mr. Worthington, formerly an officer in the Royal Horse-guards, (Blue,) is a magistrate of the co. of Chester.

Lineage.

Derived in the male line from ancestors established in high repute in the palatinate of Lancaster, from the time of the Plantagenets, the WORTHINGTONS of ASHTON HAYES and SANDIWAY, represent through the heiress of a branch of the princely line of O'Farrell of Annaly, the eminent Cheshire bouse of Dod of the Lower Hall of Broxton, and branches of many of the most distinguished families in the north of England, including Norreys of Speke, the parent stock of the Earls of Abingdon; Molyneux of Crosby, a scion of the noble house of Sefton; Villiers of Crosby, a senior branch of the ducal stem of Buckingham, and the baronial line of Harrington. They are also co-representatives of the potent palatine Earls of Chester.

In the Hundred of Leyland, Parish of Standish, and Palatinate of Lancaster is situated the manor of Worthington, which, at an early period, gave name to a family seated in the direct line, as well as in its various branches, for centuries in the same locality, maintaining a distinguished position amongst the chief Lancashire proprietors, and allying with its most eminent houses. The main stock established at Worthington is recorded in the heralds' visitations, and can be traced through the public archives as far back as the time of HENRY III. In the 20th of that monarch's reign, the name of William de Worthington occurs in the Testa de Nevill, and in the 15 EDWARD II, (1322) by the same authority, fol. 397, William de Worthington held half a Knight's fee in Worthington. In the 5th of the next reign, William de Worthington is mentioned; and in the 20th, Hugh de Worthington and John de Heton, as holding half a Knight's fee in Worthington, in the hundred of Leyland. Subsequently we find recorded John de Worthington, 43 EDWARD III., Richard de Worthington, 20 RICHARD II., Ralph de Worthington, 1 HENRY V., and Henry de Worthington, 18 HENRY VI. The stem itself, Worthington of Worthington, we shall deduce in detail in the sequel. Of the derivative branches, the earliest appears to have been that founded by the marriage of a Worthington with the dau. and sole-heir of Adam Blainscough, of Blainscough, and the entry of its pedigree in the Visitation commences with

HENRY WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Blainscough, in the township of Copull, co. Lancaster, "descended of a second brother of Worthington of Worthington, one of whose sons married the dau. and sole heir of Blainscough of Blainscough." He m. a dau. of Heyton of Heyton, co. Lancaster, and was father of a son and heir,

PETER WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Blainscough, witness, with Hugh Worthington, of Worthington, to deeds of the manor of Adlington, in the parish of Standish, 9 EDW. IV. 1470. He m. the dau. and heir of Richard Lowde, of Preston, in Amounderness, and had issue, i. RICHARD; ii. Edward, living 12 HENRY VIII.; i. Margaret, who d. s. p.; ii. Jane, who m. Halsall, of Whitley, co. Lancaster. The eldest son,

RICHARD WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Blainscough, d. seised, 22 Dec., 18 HENRY VIII., 1527, of lands in Copull, beld of Richard Worthington, of Worthington, (Inq. p. mort.) He m. Agnes, dau. of Henry Rushton, of Dunckhall, co. Lancaster, widow of Holcroft, and subsequently wife of Robert Bolton, Esq., of Bolton, co. Lancaster. By this lady, Richard Worthington had issue (with a younger son, William, and a dau., Margaret, wife of Edward Banaster, of Bank) an eldest son and heir,

PETER WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Blainscough, aged 12 years, 20 HENRY VIII., 1529, who d. 19 Sept., 19 ELIZ., 1577. He m. Isabel, dau. of James Anderton, of Euxton, co. Lancaster, Esq., by Anne, his wife, widow of Thomas Farrington, of Farrington, co. Lancaster, Esq., and dau. of Henry Banister, of Bank, co. Lancaster, Esq., and had issue, i. RICHARD; ii. James; iii. William; iv. Thomas; i. Anna, who m. Robert Whely, of Copull; ii. Isabel, who m. Robert Werden, of Clayton; iii. Alice, iv. Anne, or Agnes; v. Helen. Peter Worthington was s. by his eldest son and heir,

RICHARD WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Blainscough, 40 years of age in 1578, who d. 25 Sept., 32 ELIZABETH. He m. Dorothy, dau. of Thomas Charnock, Esq. of Charnock, co. Lancaster, and by her (who was living 18 JAMES I.) had a son and heir,

THOMAS WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Blainscough, 23 years of age, 32 ELIZABETH, who d. 6 July, 17 JAMES I. He m. Mary, dau. and heir of John Allen, of Rossall, Esq., and by her (who was living 18 JAMES I.) had issue, i. WILLIAM; ii. Richard; i. Anne; ii. Mary. The eldest son, WILLIAM WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Blainscough, was aged 17, in 17 JAMES I.

The second line which the Heralds give in the Visitations, is that of Crosshawe, commencing with

CHRISTOPHER WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Crosshawe, witness to deeds of the manor of Adlington, in the parish of Standish, 9 EDWARD IV., 1470. He m. Joan, dau. and co-heir of William Thornton, of Thornton, co. Lancaster, Esq., and by her (who d. on Wednesday next before the Feast of All Saints, 17 HENRY VII., seised of lands in Thornton, in Amounderness) had issue,

LAWRENCE WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Crosshawe, 30 years of age, 17 HENRY VII., 1502. He m. Margaret, dau. of Carlton of Carlton, who d. about the 38 HENRY VIII. Their son,

CHRISTOPHER WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Crosshawe, by the description of Christopher Worthington, of Adlington, demised lands in Thornton, 19 HENRY VIII., for 39 years from the death of Margaret, his mother. This gentleman, who was living 4 and 5 PHILIP and MARY, was father, by Alice, his wife, dau. of John Holcroft, of Holcroft, of a successor,

LAWRENCE WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Crosshawe, living in 1600. He m. Alice, dau. of Alexander Lever, of Chamber, and had issue,

I. THOMAS.

ii. James, of Snithell, co. Lancaster, and of Barnard's Inn, co. Middlesex, who m. Anne, bapt. at Dean, co. Lancaster, on Easter day, 1530, dau. and sole heir of Roger Pendlebury, of Smithell, by Anne, dau. of Adam Eccleston, of Great Eccleston, and co-heir of Adam Eccleston, his nephew. Of this marriage there was issue,

1. Raufe, son and heir, aged 12, anno 1613.

2. Lawrence.

1. Anne. 2. Frances. 3. Arabella.

Lawrence Worthington was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Crosshawe, Adlington, and Croston, 1615 and 1616, who (by his wife, dau. of John Gillibrand, of Chorley) had issue,

i. LAWRENCE, son and heir, aged 16, anno 1613.

ii. William.

i. Jane. ii. Eliza. iii. Margaret.

iv. Anne. v. Dorothy. vi. Alice.

vii. Ellen. viii. Mary.

Third in the Visitations occurs the pedigree of the Shevington branch, derived from

WILLIAM WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Shevington, in the parish of Standish, co. Lancaster, "younger brother of the family of Worthington of Worthington," who was witness to deeds of the manor of Adlington, in the parish of Standish, 9 EDWARD IV., 1470. He m. a dau. of Bradshaw, of Litherland, co. Lancaster, and was s. by his son,

NICOLAS WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Shevington, who had issue, by Jauc, his wife, dau. of Richard Laughtree, of Langtree, co. Lancaster,

I. ALEXANDER.

i. Margaret, who m. John Rowe.

ii. Catherine, who m. 1st, John Kellett, and 2ndly, Richard Dickenson.

iii. Lowry, who m. — Bickell.

iv. Grace, who m. Richard Ringe.

The son,

ALEXANDER WORTHINGTON, of Shevington, m. Amcry, or Marian, co-heir of Thomas Duxhury, of the county of Lancaster, seised in her lifetime of lands in Orrell, in Macclesfield. By this lady, who was mother, by her 2nd bushand, Richard Augustine Whitfield, of William Whitfield, and who d. about 25 Dec. 1585, Alexander Worthington was father of

NICOLAS WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Shevington, 1567, who by deed dated 21 April, 7 JAMES I., conveyed the manor of Shevington to Robert Hesketh, of Rufforth, co. Lancaster. He m. Agnes, dau. of Thomas Worthington, Esq. of Worthington, and was father of a dau. and heiress, MARGARET WORTHINGTON, of Shevington, who m. 14 ELIZABETH, Edward Chisnall, of Chisnall.

Reverting to the parent stock, Worthington of Worthington, we find the entry in the Visitations commencing with Hugh Worthington, of Worthington, witness with Peter Worthington, of Blainscough, Christopher Worthington, of Crosshawe, and William Worthington, of Shevington, to deeds of the manor of Adlington, 9 EDWARD IV., and cotemporary with Henry Worthington, to whom we have already referred, as recorded in the Testa de Nevill. This Hugh, who held the lordship of Worthington, 13 EDWARD IV., was father of

WILLIAM WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Worthington, who m. Jane, youngest dau. (by Percival, dau. and heiress of John Harrington, of Westley, co. Lancaster, derived from a younger son of the baronial house of Harrington) of William Norreys, Esq., of Speke, co. Lancaster, son and heir of Sir Henry Norreys, Knt. of Speke, (see NORREYS OF DAVYHULME HALL,) by Alice, dau. and heir of Roger Erenais, of Chester, by his wife, a dau. and heir of Sir John Molineux, of Crosby. Of this marriage there was issue a son,

RICHARD WORTHINGTON, Esq. of Worthington, of whom Edward, Earl of Derby, in 15 HENRY VIII., 1524, held the manor of Copull, by the service of a red rose, and of whom Roger Ashton, Esq., 33 HENRY VIII., 1542, held lands in Copull. This Richard, who was living 6 HENRY VI., m. a dau. of Holcroft, of Holcroft, co. Lancaster, and was father of

I. THOMAS.

Mr. Wray m. 2ndly, in 1831, Marianne, third
dau. of George Lloyd, Esq. He s. to the estates at the decease of his father, in 1814.

Tineage.

The family of WRAYE was originally seated at Carlton, in Covedale, Richmondshire, early in the reign of ELIZA-BETH, holding at that time grants of lands from the crown, as proved by a series of wills for two hundred and fifty years past, and other documents. The Wrays of Kelfield are the only surviving descendants of the name, sprung from the father of Lord Chief Justice (Sir Christopher) Wray. That eminent person, who d. in 1592, m. Anne, dau. of Nicholas Girlington, Esq. of Normanby, in Yorkshire, and was ancestor of the extinct baronets, whose male line expired in 1809.

RICHARD WRAYE, (brother of Sir Christopher,) settled at Kelfield, m. in 1551, and had a son,

JOHN WRAYE, b. in 1552, of Brogden House and Auburne Hall, (the Manor House,) in Kelfield, who resided previously with his uncle, at Ashby-cum-Finby, in Lincolnshire: he m. in 1587, Anne, dau. of Adam Carter, Esq., and by her had issue,

- II. GEORGE, his heir.
- I. Elizabeth.
- II. Faith.
- III. Anne.
- IV. Ursula, m. to Thomas Myres, Esq.
- V. Mary.

Mr. Wraye d. in 1647, and was s. by his son,

GEORGE WRAY, Esq. of Brogden House and Auburne Hall, in Kelfield, b. in 1638, who m. Esther, dau. of Benjamin Masterman, Esq. of Wheel Hall, and had issue,

- I. John, d. young.
- II. GEORGE, (successor to his father,) a capt. in the army, d. unm. 1762.
- III. BENJAMIN.
- I. Mary.
- II. Esther.

Mr. Wray, of Brogden House, was personally named in the deed of settlement made by the Hon. Elizabeth Sanderson, (only child and heiress of Sir John Wraye, Bart. of Glentworth House, who bequeathed her estates, first, to Sir Drury Wraye, Bart., and his descendants, all now extinct, and afterwards to the Wrayes of Kelfield.) He d. in 1714. The second surviving son,

BENJAMIN WRAY, Esq., b. in 1693, of Kelfield, and afterwards of Thorp Arch, Yorkshire, was also personally named in the Hon. Mrs. Sanderson's deed of settlement. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Ofram, Esq. of York, and had issue,

- I. George, b. in 1722, and d. in 1734.
- II. HENRY, his heir.

- II. Anne.
- III. Henrietta.
- IV. Luey, m. to William Brown, Esq., R.N.

Mr. Wray d. in Nov. 1752, and was s. by his son,

THE REV. HENRY WRAY, A.M., b. in 1727, heir and possessor of Brogden House, and several parts of the states of Kelfield, rector of Newton Kyme, in Yorkshire, vicar of Hadfield, Broad Oak, Essex, and a deputy-lieut. of the West Riding of the former county. He m. in 1776, Susanna, second dau. of George Lloyd, Esq. of Hulme Hall, near Manchester, and had issue,

- I. CECIL-DANIEL, his heir.
- II. George, A.M., in holy orders, rector of Cowesby, in Yorkshire, b. in 1781, m. in 1816, Caroline, dau. of William Wainman, Esq. of Carr Head, in that co., and has a son.
- I. Harriet.

Mr. Wray, who would have possessed the Hon. Mrs. Sanderson's estates, being the sole remainder heir male named, had they not been barred by the late Sir Cecil Wray, Bart., d. in March, 1814, and was s. by his elder son, the present REV. CECIL-DANIEL WRAY, of Kelfield.

| III. Francis-Beresford. | IV. Fitzherbert. |
| I. Agnes. | II. Elizabeth. |
| III. Selina. | IV. Frances. |
| V. Mary. | VI. Judith. |

Mr. Wright, a magistrate for cos. Nottingham and Derby, served as high-sheriff of the former in 1842. He s. his father, John Wright, Esq., 21 April, 1840.

Lineage.

JOHN WRIGHT, b. 7 Aug. 1614, captain in General Whalley's regiment of horse, and subsequently in Colonel Hutchinson's regiment of infantry, raised at Nottingham in 1643; was imprisoned at Hasdrek House by Sir Francis Leake, 12 Oct. 1663, and afterwards removed to Newark Castle, where he remained till July, 1671. On the seventh of that month, he was arraigned before Judge Hale, at the King's Bench, when nothing was laid to his charge. Colonel Hutchinson was appointed governor of Nottingham Castle, 29 June, 1643; the possession of it was of great importance, as it maintained the communication between the south and north of the kingdom. The invincible courage of Colonel Hutchinson, and his zeal in the service in which he was embarked, well fitted him for the trust reposed in him. The severe and long confinement which he and Captain Wright suffered for their support to the parliamentary cause is a proof that they much distinguished themselves. Colonel Hutchinson d. in Sandgate Castle, in Kent. When Captain Wright regained his liberty, he settled at Nottingham: he m. Miss Moseley, and had four children, of whom the only one to leave issue was,

WRIGHT OF KILVERSTONE.

WRIGHT, JOHN, Esq. of Kilverstone, co. Norfolk, b. 23 Jan. 1781; m. 17 April, 1809, Frances, youngest dau. of the Rev. Zachariah Rose, rector of Broughton, in Northamptonshire, and sister of John Capel Rose, Esq. of Cransby. Mr. Wright, who is in the commission of the peace and deputy-lieutenancy of Norfolk, s. his father, 12 Feb. 1793.

Lineage.

The Wrights of Kilverstone, one of the oldest families in Norfolk, and contemporaneous with the Bedingfelds, Jerninghams, Pastons, and Woodhouses, have been seated in that county from time immemorial. Owing, however, to the destruction of deeds and other documents, which were lost, with a great portion of the ancient property, by the negligence and dishonesty of guardians in long minorities, their descent can only now be authentically traced to the time of HENRY VII.

THOMAS WRIGHT, living in that reign, was father of JOHN WRIGHT, who d. seized of the manors of Tindalls and Rowses, in East Laxham, Norfolk, 32 HENRY VIII. He m. and had two sons, EDMUND, his heir; and Nicholas, who m. Anne, dau. and co-heir of Edmund Beaupre, of Beaupre Hall. The elder,

EDMUND WRIGHT, of Sutton Hall, in Brent Bradfield, Suffolk, m. 1st, Catherine, another dau. and co-heir of Edmund Beaupre, of Beaupre Hall; and 2ndly, Jane, dau. and co-heir of Sir Thomas Russell, brother to John, first Earl of Bedford, by the heiress of the family of Jerveyse, of Sutton Hall. By his second wife Edmund Wright had issue,

- I. William, who d. s. p.
- II. Edmund, of Little Buckenham, in Norfolk, and of Thwaite, in Suffolk, m. 1st, a dau. of Lord Eure, and widow of Sir John Salvin, of Yorkshire, but had no issue. He m. 2ndly, Frances, dau. of Sir John Spring, Knt. of Lavenham, in Suffolk, and had six daus., viz.,
 1. The eldest, m. to — Reeve, Esq. of Thwaite.
 2. Frances, m. to Thomas Bell.

WROWE-WALTON OF MARSDEN HALL.

WROWE-WALTON, RICHARD-THOMAS, Esq. of Marsden Hall, Lancashire, b. in 1774.

Lineage.

The family of WROWE or ROWE, as otherwise spelt, originally came from either Kent or Surrey, and thence went into Cheshire. The celebrated diplomatist, Sir Thomas Rowe, who was envoy-extraordinary at the court of the Emperor Aurungzebe, in Hindostan, and who wrote an account of that embassy, is supposed to descend from the Rowes of Kent or Surrey. The great-grandfather of the present Mr. Wrowe,

THE REV. RICHARD WROWE, was heir of entail to an estate in Macclesfield. He was a D.D., and warden of the Collegiate Old Church of Manchester. His wife was great, or great-great-aunt of the present Lord Kenyon, and by her he had several sons, all of whom predeceased their father, except one, his successor in 1718,

THE REV. THOMAS WROWE, M.A., in holy orders, fellow of the Collegiate Old Church of Manchester. He m. Mary, dau. and eventually heiress, at the demise of her nephew, s. p., of Amhrose Walton, of Marsden,* Lancashire, and was s. by an only son, b. posthumous,

* By his wife, Mary Bannister, heiress, through her father, Henry Bannister, of the lordship of Altham, Lancashire.

WYBERGH OF CLIFTON HALL.

WYBERGH, WILLIAM, Esq. of Clifton Hall, co. Westmorland, b. 24 July, 1787; s. his father, 10 Sept. 1827. Mr. Wybergh is in the commission of the peace for the cos. of Cumberland and Westmorland.

Lineage.

This is a very ancient family, and has possessed the Clifton estate in an unbroken male descent since the time of EDWARD III., in the 38th of whose reign,

WILLIAM DE WYBERGH, of St. Bees, m. Eleanor, only dau. and heiress of Gilbert de Engayne, of Clifton Hall, in Westmorland, and thus acquired that manor and lands, which had been granted by Sir Hugh de Morville to Gilbert Engaue and his heir about the time of HENRY II. The son and heir of this marriage,

THOMAS DE WYBERGH, of Clifton Hall, m. a dau. of Lowther, of Haulton, in Northumberland, and was father of

THOMAS WYBERGH, of Clifton Hall, who, 17 EDWARD IV., on his son William's marriage, settled on the issue of that alliance a tenement in Clifton, then in the possession of Thomas Raper, one acre of land in Clifton, called Drengage acre, and one parcel of demesne land there. He m. a dau. of Sandford, of Howgill Castle, in Westmorland, and dying 19 HENRY VII., left a son and successor,

WILLIAM WYBERGH, of Clifton Hall, living 5 HEN. VIII., who m. Margaret, dau. of John Wharton, of Kirby Thore, in Westmorland, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS WYBERGH, of Clifton Hall, living 18 HEN. VIII., father, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Geoffrey Lancaster, of Crake Trees, of

THOMAS WYBERGH, Esq. of Clifton Hall, who m. Anne, dau. of Sir Hugh Lowther, Knt. of Lowther, by Dorothy, his wife, dau. of Henry, Lord Clifford, and had issue, WYKEHAM OF TYTHROP HOUSE.

WYKEHAM, PHILIP-THOMAS-HERBERT, Esq. of Tythrop House, co. Oxford, b. 9 Sept. 1807. Mr. Wykeham, a magistrate for Oxfordshire and Bucks, and formerly an officer in the 7th Hussars, served as high-sheriff of the former county in 1837.

Tineage.

The family of Wykeham has been settled at Swalecliffe from a very remote period; we find mention made of a SIR RALPH WYKEHAM, living in the time of King JOHN, and of a SIR ROBERT WYKEHAM, contemporary with HENRY III.; but of these knights little more is recorded. The great luminary of the family was the celebrated Bishop of Winchester, WILLIAM OF WYKEHAM, the founder of Winchester College, and of New College, Oxford. It is still, however, a contested point, whether this eminent churchman was or was not a lineal descendant of the Wykehams of Swalecliffe. They have from time immemorial claimed him as one of their race; and in later times an intermarriage has taken place between Richard Wykeham, of Swalecliffe, and the sister of Richard Fiennes, last Viscount Say and Sele, who was the lineal descendant and ultimate heiress of WILLIAM OF WYKEHAM. From the time of the above Sir Robert Wykeham, there is a chasm until about the commencement of the fourteenth century, when

ROBERT WYKEHAM, Lord of Swalecliffe, m. Maud, dau. and heiress of Reginald Waterville. He was s. by

SIR ROBERT WYKEHAM, Knt., Lord of Swalecliffe and Wykeham, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heiress of Sir John Le Sore, and was s. by his son,

JOHN WYKEHAM, who m. Alys Lyggrade, and had a son and successor,

THOMAS WYKEHAM, whose son and heir, by his wife, Joyce Hanbury,

SIR EDWARD WYKEHAM, m. Isabella, dau. of Gyles Powtton, and was s. by his son,

HUMPHREY WYKEHAM, Esq., living in 1569, who m. the dau. of Edward Underhill, and left a son and successor,

RICHARD WYKEHAM, Esq., who m. Anne Houldbrook, and was s. by his son,

HUMPHREY WYKEHAM, Esq. of Swalecliffe. This gentleman m. Martha, dau. of Rowley Warde, Esq., scribeant-at-law, (see WARDE OF CLOPTON), and had issue, HUMPHREY, b. in 1668; Richard; Joyce; Anne; and Martha. He was s. by his eldest son,

HUMPHREY WYKEHAM, Esq. of Swalecliffe, who m. in 1698, Susanna, dau. of Richard Orlebar, Esq. of Hinwick House, and dying in 1703, was s. by his only surviving child,

RICHARD WYKEHAM, Esq. of Swalecliffe, who m. Verelicia, dau. of the Rev. Richard Fiennes, and sister and co-heir of Richard, sixth and last Viscount Say and Sele, by whom (who d. in 1768) he had surviving issue,

WILLIAM-HUMPHREY, b. in 1734.

Richard, in holy orders, vicar of Sulgrave and Chacombe, co. Northampton, and of Newton Purcell, in Oxfordshire, m. Mary, dau. of Charles Fox, Esq. of Chacombe Priory, co. Northampton, and had issue. (See WYKEHAM-MARTIN.)

George, lieut. R.N., m. Mary, dau. of — Waddington, Esq. Vere, m. the Rev. Richard Nicoll, D.D., of Boddicot House, chaplain to King GEORGE III., and had issue.

Susanna, m. Benjamin Holloway, Esq. of Lee Place, and left issue.

Mr. Wykeham d. in 1751, and was s. by his eldest son, WILLIAM-HUMPHREY WYKEHAM, Esq. of Swalecliffe, b. in 1734, who m. in 1768, the Hon. Sophia Weuman, eldest dau. of Philip, Viscount Wenman, and eventually sole heiress of her brother, Philip, the last viscount: by this lady (who d. in 1791) he left issue,

William-Richard, b. 24 Oct. 1769, of Swalecliffe, who m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of W. Marsh, Esq., and had a son and dau., viz.,

William, b. in 1791, d. in 1798.

SOPHIA, his heiress, now Baroness Wenman. (See BURKE'S Peerage.)

Mr. Wykeham m. 2ndly, Miss Hughes, but had no other issue. He d. in 1800.

PHILIP-THOMAS, of whom presently.

Sophia-Anne, d. unn.

Harriet-Mary, m. 1st, to the Rev. Willoughby Bertie, and 2ndly, to Sir Edward Johnson, K.C.S.

The second son,

PHILIP-THOMAS WYKEHAM, Esq. of Tythrop, m. 1st, in Sept. 1805, Hester-Louisa, dau. of Fiennes Trotman, Esq. of Siston Court, co. Gloucester, and had two sons, PHILIP-THOMAS-HERBERT, now of Tythrop.

Tineage.

For lineage of the WILLIAMS'S OF LLANFORDA, the paternal ancestry of the Rt. Hon. Charles-Watkin Williams-Wynn, see BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage, article WILLIAMS-WYNN of Wynnstay.

To the illustrious house of Gwydyr, now represented, maternally, in one of its branches by the Williams-Wynns of Wynnstay, must be conceded the first rank in Cambrian genealogy. This eminent family deduces male descent, through its immediate ancestor, Rhodri, Lord of Anglesey, youngest son of Owen Gwynedd, Prince of North Wales, from Anarawd, King of North Wales, eldest son of Rhodri Mawr, King of Wales. This last monarch, the descendant of a long line of regal ancestors, succeeded to the crown of Powys on the demise, in 843, of his father, Mervyn Vrych, King of Powys, and by inheritance and marriage acquired the kingdoms of North Wales and South Wales. He was slain in 876, and left, by Angharad, his wife, sister and heiress of Gwgan ap Meuric, Lord of Caerddigan, three sons,

I. ANARAWD AP RHODRI MAWR, of whose line we have to treat.

II. Cadell ap Rhodri Mawr, King of South Wales, ancestor of the SOVEREIGNS OF SOUTH WALES.

III. Mervyn ap Rhodri Mawr, King of Powys, who d. in 900, progenitor of the SOVEREIGNS OF POWYS, of whose dynasty an account will be found under the lineage of one of its most distinguished scions, the HUGHES'S OF GWERCLAS, BARONS OF KYMMER-YN-EDEIRNION, now represented in the male line by WILLIAM HUGHES, Esq., eldest son of the late William Hughes, Esq. of Pen-y-Clawd, co. Denbigh, and in the female line by RICHARD WALMESLEY LLOYD, Esq., eldest son of the late Richard-Hughes Lloyd, Esq. of Plymog, co. Denbigh, Gwerclas, co. Merioneth, and Bashall, co. York.

The eldest son,

ANARAWD AP RHODRI MAWR, King of North Wales, whose palace was at Aberfraw, in Anglesey, d. in 918, leaving issue, I. IDWAL VOEL AP ANARAWD; and II. Elis ap Anarawd, slain in 940, with his brother, Idwal, whose son, Cynan ap Elis, was father of a dau. and heir, Trawst, mother of Llewelyn ap Seisyllt, who m. Angharad verch Meredith, Queen of Powys. Exercising the sovereignty of Powys in Angharad's right, Llewelyn usurped, in 1015, the crowns of North Wales and South Wales, and assumed the authority and title of King of Wales, which he enjoyed until his assassination, in 1020. A claim to the kingdoms of North Wales and South Wales was asserted, with varying success, by the issue of Angharad and Llewelyn, until its extinction, when the crown of Powys was inherited by Angharad's eldest son by her second husband, Cynfyn ap Gwerystan, viz., Bleddyn ap Cynfyn, King of Powys, who also assumed the thrones of North Wales and South Wales.

Anarawd was s. by his elder son,

IDWAL VOEL, King of North Wales, who was slain, with his brother, Elis, in 940, fighting against the Anglo-Danes. By his cousin, Avandreg, dau. of Mervyn, King of Powys, Idwal left, with other issue,

I. MEURIC AP IDWAL VOEL.

II. Ieufap ap Idwal Voel, who, on the death, in 907, of Howel Dha, King of South Wales, (who had usurped North Wales, on the decease of Idwal Voel,) assumed, with his brother, Iago, the government of that country, which they jointly administered until 986, when Iago seized and imprisoned Ieufap. This prince (who d. in 987) had, with other issue, two sons,

1. Howel ap Ieufap, who, in 917, defeated the forces of his uncle, Iago, and obliged him to abandon the kingdom, and releasing his father from prison, assumed the royal authority, which sometime afterwards he was compelled to divide with Iago. Howel was slain in 984, in a military expedition against England, and leaving no issue, his brother,

2. Cadwallon ap Ieufap, took upon himself the sovereignty of North Wales, setting aside the rightful succession of Idwal, eldest son of his uncle, Meuric, but he had only possessed the government one year, when Meredith ap Owen, King of Powys, invaded North Wales, slew the usurper, with his younger brother Meuric, and took possession of the kingdom.

III. Iago ap Idwal Voel, to whom reference has been already made, was father of,

Constantine the Black, who raised an army of Danes to release his father, then a prisoner of Howel, and to dispossess that prince of the crown, but sustained a signal defeat and was slain.

The eldest son of Idwal Voel,

MEURIC AP IDWAL VOEL, was taken prisoner in the defeat sustained in 917, and deprived of his eyes by Iago, who suffered him to languish in prison where he died. He left a son,

IDWAL AP MEURIC, who was, in 992, raised by the people to his hereditary throne of North Wales, of which he had been dispossessed by Meredith ap Owen, King of Powys. In the following year, Swane, a Danish chieftain, landed in North Wales, and Idwal, in resisting him, was slain. His only son,

IAGO AP IDWAL, excluded from the throne by Llewelyn ap Seisyllt, first husband of Angharad, Queen of Powys, was restored in 1021, on the decease of that prince. Iago ap Idwal, who was slain in 1037, in a battle fought between him and Griffith, King of Powys, son of Llewelyn ap Seisyllt, left an only son,

CYNAN AP IAGO, excluded from the throne by Griffith ap Llewelyn, who also usurped the kingdom of South Wales. Cynan ap Iago, after two gallant and unsuccessful attempts to recover his crown, died, leaving (by his wife, Ranult, dau. of Aflaed, King of Dublin) an eldest son,

GRIFFITH AP CYNAN, who, after several ineffectual endeavours to reinstate himself in his dominions, which had been usurped by Trahaern ap Caradoc, formed an alliance, in 1079, with Rhys ap Tewdwr, Prince of South Wales, for the vindication of the rightful succession. The two princes met Trahaern on the mountain of Carno, where an action ensued, which terminated in the defeat and death of the usurper, and the restoration of Griffith and Rhys. Griffith ap Cynan, who was FOUNDER OF THE I. ROYAL TRIBE OF WALES, bore, as his ensigns, "Guies, three lions, passant, in pale, argent, armed, azure." He d. in 1136, aged 82, and lies buried on the south side of the great altar in the cathedral of Bangor, having reigned fifty-seven years. This monarch m. Angharad, dau. of Owen ap Edwin, Lord of Tegaingl, and had issue,

I. OWEN GWYNEDD.

II. Cadwalader ap Griffith, Lord of Caerdigan, who d. in 1172, a distinguished participant in the events of his times. He m. Alice, dau. (by Adeliza, dau. of Randle de Meschines, Earl Palatine of Chester, and Lucy, his wife, granddau. of Algar, the Saxon Earl of Mercia) of Richard Fitzgilbert, Earl of Hertford, and was father of RICHARD AP CADWALADER, who m. Agnes, dau. of Gwyn, son of Eignion ap Collwyn, Lord of Efonydd and Ardwdwy, and had a dau. and co-heiress, Adles, who m. Ithel Vychan of Northop ap Ithil Lloyd, derived from Edwin, Lord of Tegaingl, (see OWEN of BETTWS,) and had issue,

1. TUDOR AP ITHEL VYCHAN, of Mostyn, father of HOWEL AP TUDOR, of Mostyn, whose dau. and co-heiress, ANGHARAD, heiress of Mostyn, m. Ievan Vychan ap Ievan, of Pengwern, temp. RICHARD II., and was mother of HOWEL AP IEVAN VYCHAN, of Mostyn, ancestor of the MOSTYNS OF MOSTYN, Barts., and their derivative branches.

2. KENRICK SAIS AP ITHEL VYCHAN, who had issue, 1. EFA, who m. Meredith ap Llewelyn, derived from Sandde Hardd, Lord of Morton, and was mother of Griffith Lloyd ap Meredith, ancestor of, 1. the Family of PLAS-YN-YALE, II. LLOYDS, of BODIDRIS IN YALE, Barts.; III. LLOYDS OF GLOSTER, (see that name); and 2. NEST, who m. Henry Salusbury, Esq.

3. GWENLLIAN, who m. Ist, Madoc Vychan, Lord of Glyndwrwy, and was mother of GRIFFITH AP MADOC, Lord of Glyndwrwy, father, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of John, Lord Strange of Knockin, of a son, GRIFFITH VYCHAN AP GRIFFITH, Lord of Glyndwrwy, who m. the Lady Eleanor, dau. and co-heir of Thomas ap Llewelyn, last Lord of South Wales, and had issue, OWEN AP GRIFFITH VYCHAN, Lord of Glyndwrwy, the memorable OWEN GLENDOWER.

TUDOR AP GRIFFITH VYCHAN, Lord of Gwyddelwern in Edeirnion, from whom descend, by maternal representation, the HUGHES'S OF GWERCLAS, BARONS OF KYMMER-YN-EDEIRNION.

Gwenllian verch Ithel Vychan m. 2ndly, Iorwerth ap David, derived from Sandde Hardd, Lord of Morton, (see LLOYD OF GLOSTER,) and was mother of IEVAN AP IORWERTH, of Llanwyllyn, father, by Margaret, his wife, dau. of David ap Madoc, Baron of Hendwr in Edeirnion, co. Merioneth, of a dau.,

ANNES, who m. Llewelyn, II. Baron of Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, co. Merioneth, living 4 EDWARD III., and was mother of,

IEVAN AP LLEWELYN DDU, III. Baron of Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, ancestor of the HUGHES'S OF GWERCLAS, IN EDEIRNION, BARONS OF KYMMER-YN EDEIRNION. (See that family.)

III. Cadwallon ap Griffith, slain before his father's demise.

I. Gwenllian, who m. Griffith ap Rhys ap Tewdwr MAWR, King of South Wales.

II. Susanna, who m. Madoc, last Prince of Powys.

Griffith ap Cynan was s. in the throne by his eldest son,

OWEN GWYNEDD AP GRIFFITH, Prince of North Wales, a chivalrous and distinguished monarch, who, after a popular reign of thirty-two years, d. in Dec. 1169, and was buried at Bangor. Owen Gwynedd, who bore, "Vert, three eagles, displayed, in fesse, or," m. twice: 1st, Gwladys, dau. of Llywarch ap Trahaearn, Lord of Pembroke, and was by her father of

IORWERTH DRWYNDWN AP OWEN GWYNEDD, excluded from the throne, first by his illegitimate brother Howel, and subsequently by his brother David, son of Owen Gwynedd, by his second marriage. Iorwerth, who bore "Sable, a lion, rampant, within a bordure, engrailed, or," d. at Pennant Mehangell, in Montgomeryshire. He m. the Princess Margaret, dau. of Madoc, Prince of Powys, and was father of an only son,

LLEWELYN AP IORWERTH, surnamed THE GREAT, who, in 1194, obtained, without struggle, his hereditary crown of North Wales from his uncle, David ap Owen Gwynedd. This monarch, after an eventful reign of fifty-six years, d. in 1240, and was buried in the Abbey of Conway. He m. twice: by his second wife, Joan, illegitimate dau. of John, King of England, by Agatha, dau. of Robert Ferrers, Earl of Derby, he had a son and a dau.,

DAVID AP LLEWELYN, who s. to the crown, to the exclusion of his elder brother. Griffith ap Llewelyn. David m. Isabella, dau. of Robert Fitz-Parnell, Earl of Leicester, but d. s. p. in 1246, and was buried in the Abbey of Conway.

GWADYS, who m. Ralph, Lord Mortimer of Wigmore, and from this marriage derived maternally.

EDWARD IV., KING OF ENGLAND.

Llewelyn ap Iorwerth, whose ensigns were, "Quarterly, or and gu., four lions, passant, guardant, counterchanged," by his first consort, Tangwystl, dau. of Llowarch Goch ap Llowarch Iolbwrch, Lord of Rhos, was father of,

GRIFFITH AP LLEWELYN, who, on the death of his father, was imprisoned by his younger brother, David, deprived of his crown, and transferred, with his son Owen, in 1242, to HENRY II., who confined them in the Tower. Attempting to escape by the window, the unhappy prince was precipitated to the ground, and was found dead. By Sina, his wife, dau. of Caradoc ap Thomas ap Rhodri, Lord of Anglesey, he had issue, LLEWELYN AP GRIFFITH, who, jointly with his brother Owen, s. to the throne on the death, in 1246, of his uncle David, and eventually assumed the sole government. Attacked by the overwhelming forces of EDWARD I. of England, Llewelyn, the last native Sovereign Prince of Walcs recognised by the English monarchs, was slain at Builth, in the Valley of the Wye, 11 Dec. 1282. This monarch, who bore his father's arms, "Quarterly, or and gu., four lions, passant, gardant," m. 3 Oct. 1278, the Lady Eleanor, dau. of the memorable Simon de Montfort, Earl of Leicester, by the Princess Eleanor, widow of William, Earl of Pembroke, and second dau. of JOHN, King of England, and by her, who d. in childhood, in 1280, had an only dau. and heiress, THE PRINCESS CATHERINE, who was sent by EDWARD I. into England, and confined in a nunnery. WILLIAM-ROBERT MAURICE, b. 15 Feb. 1840.

Owen-Slaney, b. 17 Oct. 1842.

Lineage.

This ancient House ranks high among the Cambrian aristocracy, being derived from one of the most historic and powerful families in the principality; and being allied to many of its most eminent names.

The Wynnes of Peniarth are cadets of the Wynnes of Glyn, who derived, in common with the Vaughans of Cors-y-gedol, the Yales of Plas-y-n-Yale, and the Rogers's of Bryntangor, from Walter Fitz Otho, Castellan of Windsor Castle, temp. WILLIAM the Conqueror, progenitor of the ducal house of Leinster, and its numerous and eminent derivative branches. Fifth in descent from Walter Fitz Otho (for intermediate line, see FITZGERALD, Knight of Glin) was Maurice FitzJohn Fitzgerald, Lord of Decies and Desmond, ancestor of the Fitzgeralds, Earls of Desmond, a branch of which distinguished house was established in Wales by the immediate progenitor of the line of which we treat, viz., OSBERT or OSBORN, frequently denominated FITZGERALD, but more commonly called by the Welsh heralds, Wyddel, (the Irishman,) who emigrated from Ireland, his native country, about the middle of the thirteenth century, and obtained, by grant, marriage, or both, extensive possessions in Merionethshire, including the site of the present mansion of Cors-y-gedol. Osborn's first place of settlement in Wales was at Berllys, said to be a contraction of Osber-llys, the palace of Osber, where traces of fortifications may yet be seen, and which is about a mile from the former place. He had two sons, Einion ap Osborn, (who had four sons, but of their descendants, if any be extant, nothing is now known,) and CYNRIC AP OSBORN, who, on the division of his father's lands, according to the custom of gavelkind, then prevalent in Wales, inherited Cors-y-gedol, as a portion of his share. He was father of, I. LLEWELYN AP CYNRIC;

II. Einion ap Cynric, whose dau. and heir, Janet, m. Sir Foulk Cholmondeley, Knt. of co. Chester. The elder son,

LLEWELYN AP CYNRIC, m. Nest, or Nesta, one of the daus. and co-heirs of Griffith ap Adda,* of Dolgôch, in

* The tomb of Griffith ap Adda, on which is his effigy represented in the armour of his day, is still to be seen within the church of Towyn. Nest was m. 2ndly, to Ievan Lloyd ap David Vychan, and 3rdly, to Einion ap Griffith, of Chwilog, in the comote of Evioneth, who was living 27 July, 1352.

Merionethshire, derived from Madoc, son of Cadivor ap Gwaethvoed, Lord of Cardigan (see PRYSE OF GOGERDDAN), and by her had GRIFFITH, Iorwerth, Einion, Angharad, and Janet. The eldest son,

GRIFFITH AP LLEWELYN, of Cors-y-gedol, who was sheriff, or farmer (lessee) of the office of sheriff for Merionethshire in 1373, m. Efa, one of the daus. of Madoc ap Ellis, of Cryniarth, in that county, and sister and co-heiress of Llewelyn ap Madoc, Bishop of St. Asaph, derived from Owain Brogyntyn, Lord of Edeirnion, (see HUGHES OF GWERCLAS,) who d. in 1375. By this lady, he had (with a dau. Angharad, wife of David ap Grono, of Burton, in Flintshire, living 7 Sept. 1416—see LLOYD OF GLOSTER) a son and successor,

EINION AP GRIFFITH, Esq. of Cors-y-gedol, whose name appears in a list of the Indicadores (probably the grand jury) of his county, for a period commencing 7 July, 1382, and extending certainly not beyond 21 June, 1386. Amongst the Exchequer issues for the 10th year of King RICHARD II., a payment is recorded to Einion ap Griffith and others, captains of certain archers from the county of Merioneth. Einion m. Tangwystl, dau. of Rydderch ap Ievan Lloyd, of Gogerddan, co. Cardigan, a distinguished Welsh bard, (educated at Oxford,) who was ancestor of the Pryses of Gogerddan, Barts., now represented in the female line by Pryse Pryse, Esq. of Gogerddan. (Refer to that name.) By the dau. of Rydderch ap Ievan Lloyd, who was derived from Cadivor ap Gwaethvoed, Lord of Caerdigan, Einion ap Griffith had issue,

- I. Iorwerth ap Einion, of Ynys-y-Maengwyn, co. Merioneth, farmer of the Ville of Towyn (lessee of the crown dues, or revenues in that district) at Michaelmas, 1415. He m. Gwenllian, relict of James Eyton, of Eyton, co. Flint, and dau. of Cynric ap Robert, derived from Ednowain Bendew, Lord of Tegaeingl, in Flint, and had (with two younger sons, viz., Ithel ap Iorwerth, of Draws Vynnydd, ancestor of the Morgans of Draws Vynnydd; and Ednyfed, whose, dau. and heiress, Margaret, m. Richard Yonge, of Bryn-Yorkyn) an eldest son and heir,

JENKIN, of Ynys-y-Maengwyn, co. Merioneth, who m. Ellen, dau. of Griffith Derwas, of Knullt, and by her had two sons, Howel, of Ynys-y-Maengwyn, who, by his wife, the dau. of Sir Robert Kynaston, Bart. of Hordley, co. Salop, had (with a younger son, Hugh, ancestor of Sir David Jones, of Llanvaer, who had a dau. and heiress, Katherine) an elder son and heir, Humffrey, of Ynys-y-Maengwyn, who (with a dau., Elizabeth, m. to Morgan ap Thomas, of Crogen-yn-Edeirnion) had a son and heir, John, of Ynys-y-Maengwyn, whose son and heir, Lewis Gwyn, of Ynys-y-Maengwyn, or Dolgwyn, m. 1st, Margaret, widow of Thomas Vychan, brother of John Vychan, of Plas Yollin, and 2ndly, Jane, dau. of Hugh Nanney, Esq. of Nannau, co. Merioneth: by the former he had a dau. and co-heir, Anne, who m. Griffith Nanney, Esq.; and by the latter, a dau. and co-heir, Gwen, wife of Lewis Lloyd, Esq. of Rhiwaedog, co. Merioneth.

William ap Jenkin, who m. Lowry, dau. of Griffith, of Crogen and Branas in Edeirnion, co. Merioneth, second son of Rhys ap Ievan, Baron of Kymmer, Crogen, and Branas, and had a dau. and heir, Ellen, who m. Richard ap Rhys ap David, descended from Owain Brogyntyn, Lord of Edeirnion.

- II. IEVAN AP EINION, of whom presently.

III. Griffith ap Einion, who, upon the division of his father's lands, under the law of gavelkind, s. to Cors-y-Gedol. He held the office of Woodward of the Comote of Ardudwy, in Merioneth, at Michaelmas, 1400, and also in 2 and 3 HENRY V. This personage m. Lowrie, dau. and co-heir of Tudor ap Griffith Vychan, Lord of Gwyddelwern, in Merionethshire, (brother of Owen Glendower,) aged 24, 3 Sept., 10 RICHARD II., 1386; and from this marriage derive, I. The VAUGHANS of CORS-Y-GEDOL, represented by the heirs of the late SIR THOMAS MOSTYN, BART. OF MOSTYN, co. Flint; 2. YALES OF PLAS-Y-N-YALE, co. Denbigh, extinct; 3. ROGERS'S OF BRYNTANGOR, co. Denbigh, represented by the HUGHES'S OF GWERCLAS, BARONS OF KYMMER-YN-EDEIRNION. (For details, see YALE OF PLAS-Y-N-YALE.)

- I. Mali, m. Howel Sele, of Nanney, now Nannau, (ancestor of the Nanneys of that place,) who was alive in Sept. 1400, but slain in a quarrel with Owen Glyndwr, probably not very long afterwards. (See a poem commemorating the circumstances of his death, in the notes to Marmion.) Mali was remarried to Owen ap Meredith ap Griffith Vychan, of Neuadd-wen, in Powysland.
- II. Tihod, m. 1st, Howel ap Ievan ap Iorwerth, of Cynllaeth; 2ndly, Ievan Vychan ap Ievan Gethin, of Abertanat, who was alive in 1400; and 3rdly, Howel ap Tudur ap Grono, who seems to have been farmer (lessee) of the extent lands of the crown, in the comote of Penllyn, in 1426.

The second son,

IEVAN AP EINION, one of the Barons of Edeirnion, co. Merioneth, appears as one of the jurors in an inquisition held at Bala, 6 Oct. 1427. He m. Angarad, dau. and co-heir of David ap y Gwyn Lloyd, Baron of Hendwr, in that shire, qui viv 7 Aug. 1389, derived from Griffith, son of Owen Brogyntyn, Lord of Edeirnion, and had issue,

I. DAVID AP IEVAN AP EINION, "gentilman," who was appointed, during the ascendancy of the house of Lancaster, constable of the Castle of Harlech.* He m. Margaret, dau. of John Puleston, of Emral, in Flintshire, and left issue.

II. RHYS, of whom presently.

III. Griffith, of Hendwr, living in 1461, m. Isabel, dau. of Ievan ap Adda, of Pengwern, in Denbighshire, and had issue.

IV. Thomas, living in 1461, m. and had issue.

V. John, living in 1461.

I. Gweryil, m. Tudur ap Grono ap Howel-y-Gader, of the comote of Penllyn.

II. Margaret, m. 1st, Madoc ap Howel, and 2ndly, John ap David Lloyd ap Howel, who held in farm the extent lands of the crown in Penllyn, in 1481.

III. Mali, m. David ap Rhys, v. Baron of Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, co. Merioneth, of the Royal Line of Powys, one of the jurors in an inquisition held at Bala, in Oct. 1427; he was dead, 25 Oct., 23 HENRY VI., 1444, as appears by his inquisition post mortem, taken 8 HENRY VII., (1492-93,) which was returned into the Exchequer of Caernarvon. By this gentleman Mali was mother of,

Griffith Vychan ap David, VI. Baron of Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, ancestor of the HUGHES'S OF GWERCLAS, BARONS OF KYMMER-YN-EDEIRNION. (Refer to that name.)

The second son,

RHYS AP IEVAN, whose name occurs upon juries impanelled in Merionethshire, 27 and 31 HENRY VI., in the former of which years he was foreman, m. Gwenhwyvar, only dau. and heiress of Howel Vaughan, of Fronoleu, co. Carnarvon, lineally descended from Owen Gwynedd, Sovereign Prince of North Wales, and had two sons, IEVAN and Rhydderch. The elder,

IEVAN AP RHYS, living 4 March, 1513, m. Laurea, dau. and heiress of Richard Bamville, and had (with two daus., one the wife of Morgan ap Robert, the other m. to John ap Madoc Vychan,) a son and successor, JOHN AP IEVAN. Through the marriage with the heiress of Bamville, Glyn, (known also as Glyn Cowareh,) co. Merioneth, and a considerable portion of the estates in the vicinity, now attached to it, passed into the family. It is probable that Ievan ap Rhys had another wife, by whom he was the father of a son named Morgan, who was dead 20 April, 1537, and of a dau., Katherine, wife of William ap Madoc Vychan, who was dead, but she living, upon the last-mentioned day. The son first above named,

JOHN AP IEVAN, Gent. of Glyn, was living in Oct.

* His defence of this fortress against the forces of EDWARD IV., is thus noticed in the autobiography of the celebrated Lord Herbert of Cherbury: "Sir Richard Herbert being employed together with his brother William, Earl of Pembroke, to reduce certain rebels in North Wales, Sir Richard Herbert besieged a principal person of them at Harlech Castle, in Merionethshire. The captain of this place had been a soldier in the wars of France, whereupon he said he had kept a castle in France so long, that he made the old women in Wales talk of him, and that he would keep this castle so long that he would make the old women in France talk of him; and, indeed, as the place was almost impregnable but by famine, Sir Richard Herbert was constrained to take him by composition, he surrendering himself upon condition that Sir Richard Herbert should do what he could to save his life; which, being accepted, Sir Richard brought him to King EDWARD IV., desiring his Highness to give him a pardon, since he yielded up a place of importance, which he might have kept longer upon this hope; but the king replying to Sir Richard Herbert, that he had no power by his commission to pardon any, and therefore might, after the representation hereof to his Majesty, safely deliver him up to justice, Sir Richard Herbert answered he had not yet done the best he could for him, and therefore most humbly desired his Highness to do one of two things, either to put him again in the castle where he was, and command some other to take him out; or, if his Highness would not do so, to take his life for 1545. This gentleman m. Gwenever, dau. and at length co-heiress of Griffith ap Edneved, of Sylvaen, in Merionethshire, by whom (who was afterwards wife of Thomas ap Humphrey, Gent. of Berriew, co. Montgomery, and was living 4 June, 1578) he had issue,

ROBERT WYNNE AP JOHN.

Mary, m. John Wynn ap Ellis, of Trawsfynydd, who was living 9 May, 1565.

Margery, m. Edward ap Howel, of Court Mynydd Deon, near Carnarvon.

He was s. by his son,

ROBERT WYNNE AP JOHN, Gent. of Glyn, who m. about the year 1544, Katherine, dau. of Ellis ap Maurice, Esq. of Clenneny, in Carnarvonshire, sheriff of Merionethshire in 1541, and had two sons and three daus., viz.,

I. MAURICE AP ROBERT WYNN.

II. Ellis,* who had the estate of Sylvaen, and was living in 1615. He m. Margaret, dau. of the Rev. Owen Poole, and d. s. p.

I. Jonet, m. Robert ap Gryffydd, of Bach-y-saint, in Carnarvonshire.

II. Mary, m. about the year 1585, Edward, son and heir of Robert Wynn ap Ievan ap Morgan, Esq. of Taltrithyn, in Merionethshire.

III. Gaynor, m. Humphrey ap Richard ap Owen, of Llanfair, near Harlech.

Robert Wynne ap John was living 23 April, 1592. His elder son and successor,

MAURICE AP ROBERT WYNN, Esq. of Glyn, m. 1st, about the year 1588, Marshe, dau. of Cadwalader, one of the younger sons of Meredith ap Evan ap Robert, Esq. of Gwydyr, but had no issue; he m. 2ndly, Agnes, dau. of Robert ap Richard, Gent. of Lleecheiddior, in Carnarvonshire, by whom (who was b. in 1557, and d. in 1623) he had KADWALADER, who m. Ellin, dau. of Robert Lloyd, Esq. of Rhiwgoch, in Merionethshire, M.P. for that county in the sixth and tenth parliaments of Queen ELIZABETH, and the second parliament of King JAMES I., (1586, 1601, and 1614,) but d. in the lifetime of his father, s. p.

Robert, d. before his father.

WILLIAM, of whom presently.

Ellin, m. 1st, Edward Owen, a younger brother of Morris Owen, Esq. of Rhiwsaen, co. Montgomery; 2ndly, Edward Wynn, Esq., of Gellidowyll, in the same co., and 3rdly, the Rev. Hugh Vaughan, son of Rhys, a younger son of Richard Vaughan, Esq. of Cors-y-gedol.

Mary, m. Henry Vaughan, Gent. of Gelligoch, co. Montgomery, Katherine, m. Evan Evans, Esq. of Tan-y-bwlch, sheriff for Merionethshire in 1635.

Mr. Wynn was living 9 Feb. 1609-10, but dead 16 April, 1611. He was s. by his eldest surviving son,

WILLIAM WYNNE, Esq. of Glyn, who m. Katherine,† eldest child of William-Lewis Anwyl, Esq. of Park, co. Merioneth, by whom (who d. 23 Feb. 1638-9, aged about 44) he had issue,

I. ROBERT, his heir.

the said captain's, that being the last proof he could give that he used his utmost endeavour to save the said captain's life. The king finding himself urged thus far, gave Sir Richard Herbert the life of the said captain, but withal he bestowed no other reward for his service."

It is proved by the rolls of parliament, that David had continued to hold the fortress against the royal mandate to deliver it up, for the space of three years, and tradition assigns to him a much longer defence. Famine obliged him at length to surrender. During his custody of the castle, (in 1463,) the virtuous but imbecile HENRY VI., and his high-spirited queen, found refuge within its walls.

* This Ellis appears to have been the first of his race that signed the family surname according to the present mode of spelling it. His father wrote it Wyn, but with the mark of abbreviation over the n; his elder brother omitted the final e, as did his nephew, William Wynne, early in life, but not afterwards, and as the Maes-y-Neuadd branch of the family have done, it is believed almost invariably, to the present time.

† This lady's eldest brother, Lewis Anwyl, Esq., had by Frances, his wife, dau. of Sir William Jones, Knt. of Castell-march, (sister of Sydney, wife of the Lord-Keeper Littleton,) an only child, Catherine, who m. William Owen, Esq. of Porkington, and was the mother of Sir Robert Owen, hereafter mentioned.

WYNNE, BROWNLOW-WYNNE, Esq. of Garthwin, co. Denbigh, b. 23 March, 1815; m. 8 Dec. 1836, Miss Mary-Anne Waring. This gentleman, whose patronymic was Cumming, s. by will to the estates of his cousin, Robert-William Wynne, Esq., 30 Nov. 1844, and assumed, by sign-manual, the surname and arms of WYNNE. He is a magistrate for Denbighshire.

Lineage.

The Wynnes of Garthwin deduce descent through GRONO LLWYD-AP-Y-PENWYN, a potent Cambrian chief, from MARCHUDD AP CYNAN, Lord of Bryuffenigl, in Caernarvon, Founder of the VIII. Noble Tribe of North Wales and Powys. Fifth in descent from Marchudd ap Cynan (see LLOYD of PLYMOG) was,

IDNERTH AP EDRYD, who had, with junior issue,

i. Gwgan ap Idnerth, Lord of Brynffeniogl, whose grandson, Kendrig ap Iorwerth, was father, with other issue, of two elder sons,

i. Ednyfed Vychan ap Kendrig, Lord of Brynffeniogl, progenitor of, i. the MORGANS of GOLDEN GROVE, (see that name); ii. WILLIAMS-BULKELEYS of PENRHYN, BARTS.; iii. WILLIAMS'S of VAENOL, BARTS., extinct; iv. LLOYDS of PLYMOG, GWERCLAS, AND BASHALL, (see that family); v. THE ROYAL HOUSE OF TUDOR. (Ibid); vi. GRIFFITHS of BURTON AGNES, BARTS. extinct.

2. Grono Voel ap Kendrig, ancestor of the WYNNEs of COED COCH. (See that name.)

ii. Bradwen ap Idnerth, father of Ednowain ap Bradwen, Lord of Llys Bradwen, in Merioneth, Founder of the XIII. Noble Tribe of North Wales and Powys.

iii. IDRON AP IDNERTH, immediate ancestor of the line of which we have to treat.

The third son,

IDRON AP IDNERTH, was father of IORWERTH, whose son, TEGWARED, left a son and successor, DAVID, father of GRONO LLWYD-AP-Y-PENWYN, seated at Melai, in Denbigh, and a distinguished military chieftain, who was instrumental in obtaining for EDWARD I. of England the sovereignty of Wales, and was rewarded by that monarch. The ensigns attributed to Marchudd ap Cynan were, "Gules, a Saracen's head, erased at the neck, argent, environed about the head with a wreath, or and argent;" but Grono is stated to have substituted for them, "Gules, three boars' heads in pale, crased, proper," the arms borne by his descendants. This chieftain m. twice: 1st, Angharad, dau. of Heilin ap Sir Tudor, Knt., Lord of Nant and Llangwyhafal, (see MORGAN of GOLDEN GROVE,) and 2ndly, Lleiki, dau. of Madoc ap Elisau, Baron of Cryniarth, in Edeirnion, co. Merioneth, and sister and co-heir of Llewelyn ap Madoc, Baron of Cryniarth, and Bishop of St. Asaph, 3 EDWARD III. (see HUGHES of GWERCLAS.) By the latter lady he had a dau., Gwenllian, heiress of her mother, who m. Ievan ap Einion ap Llowarch. By his 1st wife, Grono Llwyd had issue, thirteen daus., of whom one m. Kendrig Brawd ap Kendrig Vychan, ancestor of the LLOYDS of PLYMOG, and four sons, viz.

WYSE OF THE MANOR OF ST. JOHN.

WYSE, THOMAS, Esq. of the Manor of St. John, co. Waterford, and of Cuddagh, in the Queen's County, b. in Dec. 1791; m. in 1821, Letitia, dau. of Lucien Bonaparte, Prince of Canino, and has issue two sons, ALFRED and William. Mr. Wyse, a deputy-lieutenant of the Queen's County, is M.P. for Waterford, having previously served in two parliaments, as knight of the shire for the co. of Tipperary. Under Lord Melbourne's administration, he held office as one of the Lords of the Treasury, and is now Joint Secretary of the Board of Control. Mr. Wyse, as representative of this very ancient family, holds his estates direct from the Crown, and is the lineal descendant of the original grantee, in 1172. He has inherited the rights of the Prior of St. John, and is, in that capacity, still subject to the visitations of the Lord Bishop of the diocese.

1658

Tintage.

The ancestor of this ancient house was a younger son of the Wyse, originally of Greston, in Cornwall, (1167,) and subsequently of Sydenham, in Devon, (1320.) He accompanied Richard, Earl of Pembroke, into Ireland, in the year 1171, with the rank and title of knight, and immediately after the Earl's landing and taking possession of the co. Waterford, (one of the first conquests of the English,) was rewarded with large possessions, (part of which, near Dungarvan, still held by the family, retains the name of "Wyse's Point," as marked in the oldest sea charts,) in capite, at two knights' fee, and the usual condition of military service. The confirmations, grants of privileges, &c., from King JOHN, HENRY III., EDWARD I., EDWARD III., RICHARD II., HENRY VII., HENRY VIII., ELIZABETH, CHARLES I., and CHARLES II., are still in the possession of the family. King JOHN, when he visited Waterford, as Earl of Moreton, resided in this neighbourhood; and subsequently (in 1199) granted a charter to the Priory, now Manor of St. John—afterwards confirmed by EDWARD I., in 1281, by which it was exempted from all tolls, and other similar charges, with power to hold a court for the trial of minor offences within its jurisdiction, whilst right to all tithes, great and small, was granted by Walter, Bishop of Waterford, and confirmed by his successors. From the year 1452 to 1690, when the city surrendered to King WILLIAM, there were (besides several members of parliament) thirty-six mayors and high-sheriffs of this family. The mayor, THOMAS WYSE, on signing the capitulation of the city, as governor, to WILLIAM, (1690,) paid the sum out of his private purse (£1500) required by the king, to save the citizens from an immediate levy, which sum was never repaid to him. Though still in possession of considerable portion of the estates originally granted, the Wyse were amongst the heaviest sufferers by confiscation. In the year 1607, the entire of their property was seized and possessed by the usurping powers, and it was not until the year 1663, after the restoration of CHARLES II., that they were restored to its enjoyment by a decree of the Court of Chancery, with large deductions, however, such as Chapelized, in the county of Dublin, one hundred houses within the city of Waterford, retained by CROMWELL'S soldiers, or those who purchased from them, &c. &c. The penal laws further interfered. The Gavel act compelled them to sell estates now held by Lord Doneraile and others.

At the commencement of the 12th century, the original stock is found seated at Greystou, near Launceston, in Cornwall, where at that time, according to ancient pedigrees, William Wyse was its head. His son Serlo, or Serlonius, was father of Oliver, who was himself father of Sir John Wyse, or Wise, as the name was then not unfrequently spelt. The eldest son of this Sir John was Henry, who had issue, that Sir William Wise, who, when in the fortieth year of the reign of HENRY III., the great commission of inquiry issued to ascertain the number and names of those who held lands in England, above fifteen librates, was found and reported to be possessed of sixteen librates within the co. Cornwall, which he held in capite, by knight's service, (see LYSONS' Magna Britannia, vol. iii. p. 67.) His eldest son was another Serlonius, who acquired Thrusleton, in the female line, from the family of Vipont, alias De Veteri Ponte.

In the time of the last-mentioned Serlonius, the branches of this stock had extended into Gloucestershire, Oxfordshire, Kent, and other counties of England. Accordingly, in the Rolls of the Hundreds, taken in the time of EDWARD I., Thomas and Roger le Wyse are re-recorded as settled in Gloucestershire; Elias, John, Osbert, Richard, and William, in Oxfordshire; Richard and Scrolonius, in Kent. In the two latter counties, they are sometimes styled Wyse, or Vyz.

The chief line of the English Wyses were those seated at Sydenham, in Devon—for details of whom refer to WISE of TOTNES. A junior branch, as already mentioned, was established in the sister kingdom so far back as the twelfth century, by

ANDREW WISSE, who passed over to Ireland with the first band of warriors that, under the command of Strongbow, sought a settlement in that country. He had issue, WILLIAM and Robert. The former,

WILLIAM WISSE, s. his father, and was progenitor of the Wyses of whom we are about to treat. His descendants, as well as those of his brother Robert, soon extended their name and possessions in the county of Waterford, as is most strongly testified by a deed of feoffment, bearing date at the close of the reign of EDWARD II., (about the year 1325,) by force whereof the lands and appurtenances of Island-i-kane, Glangroghe, Ballydermody, and Ballynacourty, in that county, were, with certain advowsons in the diocese of Waterford, granted and confirmed to William, the son of Philip, the son of Andrew Wyse, in tail male with successive remainders; in tail male to Nicholas, the son of Robert Wyse; to Geoffrey, the son of Richard Wyse; to Peter, the son of Geoffrey Wyse; to Adam, the son of John; to John, the son of Geoffrey; to Thomas, Henry, and Philip, the sons of Philip Wyse, according to seniority; to Henry and Robert, the sons of David Wyse, in like seniority; to David, son of Edmund Wyse; to Gerald, son of John; to William, son of Gerald; to Andrew, son of John Wyse; to John and Henry, sons of Andrew, in succession; to David, son of Walter; to John, son of Henry; to Matthew, son of Walter; to David, son of Henry; to Patrick, son of David; to John, son of Richard, with reversion in fee to the right heirs of the said William, the son of Philip, the son of Andrew Wyse, to hold said premises at the accustomed services. The estates, which were the subject of this family conveyance, were, it appears, held by the tenure of finding an armed man for the defence of the city of Waterford, as was proved on record, upon the occasion of the death of John, son of Philip Wyse, when William Wyse, succeeding to the estates, was sued in the Exchequer for relief that was customarily due to the crown out of such property, when he pleaded that he was not bound to render any relief, inasmuch as the lands to which it was sought to attach the duty were held by the service of an armed man, as aforesaid, and that same being a corporal service, was not subject to the payment of reliefs, (Roll in Chief Remembrancer's Office, 4 RICHARD II.) In 1395, a certain Patrick Wyse, claiming to be entitled to the advowson of Roslare, within the diocese of Ferns, presented his action of quare impedit, against the diocesan, and recovered the possession, (Patent Roll, 18 RICHARD II., in Chancery, Ireland;) while, 2 March, 1410, John Wyse had a royal letter of pardon for all acts of treason or other offences against the crown by him theretofore committed, (Patent Roll, 11 HENRY IV., in Chancery, Ireland.)

ANDREW WYSE, the son of William, was father of

PHILIP WYSE, mentioned in the deed of feoffment to which we have just alluded. He had two sons, WILLIAM and John. The elder,

WILLIAM WYSE, had, by the aforesaid feoffment, temp. EDWARD II., a confirmation of certain lands in the co. of Waterford. His son and successor was,

WILLIAM WYSE, who m. a dan. of the Aylward family, and was father of

PHILIP WYSE, whose son,

JOHN WYSE, m. a dau. of Madan, and left a son and successor,

WILLIAM WYSE, who was father of four sons, George, Walter, RICHARD, and Galfrid. The third son,

RICHARD WYSE, was father of Andrew and JAMES. The latter,

JAMES WYSE, m. — Wadding, and was father of

JOHN WYSE, whose son,

MAURICE WYSE, was living in 1495, in which year the Wyses are recognised in connexion with that manor of which they have ever since continued to be the lords: Maurice Wyse had held a lease of certain lands belonging to the Priory, which he obtained from the Prior, John

Devereux, in that year, in fee or otherwise, even, that is, by the same tenure, and in as ample a manner as they were held by the Prior himself. In four years afterwards, John Wyse and James Sherlock were appointed justices to hold assizes in the adjacent districts, (Patent Roll, 14 HENRY VII., in Chancery, Ireland.) This

JOHN WYSE, of the Manor of St. John, the son of Maurice, inherited, by descent, those lands of Island-i-Kane, Ballydermody, &c., which had been the subject of the family settlement of 1325 amongst the Wyses, as is evidenced by an award which took place, in 1529, on the occasion of a dispute recorded to have taken place then recently, between "William Wyse, son of John, the son of Maurice Wyse, of Waterford, and Nicholas, the son of Thomas, the son of John Power, concerning the right, title, and possession of Island-i-Kane and Ballydermody, with their appurtenances, and all other lands and tenements to same appertaining within the county of Waterford;" when on a submission to the arbitration of Nicholas Power, Lord of Kilmaydan, and others, who examined the parties and several witnesses on oath, it was awarded that "all right, title, and possession," &c. in the premises aforesaid, did of right belong to said William Wyse, in fee, with all muniments, &c., and he was further released from any demand as of mesne rates. In 1534, this

WILLIAM WYSE, son of John, by his wife, a dau. of — Sherlock Esq., being then mayor of Waterford, wrote to Cromwell, the king's secretary, an official letter on the state of Ireland, which is preserved in the British Museum, in which he alleges certain correspondences between the Emperor CHARLES V. and the Earl of Desmond, the object of which he infers was an "invasion of the cities and towns by the sea-coast of this land." It is to be here observed that during his mayoralty occurred the memorable Geraldine Rebellion, when Waterford, under his government and control, adhered so firmly to HENRY VIII., that the loyalty of its citizens was acknowledged by three royal letters of thanks; and Wyse himself having gone to England in 1536, was made esquire of the king's body, and subsequently received the honour of knighthood, as "an honourable gift for their renowned fidelity," and returned to Waterford with a cap of maintenance and gilt sword, presented by the king to the corporation, to be borne thenceforth before its mayor on all state occasions, which practice is still continued. In the July of the latter year, this William Wyse wrote another letter of political information to Cromwell, (preserved in the Chapter House, London,) which he thus concludes: "Would our Lord God, such one as you were here in person, to see at the such things as are either omitted or faintly reported. A great many of us in this land (as I suppose) are apter of nature to complain and confess our misery, than charitably and wisely to consult and provide for remedy of our harms. God amend us." With this letter he presented to Lord Cromwell a leash of falcons by his son, Harry Wyse, and sought his interest to obtain the confirmation of that conveyance of St. John, which soon afterwards passed the seal: his majesty thereby granting to said William Wyse, in tail male, "the site and ambit of St. John, near Waterford, and all the messuages, lands, tenements, rents, reversions, mills, water-courses, knights' fees, franchises, liberties, courts, &c., thereto appertaining, and all advowsons and rights of patronage of churches and chapels, all glebes, manors, tithes, oblations, and profits, of which the Prior of said house was seised within the said city of Waterford, and likewise all the messuages, lands, &c. of Credan, Ballymabin, and Lisselt, with their appurtenances, in the county of Waterford, and all rents, reversions, &c. to said house belonging in the city and county of Cork, the rectories and tithes of Kilpec and Rathmolan, with the advowsons of the vicarages thereof, the tithes of Ballygarvan, Ballytruckle, Lombard's Land, and Kilcop, with a chiefry of the last mentioned denomination, (Inquisition, 6 ELIZABETH.)" This grant was partly enlarged into a fee in 1544, at which time Sir William Wyse was also seised in tail male of a water-mill, a salmon weir, and 172 acres, at Chapelizod, in the co. Dublin, (Patent Roll in Chancery, Ireland,) and was lessee for a term of years of the rectorial tithes of Island-i-Kane. Sir William d. about the year 1556, when various inquiries post-mortem were taken to ascertain his estates and possessions in the co. and city of Duhlin, the cos. Cork and

Tipperary, and, above all, in the co. and city of Waterford. The latter found that be had died, seised in fee of Credan, 30 acres; Ballymullin, 300 acres; Ballycordry, 105 acres; Laccagh, 300 acres; Ballycogan and Ballynacourty, 200 acres; the rectories of Killeely and Ballymolcan, with their tithes, with the right of presentation thereto; various houses in Waterford; the mills called Watkins's mill, and St. John's mill; a court baron, in right of the Manor of St. John; certain chiefries, &c. These inquisitions likewise found that the said William Wyse was seised, in tail male, of Island-i-Kane, 300 acres; Ballydermody, 80 acres; Ballynock, 300 acres; a moiety of Lombard's Land, with a weir, &c., (Inquisitions, Wednesday next after the Circumcision, 6 ELIZABETH, and 11 and 12 March, 4 and 5 PHILIP and MARY.) He left a younger brother, Maurice, who was member for the city of Waterford in Queen ELIZABETH's parliament of the second year of her reign. The latter inquisition further found that Henry Wyse, then aged 40, was the eldest son and heir of the said William Wyse; he had also three other sons, JOHN, his second son, of whom hereafter; Andrew, the third son, had been joined in the commission of vice-treasurer of Ireland, with Sir William Brabazon, to whose sister, Anne, he was married, and on the death of this Sir William, Andrew Wyse was appointed to the office fully, (Patent Roll, Chancery, Ireland;) while George, the fourth and youngest son of Sir William, obtained grants from the crown, of the rectory of Island-i-Kane, the preceptory of Crooke, and other premises in the co. Waterford, together with a confirmation in his favour from King EDWARD VI., and an exemplification of the patent of HENRY II. to the House of St. John. To return to

HENRY WYSE, of the Manor of St. John, the eldest son of Sir William: he died about the year 1564, when, on inquisition, his seisin of the Manor of St. John, of two carucates in Lisdugan and Liscor, within the liberties of Waterford, and sundry other premises, was expressly found by inquisition on record. It is also recorded that this Henry Wyse had an exemption to him and his heirs from all toll and grist at Watkins's mill, on the remarkable condition of defending the granters' title and enjoyment of the water-course, "from St. Catherine's to Ship's, or Sheep's, Bridge, according to the charter of King JOHN to the house of St. John." This Henry died without issue, leaving

JAMES WYSE, the son of his next brother, John, his heir, to whom in such character, Queen ELIZABETH granted by patent, in the 15th year of her reign, all and singular the manors, lordships, castles, &c., of which his said uncle died seised. The succession of inheritance of Sir William, Henry, and James, is proved by inquisition, Tuesday next, after the feast of St. Michael, 19 ELIZABETH, (in the Chief Remembrancer's Office, Ireland.) This James, who m. Alsom, dau. and heir of Finglass, co. Dublin, d. in 1596, having a short time previously made his will, by which, after directing that he should be buried in his grandfather's burial-ground in the choir of the parish church of St. John, and, as the inscription bears, for generations the burial-place of the family, he bequeathed to his son and heir, John, "his great standing cup, double gilt," and divided his estates amongst his family, who it appears thereby consisted of (besides John) II. Andrew; III. Henry; IV. Thomas; and V. Nicholas. The second son, Andrew, appears to have been knight of Malta, prior of England, privy-councillor to King Philip of Spain, in the kingdom of Naples, &c. The inscription on his portrait, in possession of the family, bears—

"Fr. Andreas Wise, Ordinis Hier. Prior Angliæ, Regis Hisp. Collateralis Consiliarius in Regno Neapoli."

Inquisitions post-mortem, taken in reference to the estates of Henry Wyse, in the co. and city of Waterford, are of record in the Chief Remembrancer's Office, Ireland. They also find that he left his eldest son,

JOHN WYSE, Esq. of the Manor of St. John, aged 24 at his father's death in 1596. He m. Genett Walsh, dau. of Robert Walsh, mayor of Waterford, and had issue, ANDREW and JOHN. He d. in 1622, at which time he was, as found by inquisition of 1624, seised of the family estates, and left, as his heir, his elder son,

ANDREW WYSE, Esq. of the Manor of St. John. He m. and had issue, ROBERT, FRANCIS, and Andrew. The eldest son,

ROBERT WYSE, Esq., m. Mary Wadding, but d. without issue. He made a settlement of the family estates in 1621, and in 1635, had, under the Commission of Grace, in consideration of a fine, a grant of the site &c. of St. John, and all its possessions, and their appurtenances, with the other ancient family estates as therein enumerated and described. He d. within three years afterwards, intestate and without issue, (as appears by inquisition of 1640,) leaving his brother,

FRANCIS WYSE, Esq. of the Manor of St. John, his heir-at-law. This gentleman had livery of all the inheritance in such right, as appears by entry in the books of the Hanaper Office. By his will of 1647, he left very large bequests to the charitable institutions of Waterford, and five shillings to each of its citizens. His heir-male,

THOMAS WYSE, eldest son of Andrew, third son of Andrew, m. the only child and heiress of Symnell, Esq. of Cuddagh, Queen's County, and thus large estates came into the family. His son and heir,

ROBERT WYSE, Esq. of the Manor of St. John, m. Anstace Le Poer, and had (with a dau., Zaveria, wife of Fitzgerald, Esq., ancestor of Mrs. Fitzgerald, of the Island) a son,

FRANCIS WYSE, of the Manor of St. John, who m. Mary, dau. of Thomas Masterson, Esq. of Castletown and Moneyseed, co. Wexford, by Thomasine, his wife, dau. of John Walshe, Esq. of Pilltown, co. Kilkenny, and by her (who m. 2ndly, Laurence Esmonde, Esq. of Ballinastra) had issue, THOMAS, Richard, Anstace, and Margaret, m. to Edward Dunne, Esq. of Brittas, Queen's County. Mr. Wyse d. in 1717, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS WYSE, Esq. of the Manor of St. John, m. 1st, Mary, dau. of — Bourn, of London, and by her had issue,

I. FRANCIS, heir. II. John. III. Richard.

I. Anne, m. John McCarthy, Esq. of Spring House, co. Tipperary, and was maternal grandmother of Peter, Count D'Alton, and the Right Hon. Richard Lalor Shiel, M.P.

II. Charlotte, became a nun.

III. Margaret, m. — Haughton, Esq. of Kilmanock, co. Wexford.

Mr. Wyse m. 2ndly, Dame Hester Edwards, widow of Sir Francis Edwards, Bart. (Her dau., Hester, heiress of Sir Francis Edwards, m. Viscount Malpas, eldest son of the third Earl of Cholmondeley.) By Dame Hester he had no issue. His son, Richard, conformed to the established church, and by the penal law against the catholics, (Gavel act,) forced his father to sell a third of his estates, which portion is in possession of Lord Doneraile and others.

Mr. Wyse, in conjunction with O'Connor Don and Dr. Curry, presented, in 1757, to both houses of parliament the petition of the Irish catholics which led to the formation of the general committee, (see his letters in FLOWDEN'S History of Ireland.) His eldest son,

FRANCIS WYSE, Esq. of the Manor of St. John, d. unm., and was s. by his brother,

JOHN WYSE, Esq., who m. Mary-Ann, dau. of Walter Blakeney, Esq. of Ballycormac, co. Carlow, by Mary, his wife, dau. of John Byrne, Esq.* of Cabinteely, by Mary-Ann, his wife, dau. of Col. Dudley Colclough, of Duffrey, which Col. Dudley Colclough was son of Sir Thomas Colclough, and Eleaor, his wife, dau. of Sir Nicholas Bagenall, Knt. of Newry. By this lady Mr. Wyse had, with other issue,

THOMAS, his heir.

Eliza, who m. John Snow, Esq. of Snow Hill, co. Kilkenny, and left, with four sons, two daus., Mary, m. 1st, to Patrick Power, Esq. of Bellevue, and 2ndly, to M. Dechez; and Eliza, m. to Patrick Lambert, Esq.

Mary, who m. Anthony Galwey, Esq. of Carrick-on-Suir, and had issue, two daus., of whom Mary-Anne m. Gen. Richardson.

Catherine, who m. her first cousin, Walter Blakeney, Esq. of Ballycormac, and left issue.

Sarah-Maria.

Henrietta-Catherine, m. 21 Sept. 1840, to Robert

Gurney Barelay, Esq.

Elizabeth-Jane.

Mr. Wyvill, who s. his father in 1822, is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the county, and was twice member for the city of York.

Lineage.

The family of Wyvill, of ancient knightly degree, is of Norman extraction, and the name of its founder in England, SIR HUMPHREY D'WYVILL, Knt. of Slingsby Castle, appears on the roll of Battle Abbey, as one of the companions in arms of the Conqueror. His descendant,

MARMADUKE WYVILL, Esq. of Little Burton, represented Ripon in 1553, and shortly afterward received the honour of knighthood. He m. 1st, Agnes, dau. and heir of Sir Ralph Fitz Randolph, Knt. of Spennithorpe, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. and eventual co-heir of Thomas, Lord Scrope of Masham; 2ndly, Lady Billingham, widow of Sir Roger Billingham, Knt.; and 3rdly, Dorothy, relict of Sir William St. Quintin, Knt. By the first he left a son and successor,

CHRISTOPHER WYVILL, Esq. of Constable Burton, who m. Margaret, dau. of the Hon. John Scrope, younger son of Henry, Lord Scrope of Bolton, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Henry Percy, Earl of Northumberland, and had a son and successor,

SIR MARMADUKE WYVILL, Knt. of Constable Burton, who was returned to several parliaments in the reign of

ELIZABETH by the borough of Richmond, and created a baronet by JAMES I., 25 Nov. 1611. He m. Magdalen, dau. of Sir Christopher Danby, Knt. of Thorpe, in Yorkshire, and was great-great-grandfather of, (for intermediate line, see BURKE'S Extinct Baronetries.)

SIR WILLIAM WYVILL, fourth baronet, of Constable Burton, b. in 1645, who m. Anne, only dau. of James Brooke, Esq. of Ellingthorpe, in Yorkshire, and had issue,

i. MARMADUKE, his heir.

ii. D'Arcy, who d. at Derby, 5 Jan. 1734, leaving three sons, viz.,

1. William, who settled in America, and d. there about the year 1750, leaving a son, MARMADUKE, who in 1774, s. his kinsman, Sir Marmaduke, as seventh baronet, and if not barred by alienage, being American subjects, his heirs still enjoy the title.

2. Edward, general supervisor of Excise at Edinburgh, who m. 18 Dec. 1737, Christian-Catherine, dau. of William Clifton, Esq. of that city, and d. 12 March, 1791, leaving an only son, CHRISTOPHER, of whom presently, as inheritor of Constable Burton, upon the demise, in 1774, of Sir Marmaduke, the sixth baronet.

3. Hale, of the city of York, m. and had issue.

i. Priscilla, m. to Major Kemp.

ii. Ursula, d. unm.

Sir William d. in 1684, and was s. by his son,

SIR MARMADUKE WYVILL, fifth baronet, of Constable Burton, who was M.P. for Richmond, 7 WILLIAM III. and 1 QUEEN ANNE, and became subsequently a commissioner of Excise. He m. Henrietta-Maria, maid of honour to QUEEN CATHERINE and MARY, dau. of Sir Thomas Yarbrough, Knt. of Balne Hall and Snaith, by Henrietta-Maria, his wife, dau. and co-heir of Colonel Thomas Blague, of Hollinger, in Suffolk, governor of Wallingford, and had issue,

MARMADUKE, his heir.

Thomas, accountant-general of the Excise, d. unm. in 1731. Christopher, a commissioner of Excise for North Britain, and comptroller of the Excise cash in England. He m. 1st, in 1723, Elizabeth, dau. of Captain Stephen-Martin Leake, of Beddington, in Surrey, and by her (who d. 19 May, 1731) had a dau.,

Elizabeth, m. to her cousin, the Rev. Christopher Wyvill, but d. s. p., 23 July, 1783.

Christopher Wyvill m. 2ndly, in 1738, Henrietta, second dau. and co-heir of Francis Asty, Esq. of Black Notley, in Essex, and by her (who d. in 1742) had issue, MARMADUKE-ASTY, who s. as 6th baronet.

He m. 3rdly, Anne Thayer, and d. 26 April, 1752.

Anne, m. to John Wyvill, Esq. of Walton-upon-Thames, Surrey, and d. s. p.

Margaret, m. to John Purcell, Esq., and d. in 1755, s. p.

Ursula, m. to Mr. Jones, of Farnival's-court, London.

Mary, m. to the Rev. Thomas Gee.

Sir Marmaduke d. in Oct. 1722, and was s. by his son,

SIR MARMADUKE WYVILL, fifth baronet, of Constable Burton, b. in 1692, who m. Carey, dau. of Edward Coke, Esq. of Holkham, in Norfolk, but dying s. p. in 1753-4, was s. by his nephew,

SIR MARMADUKE-ASTY WYVILL, sixth baronet, of Constable Burton, who d. unm. at Bath, 23 Feb. 1774, and was s. in his estates by his brother-in-law and cousin,

* A very interesting letter from Sir William Dugdale, Garter King-of-Arms, addressed to Mr. William Bagge, at Bewley in Ireland, and bearing date, "London, October 17, 1675," is now in Mr. Wyse's possession. It refers to the pedigree of Bagge, and gives much genealogical information concerning the family. "The first track I find of your name in England," writes Dugdale "is Robert le Bagge, of the city of Caen, in Normandy, who came with WILLIAM the Conqueror unto England, in the year 1066, and at the battle of Hastings behaved himself so well that the Conqueror took notice of him and retained him in his service, and was by WILLIAM RUFUSS sent into Normandy to accomodate betwix his brother Robert and him, and served under the command of William Rufuss in an expedition in Lechestershire, and was killed about the year 1088. He left two sons behind him, but find nothing remarkable mentioned of them or their issue till the reign of HENRY III., when in opposition to the king in the Barons wars, Edmund Bagge, barron of Winsome, and James, his brother, were killed in a battle at the plains near Evesham, together with Simon Monford, the great Earle of Winchester, Hugh Spencer, Ralph Basset, and others, and their estates confiscated, which occasioned John, the son of James, his elder brother dying without issue, to live in the county of Somerset retired till the wars betwix the hous of York and Lancaster about the year 1399. Robert Bagge took part with the hous of Lancaster, and was restored to part of his estate, and followed HENRY V. in the wars in France, but don't find where he lived or what hapened his family till the rain of HENRY VII., when the hous of Lancaster was restored; and in the year 1502, I find that James Bagge, the grandson (as I take it) of Robert Bagge, was employed by HENRY VII. in making up the match betwixt his son Prince Arthur and the Infanta of Spaine, and continued in his favour till his death, and that his son, William Bagge afterwards, in the rain of HENRY VIII., went as Secretary to Sir Thomas More, in his Embassy to the Emperor, after the fall of Cardinall Woolsey, retired in the country till his death; and in the reign of Queen ELIZABETH, I find his son, James Bagge, was major to Sir Philip Sidney, when he was killed in Holand, in the year 1585; and after his return from the low country, in the year 1558, at the Spanish invasion was made governor of Tilbury Fort; and in the year 1606 was by King JAMES I., knited by the name of Sir James Bagge, for his past services, and made some regular additions to the fort of Plymouth; over one of the gates there is yet extant his coat of arms, viz., he beareth, Palye, bendu, lozengie, argent, and gules, a chief, or, three cinque foils azure. The crest is a cinque foyle, of the last, plac't between two wings, one argent, the other gules. Thus I find it entered in Camdbden's Gifts. This said Sir James Bagge had two sons; the eldest, John, who m. a wife in the country of Loraine, named Ann Lewis, of a noble familie, spent most of his father's property on her, and then retired to Ireland."

THE REV. CHRISTOPHER WYVILL, who m. two wives : by the first, Elizabeth, sister of Sir Marmaduke Wyvill, Bart., he had no issue to survive ; but by the second, Sarah Codling, he had MARMADUKE, his heir. Christopher, capt. R.N. Edward, in holy orders, rector of Fingal and Spennithorne, who m. Frances-Pulleine, relict of Frederick Dodsworth, D.D., and by her (who d. in 1831) he has issue. Sarah, m. to the Hon. and Rev. Thomas Monson, rector of Bedale, who d. in 1843. Elizabeth-Anne, m. to the Rev. John-J.-T. Monson. Catherine.

Mr. Wyvill d. in March, 1822, and was s. by his son, the present MARMADUKE WYVILL, Esq. of Constable Burton.

Lineage.

From WALTER FITZ-OTHO, Castellan of Windsor, the lustrous progenitor of the Ducal House of Leinster, derived (in common with the Wynns of Glynn) the family of VAUGHAN of Cors-y-Gedol, unquestionably one of the most eminent in North Wales, and its derivative branches, the YALES of Plas-yn-Yale, and the ROGERS's of Bryntangor. These distinguished houses have formed uninterrupted alliances with the most eminent Cambric families, and, through the marriage of an ancestor, Griffith ap Einion, of Cors-y-Gedol, with Lowrie, dau. and heir of Tudor, Lord of Gwyddelwern, brother of the renowned Owen Glendower, they are co-representatives of the Sovereign Dynasties of Powys, North Wales, and South Wales, and derive, in direct descent, from the Plantagenet Kings of England. Of the lines to which we have referred, the VAUGHANS of Cors-y-Gedol are represented by the co-heirs of the late SIR THOMAS MOSTYN, of MOSTYN, Bart.; the Yales of Plas-yn-Yale, by the LLOYDS of Plymog and Gwerclas; and the Rogers's of Bryntangor, in the female line, by the last named family, and in the male, by the Hughes's of Pen-y-clawdd, male heirs of the Hughes's of Gwerclas. The earlier descents having been given under FITZGERALD, KNIGHT of GLIN, and WYNNE of PENIARTH, we shall commence with

ENION AP GRIFFITH, of Cors-y-Gedol, co. Merioneth, who, by the dau. of Rydderch ap Ievan Lloyd, derived from Cadivor ap Gwaethvoed, Lord of Caerdigan, Einion ap Griffith had issue, with several daus.,

I. GRIFFITH AP ENION, of whose line we treat.
II. Iorwerth ap Einion, farmer of the Ville of Towyn, at Michaelmas, in 1415.

III. IEVAN AP ENION, ancestor of the WYNNES of PENIARTH, (which see.)

The eldest son,

GRIFFITH AP ENION, of Cors-y-Gedol, Llysvassi, and Gwyddelwern, m. Lowry, widow of Robert ap Griffith Goch, (see LLOYD OF PLYMOC,) and dau. and co-heir of Tudor, Lord of Gwyddelwern, in Merioneth, (brother of Owen Glendower,) derived from Griffith Maelor, Lord of Bromfield, eldest son of Madoc, last Prince of Powys. Tudor was upwards of twenty-four years old, 3 Sept., 10 RICHARD II., (1386,) when he appeared under the description of "Tudor de Glendore," as a witness in the Scrope and Grosvenor controversy. (See HUGHES OF GWERCLAS, and NICOLAS'S Scrope and Grosvenor Controversy, vol. i. p. 260.) By this Lady Griffith ap Einion had issue,

I. Griffith Vaughan, Esq. of Cors-y-Gedol, who m. Maud, dau. of Sir John Clement, Knt., and was direct ancestor of Richard Vaughan, Esq. of Cors-y-Gedol, who m. Margaret, dau. and heir of Sir Evan Lloyd, Bart. of Bodidris, co. Denbigh, and had issue (with a son, William Vaughan, Esq. of Cors-y-Gedol, who d. s. p.) a dau.,

CATHERINE VAUGHAN, who m. the Rev. Hugh Wynn, D.D., Prebendary of Salisbury, and left a dau. and heiress, MARGARET WYNN, heiress to her unele, William Vaughan. This lady m. Sir Roger Mostyn, Bart. co. Flint, and had (with two sons, Sir Thomas Mostyn, Bart., and Essex Mostyn, who both d. s. p.) five daus., co-heirs of their brother, Thomas Mostyn, of whom,

Charlotte Mostyn, m. Sir Thomas-Swymner Mostyn Champneys, Bart., who predeceased her, and d. s. p.

Elizabeth Mostyn, m. Sir Edward Pryce Lloyd, Bart., now Lord Mostyn, and has a son,

THE HON. EDWARD MOSTYN, who s. to Cors-y-Gedol, together with the other Mostyn estates, under the will of his uncle, in compliance with which he, in 1821, assumed the surname of MOSTYN.

Anna-Maria Mostyn, m. Sir Robert-Williams Vaughan, Bart., of Nannau, co. Merioneth, and has an only son, the present

SIR ROBERT-WILLIAMES VAUGHAN, Bart., b. 25 June, 1803, m. in July, 1835, Frances, eldest dau. of Edward Lloyd, Esq. of Rhagatt, co. Merioneth.

II. ELLIS AP GRIFFITH, of whose line we treat.

III. Tudor ap Griffith, of whom lands in Gwyddelwern were held 21 EDWARD IV., (Minster documents in the Chapter House, Westminster, Mich. 20 to Mich. 21 EDWARD IV.) He m. Margery, dau. of Piers Stanley, Esq. of Euloe, co. Flint, and had a son, TUDOR VYCHAN AP TUDOR, of Gwyddelwern, who m. Gwenhwyfar, dau. of Rhys ap Meredith, o'r Spythy, and dying 2 HENRY VII., left two daus. and co-heirs, Margery, aged five at her father's death, m. Henry Salusbury, Esq. of Llanrhaiadr, co. Denbigh.

Katherine, m. John Lloyd, of Bodidris, in Yale, co. Denbigh.

I. Catherine, m. Howel ap Griffith, of Crogen-yn-Edeirnion, co. Merioneth, ancestor of the Lloyds of Crogen. (See HUGHES OF GWERCLAS.)

II. Efa, m. Madoc ap Iorwerth, derived from Ririd Flaidd, Lord of Penllyn, in Merioneth.

The second son of Griffith ap Einion,

ELLIS AP GRIFFITH, of Gwyddelwern, co. Merioneth, m. Margaret, dau. and heir of Jenkyn ap Ievan, of Plas-yn-Yale, in the parish of Bryn Eglwys, co. Denbigh, brother of Tudor ap Ievan, of Bodidris, ancestor of the Lloyds of Bodidris, Barts., derived, through Llewelyn ap Ynyr O'Ial, Lord of Gelligynan, from Sandde Hardd, Lord of Morton, [Burton,] in Denbighland. (See LLOYD OF GLOSTER.) By the heiress of Plas-yn-Yale, Ellis ap Griffith had issue,

I. DAVID AP ELLIS, of whom we treat.

II. JOHN WYNN AP ELLIS, of Bryntangor, in the parish of Bryn Eglwys, co. Denbigh, who m. twice: 1st, Margaret, dau. of William Lloyd ap Madoc Vychan, of Llwyn Dyerys, derived, through Sir Ievan Llwyd, Knt., living t. mp. EDWARD III., from Marchudd, Lord of Abergelleu, Founder of the VIII. Noble Tribe of North Wales and Powys, (see LLOYD OF PLYMOC.) By this lady he had (with a dau., Lowry, wife of Thomas Lloyd ap Philip) an eldest son and successor, I. ROGER AP JOHN WYNN, of whom presently. John Wynn ap Ellis m. 2ndly, Ann, dau. of Llewelyn Vychan, of Yale, and had issue, II. Ellis, who m. Margaret, dau. of John Wilson, of London, by whom he had, 1. William; 2. Edward; 3. Thomas; 4. John; 5. Ellis; 6. George; 1. Anne, m. to John ap William ap Griffith; 2. Jane; 3. Magdalen; 4. Mary; 5. Elizabeth; 6. Catherine; 7. Margaret; 8. Joyce; 9. Amy. The only son of the first marriage of John Wynn ap Ellis, viz.,

ROGER AP JOHN WYNN, of Bryntangor, m. Helen, dau. of Foulk Salusbury, Esq. of Llanrwst, co. Denbigh, son of Thomas Salusbury, Esq. of Llewini, in the same co., ancestor of the Salusburs of Llewini, Barts., extinct, and the Salusburs of Llanwrn, Barts., (see BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage, SALUSBURY OF LLANWERN, Bart.) By this lady Roger had two sons,

1. JOHN WYNN, his heir.

YARBURGH OF HESLINGTON.

YARBURGH, NICHOLAS-EDMUND, Esq. of Heslington Hall, in the East Riding of the co. York, b. in Feb. 1771; a deputy-lieut. for that Riding, and major in the third regiment of Provisional Militia; s. his brother, 28 Oct. 1825. Major Yarburgh was high-sheriff for Yorkshire in 1836.

Lineage.

The family of Yarburgh is one of great antiquity, and can trace an authenticated male succession from the time of the Norman Conquest. At that period EUSTACIUS DE YARBURGH was Lord of Yarburgh, co. Lincoln, which manor, together with the patronage of the living, still remains vested in his lineal representative, the present Major Yarburgh, of Heslington. For many successive centuries the Yarburchs were chiefly settled in various parts of Lincolnshire, but more than two hundred years ago they removed their residence to Snaith Hall, in the West Riding of the co. York, and subsequently, Snaith Hall being destroyed, to Heslington Hall, near York, an ancient mansion, built in the reign of ELIZABETH, and acquired in marriage with a co-heiress of the Heskeths of Heslington, a junior branch of the Lancashire Heskeths.

EUSTACIUS DE YARBURGH, lord of the manor of Yarrowborough, or Yarburgh, co. Lincoln, in 1066, m. and had a son,

ROBERT DE YARBURGH, who m. the dau. of Sir Lambert Manby, and was father of

Lineage.

The family of Yarker is of German extraction, and according to the title deeds of the family estates, and other authentic records, has been settled at Leyburn, in the North Riding of the co. York, since the year 1500, temp. HENRY VII. Its founder in England was Reinhold de Yarker, a German knight, who came over to this kingdom during the civil wars between the two Roses, and settled here. The German descent is confirmed by a grant from the crown of lands at Leyburn, made in the reign of King HENRY VIII., which are still held by the Rev. Luke Yarker, the present representative of the family. From the original founder descended,

WILLIAM YARKER, of Leyburn, b. before 1529. He d. 5 Feb. 1577, leaving by his wife, Margaret, (who d. 6 Aug. 1551,) a son,

REINHOLD YARKER,† of Leyburn, b. 1 Dec. 1549, who d. 16 July, 1623, leaving issue,

- I. LUKE, his heir, b. 19 Oct. 1598.
- II. William, b. 4 Oct. 1601.
- I. Margaretta, b. in 1592.
- II. Elizabeth, b. 3 May, 1596.

The son,

LUKE YARKER, of Leyburn, s. his father, and left by his wife, Jane, who d. 19 April, 1653,

* The following is a copy of the inscription on the family monument in Carshalton church:—

"Near this place lye the remains of John Braddyll, Esq., descended from an ancient family long seated at Portfield and Conishead, in Lancashire, who from his youth traversed the oceans of Europe and the Indies as a merchant, and having acquired a handsome fortune, the due reward of honest industry, and learnt therewith to be content, he retired to this village, and enjoyed the fruits of his labour with temperance and moderation. Born at Conishead, 1695. Died at Carshalton, 13 May, 1753, aged 58.

"Maria South was buried here, Aug. 31, 1797."

† The name is so spelt in an ancient deed and grant from the crown, among the family muniments of title.

- i. REINHOLD, his heir, b. 10 Aug. 1626.
- ii. Luke, b. 11 Oct. 1627, d. 2 April, 1661.

YORKE OF ERDDIG.

YORKE, SIMON, Esq. of Erddig, co. Denbigh, b. 6 April, 1811, s. to the estates at the decease of his father.

Lineage.

The family of YORKE, of which the EARL OF HARDWICKE represents the elder branch, came originally from Calne, in Wiltshire, and were afterwards seated at Dover and in the Isle of Thanet. "The ancestry of the celebrated nobleman, (Lord Hardwicke)," says Sir Egerton Brydges, "though of no particular lustre either from its titles or estates, was by no means mean, insignificant in point of property, or unrespectable in alliances."

SIMON YORKE, Esq. of Dover, a person of good landed property, d. in 1682, aged 76, leaving with other issue,

i. PHILIP, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Richard Gibbon, Esq. of Dover, and widow of Edward Gibbon, Esq. of Westcliffe, by whom he had, with other issue,

Philip, who having attained the highest eminence in the legal profession, was appointed solicitor-general in 1720, at the early age of 29, and attorney-general in four years afterwards, which office he continued to hold until 1733, when he was elevated to the bench and peerage, as lord-chief-justice of the Court of King's Bench, and Baron Hardwicke of Hardwicke. In 1736-37, his lordship was constituted lord-high-chancellor of Great Britain, and advanced, 2 April, 1754, to a viscount and earldom, by the titles of Viscount Royston and Earl of Hardwicke. (See BURKE'S Peerage.)

ii. SIMON.

The younger son,

SIMON YORKE, Esq., m. Anne, sister and heir of John Meller, Esq. of Erddig, co. Denbigh, one of the Masters in Chancery, and had a son and successor,

Mr. Aldworth is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for co. Cork, and served as high-sheriff in 1832-3.

Lineage.

This family, of considerable antiquity, was early seated in the county of Berks, where the immediate representative, Richard Aldworth, resided at Stanlakes, and on succeeding to the barony of Braybrooke, assumed the names of Neville and Griffin.

The Irish branch settled in the co. of Cork, in the reign of ELIZABETH, and in various female lines* trace their descent from some of the noblest families in England, and through the houses of Neville of Abergavenny, Stafford of Buckingham, and Percy of Northumberland, to the Plantagenets and King HENRY III.

RICHARD ALDWORTH, who obtained a grant of part of the Earl of Desmond's forfeited estate near Short Castle, Mallow, m. Ellen Poor, dau. of the ancestor of the Earl of Tyrone, and niece of Roche, Viscount Fermoy, and was father of

SIR RICHARD ALDWORTH, Knt., provost-marshal and vice-president of Munster. To him was granted patents by King JAMES I., for the manor and estate of Ballyhooly, 23 May, 1620, and the manor and estate of Newmarket, 1 March, 1621. He was s. by

RICHARD ALDWORTH, who received a charter from King CHARLES I., 8 March, 1638, confirming the manors of Ballyhooly and Newmarket, as granted by King JAMES. He afterwards received the order of knighthood, and in 1657, m. Martha, relict of Capt. Robert Stannard, dau. of

Sir Robert Travers, granddau. of Dr. Richard Boyle, Archbishop of Tuam, and niece to Dr. Michael Boyle, Primate of Ireland. By her he had a son, BOYLE, and a dau., Mary, who m. Simon, eldest son of Sir Simon Eaton, of Ballinaclough, co. Limerick. He d. about 1692; his son,

BOYLE ALDWORTH, Esq., m. 1st, 10 April, 1687, Elizabeth Burgh; and 2ndly, 20 July, 1691, Elizabeth, dau. of William Culliford, Esq., a Commissioner of the Revenue. He was drowned on his voyage to England, 12 March, 1697, leaving by the latter a son,

RICHARD ALDWORTH, Esq. of Newmarket, b. in 1694, who m. the Hon. Elizabeth St. Leger, dau. of Arthur, first Lord Doneraile, and had issue, BOYLE, his heir; and ST. LEGER, who was created Lord Doneraile, and was ancestor of the present Viscount Doneraile, (see BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.) Mr. Aldworth d. 25 April, 1776, and was s. by his eldest son,

BOYLE ALDWORTH, Esq. of Newmarket, who m. 1st, Jane, dau. of Robert Oliver, Esq. of Cloughnodfoy, co. Limerick, and by her had,

RICHARD, who m. Anne, dau. of Dr. John Ryder, Archbishop of Tuam, and relict of Admiral Cotes, and d. s. p. 4 April, 1824.

* Sir Warham St. Leger, ancestor of the Hon. Elizabeth St. Leger, wife of Richard Aldworth, m. Ursula Neville, dau. of the 3rd Lord Abergavenny, by Lady Mary Stafford, dau. of the 3rd Duke of Buckingham, uniting the line of EDWARDS I. II. III. with that of the Princess Joan of Acre, and that of Edmund Earl of Lancaster, through the Percys of Northumberland.

* Dr. John Ryder, maternal great-grandfather of the present Mr. Aldworth, m. Alicia Wilmot, a descendant of Sir Nicholas Wilmot, by the dau. of Sir Henry Harpur, who (through the houses of Faunt and Clarevaux) was descended from Sir Alexander Percy, third son of Henry, Lord Percy, by Maria, dau. of Henry Plantagenet, Earl of Lancaster, and granddau. of BLANCHE, Queen of Navarre.

AINSWORTH OF SPOTLAND.

AINSWORTH, WILLIAM-HARRISON, Esq. of Spotland and Beech Hill, co. Lancaster, b. 4 Feb. 1805; m. 11 Oct. 1826, Anne-Frances, younger dau. of John Ebers, Esq., and by her (who d. 6 March, 1838,) has issue three daus, viz.,

- i. Fanny.
- ii. Emily-Mary.
- iii. Anne-Blanche.

The Spotland estate came into the possession of Thomas Ainsworth, Esq. of Tottington, co. Lancaster, in 1708, through his wife, Jane, dau. of Jane Hopwood, and James Echtersall, Esq. Beech Hill, Smedley, near Manchester, was purchased in August, 1811, from Samuel Chetham Hilton, Esq., by the late Thomas Ainsworth, Esq., as were land and messuage in King-street, in March, 1819, from William Rigby, Esq. of Old-field, Cheshire, together with other properties in Manchester and Salford, in the years 1811, 1819, 1820, and 1822. Other property in Manchester was bequeathed to Thomas Ainsworth's wife, Ann, for her separate use, by her father, the Rev. Ralph Harrison, who was the son of the Rev. William Harrison,* a presbyterian divine, and the great-grandson of the Rev. Cuthbert Harrison, a famous nonconformist teacher, noticed in Dr. Calamy's account of ejected ministers. The Rev. Ralph Harrison attained a high reputation in Manchester, as a preacher, an author, and a scholar, and realized a large fortune. He produced many able works of an educational character, and left behind him a volume of discourses that fully bear out his claim to the affectionate regard in which his character and ministration were held.

William-Harrison Ainsworth s. to the property on the death of his mother, 15 March, 1842.

ANDERSON OF GRACE DIEU.

ANDERSON, THE REV. JOSHUA, A.M., Rector of Myshall, co. Carlow, b. in 1770; m. Anne, eldest dau. of Captain William-John Perceval, great-great-grandson of the Right Hon. Sir Philip Perceval, a very distinguished statesman, (see PERCEVAL OF TEMPLE HOUSE,) and has issue,

* This Benjamin d. suddenly at the early age of 41, and his widow m. 2ndly, Mr. George Holmes, by whom she left a son, the late Major George Holmes, of the 27th regiment, killed at Waterloo, in 1815. By this second marriage of Anne Alloway, the singular circumstance occurred, that her son, WILLIAM-JOHNSON ALLOWAY had two brothers who were no relatives to each other, thus: John-Barclay Alloway and William-Johnson Alloway were half-brothers, having had the same father (Benjamin), but different mothers; also William-Johnson Alloway and George Holmes were half-brothers, having had the same mother (Anne), but different fathers; consequently John-B. Alloway and George Holmes were no wise related by either father or mother, and were only connected through the link of William-Johnson Alloway, who was half-brother to each.

† Mr. Alloway's godfather was the Chevalier Francis-Frederick Morellet, nephew of the Abbé Morellet, so celebrated in the French revolution, as the loyal adherent of the unfortunate Louis XVI., whom he attended through his trial and on the scaffold.

‡ The "Derries" is an Anglo-Irish compound word, and signifies "The Place of Oak-trees," from der, or dhar, an oak-tree, in Celtic.

- I. JAMES, of Rockboro', co. Waterford, who m. Margaret, youngest dau. of Thomas Carew, Esq. of Ballynamona, and has issue, Jane-Margaret.
- II. William.
- III. Robert-Carew, an officer in the 82nd regt.
- IV. Paul-Christmas.
- V. Alexander, lieut. R.N.
- I. Anne, m. 4 Feb. 1845, Charles-Newport Bolton, Esq. of Brook Lodge, co. Waterford, and has issue, Anne-Frances-Ellen.
- II. Jane-Ellen. III. Ellen. IV. Catherine.
- V. Henrietta. VI. Susan.

Lincage.

This family, which springs from a scion of the ancient house of Anderson of Wester-Airderheck, has been seated in the co. of Waterford since the reign of King WILLIAM III. Several of its members having taken an active part in favour of the Pretender, their estates in Scotland fell under confiscation.

ALEXANDER ANDERSON, Esq. of Grace Dieu, (grandson of Anderson of Wester-Airderbeck, and great-nephew of the Rev. Arthur Anderson, chaplain to WILLIAM III., and Major Anderson, of Grace Dieu,) m. Miss Brewster, co-heiress with her sister, Mrs. Dore, and granddaughter of Sir Francis Brewster, twice lord-mayor of Dublin, and one of the commissioners who were appointed by WILLIAM III. to settle the confiscated estates in Ireland. By this lady Mr. Anderson left issue,

- I. JAMES, his heir.
- I. Jane, who m. — Carew, Esq. of Woodinstown, co. Tipperary.
- II. Catherine, m. — Dobbyn, Esq. of Waterford, and d. s. p.

The son and heir,

JAMES ANDERSON, Esq. of Grace Dieu, m. Susanna, youngest dau. of Christmas Paul, Esq., by Ellen, his wife, dau. of Robert Carew, Esq., M.P., of Castle Boro', co. Wexford, great-uncle of the Right Hon. Lord Carew, and had issue,

- I. JAMES, his heir.
- II. Paul (Sir), G.C.B., lieut.-general, colonel of the 78th Highlanders, and governor of Pendennis Castle. General Anderson entered the army, 31 March, 1788, and attained the rank of lieut.-general, 10 Jan. 1837. He served at the storming of Convention Redoubts; Mozelle Fort; the siege of Calvi, in Corsica; and in the West Indies. At the storming of Morne Chapel, St. Lucia, he received a severe wound; subsequently he acted as aide-de-camp to Sir John Moore, in the expedition to Holland, and afterwards in the expedition to Egypt, where he was severely wounded in the arm, 21 March. He accompanied the Walcheren expedition, and was present at the siege of Flushing. The part borne by General Anderson, at the death of his friend, Sir John Moore, on the field of battle, is thus described in Moore's life of that hero:—

"Before he reached Corunna it was almost dark, and Colonel Anderson met him, who, seeing his general borne from the field of battle for the third and last time, steeped in blood, became speechless with anguish. Moore pressed his hand, and said in a low tone, 'Anderson, don't leave me.' He was then placed on a mattress on the floor, and supported by Anderson, who had saved his life at St. Lucia. . . . 'Anderson,' said the General, 'you will see my friends as soon as you can. Tell them—everything,—say to my mother—' here his voice faltered. . . . 'Are all my aides-de-camp safe?' (At this question, Anderson, who knew the warm regard of the General towards the officers of his staff, made a private signal not to mention that Capt. Burrard was mortally wounded.) Then, turning to Anderson, he said, 'Remember you go to Willoughby Gordon, and tell him it is my request, and that I expect he will give the lieut.-colonely to Major Colbourne.' After a pause, Stanhope caught his eye, and he said to him, 'Stanhope, remember me to your sister,' (Lady Hester Stanhope.) He then became silent; death, undreaded, approached; and the spirit departed, leaving the bleeding body an oblation offered up to his country."

In the United Service Museum may be seen a sash with the following note appended to it:—

"My dear Capt. Hay,—I send you my sash, which was used in carrying my noble and lamented friend, Sir John Moore, from the field of battle at Corunna into the town, and afterwards in letting him down into his grave on the ramparts, where he was buried by his personal staff, as he always made me promise that wherever he fell there he should be interred; and I have to request that you will present it to the committee of the United Service

Museum, in hopes that they may esteem it worthy to be preserved in that institution as a relic of that great man who devoted his life to the service of his country.

"I remain, &c. &c.

"P. ANDERSON, Lieut.-Gen."

- III. Alexander, capt. in the army, d. in Bath, in 1833, s. p.

ANNESLEY OF ARLEY CASTLE.

ANNESLEY, ARTHUR-LYTTELTON, Esq. of Arley Castle, co. Stafford, and Camolin Park, co. Wexford, Capt. in the army, b. 30 Nov. 1802; m. 18 March, 1835, Mary, third dau. of John Bradley, Esq. of Colborne Hall, co. Stafford, and has surviving issue,

- I. ARTHUR-LYTTELTON, b. 2 Sept. 1837.
- II. John-George, b. 8 Aug. 1839.
- I. Georgina-Lytelton.
- II. Annabella-Lucy.
- III. Augusta-Mary.

This gentleman, whose patronymic is Macleod, assumed the surname and arms of ANNESLEY, by Royal licence, in 1844, having s. to the estates of his maternal uncle, George Annesley, last Earl of Mountnorris. Mr. Annesley is a magistrate for the cos. of Stafford, Worcester, Salop, and Wexford.

Lineage.

This family derives its surname from the lordship of Anneslei, co. Nottingham, where its patriarch, RICHARD DE ANNESLEI, was seated at the time of the general survey.

ROBERT ANNESLEY, Esq., eldest son of George Annesley, Esq. of Newport Pagnell, Bucks, and the descendant of the marriage of Sir John Annesley, M.P. for Notts, with Isabel, sister and co-heir of Sir John Chandos, K.G., was a naval officer in the reign of Queen ELIZABETH, and also a captain in her majesty's army raised to suppress the Earl of Desmond's rebellion; after which he became an undertaker in the plantation of Munster. He m. Beatrice, dau. of John Cornwall, Esq. of Moor Park, co. Hereford, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR FRANCIS ANNESLEY, Knt., who filled for forty years several of the highest official situations in Ireland. In 1606, he was appointed comptroller over the clerk of the works; in 1607, made joint-clerk of the council, and keeper of the signet in the province of Munster; in 1612, he was constituted constable of the castle of Mountnorris: in the next year, Sir Francis represented the co. of Armagh in parliament; and in 1616, he was constituted one of the principal secretaries of state for Ireland, and sworn of the privy council; but the office being granted without fee, he had a reversionary patent, dated 8 June, 1618, of the secretaryship and custody of the privy-signet, on the avoidance or death of Sir Dudley North, whereupon he resigned the reversionary grant of the muster-master-generalship, which he had previously obtained. Upon the institution of the order of Baronets of Ireland, Sir Francis Annesley was the second person upon whom that dignity was conferred, by patent, dated 7 Aug. 1620; and in the following year, Sir Francis obtained a reversionary grant, by patent, dated 11 March, 1621, of the Irish Viscounty of Valentia, at the decease of the then viscount, Sir Henry Power. He was put, however, into the more immediate possession of a peerage, by the title of Baron Mountnorris, of Mountnorris, co. Armagh, 8 Feb. 1628. (For the sufferings of this nobleman under the government of the Earl of Strafford, see BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage.) His lordship m. 1st, Dorothy, dau. of Sir John Phillips, Bart. of Picton Castle, co. Pembroke, by whom he had three sons,

MAURICE.

Mr. Atkins s. to the representation of the family at the decease of his father, the late Lieut-Col. Atkins.

Lineage.

This family have been settled in the co. of Cork for more than two centuries. They removed from the neighbourhood of Minehead, Somerset, at the time when the royalists were beginning to be roughly handled by the dominant parliamentary soldiery. The facilities of the port of Bristol threw open to the sufferers the opposite shores of Ireland; and to this day we find most of the prominent gentry of the southern districts in that kingdom to have derived from a parent stock in Gloucester, Somersetshire, or Devon.

— ATKIN, Esq. of Billbrock, Old Cleeve, co. Somerset, b. circ. 1580, had two sons, whose seniority has not been ascertained: of these, WALTER fixed himself at Coolnacloughfinny, co. Cork; the other,

JOHN ATKIN, Esq., was of Polemore, now called Redbarn, near Youghal, which estate he purchased. By Jeane, his wife, (who d. 7 Dec. 1675, and was buried at Cloynepriest,) he had issue,

I. JOHN, his heir.

I. Jane, m. Jasper Lucas, Esq. of Youghal, and had issue, Jasper, m. Jane, dau. of Samuel Hayman, Esq. Jane, m. to William Arnold, Esq.

II. Elizabeth, m. in 1663, Samuel Hayman, Esq. of South Abbey, (see that family), by whom she had, John, b. in 1664, M.P. for Youghal for ten years, (1703-13,) d. 21 Aug. 1731.

George, of Byefarm, co. Somerset, b. in 1666, and d. circ. 1745.

Samuel, of Youghal, b. in 1668, and d. in 1725.

Jane, m. 1st, to A. Vaughan, Esq., and 2ndly, to Jasper Lucas, Esq.

Elizabeth, m. to Edward Tottenham, Esq. of Tottenham Green, co. Wexford.

Frances, m. to Alderman John Luther, of Youghal.

III. Anne, m. to John Brailsford, Esq. of Garranjames.

IV. Margaret, m. to — Parker, Esq. of Cherrymount.

V. A dau., m. to William Tottenham, co. Wexford.

He d. 14 Feb. 1642, and was buried at Cloynepriest, where his tomb is. His son, who succeeded, was

JOHN ATKIN, Esq., an alderman of Youghal, b. in 1638. He d. 20 May, 1708, (his last will bears date 7 Nov. 1705, and was proved 3 June, 1708,) leaving a son,

THE REV. WALTER ATKIN, of Ballinleaden, or Leadington, incumbent of Middleton, and vicar-general of the diocese of Cloyne. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of — Coningsby, Esq. of Hampton Court, co. Hereford, and by her (who d. 22 Nov. 1713, and was buried at Middleton) had issue,

ATKINSON OF LORBOTTLE.

ATKINSON, ADAM, Esq. of Lorbottle, co. Northumberland, b. 7 April, 1817; a magistrate for the county, and captain in the Northumberland militia.

Lineage.

This family is of considerable antiquity on the English border, as may be seen from various old records. In one of the earliest heraldic visitations of Northumberland, a document is recorded, in which William Adekyson, of Fenwick, is mentioned, 13 Nov. 1397, and in a manuscript possessed by the late Robert Surtees, Esq. of Mainsforth, F.A.S., is given a list of all the castles and towers in the county of Northumberland, with the names of their proprietors, made about the year 1460, and under the head, "Nomina Fortalicionum infra com. Northumbr.:" we find, "Turris de Bukton, the property of William Atkynson."

There are records of this family in various places, but a fire having occurred at Brankston, which destroyed a number of the family registers, it would be difficult to make a connected history with precision.

ADAM ATKINSON, Esq., b. in 1755, in the commission of the peace for Northumberland, purchased the estate of Lorbottle in 1796. He m. in 1776, Isabella, eldest dau. of Robert Curry, Esq., and d. 15 July, 1844, having had issue,

ADAM, his heir.

John, b. in 1796, d. in 1816.

Arms, Crest, and Motto—see BURKE's Illuminated Heraldic Illustrations.

Seat—Lorbottle House, co. Northumberland.

ATKINSON.

Lineage.

The family of Atkinson, of London, and of Maidenhead, Berks, descends from one of the same name still resident in Yorkshire, a detailed account of which is to be seen in Whittaker's work, on the Ridings of that shire, and also in the visitations of Yorkshire for 1584 and 1612. At what period this branch left their native place is uncertain, but they originally resided at Ripon, co. York; a large portion of that town and lands in its vicinity having been held by them in fee. About the period of the civil wars, ROBERT ATKINSON, Esq., then of Newark, co. Notts, served as captain of a troop of horse under the Marquis of Newcastle, and gained distinction. He subsequently took out a grant of arms, bearing date, 28 Nov. 1663. Dying, he left issue, from whom proceeded,

THOMAS ATKINSON, Esq. of London, who by his wife, Dorothy, had,

- i. William, b. 29 March, 1714, d. s. p.
- ii. JASPER, of whom presently.
- i. Susanna, b. in 1719. ii. Elizabeth, b. in 1722.

The second son,

JASPER ATKINSON, Esq., became a merchant in London and at Rotterdam; he m., 20 Aug. 1752, Anne, eldest dau. of Henry Van der Esch, Esq., of the royal Mint, (who d. 1763, aged 77, son of Herr Van der Esch, who accompanied King WILLIAM III. from Holland to England, and obtained from him an appointment in the royal Mint, which devolved on his son, Henry, a very ingenious projector, to whom, as well as to his descendants, the establishment is much beholden.) Mr. Atkinson, d. 22 Feb. 1804, aged 80, leaving,

- i. HENRY-WILLIAM, of whom presently.
- ii. Jasper, b. 31 Oct. 1760, a banker, merchant, &c. of Maidenhead, Berks. He d. in Feb. 1844, aged 84, leaving by his wife, Sophia, dau. of Samuel Gardiner, Esq. of Combe Lodge, Oxon, whom he m. 20 Sept. 1791, and who d. in 1831, an only child, Sophia, now of Maidenhead.
- iii. Thomas, a merchant at Amsterdam, d. 6 Dec. 1827, aged 65, s. p.

- ii. Mary, m. 30 July, 1792, to Henry Blunt, Esq. of Chelsea, son of Samuel Blunt, Esq. of Springfield, Sussex.

HENRY-WILLIAM ATKINSON, Esq., the eldest son, b. 29 May, 1753, Provost of the ancient Company of Moneyers of the royal Mint, m. 31 Aug. 1780, Susanna, dau. of — Smith, Esq., and by her who d. 21 June, 1837, had issue,

- i. THOMAS, in the navy, drowned off Goa, in India, 12 May, 1820, aged 33: m. Ann, dau. of David Erskine, Esq. of Calcutta, and left at his decease two children,
 1. Thomas-Jasper, now a merchant in India, m. 20 Aug. 1845, Margaret, dau. of John Lang, Esq. of Selkirk, N.B.
 2. Maria, m. Capt. Archibald Campbell.
- ii. Jasper (Sir), b. 12 Sept. 1790, knighted in 1842, for services rendered at the instance of the British government, to the states of France, Russia, and Turkey, from which he has also received imperial tokens of their esteem and thanks; Provost of the ancient Company of Moneyers of the Mint, in which service he has been more than 40 years. He m. 12 May, 1819, Louisa-Jane-Grace, only dau. of William Gyll, Esq. of Wyrardisbury, Bucks, capt. 2nd Life-guards, (see Pedigree of GYLL), by whom he has an only child, Jane-Laura.
- iii. Henry (Sir), b. 29 May, 1792, knighted in 1836, a commander R. N., m. 4 June, 1819, Sarah, dau. of John Randall, of the Isle of Wight, by whom he has had,

BAILLIE OF DOCHFUR.

BAILLIE, EVAN, Esq. of Dochfour, co. Inverness, m. in 1823, Lady Georgiana-Frederica Montagu, fourth dau. of William, Duke of Manchester, and has two sons and three daughters.

Lineage.

The first of the family of Baillie, who settled in Inverness-shire, was ALEXANDER BAILLIE, eldest son of Sir William Baillie, of Lamington, in Lanarkshire, by Marian, his wife, dau. of Sir John Seton, of Seton, A.D. 1450.

This Sir William Baillie, of Lamington, had a numerous issue. The three eldest sons had maimed a clergyman, who had been taken into the house as tutor, for a grievous offence which he had committed in their family, of which injury he died. The power of the church at this time being great in Scotland, the three brothers were obliged to fly.

The eldest settled in Inverness-shire, probably owing to his connexion with the Gordon and Sutherland families, his eldest sister, Margaret, having married John, 7th Earl of Sutherland, (see SUTHERLAND Peerage), and with the Gordons, through the Seton family.

The second settled in Ireland, from whom springs the family of Inshlaughy.

The third went to the Isle of Anglesey, and founded the family of which the Marquis of Anglesey is a descendant.

ALEXANDER BAILLIE, the eldest son, (from whom are descended the houses of Dunain, Dochfour, and Leys,) fought at the battle of Breckin, as a volunteer, under the 1st Earl of Huntly against the Earl of Crawford, and was for his services on that occasion rewarded with the baronies of Dunain and Torbreck, part of the castle lands of Inverness in the year 1452. The Earl of Huntly received, in requital of the eminent aid he rendered the crown by defeating the Earl of Crawford, and preventing his junction with the Douglas, many grants from JAMES II. of Scotland, and among others, the lordship of the castle lands of Inverness, the hereditary sheriffship of the county, and as principal keeper, the appointment of the constable of the castle. Alexander Baillie not only obtained a charter of the said lands, but was appointed by the Earl of Huntly constable of the castle of Inverness. He m. Catherine, only dau. of Sir Duncan Grant, of Treuchy, by whom he left two sons, by the elder of whom he was succeeded, viz.,

WILLIAM BAILLIE, of Dunain : he was sheriff of Inverness-shire, and constable of the castle of Inverness in 1534, according to the county records. His son and successor,

ALEXANDER BAILLIE, of Dunain, who was sheriff of Inverness-shire in 1547-8, under the Earl of Huntly, as appears from the sheriff records, left two sons,

I. DAVID, of Dunain

II. Thomas, of Corsalie, as designed in the sheriff-court records. He was appointed sheriff of Inverness-shire, 7 Nov. 1558, and continued in that office until April, 1563.

The elder son,

DAVID BAILLIE, of Dunain, was appointed constable of the castle in 1548. He m. Margaret Rose, dau. of Hugh Rose, of Kilraveock, and dying in 1558, was s. by his eldest son, ALEXANDER BAILLIE, of Dunain, who obtained a grant from the Regent Murray, in 1564, of the hereditary sheriffship of the county, as well as of the castle lands of Inverness. He d. in 1576, unm., and was s. by his brother,

WILLIAM BAILLIE, of Dunain, who m. Catherine, dau. of Robert More Munro, of Fowlis, chief of the clan Munro, by Margaret Ogilvie, his wife, dau. of Sir James Ogilvie, of Findlater, ancestor of the Earls of Findlater, and left two sons,

I. ALEXANDER, of Dunain.

II. John, ancestor of the family of Leys, and provost of Inverness in 1583.

The elder,

ALEXANDER BAILLIE, Esq. of Dunain, was sheriff of the county, 15 Feb. 1585, and continued in that office till 1593. He m. Catherine Munro, dau. of Munro of Miltown, and left two sons,

I. WILLIAM, his heir, of Dunain, who m. Isabella, dau. of Duncan Forbes, Esq. of Culloden, and was, by her, ancestor of the Baillies of Dunain, now represented by WILLIAM BAILLIE, Esq. of that place.

II. DAVID, ancestor of the family of Dochfour, to whom was bequeathed the lands of Easter and Wester Dochairn, by his father, in 1657.

The second son,

DAVID BAILLIE, 1st of Dochfour, m. Margaret, fourth dau. of the Lord Lovat, and was s. by his eldest son, ALEXANDER BAILLIE, of Dochfour, who m. in 1709, Hannah, dau. of Fraser of Relig, and left four sons,

I. HUGH, of Dochfour.

II. William, of Rosehall, in Sutherland, father of the late General Sir Ewen Baillie, Bart., and General Charles Baillie.

III. Evan, of Aberiachan.

IV. David.

The eldest son,

HUGH BAILLIE, Esq. of Dochfour, m., 10 June, 1730, Emilia Fraser, dau. of Fraser of Relig, and left four sons and four daus.,

I. ALEXANDER, his heir, of Dochfour, d. in 1798.

II. James.

III. EVAN, of whom presently.

IV. Duncan.

II. Isabella, m. to Duncan Grant, of Bught.

III. Hannah, m. to James Fraser, of Belladrum.

IV. Christin, m. to Duff, of Muirtown.

The third son,

EVAN BAILLIE, of Dochfour, s. his elder brother, Alexander, in 1798. Early in life he entered the army, and served during the war in the West Indies ; he afterwards settled in Bristol, where he became an eminent West India merchant, and represented that city in parliament for many years ; he was also colonel of the Bristol regiment of volunteer infantry. He m. Mary, dau. of Peter Gurley, Esq. of the Island of St. Vincent, and left three sons,

I. PETER, of Dochfour, formerly M.P. for the Inverness district of burghs.

II. Hugh-Duncan, of Redcastle, M.P. for Honiton, and lord-lieutenant of the co. Ross. (See vol. i. p. 46.)

III. James-Evan, formerly M.P. for Tralec and Bristol.

The eldest son,

PETER BAILLIE, of Dochfour, m. in 1797, Elizabeth, dau. of John Pinney, Esq. of Somerton, and left two sons and two daus.,

I. EVAN, now of Dochfour.

II. John-Frederick, of Leys, m. Annie Baillie, dau. and heiress of Col. John Baillie, of Leys.

I. Jane, m. to the Hon. and Rev. Baptist-Wriothesley Noel, brother of the Earl of Gainsborough.

IV. Emily.

Mr. Batten s. his uncle, Edmund Batten, Esq., in 1836, and is an acting magistrate for the co. of Somerset.

Lineage.

This family has been seated for nearly six centuries in the county of Somerset.

Its origin appears to have been Flemish. Among the nobility of Flanders, whom EDWARD I. invited to assist him against the French king, is Robert de Betoyn, Count Nyers. In the same reign, the leading merchants of the wool staple, trading with Flanders and of Flemish origin, were Ingeram de Betoyn, or Beteyn, William de Beteyn, and John Beteyn.

Ingeram de Beteyn also held lands in Wendover, co. Bucks, where Andrew Batyn, probably his son, was M.P. for Wycombe in 1307.

William Beteyn was sheriff of London, 1289, and a member of the Goldsmiths' Company. Richard Beteyn, goldsmith, probably his son, served as mayor of London in 1327, and twice represented the city in parliament. He bore a conspicuous part in the dethronement of EDWARD II., and in consequence the city received extensive charters from EDWARD III. on his accession. His arms were for many hundred years in the Greyfriars Church, Newgate, where he was interred.

Henry Batten settled in Somersetshire, and was M.P. for Bath, 1297; from that time to the present, his descendants have remained in that county.

For a period of 250 years, this family occupied an important station at Bath and in the adjoining counties. In 1362, Roger Batyn was rector of Develish Willa, co. Somerset; in 1380, Roger Batyn is joined in commission with the sheriff of Wilts; in 1402, John Battyn is rector of West Coker, co. Somerset, and from 1427 the name continually occurs in the archives of St. Michael's, Bath. Robert Batyn, or Batten, sat in parliament for that city in 1471, and acted as a royal commissioner in 1500; and Thomas Batten was steward of the priory of Bath in 1534. After the dissolution of monasteries, the family seem to have quitted Bath, one branch to have settled in Wiltshire, of which was SIR HENRY BATTEN, Knt., gentleman-pensioner to JAMES I., and another to have gone to the more western parts of the county, of which were ANDREW BATTEN, of Easton St. George's, and JOHN BATTEN, of Michael Church, co. Somerset.

ANDREW BATTEN, of Easton, had a son, SIR WILLIAM BATTEN, Knt.,* one of the most eminent naval commanders in the civil war; he was surveyor of the navy, 1638, vice-admiral of England from 1642 to 1647, and particularly distinguished himself at the sieges of Dartmouth, Lyme, and Portland Castle. He was appointed governor of Mount Batten, a fort which he built at Plymouth, and which is still existing. Though he served the parliament, he was sincerely attached to a constitutional monarchy, and averse to the designs of the army; to stop whose attempts upon the king's life, he revolted with the fleet to Prince Charles. On the Restoration, however, he was merely reinstated in his post of surveyor, and became M.P. for Rochester till his death, in 1667. His issue in the male line is extinct.

JOHN BATTEN, of Michael Church, is the immediate ancestor of the line before us. In 1597, he is returned as having lands in Michael Church. He had, with a dau., Grace, m. to John Fletcher, a son,

WALTER BATTEN, of Michael Church, who by his wife, Ursula, had, with a dau., Alice, m. to Arthur Parsons, two sons, HENRY, afterwards of Michael Church; and John. He d. in 1630, his will being proved in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury in 1631. The second son,

JOHN BATTEN, of Tuckerton, in North Petherton, had, by his wife Elizabeth, JAMES; Henry, M.A., vicar of Long Sutton; and John, m. and had issue. He d. in 1685; his eldest son and heir,

JAMES BATTEN, of Tuckerton, m. in 1688, Elizabeth, dau. and coheir of Robert Drake, of Pitminster, co. Somerset, (of the family of Drake of Asbe, co. Devon,) and had issue, with daus.,

JOHN, afterwards of Tuckerton.
ROBERT. James.

He d. in 1708. The second son,

ROBERT BATTEN, s. to his grandfather's estate at Pitminster; he was a friend of Sir Richard Steele, and wrote the letters in the Spectator, signed R. B. He m. in 1712, Sarah, dau. of Nathaniel Butler, mayor of Lyme Regis in 1690 and 1705, son of the Rev. Henry Butler, M.A., vicar of Yeovil, ejected in 1661, and had issue, with daus., Robert, who d. young, and NATHANIEL-BUTLER. The latter,

NATHANIEL-BUTLER BATTEN, Esq., b. in 1712, sold the estate at Pitminster, and purchased the manor and advowson of Thorn Faulcon. He m. in 1738, Joanna, dau. and coheir of John Prigge, Esq., and had issue, JOHN-PRIGGE, who m. Miss Wallis, and had issue, with daus., an only son, the present JOHN BATTEN, Esq. * Almost every historian has attributed to Sir William Batten the actions recorded of CAPT. ROBERT BATTEN. He was of a Devonshire family, where the name, originally Bauteyn, is of old standing; his pedigree of St. Buddeux is in the Harleian MSS.; he was governor of the Holy Island, and after resisting the invitation of Sir Marmaduke Langdale, was displaced by Sir Arthur Hazelrigge; he d. fighting against Van Tromp, in 1652; he m. a dau. of Richard Deane.

Commander Beadon has served with considerable distinction in his country's service, and having devoted much attention to mechanical inventions has originated numerous improvements, such as the patent rowlock for boats, lever for lifting guns, &c. He has been awarded the gold medal by the Royal Society of Arts for his improved life-buoy.

Edward, d. an infant.

Mr. Beadon, a magistrate for co. Somerset, s. to the Gotten estate through his wife, the heiress of the Hammets and Musgraves.†

Lineage.

The family of Beadon, variously written Beaudin, Beadyn, or Beadyn, was of considerable importance at a very early period, and enjoyed extensive property in Devonshire; in particular, the manor of Egge Buckland, and Compton, in the hundred of Roborough. This estate was held by them until conveyed in marriage to Roger Whiteleigh, of Eford, by Margaret, dau. and heir of Sir Robert de Beadyn, once high-sheriff of Devon, temp. EDWARD I., and twice during the reign of EDWARD II.

Langridge, in the parish of Brushford, co. Somerset, on the border of Devon; Pinkworthy, co. Devon, together with estates at Morebath and Upcott, have for a very long period been possessed by the family. Sir William Pole in his Devon states, "That Upcott was in the 27 Kinge HENRY III., the land of Gervais de Upcott, and in Kinge HENRY VI. time, Nicholas Radford had his dwelling there, after whose death a controversy arose between John Radford, of Oakford, and Thomasine, sister of the said Nicholas—Roger Prous, her husband, and Nicholas Prous, their son, on the one part, and John Radford, on the other, unto whom the said Thomasine, Roger, and Nicholas released their right." This estate is still in the family of Beadon. If the learned Pole had lived to complete his work, he would, no doubt, have thrown much light on the early history of the Beadon family. It seems, from tradition, that the house at Langridge was built by David Beadon about 1600, and leased in 1710 to David Beadon, and that afterwards it became the property of ROBERT BEADON, who married Mary Squire.

ROBERT BEADON, living at Pinkworthy, about 1645, m.

* The names of Oliver and Ruddock frequently occur in the old records of the gentry and merchants of the city of Bristol. The latter is said to have been originally Penrud-dock. The Rev. Noble Ruddock, rector of Stockland, Bristol, near Bridgewater, and his sister, Mrs. Anne Oliver, of Hope Corner, enjoy considerable estates in the county of Wexford, inherited through an unbroken line from the reign of King CHARLES II., who conferred them on Captain Noble Ruddock for his distinguished military services. Simon Oliver was recorder of Bristol in 1295. His signature and crest appear on several deeds at that period; some of these papers are now in possession of — Tyson, Esq. of Bristol.

† Gotten is stated by Collinson, in his "History of Somersetshire," vol. iii. p. 455, "to be of late years the seat of the family of Musgrave, having been at one period that of Cary." It is, however, described in some old gazetteers as an "ancient seat of the ancient family of Musgrave." At what period the Musgraves became possessed of it is unknown, but it must have been at a very remote one, as proved by the dates on the mural and other monuments in the parish church of West Monkton.

Agnes Spurway, of the ancient family of Spurway of Spurway, (a pedigree of which may be found in the Visitations of Devon;) and by her had (besides a dau., who m. Pincombe, Esq. of Oakford, co. Devon) five sons,

George.

RICHARD, of whom we treat.

David, d. unm.

John, m. Mary, dau. of John Radford, Esq. of Oakford, and had issue, Robert; John; Agnes, m. — Gooding, Esq. of Hele; and Christian, d. unm.

Edward, d. unm. at Langridge; will dated in 1695.

The second son,

RICHARD BEADON, Esq., m. Joan, dau. and co-heir of John Radford, Esq. of Oakford, (derived, through the marriage of John Radford, Esq. of Oakford, living in 1620, with Dorothy, dau. of John Beare, Esq. of Beare, from Richard Radford, Esq. of Oakford, with whom the entry in the Visitation of Devon commences.) By this lady Mr. Beadon had issue,

ROBERT, of whom presently.

Edward, in holy orders, rector of Clayhanger, co. Devon, to which he was instituted, 6 Sept. 1744, by Nicholas, Bishop of Exeter, on the presentation of Robert Beadon, Esq. of Oakford, the patron. Edward m. Sarah Squire, and left a dau., Frances, wife of the Rev. Thomas Martin.

The eldest son,

ROBERT BEADON, Esq., m. in May, 1728, Mary, dau. of the Rev. Dr. F. Squire, and niece of Dr. Samuel Squire, Bishop of St. David's,* and had issue,

Edwards, in holy orders, rector of North Stoneham, Hants, and domestic chaplain to Lord Bute, m. Mary, dau. of Sir William Watson, M.D., and had issue,

John-Watson, in holy orders, rector of Christian Mal-ford, Wilts, m. Juliana, sister of Joseph-Davie Basset, Esq. of Umberleigh and Watermouth, co. Devon. (See vol. i. p. 65.)

William, drowned accidentally at Cambridge, of whom honourable mention is made in Otto's "Life of Clarke," and to whom a monument is erected in Jesus College, Cambridge.

Frederick, in holy orders, rector of North Stoneham, Hants, m. Mary-Anne, eldest dau. of the Rev. Henry Wilder, LL.D. of Purley Hall, Berks, and had issue a son, Richard, d. an infant, and two daus., of whom, Anne, m. the Rev. Mr. Heathcote, son of Sir John Heathcote, Bart.

Mary-Anne, m. to the Rev. Edward Bernard, only son of Dr. Bernard, provost of Eton.

Charlotte, m. to George Norman, Esq. of Bromley, Kent, high-sheriff for that county, brother of Richard Norman, Esq., who m. Lady Elizabeth Manners, dau. of the late Duke of Rutland.

Harriett, m. to J. Wilder, Esq. of Purley Hall, Berks.

GEORGE, of whom presently.

Richard, D.D., Bishop of Gloucester, and subsequently of Bath and Wells, m. Rachel, dau. and co-heir of the Rev. John Gooch, prebendary of Ely, son of Sir Thomas Gooch, Bart., Bishop of Ely, and d. in April, 1824, leaving an only son,

Richard, m. 15 May, 1805, Annabella, dau. of the late Sir William-P. Ashe A' Court, Bart., M.P., and sister of Lord Heytesbury, and has issue, William-Frederick, barrister-at-law, of the Inner Temple, m. Jessie, dau. of General Cockburn.

Richard-A' Court, in holy orders, vicar of Cheddar, vicar and prebendary of Wiveliscombe, co. Somerset, m. Isabella, dau. of Dr. White, D.D., and has issue two daus.

Hyde-Wyndham, in holy orders, vicar of Latton, Wilts, and of Hazelling, co. Somerset, m. Frances, dau. of Lieut.-Gen. Sir William Ponsonby, K.B., and has a dau., Mary.

Cecil, E. I. Co.'s civil service, m. Harriet, dau. of Major Ralph Sneyd, and has issue four sons.

Annabella, m. Henry Bruce, Esq., and has issue,

Robert, d. unm., having perished on board the Prince George packet, which was burnt in Plymouth Sound.

Sarah, m. Richard Buller, Esq., and had issue,

Mary, m. George Turner, Esq., and had issue, George, and other children. A son of the Rev. John Turner, grandson of George, now enjoys an exhibition at Baliol College, Oxford, of the annual value of £30, as a descendant of Radford. The exhibition was founded by John Blagdon, student of Baliol, who left, by his will, an estate called Thorn, in Stoodley, to the descendants of his sister Joan,

* Through this marriage the Beadons have become related to the families of Whalley, Rogers, and Twyford; the last of which is now represented by Col. Jolliffe, of Ammerdown Park, co. Somerset, eldest son and heir of the late Thomas-Samuel Jolliffe, Esq., M.P., by Mary-Anne, his wife, dau. and heiress of the Rev. Robert Twyford, of Kilmersdon, by Eleanor Squire, his wife. wife of John Radford, of Eastops, in Oakford, and to his other sister, the wife of Radford.

Susanna, m. to John Otway, Esq.

Agnes, m. John Blake, Esq., and had issue.

The second son,

GEORGE BEADON, Esq. of Oakford, b. in 1733, m. Rebecca, eldest dau. of William Leigh, Esq. of Bardon, co. Somerset, grandson of Robert Leigh, Esq. of Bardon, by Margaret, his wife, dau. of John Collard, Esq. of Spaxton, and fifth in descent from Robert Leigh, Esq. of Ridg, who, removing from Devonshire, settled at Bardon in 1595. By this lady Mr. Beadon had issue,

Robert, of Taunton and Corfe, co. Somerset, m. Hannah, dau. of Hugh Petten, Esq., and d. in Aug. 1845, aged 83, having had issue, Robert.

Edwards, m. Anne, relict of the late Rev. Richard-F. Follett, cousin of the late Sir William Follett, attorney-general.

Richard-John, in holy orders, rector of Sherwell, co. Devon.

Family of Hammet.

The family of Hammet (the name of which is, by some, considered of French origin, and by others Turkish, from the word "Hamed") originally came from Cornwall. Lysons mentions in his Devon, the manors of Trchunsey, Penpoll, and Hammett—the last two have been long in possession of the family, which first migrated from Cornwall to Clist St. George, near Exeter, Devon, in the seventeenth century. The signature, "Johannes Hamat," occurs in the register of baptisms, marriages, and burials, at St. George's Clist, in 1694 and 1695, as rector of the parish, as also the following entry in the baptisms, "Theophilus filius Joh. Hamet (super defuncti) et annæ vidæ ejus baptismatus, Feb. 27, 96." Signed, THEOP. EDES. 1696.

A son of the Rev. Francis Hammett settled in Taunton as a serge manufacturer about a century and a half ago, and d. leaving issue, Francis, harrister-at-law, who acquired considerable celebrity and fortune as chamber counsel; he d. unm., leaving an estate, at Shafteshury, to his niece, Martha-Anna, afterwards Mrs. Beadon.

John, Lieut. R.N., m. Elizabeth, eldest dau., and eventually sole heiress of Thomas Musgrave, Esq. of Gotten House, and had an only child and heiress, Martha-Anna, wife of William Beadon, Esq. of Gotten.

Benjamin (Sir), created a knight by GEORGE III., M.P. for Taunton, his native town, to which he was a great benefactor; he built there, Hammett-street, Wilton House, and purchased and altered the castle at Taunton; he was likewise lord-mayor of London, in which city he built the Minories, and Crescent adjoining, and established the hanking-house of Hammett and Esdaile, in Lomhard-street. Sir Benjamin m. Louisa, the dau. of Sir James Esdaile, Knt., (see vol. i. p. 381.) and had issue,

John, M.P. for Taunton, who m. a dau. of Sir Ralph Woodford, which lady m. after his decease the Comte de Rosendeau, of Brittany and Normandy.

Francis.

James-Esdaile, M.P. for Taunton, m. and had issue; his eldest dau., Eliza-Georgiana, m. in 1841, to Sir Edmund-Henry-Knowles Lacon, Bart. of Great Yarmouth, co. Norfolk. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)

Anne, m. to C. Rogers, Esq., M.P. for Queensbury, and secretary to the Board of Ordnance.

Louisa, m. to Henri, Comte de Montesquiou, son of the Duke of Montesquiou.

Elizabeth, m. 23 Jan. 1792, to Richard Walpole, Esq., eldest son of the Hon. Richard Walpole, nephew of Sir Robert Walpole, Prime Minister of England.

Mary, d. unm. Elizabeth, d. unm.

Family of Musgrave.

"The martial and warlike family of Musgrave," as the learned Camden styles it, is of German origin, deriving its name from Graff or Grave, governor, judge, or count, and Mus, a fen or morass—the two words in German signifying "governor of the fens," somewhat similar to the title of Landgrave of the present day.*

According to Camden and other authorities, the family was founded in England by one of the companions of the CONQUEROR, who obtained a grant of Scalby Castle, co. Cumberland. One of the earliest names met with was PETER MUSGRAVE, who lived temp., King STEPHEN.

The Musgraves settled at Charlton Musgrave, co. Somerset, but a branch removed to Overton, co. Westmoreland, in the reign of King JOHN. Robert de Muscros, Musgrave, or Musgrove, was lord of the manor of Brewham, &c., in which he was succeeded by John de Musgros, who seated himself at Charlton, and died seised thereof, 3 EDWARD I., leaving a son and heir, Robert de Musgros, of Charlton, who d. 8 EDWARD I., leaving an only child and heiress, Hawise, who m. John de Ferrers, first Lord Ferrers of Chartley. Thus with the heiress of this branch of the Musgraves, a vast property passed into the family of Ferrers, of which the present Marquis Townshend, Lord Ferrers of Chartley, is representative.

Several of the Musgraves continued to reside at Charlton Musgrave for many centuries, among whom was JOHN MUSGRAVE, progenitor of the Musgraves of Gotten, North Petherton, Old Cleeve, and Nettlecombe. He was sheriff of Wilts, in which county he held large possessions, 2 RICHARD III.

The Musgraves took an active part in the civil wars on the side of royalty, to which they rendered powerful aid, and to this cause may be ascribed their migrations to the north and to the south-west.

From the account of the antiquities of Somersetshire, by Dr. William Musgrave, a learned and distinguished author, who was born at Charlton in 1657, and a portrait of whom is in the family of Beadon, it would be inferred that the elder branch went to the south-west; and if so, the Musgraves of North Petherton, Gotten, &c., are sprung from the principal. From the above-named Dr. William Musgrave, who died at Exeter, 23 Dec. 1721, descended Dr. Samuel Musgrave, the learned author of "Criticism on Euripides."

In the several parish churches of North Petherton, West Monkton, Stogumber, and Old Cleeve, are ancient mural and other monuments, on which are severally engraved the family arms, viz., "Azure, six annulets, or, three, two, and one," but the principal family vaults appear to have been West Monkton and Stogumber.

In the church of Stogumber, in the south chapel, is the vault of the family of Musgrave, and at the east end thereof is a large mural monument of white grey and Egyptian marble, having two tablets with the following inscriptions: "In the vault under this ile lyes the body of Thomas Musgrave, Esq., who died a bachelor in the 89th year of his age. He was a gentleman pensioner to King WILLIAM and Queen MARY. In universal esteem for his obliging behaviour, and for his great affection to his relations, sincerity to his friends, integrity as well as charity to all persons and parties, he was inferior to none. He lost his eyesight twelve years before his death, and bore that affliction with great patience, continuing cheerful and kind to all about him to the last moments of his life, which he exchanged for a better, the 9th of Jan. 1723." Arms—Az., six annulets, or. "In the vault under this ile lyes the body of George Musgrave, Esq., who departed this life in the 42nd year of his age. He was colonel of the militia, and justice of the peace for this county—possessed of every accomplishment, both of nature and education. A most firm patriot, an indulgent husband, a tender father, agreeable companion, and generous master. Never known to dissemble his principles, to disown his friend, or to pervert justice. He married Mary, third daughter of Edward Clark, of Chipley, in this county, Esq., whom he left with two sons and two daughters, all young, to mourn his loss, and dyed universally lamented, the 8th of Sept. 1724.

* "The first ancestor of the Musgraves in Germany had an Archduchess given him in marriage: a circumstance which arose from the Emperor of Austria having two great generals in his army, who both aspired to the hand of his daughter; and as he had received important services from each, he ordered (that he might decide between them) the two heroes to run at the ring for her; an exercise then in use. It so happened that Musgrave, one of the competitors, had the fortune to pierce the ring with the point of his spear; by which action he gained the Princess as a reward for his dexterity. Hence originated the family arms."—PLAYFAIR.

In the same vault lieth interred the body of the above-mentioned Mary, widow of George Musgrave, Esq.; she died May 2nd, 1739, aged 52. In the discharge of her duty as a wife, parent, mistress, friend, neighbour, and Christian, few equalled, none excelled her. She lived beloved, and died lamented."

On the south wall is an elegant mural monument, of white grey and Sienna marble, inscribed: "In the family vault, near this place, rest the remains of George Musgrave, of Nettlecombe, in this county, Esq., who in the year 1740 married Catharine, eldest daughter of Sir John Chichester, of Youlstone, in the county of Devon, Bart., and died Feb. 13, 1741-2, in the 25th year of his age, leaving one son and one daughter. In the same vault lieth interred Thomas Musgrave, Esq., his son, who died also in the 25th year of his age, Jan. 8, 1766, unmarried. To perpetuate the memory of both father and brother, Juliana Musgrave hath caused this monument to be erected." Arms—MUSGRAVE, impaling chequy, or and gules, a chief vair, CHICHESTER. On the same wall is an upright stone, with an inscription to George Musgrave, Esq., who d. 29 Nov. 1721, aged 73.

COLLINSON'S Somerset (vol. iii. pp. 548, 549, and p. 512, ibid.) has this notice—"The present possessor of Old Cleeve is Sir James Langham, of Cottesbrooke, in the county of Northampton, Bart., who married Juliana, sister and sole heiress to the late Thomas Musgrave, of Old Cleeve, Esq." This Thomas was buried at Stogumber; and Richard Musgrave, buried at West Monkton, held the advowson of Halse, in the hundred of Stogumber.

In the church at West Monkton, the vault is within the church, and also on the outside near the chancel, which is now, by descent, become the family vault of the Beadons of Gotten House.

On the tomb on the outside, which is an oblong square, of Bath stone, the inscriptions are for the most part defaced by time; on one side of it is the following:

"Here lyeth the body of Edward Musgrave, sen., of this parish, who departed this life the 20th day of August, 1684.

"Also here lyeth the body of Joan, the wife of the above said Edward Musgrave, who departed this life the 22 day July, 16—."

"Mors mihi vitâ."

On another side of the same tomb—

"Here lieth the body of Joan, late wife of Edward Musgrave Armigeri, who deceased ye 29 day of October, in the year of our Lord 1644."†

On the eastern wall, near the family pew, within the church is the following:

"Near the chancel door, on the outside, in a vault, are deposited the remains of Martha Musgrave, fourth daughter of Thomas and Martha Musgrave, of Gotten, who departed this life the 25 July, 1800, aged 62 years."‡

This Martha was Mr. William Beadon's great-aunt, but the following mural monument, also in the eastern wall, is very descriptive, and goes far to supply the place of a most defective register.

"Here lyeth (at the end of the men's seats in the middle alle) ye body of Elizabeth, late wife of Edw. Musgrave, of this p'ish, Gent., who departed this life, September ye 14, 1708, aged 41.

"Also here lyeth 3 of their children, Edward, Hannah, and Martha. Edw. was bur. August ye 14, 1705; Han. was bur. June 7, 1700; and Mar. was bur. April ye 29, 1709.

"Here reste dear wife, whose noble spirit

The glorious heaven doth inherit,

Whither her faith has led her; she

Ascended is with God to he.

So well heloved of every one.

Here 'tis engraved on her stone.

So holy, gracious, just, and kind,

To all ye varied from her mind.

How can she then be cre forgot,

Whose virtues live tho' she is not.

But from her labours now doth cease,

Enjoying an eternal peace.

* The remainder is effaced.

† The third figure is most defaced, but it appears to be a 4. There is the date of 1688 over one of the doors at Gotten House; this must have reference to some alteration in the building, not to its erection, for the Musgraves appear to have been located here at an earlier period. The house, now the farm-house, which is not far from the other, seems to have been the original residence of the family.

‡ This removal from the rest of the family, who lie within the church, proceeds from the want of room in the original ground.

"Here likewise lies the body of the above Edward Musgrave, who died November 20th, 1719, and Thomas, their eldest son, who died February 28, 1760, aged 66. (The burying ground lies under the men's seats numbers 5, 6, 7, 8.) Martha Musgrave, wife of the said Thomas Musgrave, who died February 28, 1772, aged 66. Mary Darch, died November 3, 1781, aged 59. John Hammet, died May 8, 1782, aged 88. Elizabeth, wife of the said John Hammet, who departed this life March 7, 1786, aged 56."

Thomas, son of Edward Musgrave, Esq. of Gotten House, above named, d. leaving four daus., co-heiresses of his estate: I. Elizabeth, the eldest, m. Lieut. Hammet R.N., who d. 7 March, 1780, aged 86, and had issue, Martha-Anna, wife of William Beadon, Esq.; II. Sarah, m. — Bolton, Esq., d. without issue; III. Martha, d. unm.; and IV. Mary, m. — Darch, Esq., and d. without issue. Thus Miss Hammet became sole heiress to the Gotten estate.

We find the Musgraves of Nettlecombe, Old Cleeve, Stogumber, West Monkton, and North Petherton, using the same arms, and they are proved, beyond doubt, to be identical, from the monuments in each parish church. Over the family pew of the Beadons of Gotten, in West Monkton church, is a monument with this inscription—

"Eu. Georgium Musgrave Gent. Georgii de North Newton in comitatu Somerset filium natu secundum legis Angliæ municipalis callentissimum qui duxit in uxorem Dorotheam filiam Edm. Browne de Bentley in comitatu Derby Armigeri et Jan. 1º An. Do. 1693. Æt. 63 diem. Obiit sine prole."

North Newton was one of the two seats of the family in North Petherton, subsequently the residence of Lady H. Ackland, now converted, as well as the mansion at West Newton, into farm-houses.

Here is evidence of the connexion with the Musgraves of North Petherton, where North Newton is situate, and where the Beadons of Gotten now inherit lands called Musgraves; and the following inscription on a mural monument of marble, which appears on the south wall of the same church of West Monkton, substantiates the connexion with the Musgraves of Nettlecombe:

"Underneath this place lies the body of Richard Musgrave, of this parish, Esq., second son of Richard Musgrave, formerly of Nettlecombe, Esq. He married the Hon. Dame Rachel Speke, daughter of Sir William Wyndham, of Orchard Wyndham, Bart., and relict of Sir George Speke, of Haslebury, in the county of Wilts, Bart. He died the 17th day of August, 1727, without issue, and left to the poor of this parish four pounds a year for ever, to be laid out in bread, according to the direction of his will."

Arms—Az., six annulets, or, three, two, and one, MUSGRAVE; impaling, az., a chevron, between three lions' heads, erased, or, WYNDHAM.

There are several other monuments to the same family, (see COLLINSON, vol. iii. p. 455.)

This Richard Musgrave presented the parish of Halse to a communion service, on which his name now appears. He was buried with the family at West Monkton. He was very wealthy.

The following epitaph on a vault in the chancel, North Petherton, completes the connexion with the Musgraves of Charlton Musgrave:

"Quieto hoc Georgii Musgrave, genri. corpus dormiet sepulchro. Qui religiosæ candice, 9 suec vitâ linea suum scripsit epitaphium. Obiit. decimo quarto die Septembris, anno Domini 1640, anno ætatis suec 49.

"Maria Gatchell, Tho. G. de Clawsey uxor Rich. Musgrave de Nettlecombe, Genl., ab Charlton Musgrave oriundi Filia at o quam casta! quam proba! quam pudica. Ætatis anno 4xiv. diem obiit hoc ævi sui tumelo se condi voluit, M.D.CC.XIII."

There is no entry of this in the register of burials, which appears to be very meagre and imperfect. It is likely to be the same who signed as churchwarden in 1627, and it is probable that it was a son of this gentleman who m. — Catford, and the produce of this marriage may have been the Gotten branch.

Thus is the identity of these several families of Charlton Musgrave, North Petherton, West Monkton, Stogumber, Nettlecombe, and Old Cleeve, established clearly by monumental inscriptions, in addition to the proof afforded by coats of arms.

Little is to be learned from the registers. That of North Petherton has numerous entries, commencing in 1558, but they appear to be irregular, and such as they are not altogether to be relied on. The first entry is Henry Musgrave, March, 1582; after this many others.

By the register of marriages in North Pertherton, it appears that George Musgrave m. Mary Catford, of a family of wealth and consequence, in 1665, (see monuments of the Catfords.)

The ancient patrimonial inheritance appears to have been in Somerset, which has passed to the Earls of March. The younger branches remained in that county, and possessed very extensive estates, the principal part of which went, as already stated, to Sir James Langham, Bart. of Northampton, on his marriage with the daughter and co-heir of Thomas Musgrave. The Musgrave possessions became divided, and a portion of them, in particular the Gotten estate, has descended by the maternal line to the children of William Beadon, Esq. of Gotten House.

Lineage.

The Shropshire family of Berington, seated at Motehall, near Shrewsbury, has always been considered to have a common origin with branches seated in Herefordshire, and is the senior branch.

Blount, in his MS. collections from Herefordshire, speaking of Winsley, anciently Windesley, says, "In EDWARD III.'s time, Beryton, of Stoke Lacy, married the daughter and heir of Rowland de Windesley, and had by her this ancient seat, with other lauds, which has continued in the family ever since. But in later times the name has been changed to Berington. This house lyes in the parish of Hope under Dinmore, and as a badge of its antiquity there is carved in wood, in old characters, over the porch a cross with these words: 'Per Siguum Taw libera nos Domine.' Upon the crossbeams of the hall is carved an ancient coat of arms, consisting of bendy of five pieces, which haply was the arms of Windesley before the Beringtons were owners of it."

ROBERT BERINGTON, son of THOMAS BERINGTON, and Juliana, his wife, dau. of William Blackley, and grandson of WILLIAM BERINGTON, by Anne Baldwin, his wife, m. Jane, dau. of William Harley, and was father of THOMAS

With him the male line of the family of the Broadrepps, for many generations of high repute in the county, became extinct, and the manor of Maperton, which they had possessed from 2 HEN. I., (A.D. 1102,) together with other large estates, devolved on Mr. Broadrepp's great-nephew, Henry Compton, Esq. of Manor House, Hants, M.P., his eldest sister's grandson.

The Lights of Baglake were a branch of the ancient and highly respectable Somersetshire family of Light, or Lyte, of Lytes Carey.

The Broadrepps inherited Maperton from their maternal ancestors, the Morgans, who were seated at Morgan Hayes, co. Devon, temp. HENRY I., and whose representative, JOHN MORGAN, of Morgan Hayes, m. Maud, dau. and heir of John Brett, of Maperton, lineally descended from Brett, or Brito, who fought at Hastings.

† The name of Bigsby sufficiently implies an Anglo-Saxon original, and traces of it are discoverable to a very remote period in deeds and public documents relating to the county of Suffolk. We are not aware, however, that any attempt has been made to form a precise account of the family, beyond the limits embraced by the present chart; while it may be observed, that the non-existence of a general history of the county referred to, deprives us of much information concerning the descent, alliances, and possessions of the principal untitled families.

‡ The arms of BERNARD, an old seigneurial house in Upper Saxony, were quartered by the family of PORTE on the first quarter, as well as subordinately, a circumstance sometimes observable in ancient seals of arms, where the coat of the female ancestor was more noble or distinguished than the paternal one. There is another coat belonging to the family of PORTE, (Barry of six, or and az., a saltier, gu.) differing only in the tinctures, to show the particular branch from which the party was descended; the present mode of difference being by labels, mullets, &c. Formerly the marks of decadency were expressed by bordures differently tinctured, and sometimes,

JEREMIAH BIGSBY, Esq., also of Stowmarket, bapt. there, 1 Aug. 1674, (26 CHARLES II.,) and buried 11 Jan. 1735, (8 GEORGE II.) He was seised of estates at Stowmarket, Chilton, Coombes, Finborough, et als. in the county of Suffolk. He m. 1st, 25 Sept. 1699, Frances Whcler, of Stowmarket, widow, and by her had several children, who all d. s. p. He m. 2ndly, in 1706, Martha,* dau. and co-heiress of Colonel Marsh, of Mildenhall, co. He was of Caius and Gonville College, where he proceeded A.B. 1734, A.M. 1738, and was, for some time prior to his decease, the oldest graduate of the university of Cambridge. He m. 1st, in 173-, Philippa Sulyard, of Haughley, descended of a very ancient, knightly, and honourable family of that name, seated at Haughley and Wetherden, co. Suffolk.† She was dau. of William Sulas in the present instance, by altering the blazon of the arms. Sometimes the crest only was changed. The earlier representatives of the family of PORTE, seated at Basing, co. Southampton, were great barons in the time of WILLIAM the Conqueror.

* The celebrated physician, Dr. Richard Mead, married an aunt, or cousin, of this lady.

† The manor and park of Haughley were the estate of Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, from whom they came, by purchase or exchange, to the crown, and were afterwards granted to Sir John Sulyard, of Wetherden. The manor is very extensive, and the lord formerly possessed a jurisdiction of oyer and terminer, trying all causes in his own court, of which instances may be found solate as 11 ELIZABETH. Roger de Scales obtained a grant of free warren, at Wetherden, 18 EDWARD I. This grant was confirmed to John Sulyard, who was seised of the said warren, 8 EDWARD IV., and confirmed again to John Sulyard, and Ann, his wife, 1 RICHARD III. This was Judge Sulyard, afterwards mentioned; and his lady was the daughter of John Andrews, of Bailham, in Suffolk, by Elizabeth Scratton, which Elizabeth was lineally descended from Humfrey Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Essex, by his Countess, Elizabeth, daughter of EDWARD I. In this village is a very neat church, the porch of which, and a very large aisle continuing from thence to the chancel, was built by Sir John Sulyard, of Wetherden Hall, which Sir John, in the pedigree of the Sulyards, is called only a judge; but in the baronetage of England, under the title of Rous, is said to have been Lord Chief Justice of England. Round the porch, and along to the chancel, on the stones next above the ground, are finely carved the arms and quarterings of this ancient family, to the time the aisle was built. In this parish was Wetherden Hall, which was the seat and residence of the said Sir John; and, by the ruins of it, appears to have been a very large and noble building. It remained the seat of this family till the reign of Queen MARY, and was at that time inhabited by Sir John Sulyard, the descendant of the first-mentioned Sir John. This last gentleman was a soldier, and by the memoirs now extant in the family, he appears to have been the first who took arms, and levied men in defence of his sovereign, when she fled from the usurpation of Lady Jane Grey. The under-written is the mandate (in the very words and spelling of that time) he carried from the queen, when he guarded her person in the Castle of Framlingham.

"MARY THE QUEEN.

"Henry Bedingfield,

"Theys ar to require and comaunde you to give most faythfull and assured orders to this berer, our trustie and well-beloved svient, sur John Sulyard; and in any wyse as ye love us and tendre our favor, not to fayle to accomplish and putte in execution that which he shall declare unto you from us to be our pleasure, so fare ye heartylye well. From Fframsn. the 23 off Jan."

So soon as the queen was restored to her throne, she made a grant to Sir John of the park and manor of Haughley, for the eminent services he had done her; and he built the fine old seat that is now standing in the park. This gentleman lived until the 12th year of Queen ELIZABETH, and to him succeeded his son, Edward, who suffered much in this reign for recusancy, both in his person and fortune, having been a prisoner a great part of his life, as appears by transcripts from the roll of recusants. He was one of the first, if not the very first, who was convicted. And this is to be observed to his honour, that, though he adhered, under every disadvantage, to the religion of his ancestors, he held their loyalty, as firmly evidenced by his denial of the power of the see of Rome to depose the queen, in the following declaration:—

"I, Edward Sulyarde, of Suffolk, esquier, doe acknow-

yard, Esq., and great-granddau. of Sir John Sulyard, of Haughley Park and Wetherden Hall; also maternal great-granddau. of Sir Edward Gage, Bart. of Hengrave Hall, in the same county; and her brother, Edward Sulyard, Esq., succeeded to the family estates above mentioned. By this lady, who was a lineal descendant of King EDWARD I., by his first queen, Eleanor of Castile, Dr. Bigsby had issue three children, who d. in infancy. She d. in 1743, and was interred 8 May, in the great vault of the Sulyard family, in the church of Wetherden. He m. 2ndly, (marriage articles dated 27 April, 1758,) Bridget, dau. of the Rev. Thomas Bence, A.M.,* rector of Kelsale and of Carlton, co. Suffolk, and great-granddau. of the celebrated Sir Francis Gallop. This lady was first-cousin of Lady Barker, of Grimstone Hall, Suffolk, and niece of Alexander Bence, Esq. of Thorington Hall, high-sheriff of Suffolk in 1733 and 1742. (See pedigree of Bence, in BURKE'S History of the Commoners of Great Britain and Ireland.) She was b. in 1709, and d. in 1772, leaving no ledge our most gracious sov'eigne, ladie queene Elizabeth, to be our undoubted lawfull and onlie queene of Englande and Irelande, and no other forreyne prince, no: withstandinge any excommunication, under whose power are all persons, both ecclesiasticall and temporall, within any her majestie's dominions. And also by this doe manifest my selfe bounden and readie, as becometh a true and duetifull subject, with body, lands, and goodds, to defend her highness against the force of any prince, pope, prelate, or whatothersoever her majestie's enemies, which God graunt she may overcome, and longe contynue her prosperous raigne over us. Written in the xxliij of October, 1558. By me, EDWARDE SULARDE."

To this Edward Sulyard succeeded another Sir John Sulyard, to whom all these forfeitures and penalties were remitted by King JAMES I., who conferred the honour of knighthood, both on the said Sir John, and his son, Edward, in his father's lifetime; and they lived on their family estate in peace till the great rebellion, when the loyalty of Sir Ed. and procured the confinement of his person and the sequestration of two-thirds of his estates, during the detestable usurpation of CROMWELL. At the Restoration, Sir Edward was restored to his estates and liberty. This gentleman married the daughter of William, Lord Stourton, but, dying without issue, his estate devolved on his next brother, Ralph, who married Elizabeth, the daughter of James Wiltord, Esq. of Wansworth, and by her had a numerous issue. To him succeeded Edward, his eldest son, who married Penelope, the eldest daughter of Sir Edward Gage, of Hengrave, and by her had many children. At the Revolution it does not appear this gentleman at all meddled, but, continuing obstinately a papist, he was left out of the commission of the peace. His next brother, Lieut.-Colonel Thomas Sulyard, followed his unhappy master abroad, and entered afterwards into the Dutch service, married a lady of Boisleduc, in Brabant, and there died.

Haughley Park was lately the residence of G.-W. Jerningham, Esq.,† eldest son of Sir W. Jerningham, Bart., who married Frances, daughter and co-heiress of the late E. Sulyard, Esq., but in October, 1811, this manor, extending over 2442 acres, twenty-two dwelling-houses, and twenty-eight messuages, with the spacious mansion-house and offices, and a park and land containing about 396 acres, were sold, and William Crawford, Esq., is now possessor and lord of the manor. The manors of Wetherden Hall, and Pulham Hall, in Wetherden, now belong to the trustees of the late Lord Thurlow. The foregoing particulars are selected and abridged from an interesting work, entitled, The Suffolk Traveller, where the reader will find a circumstantial account of the persecution carried on in the reign of Queen ELIZABETH, against Edward Sulyard, Esq., for reusancy, and for which we regret that our limits will not allow space.

* The first trustees of Warner's charity, at Boyton, in Suffolk, in 1743, were the Right Hon. Pryce, Lord Viscount Hereford; Sir John Barker, Bart.; Dudley North, Esq.; Edmund Tyrrel, Esq.; the Rev. Thomas Bence; and the Rev. Mr. Welton. John Bence, Esq., purchased of—Warryn, Esq., the manor of Blaxhall, hundred of Plomesgate, in Suffolk, and afterwards sold it to Dudley North, Esq. John Bence, Esq., about the year 1700, became possessed of the manor of Heveningham, hundred of Blithing, in Suffolk. The lordship and demesne of Thorington, in the same hundred, was for some time in the family of Bence; it was afterwards vested in Alexander Bence, Esq., who made the Hall his seat. The old Hall is now demolished, and a new one erected about a mile from the site, by Henry Bence, Esq., who is lord of the manor. The manor of Beccles, hundred of Wangford, in Suffolk, came from the Yallops, to Mr. Bence, of Henstead. The manor of North Cove, same hundred, formerly belonged to the Yallops, and is now in the heirs of Robert Bence, Esq., late of Henstead. Kelsale, hundred of Hoxne, in Suffolk, was anciently the demesne of John, Duke of Norfolk, which he had with the Countess Mareschal, as her portion. In King CHARLES II.'s reign, it belonged to John Bence, Esq.; it was afterwards vested in George Golding, Esq., in right of his lady, the heiress of that family, and now belongs to H. Bence, Esq.—From The Suffolk Traveller.

* Will proved at Ipswich, whereby (by virtue of the power and authority given to her upon her marriage with the said Thomas Bigsby) she gave and devised all her estate, both real and personal, to her said husband, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, and nominated him sole executor thereof: probate dated 5 July, 1772.

† By his will, dated 24 July, 1802, (proved in Doctors' Commons, 3 Sept. following, by his widow and sole executrix,) he devised certain of his estates at Kelsale, Sternfield, Leiston, Knoddishall, et als. to his wife for life, remainder to his two nephews, John and Robert Bigsby, and their heirs, as tenants in common. He gave his estate at Bramfield to his wife for life, remainder to his said nephew, John Bigsby, and his heirs; and his house at Ipswich, wherein he resided, to his wife and her heirs for ever, and confirmed the settlement made on the marriage of his nephew, Jeremiah Bigsby, with Ann Smith, in 1776.

‡ 18 Oct. 1776, Thomas Bigsby, Esq., M.D., surrendered a copyhold estate, at Kelsale, to the use of the said Thomas Bigsby for life; remainder to the use of Jeremiah Bigsby, clerk, for life; remainders to the use of Ann, the wife of the said Jeremiah Bigsby, for life; remainders to the use of the heirs of him, the said Jeremiah Bigsby, on the body of the said Ann, his wife; remainders to the use of the right heirs of the said Jeremiah Bigsby, for ever. Thomas Smith, Esq., and Samuel Smith, Esq., M.P., executors of Jeremiah Bigsby's will.

§ It is probable that this family was originally of Heathcote, in the parish of Hartington. The first mention we find of them is in the reign of King EDWARD IV., when they were engaged in mercantile concerns at Chesterfield. A family of Heathcote had been for some time resident at Brampton, in 1614, when they purchased Cutthorpe, in that parish. The immediate descendant and representative of the Heathcotes of Brampton is Cornelius Heathcote Rodes, Esq. of Barborough, who took the name of Rodes in 1776. The ancestor of Baeh Heathcote, Esq., now of Little-Over, was of Derby at the time of his death, in 1618. Samuel Heathcote, Esq., father of Baeh, married the sister and heir of John Harpur, Esq. of Little-Over, who died in 1754. Gilbert Heathcote, alderman of Chesterfield, who died in 1699, was ancestor of both the baronets of that name. Sir Gilbert, his eldest son, who was one of the founders of the Bank of England, and sometime lord-mayor of London, was created a Baronet in 1733, and was ancestor of Sir Gilbert Heathcote, Bart. of Normanton, in Rutlandshire. William Heathcote, nephew of Sir Gilbert, being son of Samuel, third son of the alderman of Chesterfield, was created a Baronet the same year, and was ancestor of Sir William Heathcote, Bart. of Hursley, Hants. Godfrey Heathcote, of Chesterfield, was father of Ralph Heathcote, rector of Staveley, from

He m. 15 March, 1791, Mary, only dau. of John Chamberlin, Esq. of Red Hill, in the parish of Ratcliff-upon-Soar, co. Nottingham, high-sheriff of Nottinghamshire in 1787. By this lady, who d. at East Retford, 15 Oct. 1821, he had issue as follows:—

1. John-Jeremiah, M.D., F.L.S., F.G.S., bapt. at St. Peter's, Nottingham, 14 Aug. 1792, now of Newark, Nottinghamshire, a magistrate for the borough, and mayor thereof in 1831. He m. 1st, 18 May, 1826, Sarah, dau. of William Jamson, Esq. of Burton Joyce, co. Nottingham, by whom he had issue two children, who d. in infancy. She d. in Sept. 1835, and was buried 1 Oct., at Burton Joyce. He m. 2ndly, 14 June, 1838, Caroline, sixth dau. of the Rev. John Beevor, M.A., rector of Claypole, Lincolnshire.
2. Thomas, bapt. at St. Peter's, Nottingham, 9 March, 1800, now of East Retford, Nottinghamshire. He m. Harriet, dau. of Col. William Kirke, of Markham Hall, co. Nottingham, J. * Of the same family as the celebrated Colonel Hacker, who commanded the troops at the execution of King CHARLES I. Colonel William Heathcote, brother of Godfrey, who married the above Elizabeth Bigsby, received a Royal licence to take the name of Hacker. We may here note, that the maternal grandmother of the said Elizabeth was of the same family as Valentine Morris, Esq., the celebrated proprietor of Piercefield, Monmouthshire, and sometime governor of the island of St. Vincent.

† The manors of Newhall and Stanton were sold by the Rev. Thomas Bigsby to the trustees of the Earl of Chesterfield, a minor. By his will, dated 16 Oct. 1821, he devised his estate at Arnold, in the county of Nottingham, to his wife for life, remainder to his nephew, John-Jeremiah Bigsby, (son of his brother, John Bigsby,) and his heirs. He directed his other estates to be sold, and bequeathed the monies arising therefrom, together with the whole of his personal estate, to his wife for life, with reversion to the children of his brothers, Jeremiah, John, and Robert.

BLAKE OF HORSTEAD.

BLAKE, THOMAS, Esq. of Horstead, co. Norfolk, LL.D., a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the county, b. 13 March, 1790; s. his father 27 Sept. 1813, in the estate of Scottow, which he subsequently sold, and purchased that of Horstead.

Lineage.

This family, supposed to have come from Wiltshire, shortly previous to the civil war, temp. CHARLES I., have been resident for several generations at Bunwell and at Scottow, in Norfolk, as appears from admission copies of court-roll of the manor of Bainard's Hall, in Bunwell; copies of wills and other documents, in their possession, and by the numerous tombstones and monuments to their memory in the churches of Bunwell and Scottow.

JOHN BLAKE was admitted to copyhold lands in Bunwell, in 1638, and d. in 1646, leaving a son,

JOHN BLAKE, Gent. of Bunwell, b. in 1622, who m. Anne, dau. of Thomas Welbes, Esq., and had four sons, viz., Thomas, John, Samuel, the descendants of which three continued to reside at Bunwell, New Buckenham, for nearly two centuries, but are now extinct; and ROBERT, the fourth son, of whom we treat. Mr. Blake, whose tombstone is in the chancel of Bunwell Church, d. in 1686, and bequeathed his lands in Bunwell, Hempnall, Wymondham, Aslacton, Cranworth, and Moulton, (as appears by his will in the Archdeaconry Office of Norfolk,) to his several sons. The fourth son,

ROBERT BLAKE, b. in 1655, settled at Scottow, where he erected a good house. He m. in 1681, Margaret, eldest dau. of William Durrant, Esq. of Scottow, (ancestor of the Durrants, Barts.,) and d. in Dec. 1729, leaving two sons, Robert, of Westwich, b. in 1685, who m. Mary, dau. of William Phillips, Gent. of North Walsham, and had (besides two sons, who d. young) a dau., Margaret, who m. the Rev. James Adamson, rector of Barton and Sloley, co. Norfolk, and d. s. p. in 1760.

THOMAS.

The latter,

THOMAS BLAKE, b. in 1689, s. his father at Scottow. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of John Jex, Esq. of Lowcostoft, and Mary, his wife, dau. and co-heir of William Coulson, of Swanton Abbots, and had two sons,

THOMAS, of whom presently.

William, to whom his maternal uncle, William Jex, Esq., bequeathed his estate at Swanton Abbots; he, however, d. s. p., and left Swanton Abbots to his nephew, William.

Mr. Blake d. in Aug. 1735, and was s. by his elder son,

THOMAS BLAKE, Esq. of Scottow, b. 18 June, 1726, for a short period an officer in the Eastern Norfolk militia, who m. Judith, dau. of William Clarke, Esq. of Loddon, and d. 26 June, 1806, leaving two sons,

THOMAS, his heir.

William, to whom his uncle, William, bequeathed the estate of Swanton Abbots, and who assumed (by sign-manual, dated 17 Aug. 1837) the additional surname and arms of JEX. (See JEX-BLAKE OF SWANTON ABBOTS.)

The elder son and heir,

THOMAS BLAKE, Esq., barrister-at-law, of Scottow, J. P. and D. L. for co. Norfolk, b. 22 June, 1755, m. 1st, Margaret, only child of the Rev. Thomas Weston, rector of Cookeley and Halesworth, co. Suffolk; and 2ndly, Theodora-Martha, dau. of David Colombine, Esq. of Norwich, (descended from an ancient family of Dauphiny, from whence his grandfather, a physician, withdrew after the revocation of the edict of Nantes, in 1685, and settled at Norwich.) By the latter lady only (who d. 28 July, 1801) Mr. Blake had issue, THOMAS, now of Horstead.

Robert, b. 23 Nov. 1795, of Swafeld, and Wroxham House, co. Norfolk, J.P., an officer in the army, severely wounded, and lost his leg in action near Bayonne, 13 Dec. 1813. He assumed, by royal sign-manual, 10 Aug. 1847, the additional surname and arms of HUMFREY. He m. Charlotte, youngest dau. of Lieut.-Colonel Harvey, of Thorpe Lodge, near Norwich, and has issue, Robert-Harvey, b. 23 Jan. 1843.

Thomas, b. 3 March, 1844.

John, b. 23 Jan. 1847.

Margaret. Eleanor.

Henry-William, b. 22 Dec. 1793, in holy orders, rector of Thurning, co. Norfolk, late fellow of Corpus Christi College, m. 1st, Louisa, only dau. of the Rev. Charles Day, of Horsford, and granddau. of Lieut.-Col. Harvey, of Thorpe Lodge, and by her (who d. 11 March, 1843) had surviving issue, Henry, b. 4 Jan. 1843. He m. 2ndly, Mary, dau. of Major Heitland, of the Bengal artillery.

Francis-John, of Norwich, b. 31 March, 1801, m. Sarah, eldest dau. of the Rev. George Norris, of Woodnorton, co. Norfolk, and by her (who d. 30 July, 1827) has two daus., Frances and Susanna-Margaret.

Theodora-Martha, m. to the Rev. Robert-Fontaine Elwin, rector of Wilby and Hargham, Norfolk.

Maria-Margaret, m. the Rev. George Howes, rector of Spixworth, co. Norfolk, and vicar of Gazeley, co. Suffolk, and d. 11 Feb. 1820, leaving issue, a son, Frederick Howes.

Judith-Elizabeth.

Mr. Blake d. 27 Sept. 1813, and was s. by his eldest son, the present THOMAS BLAKE, Esq., now of Horstead.

ii. Wynter-Thomas, b. in Sept. 1825.

iii. Richard-Vesey, b. in Jan. 1827.

iv. Charles-Pye, b. in March, 1828.

v. William, b. in April, 1839.

Lineage.

The family of Blathwayt is of very ancient origin: the first of the name, originally spelt Branthwait, are said to have come over to England with WILLIAM the Conqueror, and to have settled in the counties of Cumberland and Westmoreland, where they had grants of land for services rendered. In the history of those counties, a RICHARD and ROBERT BRAITHWAIT occur, as having acted as commissioners in collecting the tax levied for the support of the parliamentary army, in the time of the Commonwealth, as will be seen on reference to the statutes passed for that purpose in the Black-Letter Book, but which are now expunged from the statutes at large.

The family estates of Dyrham, &c., originally belonged to Sir Walter Dennis, Knt., who sold the manor in the 13 ELIZABETH, 1571, to GEORGE WYNTER, Esq., (youngest brother of Sir William Wynter,* of Lidney, in the Forest of Dean.) He m. Anne, one of the sisters and co-heiresses of Robert Brayn, Esq., a merchant of Bristol, and dying in 1581, was s. by his son, JOHN WYNTER, a captain in the royal navy, who accompanied Sir Francis Drake in his famous voyage round the world, as his vice-admiral. His eldest brother, Sir William Wynter, of Lidney, Gloucestershire,† was also a vice-admiral under Sir Francis Drake, in the ever memorable destruction of the Spanish armada. This great event is thus recorded in an ancient document now in the Tower:—

"In the year 1588, when the navy of Spaniards came over to invade England, Queen ELIZABETH, of blessed memorie, in her owne defence sent out her navie, Capt. Fran. Drake being one of the admiralls under the Earle of Nottingham, her lord high admirall, and Capt. William Wynter, a vice-admirall, who by ther great courage and good conduct did so valiantly behave themselves, that they soon brook ther line, burnt ther ships, and totally routed that great fleet, styled by the Pope the Invincible Armada, for which good service then done the Queen after, in her royale tent at her camp, then at Tilbury in Essex, was graciously pleased to confer the honour of knighthood on her vice-admiral, and styled him Sir William Wynter," &c.

Capt. John Wynter m. Mary, dau. of Sir William Bruen, of Dorsetshire, and dying in 1619, was s. by his eldest son,

GEORGE WYNTER, Esq., who served as high-sheriff for Gloucestershire, 7 CHARLES I., and received the honour of knighthood. He m. Mary, dau. of Edward Rogers, Esq. of Cannington, co. Somerset, and dying in 1638, was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN WYNTER, Esq., who m. Frances, dau. of Thomas Gerard, Esq. of Trent, co. Somerset, (descended from the ancient family of the Gerards of Lancashire,) and d. seized of the manor of Dyrham and Hinton, co. Gloucester, in the year 1668, leaving an only surviving dau.,

MARY WYNTER, who m. 23 Dec. 1686, WILLIAM BLATHWAYT, Esq., of St. Martin's, "within the city of London," and had issue, three sons and one dau., viz.,

- i. Wynter, d. young.
- ii. WILLIAM, heir.
- iii. John, a col. in the army, m. Miss Penfield, and had issue.
- i. Anne, m. the Hon. Edward Southwell, of King's Weston, and had issue.

This Mr. Blathwayt, from his great learning and knowledge in modern languages, and early and steady application to business, was advanced to several public offices of distinction. He was secretary at war, and also secretary of state to King WILLIAM, during his abode in Holland

* By recorded documents in the Tower of London, relative to the family of the Wynters, it appears—"That Sir Lewis De Wynter was a Norman, b. at Rouen, in Normandy, and came over with Duke William, the 7th duke thereof, and was a commander of his bounden on board the Lord Nevill, Lord High Admirall of his royall navie, and was with him and the rest of his armie in that great battle they had with HAROLD, the King of England, wherein they so valiantly behaved themselves that they slew the king and totally routed his whole armie, thereby gaining the field and obtained the conquest, for which good service and noble courage Duke William, after his coronation and settlement on his throne, gave his commanders and officers honour and estates, &c., suitable to their merrits and deserts, and to this Lewis de Wynter the honour of knighthood, and also an estate in Freeland. He afterwards m. Mary, the dau. of Sir George Allen, of the city of York, and had by her issue four sons, three daus.," &c.

"William Wynter was also a commander with King EDWARD III. in his armie at the Seige of Callis, in France, wherein he fought, and did so valiantly encourage his men that soon after the seig they scaled ther walles and caused the French to surrender, for which good service the king knighted him, and made him controller of this noble armie," &c.

and Flanders; he was also one of the commissioners for trade and plantations, and clerk of the privy council in the reigns of King CHARLES, King JAMES, King WILLIAM, and Queen ANNE. He likewise represented the city of Bath in parliament, from 1690 to 1710. He d. in Aug. 1717, and was s. by his son and heir,

WILLIAM BLATHWAYT, Esq. of Dyrham, who m. in 1719, Thomasina Ambrose, and by her (who d. in 1774) had issue,

- i. WILLIAM, b. in 1720.
- ii. Jonathan, b. in 1725, d. young.
- iii. Wynter, b. in 1729, a general in the army, d. unm.
- i. Mary, b. in 1721, d. young.
- ii. Charlotte, d. unm.
- iii. Sophia, d. unm.
- iv. Theodosia, d. unm.

He d. in 1742, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM BLATHWAYT, Esq. of Dyrham, who m. 1st, in 1750, Miss Penelope Jenkinson, (of a branch of the Liverpool family,) and by her (who d. in July, 1755) had issue,

- i. WILLIAM, his heir, b. in 1751.
- ii. James, b. in 1754, a captain in the army, d. unm. in 1788.
- i. Penelope, b. in 1755, m. Mr. Crane, and had one son only, William.*

He m. 2ndly, Mrs. Elizabeth Le Pepre, (whose maiden name was Clarke,) widow of — Le Pepre, Esq. of St. George's, Hanover-square, and by her (who d. in Aug. 1764) had issue,

GEORGE WILLIAM, fellow of Merton College, Oxon, and rector of Langridge, co. Somerset, and of Dyrham, co. Gloucester, m. in 1795, Isabella, dau. of Charles Pye, Esq. of Wadley, co. Berks, a deputy-lieutenant and high-sheriff of that county, (see PYE OF BERKSHIRE,) and had issue,

- i. GEORGE WILLIAM, now of Dyrham Park.
2. William, b. 10 April, 1798, capt. 3rd Light-dragoons, m. Miss Filmer, and has issue one son and two daus.
3. Charles, b. 6 Jan. 1800, rector of Langridge, m. Miss Rose, and has issue two sons.
4. Wynter, d. young, in 1818.
5. Anne-Sophia, m. Thomas Curtis, Esq. of London.
6. Frances.

Mr. William Blathwayt m. 3rdly, Miss Mary Creighton, of London, but by her had no issue. He d. in May, 1787, and was s. by his eldest son of the first marriage,

WILLIAM BLATHWAYT, Esq. of Dyrham, b. in 1751, who m. in July, 1790, Frances, dau. of William Scott, Esq. of Great Barr, Staffordshire, but d. in May, 1806, without issue, leaving his widow surviving: she subsequently m. Admiral Douglas, who d. in 1839.

BLISS OF BRANDON PARK.

BLISS, HENRY, Esq. of Brandon Park, co. Suffolk, b. 28 May, 1809; s. to the Brandon estates at the decease of his uncle, the late Edward Bliss, Esq., 2 April, 1845, and assumed thereupon, by Royal licence, the surname and arms of BLISS, in lieu of those of Aldridge.

Tineage.

The late EDWARD BLISS, Esq., lord of the manor of Brandon, co. Suffolk, high-sheriff of that shire in 1836, and one of its justices of the peace, being possessed of great wealth, purchased an estate of about six thousand acres of uncultivated barren land, near Brandon, and was thus enabled to improve the district and ameliorate the condition of the poor, by occupying them advantageously for their own interest as well as for that of the community at large. Not long after he made the purchase, Mr. Bliss commenced planting, and, in less than six months, covered a large portion of the land with full eight millions of trees, thus transforming tracts hitherto wild and sterile into richly-wooded plantations and productive farms.

* Mr. William Crane, on his coming of age, in 1818, took the name of Blathwayt, by letters patent, pursuant to a clause in his uncle's will. He m. Miss Frances Taylor, of Bath, but dying in 1839, left no issue. The widow has since m. John Bayly, Esq. of Bristol.

This opulent and public-spirited gentleman, son of Edward Bliss, Esq., M.D., by Mary Clark, his wife, and grandson of Edward Bliss, and Elizabeth Brown, his wife, was b. 20 Dec. 1774. He m. 28 Oct. 1797, Sarah,* second dau. of the Rev. Aquila Scatchard, and Sarah, his wife, but d. without issue, 2 April, 1845. Desirous of being buried upon his own estate, he had erected a spacious mausoleum near the mansion-house, embosomed in plantations, and there now repose his mortal remains. Brandon Park, and the whole of his other property, passed under his will (subject to some life annuities) to his nephew, HENRY ALDRIDGE, Esq., (son of James Aldridge, Esq., by Elizabeth, his wife, and grandson of John Aldridge, Esq. of Hampshire, justice of the peace, and deputy-lieutenant of the county,) who, by Royal sign-manual, changed his name to BLISS, and is the present possessor of Brandon Park.

BONAR OF BONARE, KELTYE, KILGRASTON, AND KIMMERGHAME.

BONAR, JAMES, Esq. of Kimmerghame, co. Berwick, and Warriston, in Mid-Lothian, b. in 1795, chief of the name, and 20th in descent from William de Bonare, founder of the family in Scotland; heir male and representative of Bonar, of that ilk, of Keltie, and of Kilgraston, and heir of line and representative of Oliphant of Dron, and of Grahame of Callander; m. 11 Sept. 1839, Mary, dau. of Sir Patrick Murray, 7th Baronet of Ochertyre.

Kinship.

An ancient tradition in this family, which is of French origin, thus accounts for the name assumed by one of their earlier ancestors, Guilhem le Danois, a valvassor of Aquitaine, (claiming descent from the Danish Vikings, who sailed up the Loire in 842, and founded a colony at Angers,) who, after giving a complete defeat to a band of Pagan Northmen, during one of the many invasions to which France was in those times subjected, was blamed by many at the court of France as sacrilegious, because he had set fire to the Abbey of St. Blaise sur Loire, in which the Pagan freebooters had entrenched themselves with their blood-stained booty; but the then King of France approved of what the valiant knight had done, and turning to those of his court who blamed the valvassor, exclaimed in the rude Latin of that day, "Bona res! Bona res! conspectu Dei et Regis!" from which royal words the knight was thenceforth called Guilhem de Bonares, which appellation has descended as a patronymic to his race. His descendants were invested with the honourable and knightly office of vidame or avoyer to the Abbey of St. Blaise. In the middle of the thirteenth century, the name of this family occurs, written De Bonariis, in a document, dated 1250, recorded in the Livre d'Or of the Collège Héraldique de France. In Scotland we find it written, during the two next centuries, Bonare, and frequently Bonares; the latest act in which this orthography is used, being in Rent. Supr. Dom. Nost. Reg. assea. terr. fact. die 15, Mens. Mart. ann. 1480. From that period the name has been written both Bonare, and more recently still, Bonar; but of late some branches have discontinued the circumflex accent, and write Bonar. This family settled in Scotland apparently not before the close of the twelfth century, under King WILLIAM the Lion, who invited over many French knights; and the Bonares preserved in their new country the same rank among the feudal chivalry of the kingdom which they had held in their native land, and which they also enjoyed in all the different countries of Europe, to which several branches migrated from Scotland as early as the thirteenth century. The greater part of the early records of Scottish families have been destroyed or lost during the civil and religious wars, but in this particular instance such frequent and continued mention is made of the Bonares in the records of the great seal of Scotland, in the register of the privy seal, and in other archives of the kingdom, that the family are enabled to substantiate their uninterrupted filiation for about six centuries, and to prove that their extraction was of "noblesse de race et d'épée," and hence to claim the privileges and honours of presentation "en com et des carrosses du Roi" in France, according to the terms of the ordonnances of LOUIS XV., dated 30 July, 1759, which definitively regulates the proofs required for com; and also of entrance into the chapters of the empire and

France, and into the sacred and military orders, (in which their name is found to have been already inscribed.) Their having held their baronies immediately of the crown of Scotland gives them, in Germany and Italy, equal rank with the barons of the Holy Roman Empire, which title and dignity the continental branches of this family held by imperial investiture. We can give here only a cursory notice of these many continental branches, which are treated of at length by the heraldic and genealogical authors of the different countries into which they passed from Scotland, viz., Flanders, Sweden, Poland, Moravia, Silesia, Breslau, Bremen, and Westphalia, in the armorials and Recueils nobilitaires of which countries they are recorded as holding rank amongst the nobility of the land. Moréry, in his Grand Dictionnaire Historique, thus mentions them:—"Bonar, famille noble en Ecosse, dont plusieurs branches se sont établies en Flandres, en Suède, en Pologne, et en autres pays de l'Enrope." Full details of these lines of the Bonar family are to be found in the following authors—Okolsky, Paprocus, Miechow, Sinapius, Spenerius, Bucelinus, Schickfusius, Henelius, Gauhen, Mushardus, and Niemiez.

SIR GUILHEM DE BONARE, the first of this family, with whom we commence the Scottish branches, settled in North Britain, under King WILLIAM the Lion, (ante 1200,) as feudal Baron of Bonare, in Perthshire, having given to the lands assigned to him in fief his own name, which is still borne to this day by the village of Bonar, situate at the foot of a hill, on the summit of which stand the ruins of Castle Bonar. This ancient fortalice is now crumbling to pieces, all but the donjon or keep, which is still erect; and although this barony has long since passed into other hands, it still continues to be a saying amongst the peasantry, that "the auld tower will stand till the Bonares come back." This knight, whom we may call in this pedigree WILLIAM, 1st fendal Lord of Bonare, bore "Azure, two swords crossed saltier-ways, argent." He was s. by his son,

WILLIAM, 2nd feudal lord, who lived temp. King ALEXANDER II., (1230,) and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM-ROGER DE BONAR, 3rd fendal lord, who took the Cross (in 1248-9) and joined the sixth Crusade with the other Scottish knights, whom King ALEXANDER III. sent to Palestine under the banner of St. Louis. The Collège Héraldique de France, in publishing the Livre d'Or de la Noblesse, gives a "Liste des familles qui ont eu des représentans aux Croisades, et sur les quelles le Collège Héraldique possède et peut fournir des titres originaux créés sur le sol même de L'Orient." Amongst them is noted this baron, who appears in a deed bearing date 1250, "Messire Roger de Bonarijs, Chevalier." He was a knight of the Sacred and Military Hospitalier Order of the Holy Sepulchre, (which has long since been incorporated with the Sovereign Hospitalier Order, with which it now co-exists.) On his return from the Holy Land, (1254-5,) Sir William, in commemoration of his crusade, changed his paternal coat, "Azure, two swords in saltier, argent," for the armorial ensigns which have ever since been borne by his descendants, viz., "Argent, a saltier, azure," and which are given as the arms of Bonar, by Sir David Lindsay, of the Mount; by Craufurd; by the Ponts MS.; by Porteous MS., Snowdon Herald; by Martin and Cumming, Lyons deputy; by the heraldic MS. in the Advocates' Library; by the compilers of the Roll of gentlemen's arms in the Lyon Office; and by foreign authors, heretofore quoted. His paternal crest or cognizance, "Two swords crossed saltierways," as in his arms and his device, "à bon sire, bonne épée," were likewise changed by him for others more indicative of his having fought under the banner of the Cross; and his descendants still continue to bear the crest and motto which he then adopted, viz., the crest, "a Crusader's cross-handled sword erect in pale," and motto, "Denique cœlum," the war-cry of the crusading armies, which the family has sometimes rendered in French by the equivalent, "Dieu le venlet," the battle-cry of the French Crusaders, in whose ranks Sir William had warred under the Oriflamme. Several old seals, still extant in Scotland, appended to deeds and charters given by the Bonares, bear sometimes the swords in saltier, impaling the saltier, and in some cases the ancient coat alone is borne; the deed of latest date, in which the seal appended bears the ancient coat alone, is now preserved in the charter-chest at Castle Keltie, by the Earl of Airlie, the present possessor of that barony. It is a charter granted by Ninian, 6th Baron of Keltie, to his brother, (and eventual heir,) Robert of Cardney, (afterwards 7th Baron of Keltie,) of certain lands in the barony of Keltie, and is there dated 28 Nov. 1610. Of the issue of William-Roger, the Crusader, two sons alone are known, viz.,

1. WILLIAM, Master of Bonare.

11. John, of Laines, who migrated to Flanders, and was author of several lines which flourished both in that country and in Sweden, Poland, Moravia, Silesia, and Breslau, and were joined in the 16th century by some of their kinsmen, of the line of Bonarton. We here give a summary notice of these continental lines, in addition to which we may mention, that the line of Rossye, in the 17th century, likewise sent over some of their family, who settled on the Continent. The grandson of John, of Laines, the founder of the Flemish line, and who is styled in their pedigree, "Messire Jehan, III. de Bonare, Sire de Laines," is mentioned, as follows, by Okolsky, a genealogical writer, who, treating of the Polish lines of Bonare issued from the Flemish branch, thus describes, not only their origin, but the coat of honourable augmentation, or escutcheon of achievement, and additional crest, granted by the King of France (Philippe le Fortuncé) to Messire Jehan de Bonare. Okolsky, fol. lix., writes:—"In regnum Poloniæ ex Niederlandiæ partibus venerunt ubi Bonarii bona hereditaria ad Landas retinebant . . . (hæc tessera) . . . concessa vero sunt occasione talj. Rex Galliarum cum vicinis Regibus Hiberniæ (called Scotia in olden times) & Angliæ bellum suscepit; ad cujus castra Bonar fama regi antea notus, pervenit. Probat affectum Rex, & Roth magistrum præficit; cui dum fortuna favet; præfecturam super exercitum confert. Arridet fortuna, commisso cum regibus prælio, Anglorum exercitum fudit, dispersit, occidit, & vexilla duo album & nigrum Regi attulit. Lætus ex victoriâ Rex, & bona confert & insignia alba & nigra cum Libo regio Franciæ contulit, supra galeam virum victorem & præfectum afformando. Johannes Bonerus seu Bonar in Poloniam venit apud Sigismundum Regem Johannes-Andreas Bonerus in magno prælio habitus. Jacobus qui stativa sua in Silesiam transtulit. Johannes magnus Gubernator viverat magnus in togâ & sago in arte & marte filiam Sophiam Johanni de Firley Palatino Cracoviæ nupsit." &c. &c. A whole pedigree of these branches is given by this and other authors. Sinapius, in treating of the Swedish lines of this family, after quoting Buce- linus and Schielkfusius, who both appeal to the above narrative of Okolsky, proceeds to state that his opinion agrees with that of Spener, who holds that the knightly house of Baner, in Sweden, on whose name the celebrated field-marshal has thrown such lustre, derives their origin, name, and arms, from the Bonar family above alluded to, and that their name of Baner, as it were Banner, is deduced from the two banners added to their arms by the King of France, in commemoration of the signal victory gained by Messire Jehan de Bonare over the English. Gauhen gives also a common origin to all these lines in Scotland, and mentions also the later Swedish lines which came from Rossy in the 17th century; and, with regard to the names of these continental branches, we may lastly observe that the same prenomes of William, John, James, Andrew, Alexander, run constantly in all the lines, both Scottish and continental, proving, as it were, a link which bound all the descendants from the common ancestor together, although scattered in different and distant parts. Of all the continental branches, the most illustrious were the Polish lines, which rose to great importance, and filled the highest offices in that kingdom, holding the dignities of Lord High Chancellor—of Earl Seneschal, or Burgrave-Palatine of Cracow—of Prime Minister of the Crown—of Premier Lay Senator of Poland—of Lord Chief Governor, or Magnus Gubernator—of Lord High Treasurer—of Lord President of the States, or Tavernicorum Regalium Magister—of Grand Master of the Mint and Mines; they were also invested with the rank and title of Starosts, or Earls of the kingdom of Poland, and of Barons of the Holy Roman Empire, (which last dignity was possessed by all the other continental branches of this family,) and produced several prelates eminent both by their learning and piety, of whom the two most conspicuous were Theobald, of the Silesian branch, (issued from a younger son of John, Lord High Treasurer of Poland, temp. King SIGISMUND I.), who was General of the Franciscans; and still greater lustre has been shed on the name by the virtues and piety of St. John-Isajah de Bonare, patron-saint of Casimirovna, who, dying in odour of sanctity, in 1473, was canonized, and is recorded in the calendar on the 8th of February, as appears in the Acts of the Ballandists. This eminent personage was brother to John de Bonare, Lord High Chancellor of Poland, temp. King CASIMIR IV., and his exemplary piety and Christian virtues are treated of at length by Simplicianus, Elsius, Herrera, Szenbeck, and Aligamba; and Bazil Skalsky, who published a biography of St. John-Isajah de Bonare, whose life was also written again at a later period, by the Rev. Dom. Fulgentius de Dryasky Ordin. Sanct. Augustin, who states that, at the time he wrote, the splendid mausoleum erected over the ashes of St. John-Isajah, by his family, was still in good preservation, and was magnificently sculptured in white marble, and adorned at each angle with a scutcheon bearing the arms of the family of Bonare. The four most illustrious descendants of this family on the Continent, and all descended from John of Laines, were, 1. Jehan de Bonare, (of the Flemish line), Roth magister of the armies of France, who signalized himself by the victory gained over the English, in 1337; 2. St. John-Isajah de Bonare, patron-saint of Casimirovna, and canonized, d. in 1473; 3. John de Bonare, Starost of Zator, Rabzstyn, and Oczwycin, Baron of Biécin, and of the Holy Roman Empire, Premier Lay Senator of Poland, Burgrave Palatine of Cracow, and Magnus Gubernator, in 1550, who m. his dau. to John de Firley, Heritable Grand Marshal and Palatine of Poland, elected King in 1572, but resigned in favour of King HENRY DE VALOIS; this lady is said by Mismiez to have carried a considerable portion of the possessions of the family of Bonar into the house of Firley, by her marriage; 4. John de Baner, (of the Swedish line), Field-marshal and Generalissimo of the Northern League, in 1640.

William-Roger, the Crusader, was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM BONAR, 4th feudal lord, Royal seneschal of Kyngshorne, on the coast of Fife, temp. King ALEXANDER III., at the time that this fortress acquired melaueholy notoriety from the death of that monarch at King's Craig, in its immediate vicinity, 1285-6. He was s. by his son,

WILLIAM BONAR, 5th feudal lord, royal seneschal of Kyngshorne, temp. King ROBERT I., who is mentioned in the Chamberlain's roll, vol. i. fol. 20, as then holding that dignity. He had been a zealous follower of the immortal hero, Sir William Wallace, and fought at Bannockburn in 1314, under the banner of ROBERT THE BRUCE, whose royal blood was destined to mingle with that of his gallant and loyal partisan, two centuries later. The seneschal had an only son,

WILLIAM-ROBERT BONAR, 6th feudal lord, Royal seneschal of Kyngshorne, temp. Kings ROBERT I. and DAVID II., as appears from mention made of him in the Chamberlain's roll, fol. 157, ann. 1328, and again, fol. 167, ann. 1329, and fol. 192, ann. 1330, (in the second of these records the name is written Boner, which is the only instance in Scotland of the orthography so constantly occurring on the Continent. He fought at the battle of Halidon Hill, in 1333. By Margaret, his wife, of the family of Wemyss of that ilk, he had issue, 1. JOHN, his heir; 11. JAMES, of Bonarton, founder of that line, and ancestor of other branches, which, as before said, flourished in Poland and Silesia. The line of Bonarton flourished for about 300 years. The last seneschal of Kyngshorne was killed at the battle of Durham, in 1346, as appears from a mention of a payment made to his widow, in which he is styled not seneschal, but "Constabularius de Kyngshorne qui mortuus est sub vexillo dominij Nostri Regis," in the Chamberlain's rolls, fol. 309; and notice is likewise taken of a sum of monies paid to him by order of the king, some short time before that disastrous battle, in which the king fell into the hands of the English, and which is thus mentioned: "Ante addictum in Northumbria." His son and heir,

JOHN BONAR, 7th feudal lord of Bonare, was at the murderous siege of Carlaverock, in 1355, and was still living in 1380. He m. Anne, of the Ramsays of Dalhousie, and left the following issue,

1. WILLIAM, his heir.

11. James, of Rossye, founder of the Rossye family, and of other lines: of the first was William, 4th Baron of Rossye, (which barony was held immediately from the crown of Scotland in free barony,) who, during the thirty years' war, passed into Sweden, where he held high military office. He received from King CHARLES a birth-brief, given under the great seal of Scotland, 14 June, 1670, in which, after authenticating eight degrees and sixteen quarters on either side, both paternal and maternal, his Britannic majesty was pleased to recommend this Baron of Rossye to the good graces of the Swedish monarch, "as a gentleman eminent alike by the nobility of his blood and his own valour." He m. the Countess Elizabeth de Grammont-Brossart-vander-Decken, whose family had the honour of being allied to the Royal House of Sweden, and from him sprang the lines of the Barons de Bonare, in Bremen and Silesia. From the line of Rossye also derived the Barons of Cairnbuddy, who held their barony immediately from the crown; also the Laids of Bonarfield, (of whom David, the first, was killed at Flodden,) and the Laids of Balgershaw, and the Laids of Easter Rossye, (of whom John, the first, was killed at Flodden,) and the legitimated line of Coltye, and the lines of the Laids of Forgundenny, and Laids of Cowbyres.

III. John, of Friarton, author of that line, (of which James, the first, was killed at Flodden.)

Sir John de Bonare was s. by his son,

WILLIAM BONAR, of Bonare, who is the first of this family whom we find designated as feudal lord of Keltie, (which afterwards became the chief barony of the family.) He served in the French wars under the Bold Bastard of Orleans, who led a body of Scottish knights to the king's aid, and thus gained the victories of Beaugé in 1421, and of Verneuil, in 1424, over the English. Sir William, after his return from France, appears in a decret of 1437, Act. Dom. Conc. lib. xlii., fol. 191, and he bore arms in Scotland, having assisted at the battle of Arbroath, in 1445, and again at Bannockburn, in 1448, with his sons by his side. By his marriage with Christian, of the Balfours of Burleigh, (whose namesake and kinswoman had married William of Rossyc, kinsman and namesake to this baron,) he left,

I. JOHN, his heir.

II. William, of Keltie, who fought with his father and brother at Arbroath and Bannockburn. He d. in 1478, leaving issue,

1. NINIAN, successor to his uncle.

2. David, of Wester Keyth, who was wounded and made prisoner at Flodden. He m. Janet, dau. of — Barelath, of Toueh, and left a son, DAVID, of Wester Keyth, living in 1548, whose wife was Mary Kirkaldy, heiress of Lumquhat. By her he had,

David, of Wester Keyth, who d. s. p.

Alexander, d. s. p.

John, of Lumquhat, living in 1573, father of JOHN, 2nd of Lumquhat, who appears in several charters of the years 1589, 1592, 1593, 1594, and 1597. He had issue,

1. JOHN, 3rd of Lumquhat, A.D. 1610, whose son,

JOHN, 4th of Lumquhat, d. s. p.

2. HARRYE, of GREGSTON, (see that line.)

3. John, Abbot of Balmerinnoch.

III. Robert, of Strathly Bonar, ancestor of the Bonars of Strathly and Coulle, both extinct.

IV. James, of Bonahalfe, living in 1502, who m. Anne Inglis, dau. of Tarvat, and left (with another son, William, of Drumdowane) a successor,

JOHN, of Kilgraston, who was at Flodden. By Jean, his wife, of the Arnotts of that ilk, he left a son,

JOHN, of Kilgraston, living in 1531, who left by Agnes, dau. of Grahame of Garvoek, a dau., Isobel, m. to Blair of Pitskellie, and a son and heir,

JOHN, of Kilgraston, living in 1542, who left by Janet, dau. of Logan of that ilk, an only dau. and heir,

EUPHEME, Lady of Kilgraston. He also left,

John, of Colbyne, author of that line, bastard of Kilgraston, who was legitimated under the great seal of Scotland, post mortem patris, 25 Feb. 1584.

Eupheme, Lady of Kilgraston, m. her kinsman, James Bonar, of Trevor, who s. at Kilgraston, as JAMES, of Kilgraston and Trevor. He left by her,

I. JOHN, his heir; II. David, d. s. p.; III. Bessetta, m. to Murray of Blaekbarony; IV. Eupheme, m. to her kinsman, John, IV. of Bonarton. The Lady of Kilgraston predeceasing him, James was remarried to his cousin, Margaret, of the Colvilles of Culross, and left by her, Patriek, who continued the line of Trevor. The elder son s. as

JOHN, of Kilgraston. He m. previously to 1608, Rosina, of the Murrays of Auchtertyre, and left, I. JOHN, his heir; II. Robert; III. Matthew; IV. Walter, fiar of Garvoek, whose only son, Andrew, of Glassmouth, was tutor of Keltie, and left a son, David, of Burntisland, also tutor of Keltie; V. Helen, m. to Craige of Dumbarny; VI. Katherine, m. to Maitland. The elder son, who s. his father, as,

JOHN, of Kilgraston, m. in 1634, Agnes, dau. and heir of Laurenee Grahame, of Callander, a seion of Montrose, and left by her, I. JOHN, Master of Kilgraston, in right of his mother, representative and heir of line of Grahame of Callander; II. Alexander, of Tullochmaire, author of that line; III. James, of Gregston, who carried on that line, having m. his kinswoman, Mary, heiress of Gregston. (Vide the line of GREGSTON.) The elder son, JOHN BONAR, of Kilgraston, became eventually, at the decease of William Bonar, of Keltie, Chief of the house of Bonar: of him, in the sequel.

William Bonar dying in 1469, was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN BONAR, 2nd feudal lord of Keltie, who had fought with his father and brother, at Arbroath, in 1445, and at Bannockburn, in 1448; assisting at a grand tournament at Falkland, in which, amongst other diversions, a combat of the king's lions and leopards was to be shown. One huge lion broke from his den and rushed towards the queen's tribune, when this baron, seizing a piece of flesh provided for the feeding of the animals, flung himself before the lion, whose attention he thus drew on himself, and then killed him with his dagger; in commemoration of which bold feat, the king granted to him a chief on his coat of arms, charged with a lion, rampant, encountered by two hands clad in steel gauntlets, of which the sinister bears a piece of animal flesh, and the dexter a poniard. This chief is seen on many seals of the Bonar family, and is blazoned in many of the heraldic works. Buchanan records this John amongst the barons who signed the Act of Settlement of the crown of Scotland in favour of Prince John of Scotland, Duke of Albany, and his heirs, failing the king's issue, in 1477; he had likewise signed the demand of Prince Alexander of Scotland, Duke of Albany, (father of the prince before mentioned,) for a divorce with his duchess, Catherine Sinclair, dau. of the Earl of Orkney and Caithness, lord high chancellor of Scotland. By his marriage with Margaret, of the Setons of Parbroath, he had an only son, Ninian, Master of Bonare, who d. in infancy, whereupon the representation of the family devolved on John's nephew,

NINIAN BONAR, Baron of Keltie, eldest son of William of Keltie, and grandson of William, of Bonare. Sir Ninian had been left a minor at his father's death in 1471, under the tutory of his uncle, Robert, I. of Strathly, with whom he is mentioned in a decret, Act. dem. Audit. Feb. 18—20 Feb. 1471. He was created knight-banneret on the field of Cauglor, (or Sauehyburn, as it is often called,) in 1488, in which he saved the life of King JAMES, by whose side he was afterwards killed at Flodden, in 1513. He m., ante 1505, Margaret Oliphant, Lady of Dron, sole dau. and heritrix of John Oliphant, of Dron, Dumbarny, Pitcaithly, and Binzean, son and heir of Thomas, of Dron, who was second son of Walter, fifth of Aberdalgie, who was son of John, of Aberdalgie, and grandson of Walter, IV. of Aberdalgie, eldest son and heir of Walter, III. of Aberdalgie, Gask, &c., by Princess Elizabeth of Scotland, dau. of King ROBERT I., who gave her in dowry divers lands, amongst which, Dumbarny, Pitcaithly, and Binzean, of which Sir Ninian, after his marriage with the Lady of Dron, got investiture by charter, Reg. Mag. Sig. lih. xiv. No. 143; date, 9 Sept. 1505, proceeding on the resignation of his father-in-law, John, of Dron, above mentioned. But John, Lord Oliphant, challenged Sir Ninian's right to take the investiture, and put forth his own claim as heir male; and, after a long contest, arbiters were appointed, 4 March 1512—viz., Archibald, Earl of Argyll, and William, Earl of Errol, as arbiters for John, Lord Oliphant; and William, Earl of Montrose, and Sir Adam Douglas, of Lugton, as arbiters for Ninian, Baron of Keltie, and the Very Rev. Father in God, William, Lord Bishop of Aberdeen, as umpire, amicably to decide upon, &c., Act. Dom. Conc. lib. xxiv. fol. 172, dato ut supra. By his marriage Sir Ninian left three sons, WALTER, Master of Keltie; and John, of Newton, author of that line. Sir Ninian left, moreover, a bastard son, Andrew, of Pitcairns, author of that line, who was legitimated post mort. patr., by charter given under the great seal of Scotland, Reg. Mag. Sig., lib. xxiii. No. 86, 24 June, 1529; also a bastard dau., Janet, legitimated with her brother, by the same charter. Sir Ninian met with an honourable and knightly death under the Royal banner of Scotland, on the fatal but glorious field of Flodden, 9 Sept. 1513, to which battle he had led eight of his kinsmen, besides his son, under his banner; five of these were left dead upon the field by his side. The Bonars who fought at Flodden were, Ninian, of Keltie, chief of the name, (killed;) Walter, Master of Keltie; David, I. of Wester Keyth, (made prisoner;) John, II. of Bonarton, (killed;) James, I. of Friarton, (killed;) John, I. of Kilgraston, (wounded;) William, I. of Drumdowane; John, I. of Easter Rossyc, (killed;) William, I. of Strathly Bonar, (killed;) and David, I. of Bonarfield, (killed.) Sir Ninian was s. by,

WALTER BONAR, 2nd Baron of Keltie, who had been at Flodden under his father's banner. He received his charter of investiture in his barony of Keltie, under the great seal of Scotland, as "filio ac hærcdi quondam Ninianis militis qui sub vexillo Domini Regis ac cariss. patris nost. in praelio de Floddoun mortuus est." The precept from Chancery for infefting him (proceeding on said charter) is directed to his kinsman, John of Kilgraston, and William of Drumdowane, dated 3 March, 1513, (old style, corresponding to 3 March, 1514, new style.) Some litigation having arisen as to the nature of the tenure of the barony of Keltie, Sir Walter received a charter granted by King JAMES V., under the great seal of Scotland, vid. Reg. Mag. Sig., lib. xxi., No. 117, dated 5 March, 1525, according to which, "his heritable barony of Keltie was to be holden by him and his heirs male immediately of the king and his successors in free barony." In the same year, the Baron of Keltie, being at feud with Rollo of Duncrub and Godfrey Wilkinshaw, attacked them, and killed Wilkinshaw in the church of Donyngie, and wounded Duncrub, for which act of violence he, however, succeeded in obtaining a remission, granted under the great seal of Scotland, Reg. Mag. Sig. lib. viii. No. 217, 28 June, 1526. He m. Beatrice, of the Hays of Errol, by whom he had a dau., Isabel, m. to Charles, of the Rutherfords of Fairnylee, and two sons,

I. WILLIAM, Master of Keltie.

II. John, of Trevor, who m. Margaret Colville, of the Culross family, and had (with other issue) a son and heir, JAMES, of Trevor, who m. his kinswoman, Eupheme Bonar, of Kilgraston, as already shown, p. 28. From John, of Trevor, derived also the Laids of Boghall, the Laids of Nether Cultuquhaine, and the Laids of Eyemouth, and the legitimate line of Kinclady, founded by his bastard son, John, of Kinclady, legitimated under the great seal of Scotland, 18 Jan. 1586.

Sir Walter resigned his barony into the queen's hands by deed dated at Keltie, 23 Feb. 1535, in favour of his son,

WILLIAM BONAR, who fought at the battle of Pinkie, in 1547. He m. his cousin, Margaret, Lady Abercainy, dau. of Lord Oliphant, by whom he had, I. NINIAN, Master of Keltie; II. ROBERT, of Cardness, of whom hereafter, as 7th Baron of Keltie; I. Janet, m. in 1571, to her cousin, Grahame, 5th Baron of Garvock. After the death of Lady Abercainy, he m. 2ndly, his cousin, Nicoline, dau. of Murray of Philiphaugh, by whom he had Margaret, m. to Henderson, treasurer of the Orkneys. He resigned this barony into the king's hands, by deed of 13 Nov. 1586, dated at Keltie, in favour of his son,

NINIAN BONAR, whose charter of investiture, Reg. Mag. Sig., lib. xxxvi. No. 354, 26 Jan. 1586, (old style,) is followed by precept from Chancery, directed to his kinsman, JAMES, I. of Trevor and Kilgraston, as nearest "agnate ex parte patris," to infeft Ninian in the said barony, which William "in manibus nostris tanquam in manibus domini superioris apud Holyrude hous per fustam & baculum surgum reddidit & resignavit," &c. He had m. in 1582, Isobel Strang, Lady St. Monaus, by whom he had an only dau., Isobel, m. to her cousin Grahame, Master of Balgowane, (their granddau., Helen, m. William, 11th Baron of Keltie.) This baron of Keltie received from King JAMES VI., a grant of the island of North Ronaldsay, and investiture per charter under the great seal of Scotland, Reg. Mag. Sig., lib. xxxvii., date 28 July, 1591. Having no male issue, and the barony of Keltie being a male fief, he resigned the barony by act dated at Keltie, 28 Nov. 1610, in favour of his brother,

ROBERT BONAR, who got investiture, per charter, under the great seal of Scotland, Reg. Mag. Sig., lib. xlvi. No. 365, 21 Feb. 1611. He m. Margaret, of the Sandilands of Torphichen, by whom he had six children, of whom Isobel, m. her cousin, Oliphant of Over Cultuquhaine, (and their dau., Isobel, m. Ninian, 10th Baron of Keltie;) Margaret, m. Stewart of Cuthills, sheriff of Perth; Catherine, m. her cousin, Rutherford of Nether Balquhandie. Robert of Keltie resigned his barony, by instrument dated Keltie, 3 Feb. 1630, in favour of his eldest son,

WILLIAM BONAR, who was infeft by precept of Chancery, (proceeding on the charter given under the great seal of Scotland,) 19 Feb. 1630. He m. on the 12th of the same month, by contract of that date, his cousin, Catherine, dau. of Blair of South Corbe, by whom he left Jean, m. to her cousin, Arnot; NINIAN, of whom presently, as 10th Baron of Keltie; and his eldest son, who s. him,

ROBERT BONAR, a minor, under the tutorship of his uncle, Alexander, v. of Balgershaw, who dying shortly afterwards in 1654, his son, Alexander, VI. of Balgershaw, was substituted in the tutory of Keltie. Robert dying unn. was s. by his brother,

NINIAN BONAR, also a minor, under the tutorship of his kinsman, Alexander, IV. of Balgershaw, and was infeft by precept of Chancery, dated 12 May, 1669, proceeding on the charter of investiture given under the great seal of Scotland. He m. his cousin, Isobel, dau. of Oliphant of Over Cultuquhaine, by whom he had an only son, WILLIAM. He eventually resigned his barony by act, dated Keltie, 4 May 1680, in favour of his son, who succeeded, as

WILLIAM BONAR, a minor, under the tutorship of his kinsman, Andrew of Glassmouth, who dying three years later, in 1683, was s. in the tutory of Keltie by his son, David of Burntisland. The charter of Novodamus, in favour of William, proceeding on the resignation of his father, Ninian, was granted under the great seal of Scotland, Reg. Mag. Sig., lib. lxxvii. No. 246, 9 March, 1681. He m. his cousin, Helen, dau. of Grahame of Balgowane, and had an only son, Ninian, Master of Keltie, who d. the year of his birth, 1689. The same year, William, 11th Baron of Keltie, with consent of his kinsmen and heirs male, John, VI. of Kilgraston, and John, Master of Kilgraston, conveyed the barony of Keltie in mortgage to his cousins, Grahame of Balgowane, Grahame of Garvock, Oliphant of Gask, and Oliphant of Cultuquhaine, under reversion and reservation of free regress and ingress to the said barony of Keltie, to his kinsmen, the Laids of Kilgraston and their heirs male, and failing them to the heirs male whatsoever: "Quibus deficientibus, tunc hæredibus masculis quibuscumque cognomen de Bonar & arma gerentibus, totas & integras terras, ac Baroniam de Keltie, cum castro & molendino & pertinentibus carundem," &c., disposition of conveyance dated Keltie, 7 July, 1689. This last Baron of Keltie died in Dec. 1691, and in his person the second line of the family ended, and the representation devolved on his kinsman, JOHN, VI. OF KILGRASTON, (refer to issue of WILLIAM, OF BONARE, p. 28.) This

JOHN BONAR, 6th of Kilgraston, was eldest son of John, 5th of Kilgraston, and Agnes Grahame, of Callander (see the line of KILGRASTON); he bore for his arms the Bonare saltier, charged with a chief, azure, charged with three estoiles, argent, but on becoming chief of the family, he assumed the arms and qualification of titular Baron of Keltie. He had been infeft in the tenantry of Kilgraston, by precept of clare constat, dated 8 Feb. 1659, in which he is designated as "John, son and heir of John, of Kilgraston, son and heir of John, of Kilgraston, son and heir of James, of Trevor, and Eupheme, Lady of Kilgraston, heritrix to John, of Kilgraston." By Jean, his wife, dau. of Keyd of Carse, he had issue, I. JOHN, Master of Kilgraston, and titular Master of Keltie; II. Catherine, m. to her kinsman, David, 2nd of Kintillo; and, III. Anne, m. to Sinclair of Kenyarde. He d. in 1694, and was s. by his son,

JOHN BONAR, who, according to entry in an old family Bible, (now in possession of Kimmerghame,) was b. 16 Jan. 1670, and was m. 16 Dec. 1693, to Grizzell, dau. of Gilbert Bennett, of Beath, by whom he had seven children, of whom William, Ebenezer, Margaret, Griseldis, and Marjorie, d. young; ANDREW was founder of the line of Camden, (see CAMDEN;) and JOHN, the eldest, was his father's heir. By a disposition, dated at Kilgraston, 23 Oct. 1696, he conveyed his tenantry of Kilgraston, with the castle, manor, and lands thereof, to his cousins, Oliphant of Carsow, Oliphant of Cultuquhaine, Murray of Auchtertyre, and Craigie of Dumbarnie, in mortgage, under reversion and reservation, of free regress and ingress to said tenantry of Kilgraston, to his heir-male. He was remarried, 23 July, 1733, to Margaret, dau. of Ewans of Rhyde, by whom he had no issue. During the troubles of those days he was subjected three several times to imprisonment and fines, for his attachment to the royal cause. He d. 7 Aug. 1747, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN BONAR, who bore the designation of titular of Kilgraston. The family Bible, in which all the following births are likewise entered, notes his, on 4 Aug. 1696, and his marriage on 13 Oct. 1720, with Jean, dau. to Smythe of Monypenny, (agnate of M'Pherson of that ilk.) By her he left six sons: I. JOHN, his heir; II. James, d. s. p.; III. Ebenezer, d. s. p.; IV. William, d. s. p.; V. Andrew, b. 17 March, 1734, who left, by Patience Redbourne, two sons, James, who left by Janet, of the Lauries of Maxwellton, Thomson; and William, of Gogar, who left by Janet, of the Maitlands of Pitrichie, four sons, Thomson, John, Archibald, all unm., and Andrew, who m. Anne, of the Dixons of Ingo, and has issue. John Bonar was in part subjected to the severe measures directed against the royalists who had taken part in the affairs of 1745-6. He was s. in 1750 by his eldest son.

JOHN BONAR, titular Baron of Keltie, and 10th Laird of Kilgraston, b. 4 Nov. 1721, who m. 18 Nov. 1746, Christian Currier, co-heiress of Peppermills, and left issue, I. JOHN, of Kimmerghame; II. ANDREW, of Warriston, of whom presently, as Kimmerghame; III. ALEXANDER, of Ratho, whose son, John, of Ratho, left a dau., Helen, heiress of Ratho; IV. Archibald, who left James and Archibald; V. Thomson, of Grove, who left Thomson, John, and Andrew; VI. James, who left John, who has left Andrew, Thomson, John, William, Archibald, and James. This last titular of Kilgraston d. 21 Dec. 1761, and the representation of the family devolved on his eldest son.

JOHN BONAR, of Kimmerghame, b. 24 Aug. 1747. On the abolition of the feudal system in Scotland, on which alone rested his rights to ingress and regress in the barony of Keltie and tenantry of Kilgraston, he relinquished the qualification of titular of Kilgraston, which his father had borne. He d. unm. in 1807, and was s. by his brother.

ANDREW BONAR, b. 5 Oct. 1748, who had acquired the estate of Warriston, in Mid-Lothian. He m. Anne, dau. of Carr of Esholt, by whom he had, I. JOHN, his heir; II. JAMES, now of Kimmerghame; III. William, b. in 1797, m. 20 May, 1831, Lillias, dau. of the late Alexander Cunningham, of Craigends, (sister to the Duchess of Argyll,) and has one dau., Margaret-Cunningham; and IV. Andrew, b. in 1802, m. 22 Oct. 1833, Marcelline, dau. of Mc'Donnell of Glengarry, and has two sons, John-Andrew and Alexander Mc'Donnell, and two daus., Euphemia-Rebecca and Anne-Jane. Andrew Bonar, on his demise, 5 Aug. 1825, was s. by his elder son.

JOHN BONAR, of Kimmerghame, b. in 1793, who dying unm., in July, 1834, was s. by his brother, JAMES BONAR, now of Kimmerghame and Warriston.

Arms—Quarterly: 1st grand quarter, BONAR, ancient, quartering BONAR, modern; 2nd grand quarter, OLIPHANT of DRON, quartering the Royal ensigns of Scotland; 3rd grand quarter, GRAHAME of CALLANDER, quartering GRAHAME of MONTROSE; 4th grand quarter, BONAR of KELTYE, quartering BONAR of KILGRASTON, over all, BONAR of KIMMERGHAME. (See Heraldic Illustrations, p. cxviii.)

Crests—Two swords, BONAR, ancient; a Crusader's sword, BONAR, modern; two hammers crossed, as honourable augmentation, granted to the family by the King of France.

Seat—Kimmerghame, co. Berwick.

Bonar of Camden, co. Kent.

This is a branch of Bonar of Kilgraston, derived from

ANDREW BONAR, (third son of John Bonar, 7th of Kilgraston—refer to his issue, p. 29.) b. 24 June 1708, m. Anne, dau. of Thomson of Crichton, (which family anciently bore the name of M'Favish, and was a scion of the house of M'Farlane of that ilk,) by whom he left,

- I. John, who d. unm.
- II. THOMSON, of Camden.
- III. Harrye, d. s. p.

Of these, the second son,

THOMSON BONAR, Esq., b. in 1743, acquired the lands of Camden and Elmstead, co. Kent. He m. Anne Thomson, dau. of his mother's brother, Andrew Thomson, Esq., and left issue by her,

- I. THOMSON, of Camden.
- II. Henry, b. in 1793.
- I. Agnes, b. in 1798, m. to Count de Moretti, in Italy.

The elder son,

THOMSON BONAR, Esq., succeeded on the demise of his father, in 1811. He was b. in 1780, and m. 3 Nov. 1807, Anastasia-Jessye, dau. and (with her sister, the Dowager Lady Hay) co-heiress of Guthrie of Hawkerton, falconer to the crown in Fife, heir-male, and ninth in descent from James Guthrie, 1st of Hawkerton, next brother to David, 1st Baron of Guthrie, armour-bearer to King JAMES III., and lord high treasurer of Scotland, (for the families of GUTHRIE OF GUTHRIE, and GUTHRIE OF HAWKERTON, see vol. i. p. 516.) By this lady Mr. Bonar had issue,

I. ERNEST, present possessor of Camden.

II. Alfred-Guthrie, attaché to her Majesty's legation at Dresden, b. in 1813.

III. Lionel-Ninian, b. in 1816.

IV. George-Douglas, b. in 1817.

I. Anastasia-Mary, m. to her kisman, Patrick Frazer Tytler, Esq., son of the late Lord Woodhouselee.

II. Emily-Anne.

III. Mary-Anne.

The elder son, who s. his father in 1828, is the present

ERNEST-AUGUSTUS BONAR, Esq. of Camden and Elmstead, b. in 1808, chief of the second branch of the Bonars, twentieth in descent from William, first founder of the family in Scotland, and heir-of-line and representative of Guthrie of Hawkerton, heritable falconer to the crown in Fife. He was several years an officer in the service of the Emperor of Austria, and received the cross of the Sovereign Hospitalier Order, as Chevalier de Justice of the Britanno-Bavarian Langue, upon the verification of his proofs of knightly extraction and gentle blood on either side, showing the filiation and alliances of this paternal line of BONAR, up to James, 1st of Trevor, and his wife, Eupheme, dau. of Kilgraston, and the filiation and alliances of his maternal line of GUTHRIE, up to Harrye, 1st of Hawkerton, and his wife, Mary, dau. of Ogilvie of Newton. He m. 11 Jan. 1834, Rosalia-Juliana-Henrietta de Wullerstorf-Urhair, dau. of Charles-Leopold de Wullerstorf-et-Urhair, a nobleman of Moravia and of the Holy Roman Empire.

Arms—Bears the same quarterings as KIMMERGHAME, with the addition of GUTHRIE OF HAWKERTON, quartering CUNYNE OF ALTYRE, and over all, the BONAR coat, charged with a dexter canton, sable, charged with three swords in pile, for BONAR OF CAMDEN.

Bonar of Gregston, co. Fife.

This family is derived from that of Lumquhat, and was founded by

HARRYE BONAR, of Gregston, second son of John, 2nd of Lumquhat, (refer to the issue of David, 1st of Wester Keyth, son of William, of Keltie, who d. in 1478, see p. 28.) In his favour, John, 2nd of Lumquhat, his father, resigned Gregston, (on receiving, in 1592, a charter under the great seal of Scotland, Reg. Mag. Sig., lib. xxxviii. No. 52, "Carta Johanni Bonar de Lumquhat & Johanni ejus filio legitimo maximo natu terrarum de Drumtennend cum jure patronatus ecclesie parochialis,") and appears as Harrye of Gregston, together with his brother-germain, John, 3rd of Lumquhat, Parl. Reg. Sas. Pert., lih. ii. fol. 305, 28 July, 1603. He left issue,

I. JOHN,

II. Andrew, sponsor, 15 July, 1626, to the son of his cousin, Craige of Dumbarnay.

I. Isobel, m. to her cousin, Grahame of Gorthie, living 12 July, 1630: of their descendant presently.

II. Helen, m. to her kinsman, Ninian, 1st of Killyhaizie.

Harrye of Gregston, designated post mortem as brother to John, 3rd of Lumquhat, was s. by his son,

JOHN BONAR, who had already attained his majority, 20 Jan. 1620, (the date of his father's death, when John, 3rd of Lumquhat, had the ward of the younger children.) He m. Rachel Spens, of the family of Spens of Kames, and had issue by her,

I. JAMES, his heir.

II. Janet, m. to her cousin, Riddoch of Drumsanchie, ante 1630.

He resigned his fief of Gregston in favour of his son, in June, 1631, (he got a charter of lands for himself as late as Reg. Seg. Sig., lib. cxvii. 1663.) He was s. at Gregston by his son,

JAMES BONAR, whose investiture followed on precept of charter, Reg. Seg. Sig., lih. ciii. fol. 188, 30 June, 1631. He m. Catherine Bisset, heiress of Balbougic, (and they got sasine in those lands, 22 March, 1644,) by whom he left an only dau.,

I. MARY, m. to her kinsman, James Bonar, cadet of Kilgraston, of whom presently, as James, 2nd of Gregston, jure uxoris.

In Feb. 1654, he appears with his kinsmen, Alexander, 5th, and Alexander, 6th of Balgershaw, and their cousin, Oliphant of Gateside. He was s. by his kinsman and son-in-law,

JAMES BONAR, third son of John, 5th of Kilgraston, y the Lady of Callander, (refer to the issue of James of Bonahallfe, son of William, seventh chief of the name.) by the heiress of Gregston he had issue,

- I. JOHN, his heir.
- II. ROBERT, of whom presently, as 7th Laird of Gregston.
- III. WILLIAM, of whom hereafter, as 8th Laird of Gregston.
- I. Margaret, who d. unm. in 1701.
- II. Anne, m. to her cousin, Sinclair of Kennycarde.

James Bonar appears, 25 May, 1658, and again in 1670 and 1672, with his brothers, John, 6th of Kilgraston, and Alexander, 1st of Tullochmaire, and his kinsmen, Laurence, 1st of Fergundenny, and his cousins, Oliphant of Binzean, Oliphant of Provost Mains, Oliphant of Over Cultuquaine, and Oliphant of Pitcaithly; and in Feb. 1675, with his kinsmen, John and James, of Bonarton. He was s. in the same year by his son,

JOHN BONAR, who appears in some few deeds between 1678-95, and dying unm., was s. by his brother,

ROBERT BONAR, who was seised of the fief of Gregston in 1698, and who m. Margaret Traill, of the Traills of Skayil, by whom he had an only child, Margaret, m. to her cousin, Grahame of Gorthie, of whom presently, as 9th Laird of Gregston.

Robert's testament is dated 16 July, 1719, and he was s. by his remaining brother,

WILLIAM BONAR, who dying unm. in 1723, was s. by his niece's husband and cousin,

THOMAS GRAHAM-BONAR, (who was son of Thomas Graham, of Gorthie, descended, in the female line, from Harrye, 1st of Gregston. He had been married by William of Gregston to his ward and heritrix, Margaret, by contract, 14 March, 1723, with stipulation that the issue should assume the name and arms of Bonar. Thus the present Gregston is a Graham, who is descended from a Bonar heiress, and the present Kimmerghame is a Bonar, descended from a Grahame heiress, each of these families having added to its own the name and arms of the other. The issue of the marriage of the heiress of Gregston was,

JOHN, his heir.
THOMAS, of Gorthie, who retained his paternal surname, and carried on that line.

The Laird and Lady of Gregston (both deceased in the same year) were s., in 1778, by their son,

JOHN GRAHAM-BONAR, who m. Catherine Gregory, agnate of the McGregors of Ross, and had issue,

- I. THOMAS, his heir.
- II. David, d. s. p.
- III. Charles, m. Margaret Broun, by whom he has left three sons and two daus.
- IV. Edward, m. Anne de Morne, by whom he has left issue.
- V. William, d. s. p.
- I. Margaret, d. unm.

This laird was s. in 1800, by his son,

THOMAS GRAHAM-BONAR, of Gregston, who m. Anne van Yorkens, (of an eminent family in Holland,) and had,

- I. JOHN, his heir.
- II. WILLIAM, present Gregston, successor to his brother.
- III. Margaret, m. to Henry Cowan, Esq.

This laird was s. in 1827 by his elder son,

JOHN GRAHAM-BONAR, of Gregston, who dying unm. shortly afterwards, was s. in 1830, by his brother, WILLIAM GRAHAM-BONAR, now of Gregston, b. in 1795, chief of the third branch of this family, heir-of-line, and representative of the branches of Lumquhat and Wester Keyth, and twentieth in descent from Guilhem de Bonare.

Arms—Bears the same quarterings as KIMMERGHAME, with the additional bearings of GRAHAME of GORTHIE; and over all, his paternal coat of GRAHAME, or, a chief, sable, charged with three escallops of the field.

Bonar of Ratho, in Mid-Lothian.

This is a line of Bonar of Kilgraston, derived from ALEXANDER, 1st of Ratho, (third son of John, 9th (titular) of Kilgraston, to whose issue refer,) b. in 1750, who acquired the lands of Ratho, and was succeeded therein, in 1789, by his son, JOHN BONAR, who, dying in 1838, left an only dau., HELEN BONAR, present inheritrix of Ratho.

Arms—Bears the same quarterings as KIMMERGHAME, and over all, the BONAR coat, with a difference for RATHO.

 Besides the several lines of the Bonar family adduced in this article, there is mention made of many others who flourished in Scotland, some for only two or three generations, others for a longer period; but the obscurity of their filiation, and the little evidence to be had of them beyond a few random notices made in different charters and other deeds, prevent our entering into further details regarding them; it may suffice to state that this family was so numerous in Scotland, that no less than thirty-seven different lines of Bonars are to be found upon record, each styled by their territorial designation, nor were they less numerous on the Continent.

BOURNE OF HACKINSALL.

BOURNE, JAMES, Esq. of Hackinsall, co. Lancaster, b. 8 Oct. 1812; m. 11 Oct. 1841, Sarah-Harriet, dau. of Thomas-Furness Dyson, Esq. of Everton and Willow Hall, co. York, and has issue,

Lineage.

The family of Bigot, or Boycott, is of great antiquity in Shropshire, in which county, and in those adjacent, they held extensive estates from the period of the Conquest, part of which, including Boycott, whence the name is taken, is still in the possession of the present representative.

From the original grants to the abbey of Salop, yet existing, it appears that in the time of HENRY I., "Azo Bigot gave another half hide in Langanara, and a ferdendel in Abetona."

"A. Bigot holds Languenare (Longnor-upon-Severn) under the Bishop of Chester in Domesday."

"In the same record Azo holds Abetune (Abdon) under Rainald the Sheriff."

These two appellations stand for the same person, under his baptismal name of Azo, and his surname (or rather sobriquet, for surnames were as yet very little known) of Bigot, which, according to an ancient authority, quoted by Camden, was synonymous with Norman.

"The wife of Azo Bigot gave certain land in the city, for the soul of her son Reinald, which renders yearly 10*d.."—Vide Hist. of Shrewsbury, by BLAKEWAY and OWEN, vol. ii. c. 1, pp. 26, 28.

* Blakeway's history is compiled from Domesday Book, the Monasticon, the Chartulary of Shrewsbury, and from the Charter of Roger de Montgomery, Earl of Shrewsbury, who founded the Abbey church, and from a "Leiger book of the Abbey," thence printed in the Monasticon, and from a History of the Foundation and Endowment, drawn up perhaps in the reign of STEPHEN, (at least his charter is the last recounted in it,) and of great use in fixing the order of time in which the Abbey received its several accessions of property. "The Leiger Book," or Chartulary, is supposed to be in the muniment chamber of the Duke of Sutherland, at Trentham; a transcript of it is among the Mytton collections. Dodsworth speaks of it when he made his extracts from it, which are in the Bodleian Library, as being "in manibus Richardi Leveson militis balnei 21 Jul. 1638, & per eum mutuo acceptum a Richardo Lee de Langle in com' Salop milite."

From Azo we pass to his descendant,

FRANCIS BOYCOTT, Esq. of Boycott and Buildwas, in Shropshire, in 1585, who was father of

WILLIAM BOYCOTT, Esq. of Boycott, Buildwas, and Hinton, who m. 1st, in 1625, Elizabeth, dau. and heir of John Trym, Esq. of Hinton, and had issue, Elizabeth, m. to Thomas Holland, Esq., a magistrate for Shropshire in 1663.

Sarah, m. in 1654, William Warter, Esq. of Swancote, and had issue, John Warter, Esq. of Rudge Hall, whose only child Catharine, m. in 1742, William Boycott, Esq., after mentioned.

William m. 2ndly, in 1631, Ellenor, dau. of Sylvanus Lacon, Esq. of West Coppice, by Grace, his wife, dau. of Sir Edward Littleton, Bart. of Pillaton, co. Stafford, and had issue,

I. Sylvanus, of Hinton and Buildwas, m. 1st, in 1654, Mary, dau. of Francis Geers, Esq. of Garnons, co. Hereford, by whom he had no issue; he m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Geers, Esq. of the Marsh, co. Hereford, by whom he left at his death, in 1686, a son,

Thomas, m. in 1720, Philadelphia, dau. of Sir

Thomas Cotton, Bart. of Combermere, co. Chester, and d. in 1723, leaving issue four daus., who d. infants, s. p.

II. FRANCIS, of Boycott, of whom presently.

William Boycott was one of those Shropshire gentlemen who, with his sons, Sylvanus and Francis, materially assisted their majesties CHARLES I. and II. in their distresses, and as a reward for which, CHARLES II., in 1663, granted to the said Sylvanus and Francis Boycott, a special patent of arms, (viz., Gules, on a chief, argent, three granadoes proper; Crest, an armed arm proper, issuing out of a crown mural, casting a granado.) "for having manifested their loyalty to their sovereign, King CHARLES II., by sundry services in the times of his great distresses, (as the said William Boycott, their father, had done to his late majesty, King CHARLES I., of ever blessed memory, by furnishing his army and garrisons with great shot, granadoes, and other necessary habiliments of war,) and for their prudent deportment in sundry employments of trust, deserved worthily of their prince and country." Lineage.

Few families can be authentically traced through so many centuries as the East Kent Boys', nor be found to have preserved, during the last three centuries, a more uniform station amongst the middle ranks of gentry.

The limited extent of this work will not admit of an earlier pedigree than the subjoined being here inserted; but, it may be mentioned, that the subject of this memoir is also maternally descended from the Toke family of Godington, in Kent, whose remarkable genealogy is traced to ALFRED the Great, the Kings of Scotland, WILLIAM the Conqueror, the three races of the Kings of France, and, by consequence, through nearly all the ancient crowned heads of Europe.

The following is the Boys' descent in the male line, subsequent to the Norman Conquest.

JOHN DE BOYS, or DE BOSCO, temp. WILLIAM II., d. about thirty years after the Norman Conquest, leaving a son,

RICHARD DE BOIS, temp. King STEPHEN. He m. Adria, and by her had issue,

JOHN DE BOIS, temp. King HENRY II., who had issue, several daus., and two sons, one of whom was

THOMAS DE BOIS, temp. RICHARD I., father (by Jane, his wife) of

ROBERT DE BOIS, whose son,

WILLIAM DE BOIS, Gent., temp. HENRY III., m. Maude de Bonyngton, and had issue, four sons and seven daus. One of the sons,

EDMUND DE BOIS, of Deal, m. Mary, and had issue, two sons, THOMAS and John; the former,

THOMAS BOIS, temp. EDWARD II., m. Margaretta de Bonyngtone, and was father of

JOHN BOIS, Gent. of Bonyngton, in Goodnestone, Kent, about 1355, who m. Sarah, and had four sons, of whom one was

WILLIAM BOIS, Gent., m. Jane Coles, who d. in 1425, leaving

JOHN BOIS DE BONYNGTON, who m. Agnes, and left two sons and several daus.; one of the sons was

THOMAS BOYS, Gent. of Goodnestone, Kent, who m. Edith, and d. in 1479. His will, dated 15 Feb. 1478-9, was proved at Canterbury. His son,

WILLIAM BOYS, Esq. of Bonyngton and of Fredville, m. Isabella, dau. and heiress of — Phalop, of Nonington, Gent., and d. 31 July, 1507. In his will, proved at Canterbury, he names his eldest son, John, who was the ancestor of the Fredville branch, and of Sir John Boys, Knt., founder of Jesus Hospital, at Canterbury, who d. s. p.; and his youngest son, THOMAS, the ancestor of the Bonnington branch, which said

THOMAS BOYS, Gent. of Bonnington, d. in 1508, and was buried at Goodnestone, (will dated 22 Aug. 1508, proved at Canterbury.) He left, by Thomazine, his wife, three sons, William, the ancestor of Sir John Boys, Knt., the loyalist and heroic defender of Donnington Castle, during the rebellion; Robert; and RICHARD, of whom hereafter; and three daus. The youngest son,

RICHARD BOYS, Gent. of Sandwich, m. 1st, Juliana, who d. in 1563; 2ndly, Clementina, who d. in 1568; and 3rdly, Alice, who d. in 1595. He d. in 1597, "scnex," leaving RICHARD, of whom hereafter, and several other sons. The said

RICHARD BOYS, of Battle, m. Elizabeth, named in his will, dated March, 1583, and proved at Lewes, by his son, RICHARD, sole executor, in Sept. 1606; he also left three other sons, John, William, and Henry. The said

RICHARD BOYS, Gent. of Keinsham, in Rolvenden, m. twice: the name of his 1st wife is unknown; his 2nd, was Ann Little, who d. in 1610, at Battle, and left one dau., and one son,

HERBERT BOYS, b. in 1591, who m. Mary, dau. of Robert Bassoek, and was buried at Upper Hardres, in May, 1631, (will proved at Canterbury.) and left two sons, William and ROBERT; the younger of whom,

ROBERT BOYS, of Betshanger, was bapt. 13 June, 1624, at Upper Hardres. He m. Mary, dau. of Thomas and Joane Friend, and was buried at Betshanger, 18 March, 1705, aged 81. His will was proved at Canterbury, by his son,

WILLIAM BOYS, Gent. of Betshanger, bapt. 6 Nov. 1671, at Kingston. He m. in May, 1710, Margaret, dau. of John and Elizabeth Wood, of Barvill, in Tilmaustone; she was buried at Betshanger, in June, 1764, aged 76, and her will was proved at Canterbury. He settled the Tilmaustone estate on his son WILLIAM'S marriage, and d. intestate, aged 79, and was buried, 18 April, 1750, at Betshanger. He had several other sons and daus.; his said son,

WILLIAM BOYS, Gent. of Betshanger, bapt. in Sept. 1713, m. in Oct. 1748, Ann, dau. of John and Mary Cooper, of Ripple; she d. in April, 1793, aged 70. He d. in July, 1781, aged 68; will proved in London, in 1781, by his only surviving son, JOHN BOYS, Esq. of Betshanger, the eminent agriculturist, and author of the "Agricultural Survey of Kent," which was translated into several foreign languages, bapt. 26 Nov. 1749, at Betshanger. He m. in Jan. 1774, Mary, dau. of the Rev. Richard Harvey, vicar of Eastray and Word, sister of the late John-Springett Harvey, Esq., master in ordinary in Chancery, and accountant-general of that court, and d. in Dec. 1824, aged 76. His will was proved at Canterbury, in which he names his twelve children, viz., William, JOHN, (whose family is shown at the commencement of this genealogy,) Richard, Edward, Henry, Robert, and James, and five daus.

BRADDON OF SKIDSON LODGE.

BRADDON, WILLIAM, Esq., now resident at Lifton Park, Devon, m. Hannah-Maria, dau. of — Daniels, Esq. of Bristol, and has issue, the eldest son of which, WILLIAM, is at the head of the well-known mercantile house in Calcutta, trading as Bagshaw and Co. Mr. Braddon held for many years, in India, the appointment, in the Company's civil service, of one of the Judges of the Sudder Duwanny Adawlut at Calcutta.

Lineage.

Tradition reports that this ancient family was originally of Northumberland. There is, however, nothing certain respecting it until the 1st of ELIZABETH, when Stephen Braddon, Esq. of Treworgy, in St. Gennys, Cornwall, was elected member of parliament for the neighbouring town of Bossiney, as he also was in the 5th of the same reign.

WILLIAM BRADDON, of Treworgy, who appears to have been eldest son of Stephen, was a commander in the civil wars, and an eminent magistrate during those commotions, whence originated the first two lines of his epitaph—

"In war, and peace, I bore command, Both gown and sword I wore."

He d. at Treworgy, 31 Jan. 1694, at a very advanced age, having had issue, two sons,

HENRY, of whom we treat.

Lawrence, of the Middle Temple, who in 1683 was tried as an accomplice with Hugh Speke, for spreading a report that the Earl of Essex had been murdered in the Tower, contrary to the inquisition taken after his death, which found that he had destroyed himself. Mr. Braddon was fined £2000, and the Treworgy property seized by the crown. He pleaded his own defence, and afterwards published a pamphlet on the subject, entitled, "The Earl of Essex's Innocency and Honour Vindicated, in a Letter to a Friend."

The elder son,

HENRY BRADDON, d. at Treworgy, in 1711, leaving a son, in holy orders, who, in 1713, was presented to the livings of Luffencott in Devon, and St. Giles in Cornwall. He m. Mary Hill, (of an ancient family, the elder branch of which resided at Launcells, near Stratton,) and left a son,

JOHN BRADDON, who m. Mary, dau. of Richard Martin, Esq. of Melford, co. Devon, and was father of

HENRY BRADDON, Esq. of Skidson Lodge and Camelford, who m. Sarah, sister and sole heiress of William Clode, Esq. of Skidson Lodge, and had by her (who d. in Sept. 1846) issue, BRANFILL OF UPMINSTER HALL.

BRANFILL, BENJAMIN-AYLETT, Esq., an officer in the 10th Royal Hussars, b. 26 Feb. 1828, succeeded as senior male descendant of his family, bearing the name of Branfill, at the decease of his father, 7 Oct. 1844.

Lineage.

"The original name of this family," says Morant, "is supposed to have been Bamfield,"—a supposition borne out by the exact similarity of arms. The purchaser of Upminster Hall, in Essex, was

CAPT. ANDREW BRANFILL, of Dartmouth, in Devon, who bought the manor from the Earl of Gainsborough, in 1685. Capt. Branfill had been brought up to the sea, as most of his relations were engaged in the maritime service, and had acquired, by his activity and energy, a very considerable fortune. He m. in 1681, Damaris, eldest dau. of John Aylet, of Kelvedon Hatch, (son of the gallant Capt. Aylet, of Magdalen Laver, so distinguished in the cause of King CHARLES during the great civil war,*) and by her had several children. He d. 27 July, 1709, aged 59, and was buried in the north aisle of Upminster Church. His eldest son and heir, CHAMPION BRANFILL, Esq. of Upminster Hall, Essex, served as high-sheriff of that county in 1734. He m. Mary, dau. of Mr. Benjamin Braund, of the city of London, and had issue, CHAMPION, his heir.

Benjamin.

Mary, m. John Russell, Esq., a descendant of the Russells of Strensham, and was mother of JOSEPH RUSSELL, Esq. of Stubbess, in Essex, who hequeathed his estates to his kinsman, Champion Branfill, Esq., who has taken the name of RUSSELL.

Charlotte, m. to John Harrison, Esq.

Amelia, m. to Charles Harris, Esq.

Ann, m. to — D'Arcy, Esq.

The elder son,

CHAMPION BRANFILL, Esq. of Upminster Hall, m. Elizabeth James, and by her had two sons and a dau., viz.,

* This gentleman, according to the account kept in his family, was lord of Magdalen Laver, and suffered severely for King CHARLES I. He spent £700 per annum in that service, raised a troop of horse at his own expense, and was in many engagements during the war. He acted as one of the commanders in Colchester at the siege, and was sentenced to be shot, but escaped in female disguise. However, he was retaken, and purchased his life of the parliament for £460, and had a pardon from them. CHARLES II. gave him a commission afterwards, to surprise Chepstow Castle, and to be governor of the same. Here he was betrayed and made prisoner, till the Restoration set him at liberty. It is probable then he took up his residence at White Rothing, within view of his lost estate. The king, to show his approbation of his zeal, ordered an augmentation to his arms, at Oxford, in 1646, having no other reward to bestow on him. His coat was, Gu., three annulets, and a chief, arg. The addition was, on a canton, or, the rose of England, ppr. Crest—An arm, gu., holding a sword, hilted, or, blade, arg. Motto—Not in vain.

B R E

CHAMPION; Benjamin, and Frances, d. young. The elder son and heir,

CHAMPION BRANFILL, Esq. of Upminster Hall, m. 14 Oct. 1788, Charlotte, dau. of Edward Brydges, Esq., and Jemima, his wife, youngest dau. and co-heir of William Egerton, LL.D., and by her (who m. 2ndly, 20 Jan. 1794, John Harrison, Esq.) had issue a son, CHAMPION-EDWARD, and a dau., Jemima-Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. Thomas Harrison. Mr. Branfill d. 7 Oct. 1792, and was s. by his son,

CHAMPION-EDWARD BRANFILL, Esq. of Upminster Hall, b. 13 July, 1789, who m. 26 Nov. 1818, Anne-Eliza, dau. of the Rev. Anthony-Egerton Hammond, of the family of that name, of St. Alban's Court, near Canterbury, and lineally descended, maternally, from the Earls of Bridgewater. By this lady Mr. Branfill had issue, CHAMPION, present representative, b. 19 Oct. 1820, succeeded to the estate of the late Joseph Russell, Esq., and assumed, in consequence, the surname and arms of RUSSELL.

Egerton-Anthony-Hammond, b. 28 March, 1825, d. 5 Oct. 1843.

BENJAMIN-AYLETT.

Champion-Edward-Brydges, b. in 1829, d. in 1831.

Brydges-Robinson, b. 22 Nov. 1833.

John-Arthur-Capel, b. 22 March, 1838.

Eliza-Jemima-Mary.

Charlotte-Jane.

Agnes-Josepha.

Mr. Branfill d. 7 Oct. 1844, having devised Upminster Hall to his widow, the present possessor.

Arms—Or, on a bend, gu, three mullets, arg., quartering AYLETT, viz., Gu., three annulets, arg., surmounted by a chief, arg., on a canton, or, a rose of England, ppr.

Crest—A naked arm, holding a sword, rising out of a cloud, ppr.

Motto—Not in vain.

Seat—Upminster Hall, Upminster, Essex.

BREWSTER OF WRENTHAM, CO. SUFFOLK.

Lineage.

The family of Brewster is one of ancient descent: so far back as the reign of RICHARD II., John Brewster was presented to the rectory of Godwick, in Norfolk, by the Prior of Westacre; and in a list of the gentry of that county, returned to King HENRY VI., A.D. 1433, we find the name of Galfridus Brewster. The Norfolk family became allied to the distinguished houses of De Narburgh, Shuldham, Spelman, Gleane, &c.

With the county of Suffolk the Brewsters were connected at a very remote period, John Brewster occurring as witness to a deed relating to land in the parish of Henstead, in the 48th EDWARD III., and Robert Brewster, of Mutford, possessing lands in the same place prior to the reign of HENRY IV. Of these estates, William Brewster of Henstead, and Robert Brewster, of Rushmere, died seised in the reign of EDWARD IV. In the earlier part of the 16th century, HUMPHREY BREWSTER purchased the manor and living of Wrentham, and in 1556, built the hall there, at which his descendants continued to reside until 1797. In 1810, the venerable mansion was taken down, and the estate sold. The income of the proprietors of Wrentham was derived from lands in more than twenty parishes in Suffolk and Norfolk. In the former county the Brewsters possessed leading influence, and in the great rebellion became partisans of the parliament. Col. Humphrey Brewster raised and commanded a troop of horse against the king; and Robert Brewster, Esq., the then possessor of Wrentham, sat as member for Dunwich in the Long Parliament.

WILLIAM BREWSTER, Esq. of Rushmere, co. Suffolk, living temp. HENRY VI., son of Robert Brewster, of Mutford, m. Mary, dau. of William Harvey, Esq. of Olton, co. Suffolk, and was father of

ROBERT BREWSTER, Esq. of Rushmere, who m. the dau. and co-heiress of Christopher Edmonds, Esq. of Cressing Temple, co. Essex, and had two sons, HUMPHREY and James. The former,

HUMPHREY BREWSTER, Esq. of Wrentham Hall, co. Suffolk, who built that edifice, b. in 1526, m. Alice, dau. of William Foster, Esq. of Copdock, co. Suffolk, and d. in 1593, having had by her (who d. in 1611) two sons and four daus., viz., FRANCIS, his heir; Humphrey, of Hadleigh, co. Suffolk, m. Grizel, dau. of Robert Rolfe, Esq. of Had-seigh, and d. in 1613, aged 44; Elizabeth, m. 1st, to Thomas Brews, Esq., son of Sir J. Brews, Knt. of Wrentham Hall, co. Suffolk, and 2ndly, Francis Claxton, Esq. of Cheston, co. Suffolk; Susan, m. to John Hayward, Esq. of Gisleham, co. Suffolk; Mary, m. to John Gentleman, Esq. of Suffolk; and Jane. The elder son and heir, FRANCIS BREWSTER, Esq. of Wrentham Hall, b. in 1566, an active parliamentarian during the rebellion as a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Robert Snelling, Esq. of Ipswich, and d. in 1644, having had by this lady, (who d. in 1638.)

ROBERT, his heir.

Francis, of Wrentham, b. in 1600, m. Susannah Bunnen, and d. in 1657, having had issue, Francis, b. in 1627, d. in 1694; John, of Yarmouth, b. in 1632; Nathaniel, of Aldby, in Norfolk, b. in 1643, employed in Ireland by the parliament in 1655; * Robert; Benjamin; Elizabeth; Mary; and Anne.

Humphrey, of Hedenham, co. Norfolk, b. in 1604, living in 1642, lieutenant-col. of foot in 1653, m. the dau. of — Atkins, alderman of Norwich, and afterwards of London.

John, of Wyfelds, Barking, co. Essex, b. in 1604, m. Mary, dau. of Alderman Scottowe, of Norwich, and d. in 1677, having had issue, Augustus, of Wyfelds, d. in 1708, aged 66.

Samuel, of St. Margaret's, Westminster, d. in 1701, leaving, by Dorothy, his wife, a son, John, and two daus., Dorothy and Mary.

Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. Richard Taylor, and d. in 1708.

Thomas. William. Samuel.
Thomasine. Frances. Mary. Elizabeth.

The eldest son and heir,

ROBERT BREWSTER, Esq. of Wrentham Hall, b. in 1599, M.P. for Dunwich in 1640, 45, 49, 54, 58, 59, and 1660, and for the county of Suffolk in 1656, m. Amy, dau. of Thomas Corbet, Esq. of Sprowston, co. Norfolk, and had two sons, FRANCIS and ROBERT. He d. in 1663, and was s. by his elder son,

FRANCIS BREWSTER, Esq. of Wrentham Hall, b. in 1623, M.P. for co. Suffolk, who m. Cicely, dau. and co-heiress of Sir Charles Crofts, Knt. of Bardwell, co. Suffolk, and had two daus.,

Amy, m. to Sir Philip Skippon, Knt., of Gray's Inn, M.P. for Dunwich, son of Major-Gen. Skippon, the republican general.

Cicely, m. 1st, to Sir Robert Hatton, Knt. of Ditton, Surrey; and 2ndly, to Sir Harry-Dutton Colt, Bart., M.P. for Westminster, temp. WILLIAM and ANNE.

Mr. Brewster d. in 1671, and was s. by his brother,

ROBERT BREWSTER, Esq. of Wrentham Hall, b. in 1625, who d. in 1681, leaving a son,

HUMPHREY BREWSTER, Esq. of Beccles and Wrentham Hall, living in 1663, who, by Anne, his wife, had

PHILIP, his heir.

John, of Beccles and Norwich, m. Rebecca Cleaves, and d. in 1718, having had, besides three daus., (Elizabeth, m. to John Syer, of Wisbeach, and d. in 1738; Anne, and Rebecca,) one son,

Francis, of Beccles, b. in 1695, who m. Margaret Tucke, and d. in 1748, having had by her, (who d. in 1734,) besides other children, a son,

Charles, of Beccles, Great Yarmouth, and London, b. in 1728, who m. Amelia Coye, of Norwich, and d. in 1785, having had by this lady, (who d. in 1830.)

William Brewster, Esq. of Maidenhead, Berks, who m. Catherine, dau. of the Rev. — Smythies, of Alpheaton, Suffolk, and d. s. p.

Francis.
Charles, d. in 1786.

John.

Isabella, m. to George Twining.

Amelia, m. to Samuel Haynes, of Cornhill, and d. in 1785.

The elder son,

PHILIP BREWSTER, Esq. of Wrentham Hall, d. in 1710, leaving a son and heir,

HUMPHREY BREWSTER, Esq. of Wrentham Hall, who m. Elizabeth Malden, of Fressingfield, co. Suffolk, and d. in 1735, aged 53, having had by her, (who d. in 1747.)

* In the same year, Hugh Brewster and Francis Brewster were acting as commissioners for securing the peace of the commonwealth at Bury St. Edmunds; their correspondence with Oliver Cromwell and his secretary Thurloe may be seen in THURLOE'S State Papers. In 1699, Sir Francis Brewster was appointed, in company with the Earl of Drogheda and others, a commissioner to take account of forfeited estates in Ireland. He became lord-mayor of Dublin.

PHILIP.

William, b. in 1718, d. s. p. at Jamaica, in 1738.

Frances, m. John Meadows, Esq. of Wortham, co. Suffolk, and d. in 1756: their great-grandson and representative is the present DANIEL-CHARLES MEADOWS, Esq. of Wrentham Hall, co. Suffolk.

The eldest son,

PHILIP BREWSTER, Esq. of Wrentham Hall, b. in 1712, m. Isabella Crompton, of Doncaster, co. York, and d. in 1765, having had by her (who d. in 1773) two sons and a dau.,

Humphrey, of Wrentham Hall, b. in 1752, d. unm. and intestate in 1797.

Philip, d. in 1766, aged 16.

Isabella, d. in 1763.

* * This family had many ramifications; one offshot was settled at Barking, in Essex, and possessed the manor of Withfield, in Great Ilford, and the manor of Condovers, in West Tilbury. Another branch was established at Castle Hedingham, in Essex, early in the 16th century, and was connected with the ancient and knightly families of Clifton, Cordel, Pooley, Seckford, Quarles, &c. The descendants of this branch of the family are still residing in that part of the county.

In 1516, James Brewster, said to be of a gentleman's family, and supposed to have belonged to the Hedingham branch, was burnt for Lollardy at Smithfield.

In 1655, John Brewster was a member of the parliament committee formed for the preservation of the peace of the county of Essex.

There was also a branch of the family in Kent, which, in the reign of ELIZABETH, owned much land in the parishes of Luddenham, Linstead, Lenham, Ospringe, and other parishes in the county.

Another settled in Northamptonshire, and in the reign of CHARLES I. owned the manor of Welford and other lands there.

Of the parent stem exist, also, branches in the county of Durham, in Scotland, and in Ireland. The Scottish line has produced that distinguished philosopher, Sir David Brewster, and the Irish is represented by Abraham Brewster, Esq., Q.C., of Merriam-square, Dublin.

Another branch was established in the United States by William Brewster, a man of some distinction, the ruling elder and spiritual guide of the Pilgrim Fathers who, in 1620, went out to America to avoid the religious persecutions to which they were exposed, and were the founders of New England.

BRODIE OF BRODIE.

BRODIE, WILLIAM, Esq. of Brodie, in Morayshire, b. 2 July, 1799; m. 27 Nov. 1838, Elizabeth, third dau. of Colonel Hugh Baillie, M.P. Mr. Brodie s. his grandfather 17 Jan. 1824, and is lord-lieutenant of Nairnshire.

Tincage.

This surname, a local one, was taken from a hollow, in Gaelic, Brothie, situated near Dyke, in the province of Moray. "The antiquity of this family," says SHAW, in his account of Moray, "appeareth from this, that no history, record, or tradition, doth so much as hint, that any other family or name possessed the lands of Brodie before them, or that they came as strangers from another country. I incline much to think that they were originally of the ancient Moravians, and were one of those loyal tribes to whom King MALCOLM IV. gave lands about the year 1160, when he transplanted the Moray rebels." The old writings of the family were mostly carried away or destroyed, when Lord Leurs Gordon, afterwards (third) Marquis of Huntly, burnt Brodie House, in 1645. From

MALCOLM, Thane of Brodie, living temp. King ALEXANDER III., descended*

DAVID BRODIE, of Brodie, (son of Alexander Brodie, of Brodie,) who was contracted to Janet, the youngest sister of his stepmother, dau. of John Hay, of Lochloy and Park, heir male of the baronial family of Tullybody, Fouch, the Forest of Boyne, &c. Her mother, Janet, was dau. of William Sutherland, of Duffus, descended from the Earls of Sutherland, and ancestor to Lord Duffus. The charter to himself and Janet Hay, his future spouse, of the above date, was confirmed 8 Feb. 1583-4. From Alexander, the second son, descend the BRODIES OF LETHEN. The eldest son,

DAVID BRODIE, of Brodie, was served heir of his father David, 26 Oct. 1626, and had sasine, 24 June, 1627. He also had a sasine as heir to his grandfather, Alexander, 6 June, 1632, and he d. 22 Sept. in the same year. According to his son's diary, he was b. in 1586, and was aged forty-six when he died. He m. before 1616, Katherine, dau. of Mr. Thomas Dunbar, of Grange, Dean of Moray, by Grizel Crichton, his wife, sister to the Admirable Crichton, dau. of Mr. Robert Crichton, of Ellick and Cluny, advocate to Queen MARY, by Elizabeth Stewart, sister to Lord Down. She survived David, (and m. 2ndly, Alexander Dunbar, of Westfield, sheriff of Moray, who was then a minor, according to a settlement, but of age 5 July, 1638, and he d. without issue in 1646.) They had three sons and one dau., viz., ALEXANDER, his heir; JOSEPH, of Aslisk, whose son, GEORGE, s. to Brodie; William; and Elizabeth, m. in 1634, to Colin Campbell, Esq. The eldest son, ALEXANDER BRODIE, of Brodie, styled Lord Brodie, as a senator of the College of Justice, was b. 25 July, 1617, was sent into England in 1628, and returned in 1632, when he s. and was served heir to his father David, 19 May, 1636, being of age by dispensation of the lords of council. He wrote the famous diary, which gives a very full and curious account of his life, and shews him to have been a man of piety and talent. He m. 28 Oct. 1635, Elizabeth Innes, widow of John Urquhart, of Craigston, tutor of Cromarty, who d. 30 Nov. 1634, dau. of Sir Robert Innes, Bart. of Innes, by Lady Grizel Stewart, dau. of James, the bonny Earl of Moray, and granddau. of the Regent. She d. 12 Aug. 1640, leaving only two children,

I. JAMES, heir to his father.

II. Grizel, who m. 7 Sept. 1654, Sir Robert Dunbar, Knt., of Grangehill.

Lord Brodie d. in 1679; his diary was published in 1740. His son and successor,

JAMES BRODIE, of Brodie, b. 15 Sept. 1637, who m. in 1659, Lady Mary Ker, dau. of William, third Earl of Lothian. The Laird of Brodie was fined 24,000*l.* in 1685. He made his will 25 Sept. 1704, and d. in March, 1708, leaving his wife surviving. He had no son, but nine daus., viz.,

I. ANNE, m. 2 Oct. 1679, to William, 12th Lord Forbes, who d. in 1716; she had 20,000 marks tocher.

II. KATHERINE, m. to her cousin-german, Robert Dunbar, of Grangehill, and was dead before 1701, when her husband was married again.

III. ELIZABETH, m. to Alexander Cumming, of Altyre.

IV. GRIZEL, m. 12 Nov. 1685, to Robert Dunbar, of Dunphail, who was dead in 1717.

V. EMILIA, m. 16 Dec. 1692, to her father's cousin-german and successor, GEORGE BRODIE, of Aslisk, afterwards of Brodie, and carried on the family.

VI. MARGARET, m. 8 Nov. 1698, to her father's cousin-german, JAMES BRODIE, of Whitehill, brother of the preceding.

VII. VERA, m. to Joseph Brodie, of Muirhouse, and was dead in 1693, when he married again.

VIII. LILIAS, m. 1st, to Mr. Patrik Cuming, chirurgion at Inverness; 2ndly, 16 Aug. 1708, to Robert Chivez, of Muirtown.

IX. Henrietta, d. unm.

Of these, Emilia, Margaret, Liliass, Ann, Elizabeth, and Grizel, are mentioned as all daus. and heirs of line and executors to the deceased James Brodie, of that ilk, in a decret at Edinburgh, 1 Feb. 1717. He was s. by his cousin,

GEORGE BRODIE (son of Joseph Brodie, of Aslisk, and grandson of David Brodie, of Brodie), who s. his brother David in Aslisk, in 1683, and his cousin-german and father-in-law, James, in the barony of Brodie, in 1708. He had a charter as heir to his said cousin in the estate of Penick, 14 Aug. 1696. He m. (contract 16 Dec. 1692) Emilia, fifth dau. and co-heir of James Brodie, of Brodie, by Lady Mary Ker, and d. before 6 Jan. 1716, leaving by her, who survived, three sons,

I. JAMES, his heir.

II. ALEXANDER, who s. his brother. III. Joseph.

I. Henrietta, m. 9 April, 1714, John Sinclair, of Ulhster, in Caithness, grandfather by her to the Right Hon. Baronet of that name.

II. Ann, m. to George Monro, of Novar, in Ross-shire.

JAMES BRODIE, of Brodie, the eldest son and heir, d. young, in 1720, and was s. by his brother,

ALEXANDER BRODIE, of Brodie, who was b. 17 Aug. 1697, appointed Lord Lyon of Scotland in 1727, and d. in 1754. By his wife, Mary Sleigh, b. 3 Oct. 1704, and m. to him 3 Sept. 1724, he had only one son, ALEXANDER, his heir, and one dau., Emilia, b. 30 April, 1730, who m. John, son and heir of Normand Macleod, of Macleod. The only son, ALEXANDER BRODIE, of Brodie, b. 29 May, 1741, s. his father in 1754, d. unm. in 1759, and was s. by his second cousin,

JAMES BRODIE, of Brodie, son of James Brodie, of Spynie, and grandson of James Brodie, of Whitehill, brother of George Brodie, of Brodie, who d. in 1716. This gentleman, lord-lieut. of the county of Nairn, was b. 31 Aug. 1744, and m. 6 March, 1768, to Lady Margaret Duff, youngest dau. of William, first Earl of Fife, by Jean, dau. of Sir James Grant, Bart. of Grant. The lady was burnt to death at Brodie House, 24 April, 1786, and he d. 17 Jan. 1824, leaving two sons and three daus.,

I. JAMES, who was in the civil service of the East India Company, at Madras, where he was drowned in his father's lifetime, leaving, by Ann, his wife, dau. of Colonel Story, (who m. 2ndly, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Thomas Bowser, K.C.B.,) two sons and five daus., viz.,

1. WILLIAM, successor to his grandfather.

2. George, in the Madras cavalry, d. in 1826.

1. Margaret, d. unm. in 1826.

2. Jane, m. 10 June, 1823, to Francis-Whitworth Russell, Esq., of the Bengal civil service, third son of the Right Hon. Sir Henry Russell, Bart., Lord Chief Justice of India, by Ann-Barbara, his wife, sister and co-heir of Charles, Earl of Whitworth, and has issue.

3. Charlotte, m. in 1822, to Edward-Humphrey Woodcock, Esq., of the Madras civil service, and has issue.

4. Isabella, m. in 1821, to Archibald-Erskine Patullo, Esq., captain in the Madras cavalry, who d. leaving issue.

5. Louisa, m. in 1825, to Hugh-Calveley Cotton, Esq., captain Madras engineers, and has issue.

II. William-Douglass, consul in Spain, who d. at Madras, 14 Aug. 1826.

I. Jane-Ann-Catherine.

II. Margaret, m. to Lieut.-Col. Colquhoun Grant, of the 54th. They both d. in India, leaving one son.

III. Charlotte, m. to Colonel Keith Macalister, who left her a widow with one son.

James Brodie, of Brodie, d. 17 Jan. 1824, and was s. by his grandson, the present WILLIAM BRODIE, of Brodie, the representative of one of the most ancient houses in the empire.

* From a younger branch of Brodie of Brodie, derives the present SIR BENJAMIN-C. BRODIE, Bart.

BUCHANAN-HAMILTON OF SPITTAL, LENY, AND BARDOWIE.

BUCHANAN-HAMILTON, JOHN, Esq. of Spittal, co. Dumbarton, Leny, co. Perth, and Bardowie, co. Stirling, Chief of the clan Buchanan, b. 14 Feb. 1822; m. 9 July, 1845, Margaret, youngest dau. of the late George Seton, Esq., of the family of Cariston, (see SETON OF CARISTON, vol. ii.) and has a dau., Margaret-Seton.

Lineage.

Buchanan of that ilk.

The reputed progenitor of the family of Buchanan was BUEY ANSELAN, (or Absalon,) son of O'Kyan,* King of Ulster, in Ireland, who, having been concerned in a massacre of the Danes, at Limerick, in the beginning of the 11th century, was compelled to abandon his native country and take refuge in Scotland, (circa 1016,) where he lent his assistance in repelling his enemies the Danes, and received from King MALCOLM II. a grant of land for his services. Tradition further asserts that the Scottish monarch assigned him as a coat of arms, "In a field, or, a lion, rampant, sable, armed and langued, gules, holding in his dexter paw a crooked sword, proper," which continued to be the bearing of the family till the battle of Beaugé, anno 1421, when an augmenta-

* The O'Kyan, O'Neils, O'Briens, and many other ancient Irish families, are generally supposed to be originally descended from the sons of MILEIUS, King of Galicia, in Spain, who first planted the Gathellians or Scots in Ireland, and term themselves, in their native language, "Clanna Miley," or Mileian progeny.

tion took place, as afterwards mentioned. This Anselan O'Kyan is reported to have married the heiress of the estate of Buchanan, named Denniestoun; but it appears more probable that the lands of Buchanan formed a part of the royal grant. He was s. by his son,

JOHN, 2nd Laird of Buchanan, who is said to have received a charter of the Westernmans of Buchanan, from the 1st Earl of Lennox. His son and successor was,

ANSELAN, 3rd Laird of Buchanan, who was s. by his son,

WALTER, 4th Laird of Buchanan. This Walter left a son,

GIRALD, (or BERNARD,) 5th Laird of Buchanan, who was father of MACBEATH, 6th Laird of Buchanan. This name (Macbeath) was formerly of frequent occurrence among the family of the Macaustlans, whose descent from the house of Buchanan is shown at page 791 of this work. The son and successor of Macbeath was ANSELAN, 7th Laird of Buchanan, who obtained from Malduin, Earl of Lennox, (anno 1225,) a charter of an island in Lochlomond, called "Clareinch," which word afterwards became the slughorn or war-cry of the family of Buchanan. This Anselan had three sons, METHLEN, ancestor of the MAC MILLANS; COLMAN, ancestor of the MAC COLMANS; and his successor,

GILBERT, 8th Laird of Buchanan, who was seneschal or chamberlain to the Earl of Lennox, (which office his father had also enjoyed,) and was the first of the family who assumed the surname of Buchanan. He was s. by his son,

SIR MAURICE BUCHANAN, 9th Laird of Buchanan, who left three sons,

- I. MAURICE (Sir), 10th Laird of Buchanan, of whom below.
- II. Allan, who m. the heiress of the family of Leny, or Lany, of that ilk, whose descent is traced in an old MS. pedigree, in the possession of the present proprietor of Leny, through twelve generations, from Gillespie Moir de Lany, who is supposed to have lived about the beginning of the 10th century. According to the same authority, the early proprietors of the estate of Leny were possessed of no charters, but carefully preserved a small sword and one of the teeth of St. Fillan, which two relics were held in such veneration, that whosoever succeeded in obtaining them was acknowledged to have a sufficient title to the demesne. The last lineal male descendant of the Buchanans of Leny was Henry, (circa 1723,) whose dau. and heiress, Catharine, m. Thomas Buchanan, of Spittal, as afterwards mentioned.
- III. John, ancestor of the BUCHANANS OF AUCHEIVEN.

The 9th laird was s. by his eldest son,

SIR MAURICE BUCHANAN, 10th Laird of Buchanan, in whose castle of Buchanan King ROBERT the Bruce is said to have taken refuge after his defeat, at Dalree, by Macdougal of Lorn. He left a son,

SIR WALTER BUCHANAN, 11th Laird of Buchanan, who made a considerable addition to his estate by the purchase of other lands. He was s. by his son,

JOHN BUCHANAN, who, although he d. before his father, is styled, in the history of the family, 12th Laird of Buchanan. This John, m. Janet, dau. and heiress of John Buchanan, of Leny, fourth in descent from Allan, already noticed, (as appears by a charter of King ROBERT III., bearing date, 1393,) and had three sons,

- I. Alexander (Sir), who slew the Duke of Clarence, brother of King HENRY V., at the battle of Beaugé, in 1421, in return for which heroic action he received from the Dauphin of France an augmentation to his armorial bearing, viz., A double tressure, flowered and counter-flowered; and for crest, A hand, coupée, holding a duke's coronet, within two laurel branches. He afterwards fell at the battle of Verneuil, (anno 1424,) unm.
- II. WALTER (Sir), who s. his father.
- III. John, who inherited the lands of LENY, and carried on that family.

The second son,

SIR WALTER BUCHANAN, 13th Laird of Buchanan, m. Isabel, dau. of Murdoch Stuart, Duke of Albany, and governor of Scotland, by whom (with a dau., m. to Gray, of Foulis, ancestor of Lord Gray) he had three sons,

- I. PATRICK, his successor.
- II. Maurice, treasurer to Lady Margaret, dau. of King JAMES I., and Dauphiness of France, with whom he left Scotland.
- III. Thomas, ancestor of the BUCHANANS OF CARBETH.

The eldest son,

PATRICK BUCHANAN, 14th Laird of Buchanan, m. the dau. and heiress of Galbraith of Killearn, Bamoir, &c., and (besides one dau., Anabella, who m. James Stuart, of Baldorrans, grandson of Murdoch, Duke of Albany) left two sons,

- i. WALTER, 15th laird.
- ii. Thomas, first of the BUCHANANS OF DRUMKILL, to which family belonged the celebrated Scottish poet and historian, George Buchanan.

The eldest son,

WALTER BUCHANAN, 15th Laird of Buchanan, m. the dau. of Lord Graham, by whom (with two daus., of whom the 1st m. Lamond of Lamond, and the 2nd, the Laird of Ardkinglass) he had two sons,

- i. PATRICK.
- ii. John, ancestor of the BUCHANANS OF ARNPYROR.

His eldest son,

PATRICK BUCHANAN, fell at the battle of Flodden, in 1513, during his father's lifetime; but in the history of the family he is called the 16th Laird of Buchanan. This Patrick m. a dau. of the Earl of Argyll, and (with two daus., m. to the Laids of Auchinbreck and Calder) had two sons,

- i. GEORGE, who s. his grandfather, and was 17th Laird of Buchanan, whose lineal male descendants failed, in 1682, in the person of John, 22nd and last Laird of Buchanan, when the representation of the family devolved on the head of the Buchanans of Auchmar,* which branch afterwards became extinct, as stated below.
- ii. Walter, the first of the family of SPITTAL, and ancestor of the present representative of the house of Buchanan.

Buchanan of Spittal.

This

WALTER BUCHANAN, was infeft in the Temple-lands of Easter Catter,† in 1519, on a precept of his father, specially designated, "Walterus† bucuhanane de codem." Besides this paternal inheritance, he acquired the lands of M'Ynno, or Macknoe, half the lands of Merkynch, and the lands of Blairvok, most of which were alienated at different periods by his descendants. He held the office of parish clerk of Killearn, an appointment which seems to have been of some consideration while the Roman-catholic religion predominated in Scotland, and which was continued in the family of Spittal, by new elections, during the two succeeding generations. He m. Isabel, dau. (or, perhaps, sister) of the 1st Earl of Glencairn, by whom he had a son,

EDWARD BUCHANAN,§ who s. his father, and in whose favour, George, 17th Laird of Buchanan, executed an absolute conveyance of the lauds of Spittal, which having been granted to Edward's father in life-rent only, had reverted to the chief family. He m. Christian, dau. of Galbraith of Culcruch, (alii Portnellane,) by whom he had two sons, George, and his successor,

ROBERT BUCHANAN, who m. Margaret Galbraith, (or, according to Auchmar's history, the dau. of Lawson of Boghall,) and left two sons, Andrew, and

WALTER BUCHANAN, who s. his father, and m. 1st, Jean, dau. of Stirling of Craigharnet, and 2ndly, Margaret Lawson, (according to Auchmar, he m. the dau. of Galbraith of Balgair.) In 1593, he was infeft in the lands of Gartquhorran, on a precept by Ludovic, second Duke of Lennox. He left two sons, Walter, and his successor,

EDWARD BUCHANAN, who m. 1st, Helen, dau. of

* The founder of the family of AUCHMAR was William, son of George, 17th Laird of Buchanan, by his second marriage.

† The Temple-lands of Easter Catter, or (as they were frequently called) Spittal of Easter Catter, or simply Spittal, anciently belonged to the Knights Templars, on the suppression of which order, in 1312, their possessions were given to the Knights of St. John of Jerusalem, who were governed by the commendator or preceptor of Torphichen, and whose chief establishment in Scotland was designed the hospital of Torphichen. Hence Spittal, i.e., hospital; and temple, i.e., Templar-land, are used indiscriminately.

‡ In Auchmar's history of the family, (which is exclusively followed in the first part of this genealogy,) the father of Walter, first of the Spittal branch, is stated to have been Patrick, who fell at the battle of Flodden, whereas, in the elaim of Dr. Francis Buchanan-Hamilton, (published in 1826, and afterwards alluded to,) he is called Walter. It is not improbable that some mistake in the names arose from the fact of the Patrick (mentioned by Auchmar) having d. before his father, whose name was Walter.

§ Another generation is here inserted in Auchmar's account of the family. The son of Walter, first of Spittal, is there stated to have been John, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Cunningham of Drumquahassle, and was father of Edward.

Edmonstone of Balleun, by whom he had two sons, JAMES; and John, captain in the regiment of George, Laird of Buchanan, killed at the battle of Inverkeithing. He m. 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of John Buchanan, of Ross, by whom (with one dau., m. to Cunningham of Triubeg) he had two sons, Robert and Edward. His eldest son,

JAMES BUCHANAN, d. before his father, having m. the dau. of John Buchanau, of Cashlie, by whom he had five sons, EDWARD, John (Capt.), Archibald, (Capt.), Andrew, and Walter; of whom the eldest,

EDWARD BUCHANAN, s. his grandfather, and m. Christian, dau. of the Rev. Thomas Mitchell, minister of Kilmaronock, by whom (with two daus.) he had two sons,

- i. JOHN, his heir,
- ii. Thomas, who m. a dau. of Napier of Ballachairn, and had by her a dau., Christina, m. to Mr. Thomas Napier, of Glasgow; and a son, John, M.D., who m. the dau. of Sir Archibald Primrose, Bart., and had a dau., Susan.

The elder son and successor,

JOHN BUCHANAN, m. Margaret, dau. of Patrick Muirhead, of Rashie Mill, and relict of Robert Buchanan, of Arnprior, and had issue a dau., Christian, m. to Robert Buchanan, of Leny; and three sons, i. ROBERT, Col-Commandant of Dundas's regiment of Scots-Dutch, who s. his father, but d. s. p.; ii. PETER, who m. Agnes, 2nd dau. of James Hamilton, of Hutchison, but d. s. p.; and, iii. THOMAS, of whose line we have to treat. This

THOMAS BUCHANAN, an officer in the Dutch service, m. 1st, Catharine, dau. of Henry Buchanan, of Leny,* (the last lineal male representative of that family,) whereby the estate of Leny came into this family; and 2ndly, Elizabeth, youngest dau. of John Hamilton, of Bardowie, whence the estate of Bardowie was acquired. The children of this marriage and their descendants are mentioned below, under the account of the HAMILTONS OF BARDOWIE.

Hamilton of Bardowie.

The origin of this ancient family appears to be involved in considerable obscurity. According to Anderson, in his "Memoirs of the House of Hamilton," it was founded by John, youngest son of Sir David de Hamilton, Lord of Cadyow, (who is said to have m. Johanetta de Keith, of Galston,) and great-great grandson of Sir Walter de Hamilton (1294), whose father, Gilbert, is usually asserted to have been the first of the Leicestershire Hamiltons who settled in the northern kingdom. The descent of the English family of Hamilton is deduced, by the most respectable authorities, from the Norman Earls of Mellent, one of whom accompanied WILLIAM the Conqueror to England, and afterwards received a grant of territories and the title of Earl of Leicester from King HENRY I.

Dr. Francis Buchanan-Hamilton, however, (father of the present representative of the family of Bardowie,) in his "Memoirs of the House of Hamilton, corrected," maintains, on the authority of authentic family charters, that the first of the Hamiltons of Bardowie on record was a DAVID DE HAMILTONE, of Dalscrf and Bothernok, who m. Joneta de Keith, and left a son and heir,

JOHN DE HAMILTON, of Bothernok, (or Bardowie,) from whom Dr. Hamilton was lineally descended. There appears to be no proof in existence of the descent of this David de Hamyltone, whom some genealogists, without any hesitation, identify with the Sir David, Lord of Cadyow, already alluded to. In connexion with this subject, Dr. Hamilton elsewhere observes, that "he would consider himself as honoured by being able to trace his mother's descent from the ducal family of Hamilton, but he has no desire to claim honours to which he is not entitled."

Twelfth in descent from John de Hamilton, of Bothernok, or Bardowie, (son of David,) was

JOHN HAMILTON, of Bardowie, who m. about 1704,

* The founder of the branch of Leny, as mentioned above, was Allan, second son of Sir Maurice, 9th Laird of Buchanan, who m. the heiress of Leny, from whom was descended Henry Buchanan, (circa 1723,) of Leny, the last lineal male representative of that family, and father of Catharine, who m. Thomas Buchanan, of Spittal, as stated above. In a genealogical MS. of the family of Leny, it is said that the early proprietors of the estate were possessed of no charters, but carefully preserved a large sword and one of the teeth of St. Fillan, which two relics were held in such veneration, that whosoever succeeded in obtaining them was acknowledged to have a sufficient title to the domain.

Marion, dau. of Robert Buchanan, of Arnpryor, by whom he had four sons and three daus.,

- I. JOHN, his successor, d. unm. in 1739.
- II. ROBERT, s. his brother, and d. without issue.
- III. JAMES, } both of whom d. in Jamaica, unm., and were
- IV. FRANCIS, } the last male descendants of this family.
- I. Katharine, } d. s. p.
- II. Mary, m. to James Brown, of Monkton, }
- III. ELIZABETH, m. Thomas Buchanan, of Spittal and Leny, of whom afterwards.

The four brothers having d. without issue, in 1757, the daus. were served heir-portioners, and of the line, to their brother Robert; of these, Katharine and Mary having also d. s. p., the succession devolved upon,

ELIZABETH, who m. (as above) THOMAS BUCHANAN, of Spittal and Leny, and left (with two daus., Elizabeth, m. 1st, to Robert Grabame, of Gartmore, and 2ndly, to Robert Fairfoul, of Strowie; and Marion, m. to J.-H.-S. Crawford, of Cowdonhill) five sons,

- I. Henry Buchanan, d. unm.
- II. JOHN BUCHANAN, who s. to the estate of Bardowie, and took the name of Hamilton. He m. Margaret, eldest dau. of Sir Hew Crawford, of Jordanhill, and Robina Pollock, representative of the Pollocks of that ilk, and d. without issue.
- III. ROBERT HAMILTON-BUCHANAN, a lieut. in the Royal North British Fusiliers, m. Cornelia, dau. of Commodore Tinker, and d. leaving a son, Robert Hamilton-Buchanan, capt. in the 24th regt. Native infantry, who d. before his uncle, John.
- IV. FRANCIS BUCHANAN, (of whom below,) s. his brother, John, and assumed the name of Hamilton.
- V. Peter Buchanan, capt. in the 23rd regt. of Fusiliers, d. unm.

The fourth son,

FRANCIS BUCHANAN-HAMILTON, M.D., of Bardowie, Spittal, and Leny, author of "An Account of Nepaul," and other works on India, m. Miss Broek, by whom he had one son and one dau.,

JOHN, the present representative.
Catharine, d. in 1839, unm.

In 1826, he was served nearest lawful heir-male to his uncle, Robert Buchanan, of Spittal; and the direct line of male succession of the family of Buchanan of that ilk having failed in 1682, and the branch of Auchmar being also extinct, in default of collaterals of later origin, he established his claim to be Chief of the clan Buchanan, as heir-male of Walter, first of the family of Spittal. He d. in 1829.

ii. RICHARD.

The second son,

RICHARD BULKELEY, of Parwich, obtained by marriage with Joanna, eldest dau. of Richard Shirard, or Sherratt,* of Stanlow and Cheddleton, co. Stafford, the estate of Stanlow, and was ancestor of the Bulkeleys of that place. He was living 21 EDWARD IV., 1471, and was s. by his son and heir,

RICHARD BULKELEY, Esq. of Stanlow, who, during his father's lifetime, is stated to have been of wild and dissipated habits, and to have had the misfortune to kill one of the family of Lockwood of Lockwood, in a duel. The rencontre is traditionally stated to have taken place on the summit of a hill, named Ladder Edge, between Stanlow and Leek. The parties were justices of the peace, and had been at Leek market, acting as magistrates, and on returning home a quarrel ensued on the road, when dismounting their horses, and giving them to their servants to hold, they fought a duel on the roadside. For this act Richard Bulkeley was obliged to obtain pardon of King EDWARD IV., which cost his family much trouble and great expense. He had issue, by Cecilia, his wife, and was s. by his son and heir,

HUMPHREY BULKELEY, Esq. of Stanlow, who m. Joanna, dau. of William Egerton, of Wallgrange, (a cadet of the Egertons of Wrinehill, of the family of Lord Bridgewater,) and had issue,

III. Alexander (Sir), lieutenant-colonel, C.B., F.R.S., b. 16 May, 1805, joined the Bombay army, along with his brother James, 31 Oct. 1821, and, after a career of brilliant services, fell at Cabool, 2 Nov. 1841. Humboldt pronounced him, "le premier des voyageurs," and his journey into Bokhara "l'immense et courageux voyage." The Geographical Societies of France and England, each awarded to him their medal for great geographical discoveries, and the Asiatic Society of Paris, in addressing him, declared, "Vous avez tracé sur la portion peut-être le plus obscure de l'Asie, une ligne lumineuse." He received the Cross of the Bath for his services at the capture of Ghizni in 1839, and knighthood by patent, with the rank of lieutenant-colonel, for his eminently successful diplomatic negotiations. He d. unm.

IV. David, physician in London, late R.N., b. 6 Sept. 1806, m. Harriet, dau. of Dr. Anderson, of Brompton, and has issue.

V. Charles, lieutenant, b. 12 Jan. 1812, shared his brother Sir Alexander's fate at Cabool, 2 Nov. 1841.

II. Elizabeth, m. Major-General R. Whish, of Clifton, and has issue.

III. Jane-Glegg, m. Major James Holland, deputy-quarter-master-general, and has issue.

IV. Cecilia, m. Capt. P. Major, and d. 16 Oct. 1840, (having only survived her husband a few days,) leaving one son, Francis-Ward.

Mr. Burnes is a magistrate and substitute-sheriff in Forfarshire, and is described in the Bombay memoir of his son, the late Sir Alexander, as a former Provost of Montrose, also Town-Clerk or Recorder, who has for forty years taken a leading part in all the agricultural and municipal improvements in the district.

Lineage.

The name of Burnes is mentioned in a bull of Pope NICHOLAS IV. to King EDWARD I., dated 1290, in which his holiness acknowledges letters brought to him from England, "quas delecti filii Johannes de Burnes miles, et Gulielmus de Lincolnia, tui nuncii, presentarunt." In a writ of privy seal by King JAMES V., dated Stirling, 1528, there is also a Johnne Burness described as having been "art and part of the convocation and gadering of our lieges in arrayit battell against umqll Johnne Erle of Caithness." But the Lord Lyon's patent of arms to the present family recites clearly its descent from "Walter Campbell, of Burnhouse, who fled to the north country during the civil wars in the seventeenth century, and who, losing the name of Campbell, became known by that of Burnhouse, corrupted by his descendants into Burness, Burnes, and Burns." This statement rests on the unimpeachable testimony, communicated about the year 1785, of the Rev. Alexander Greig, episcopal minister at Stonehaven, then a very old man, whose mother was one of the granddaughters of the said Walter's son. Walter of Burnhouse himself appears to have been the son of George Campbell and Margaret McLellan, his wife, to whom conjointly sasine was granted in February, 1627, of a property named Burne, in Ayrshire, on the resignation of the London family. He fled from the vengeance of the house of Argyle, which he had opposed in the civil contentions, accompanied by his only son, a second WALTER, then a boy, and settled in the secluded parish of Glenbervie, in Kincardineshire, where dying in depressed circumstances, he was s. by WALTER, who in time so far retrieved the fortunes of the family by his industry, as to be enabled to take the farm of Bogjorgan, where he died, leaving four sons,

- i. William, m. Christian Fotheringham, and d. in 1715, at Glenbervie, leaving issue, (besides daus.,) William, m. Elspet Taylor, and d. in 1748, leaving William, who m. Helen Thomson, at Drumlithie, and d. in 1784, leaving a son, John.
- ii. Robert, } settled in the parish of Benholm, on the coast
- iii. John, } of Kincardineshire.
- iv. James, at Brawlmuir, from whom descend the poet, Robert Burns, and Mr. Burnes, of Montrose. He m. May Falconer, and d. at Glenbervie, in 1730, having had issue, (besides two daus.,)
 1. James, at Brawlmuir, d. s. p.
 2. ROBERT, at Kinmonth, of whom hereafter.
 3. George, at Elfhill of Fetteresso.
 4. William, at Hawkhill of Glenbervie.

All these were substantial leaseholders in the Mearns, early in the eighteenth century, before their participation in the rebellion of 1715 covered them with irretrievable ruin. But it is to Robert at Kinmonth, his grandfather, and George at Elfhill, that the poet particularly alludes, when he says, "My ancestors rented lands of the noble Keiths Marischall, and had the honour of sharing their fate. I mention this, because it threw my father on the world at large." * "They followed boldly where their leaders led, and welcomed ruin, and shook hands with infamy, for what they believed to be the cause of their God and their king."* The lands referred to were held by Robert at Dunnottar, and George at Fetteresso, both on the domains of George Keith, the tenth and last Earl Marischall, who, at the head of his retainers, proclaimed the Pretender, King of Great Britain, 28 Sept. 1715, at the market-cross of the neighbouring city of Aberdeen; and again, in December following, at the gate of his own house at Fetteresso, where that unfortunate prince and his general, the Earl of Mar, were then his guests; and who, after fighting bravely at the battle of Sheriffmuir, and maintaining the struggle in Scotland for the Stuarts so late as 1720, finally relinquished his all to join the fortunes of the exiled house on the Continent. Robert of Kinmonth had, besides daus., three sons,

- ii. Robert, d. at Ellisland, in Ayrshire, in 1789.
- iii. William, the father of the Poet, m. in 1757, Agnes Brown, and d. in Ayrshire, in 1784.

While Robert and William emigrated southward, James settled at Montrose, in the archives of which burgh he appears as a burgess and counsellor. He d. in 1763, leaving,

- i. Elizabeth, m. G. Hudson, Esq., provost of Inverbervie, and had issue.

* These passages, in his letter to Dr. Moore, of 2 Aug. 1787, were suppressed by Dr. Currie, at the desire of Gilbert Burns, who fancied them an imputation on the family loyalty, but they are repeated nearly in the same words in the poet's letter to Lady Winifred Maxwell Constable, dated 16 Dec. 1789, published in the recent editions of his works.

Arms—Parted, per saltier, az., and gyrony of eight, or and sa., in chief a wounded lion, couchant, arg., pierced by a spear behind, gu., his head resting on a shield, gyrony of eight, as above, in base, a holly-bush, or, surmounted by a crook and bugle-horn, saltierwise, arg., with the addition (allusive of the Guelphic Order, and to the "public and meritorious services" of the two brothers in India) of, on a chief, gu., within a bordure, arg., the white horse of Hanover, between two eastern gold crowns. [Sic, in the Lord Lyon's patent, and in the Herald's College, London, but it appears that the lion, couchant, is dispensed with by some members of the family, who bear instead thereof, the crook and bugle-horn in chief.]

Lineage.

The name of Burnett is of Norman origin, and was, of old, variously written Burneville, Burnetvilla, and Burnet. It is generally supposed that the first of this family settled in Peeblesshire about the year 1100, when Henry, the youngest son of WILLIAM the Conqueror, was married to Matilda, dau. of EDGAR, King of Scotland. The earliest record in which the name is known to occur, is a charter of foundation, granted prior to 1128, by Earl David, afterwards King DAVID I., to the abbey of Selkirk, in which "Robertus de Burnet-villa miles," is one of the witnesses. "Robert de Burneville," and his son, of the same name, (descendants of the former Robert,) are witnesses to a charter by Patriek, 1st Earl of March, to the monastery of Coldingham, dated at the camp at Dunbar, 24 May, 1367. There is a mortification of a chaplainry of the Holyrood altar, in the Kirk of St. Gordian, or Gorgan of Meimer, and diocese of Glasgow, by "John Burnet, of that ilk," dated 29 Dec. 1400, which chaplainry he enriches with the rents of some tenements of lands, which belonged to him, in the town of Peebles.

In direct descent from the first-mentioned Robert was, — BURNET, who m. about the middle of the fifteenth century, Mariot, dau. of George Caverhill, of that ilk, and was father of

JOHN BURNET, of Burnetland, or that ilk, who m. 1st, Sibilla Veitch; 2ndly, Mariot, dau. of Inglis of Murdistoun, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM BURNET, designed "of Barnes," who m. Elizabeth Veitch, probably of the family of Dawick, by whom he had (with two daus., Agnes, m. to Thomas Sandilands, of Bold; and Marian) three sons,

* The question of the chieftainship, which was long disputed by the Burnets of Leys, (Barts.,) in the north, was finally settled in favour of the family of Barnes, during the lifetime of the present Mr. Burnett's grandfather.

WILLIAM, his heir.

John.

Thomas.

He d. in the year 1564, and was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM BURNET, of Barns, who m. Isobell Hay, of the family of Locharret, and had issue, (with two daus., Isobell; and Janet, m. to Adam, grandson of William Rutherford, of Kidheugh,) three sons,

WILLIAM, his successor.

Thomas.

Gavin.

The eldest of whom,

WILLIAM BURNET, of Barns, was served heir to his father in 1574. He is said to have stood six feet four inches in height, to have been possessed of great bodily strength, and to have lived to the advanced age of 107. Like most of his neighbours, he was engaged in frequent forays into England, and was greatly famed for his talents as a nocturnal leader, which procured for him the soubriquet of the "Howlet of Barns." Many anecdotes, illustrative of his adventures, are still extant in Peeblesshire. He m. Margaret Stewart, (of the family of Stewart, now Earl of Traquair,) and had seven sons and two daus.,

i. JOHN, who predeceased his father, having m. 1st, Margaret, dau. of Simon Scot, of Bonnington, by whom he had two sons,

1. WILLIAM, afterwards of Barns.

2. John, of Kailzie, who m. 1st, Helen, dau. of James Baillie, of Hillis, by whom he had issue, (with two daus., Margaret, m. to James Lockhart, writer in Edinburgh; and Marie,) two sons, WILLIAM, of Kailzie, and afterwards of Barns, of whom below.

James, shipmaster in Leith, m. Miss Alison Gibson, by whom he had a dau., Alison, who m. James Dundas.

John Burnet, of Kailzie, m. 2ndly, Grizel Menzies, of Culterallers, and had issue a dau., Helen, m. to James Douglas, of Muriesdykes, second son of James Douglas, of Baads.

ii. Alexander, advocate, and treasurer-clerk of Scotland, first of the family of Carlops. He m. Margaret Hay, and was s. by his son, Alexander Burnet, of Carlops, and he, by Archibald Burnet, who was implicated in the risings in 1715; he, with about 200 armed Jacobites, was defeated by the Earl of Islay in an attempt to seize the town-guard of Edinburgh. Mr. Burnet was ultimately taken at the battle of Preston, and tried with many others of the Scotch gentry, at Liverpool, and executed there, 28 Jan. following.

iii. James, minister of Lauder, co. Berwick, and father of Alexander Burnet, Archbishop of St. Andrews, to which see he was translated from Glasgow after the murder of Archbishop Sharp. Archbishop Burnet d. 24 Aug. 1684, aged 80, leaving a dau., Ann, who was m. to Patrick, 3rd Lord Elibank, one of the lords of the privy council of King JAMES VII.

iv. Robert, writer to the signet, supposed to have been proprietor of Little Ormiston.

v. William, probably of Cringletie, also a clerk to the signet.

vi. Thomas.

vii. Gavin, writer to the signet, m. Helen Ramsay, by whom he had issue, four sons and one dau., Robert, commissary of Peebles, m. to Elizabeth Cockburn; David; James; William; and Isobell.

i. Christian, m. to John Scott, of Handleshope, second son of Scott of Eskdale and Thirlstane, by his wife, a dau. of Johnstone of that ilk, afterwards Marquis of Anandale.

ii. Agnes, m. to James Nasmyth, of Posso, member of the Scottish parliament in 1627, sberiff of the co. Peebles, and predecessor of the present Sir John.

The "Howlet of Barns" was s. about the year 1645, by his grandson,

WILLIAM BURNETT, of Barns and Bonnington, who was appointed by King CHARLES I., in 1639, to the offices of treasurer-clerk, comptroller, collector, and treasurer of the temporality of kirk lands annexed to the crown, &c. &c., vacant by the resignation of Alexander Burnet, his uncle; and again, in 1661, after the Restoration, he was re-appointed and confirmed in these offices by King CHARLES II. By his lady, Christian, second dau. of Dr. Walter Whitford, Bishop of Brechin, a younger son of Whitford of that ilk, he had (with six daus., i. Henrietta, m. to John Stewart, writer in Edinburgh; ii. Christian, m. 1st, to the Rev. William McGie, minister at Aberledie, and 2ndly, to the Rev. Robert Cheyne; iii. Agnes; iv. Marie, m. to the Rev. Andrew Naughten, minister at Storie, and afterwards in England; v. Margaret; and, vi. Anna) two sons,

WILLIAM, afterwards of Barns.

Walter, an officer in the army, killed in Flanders.

The Laird of Barns d. about the year 1682, and was s. by his eldest son,

WILLIAM BURNETT, of Barns, who was originally destined for the profession of the law, but eventually joined the army, went abroad in 1687, and was severely wounded at the battle of Steenkerke, in consequence of which he d. at Brussels, in Nov. 1692. Captain Burnett was s. by his cousin,

WILLIAM BURNETT, of Barns, eldest son of John Burnett, of Kailzie, who m. 1st, in 1663, Jean, eldest dau. of Robert Chancellor, of Shieldhill, co. Lanark, a faithful adherent of the house of Stuart, but by her had no issue. He m. 2ndly, Jean, dau. of James Baillie, of St. John's Kirk, (descended from the family of Lamington,) and relict of John Murray, of Glenwrath, (brother of Sir William Murray, of Stanhope,) and had (with a dau., Helen, m. to Robert Chisholm, collector of cess for the county of Peebles, second son of Chisholm of Hairhope) two sons, JAMES, afterwards of Barns.

John, in Glenwrath, who m. Lillias, dau. of William Russel, of Ashiesteel, co. Selkirk, and had two daus., Jean, and Elizabeth, m. to James Robertson, of Currie.

William Burnett, of Barns, was s. at his death, in 1710, by his eldest son,

JAMES BURNETT, of Barns, b. in 1685, who m. in 1725, Anna, second dau. of John Veitch, of Dawick, Presenter of signatures in his Majesty's Exchequer, and son of Sir John Veitch, Knt. of Dawick, the head of one of the most ancient families in Tweeddale. They had issue (besides six other children who d. in infancy) three sons and five daus.,

i. William, d. 8 July, 1740, aged 9.

ii. JAMES, who s. his father.

iii. Charles, d. s. p. at Fortmarlboro', in 1777.

1. Margaret, m. to James Murray, surgeon in Edinburgh.

ii. Agnes. iii. Jean. iv. Violet. v. Anna.

He was s. in 1771, by his eldest surviving son,

JAMES BURNETT, of Barns, who m. in 1775, Janet, 2nd dau. of Mr. John Moir, merchant in Edinburgh, (of the Moirs of Lochend,) by whom he had two sons and six daus.,

i. JAMES, the present representative, who s. his father in the estate of Barns, which was alienated in 1838.

ii. William, m. Marjory Brown, of Newton, and had issue four sons and one dau., James, John, William, Patrick-Graham, and Marjory, who is deceased.

i. Clementina. ii. Ann. iii. Janet.

iv. John, m. to George Gardner, Esq., comptroller-general of his Majesty's Customs, in Scotland.

v. Violet, m. to Thomas Young, Esq., inspector-general of hospitals.

vi. Christian.

Arms—Arg., three holly-leaves, vert, and a chief, az.

Crest—A band, with a knife pruning a vine-tree, ppr.*

Motto—Virescit vulnere virtus.

BURTON OF SACKETT'S HILL HOUSE.

BURTON, SIR RICHARD, Knt. of Sackett's Hill House, co. Kent, b. 23 Nov. 1773; m. 27 April, 1802, Elizabeth, only dau. of the late Robert Crofts, Esq. of Dumpton House, Isle of Thanet, and has had issue,

i. JOHN, b. in 1804, m. in 1829, Mary-Helena, eldest dau. of Captain George Robinson, R.N., and dying in 1833, left one son and one dau., viz., RICHARD, b. in 1830; and Elizabeth-Ann.

ii. Richard, b. in 1805, captain 54th regiment of foot, d. in 1832.

iii. Robert, b. in 1807, m. in 1828, Mary, youngest dau. of the late Rev. Robert Rastall, Rector of Winthorpe, Notts, and has two sons, Robert-Heron, b. in 1829; and Richard Crofts, b. in 1833; and two daus.

iv. Francis, b. in 1809.

* It may be interesting to know that the crest and motto now used by the family of Burnett owes its origin to MARY Queen of Scots, and was probably intended to allude to her own unhappy condition. "When she was in England," says Bell, in his life of the Scottish Queen, "she embroidered for the Duke of Norfolk, a hand with a sword in it, cutting vines, with the motto, 'Virescit vulnere virtus.'"

v. Carr, b. in 1811, m. 16 Feb. 1843, Margaret, second dau. of the late W.-H. Dearsley, Esq. of Shinfield, Berks.

i. Frances-Sarah, m. in 1831, to Latham Osborn, Esq.
ii. Honor, m. in 1838, to Lieut. Alexander Brown, R.N.

Sir Richard Burton, who received the honour of knighthood in 1831, s. his father in 1809.

Lineage.

The early records having been destroyed during the civil wars of the reign of CHARLES I., the pedigree of this family can authentically be traced only as far back as JOHN BURTON, son of Arthur Burton, Esq. of Killing Hall, near Ripley, in Yorkshire, who was b. in the year 1628, and d. in 1715. He was father of

JOHN BURTON, Esq., b. in 1675, who m. 1st, Edith Meager, and 2ndly, Doreas, widow of Colonel Howe, and dau. of the Bishop of Peterborough. By both wives he had issue. He d. in 1755, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD BURTON, Esq., b. in 1718, colonel in the York militia, who m. in 1742, Frances Ward, of Stockholm, d. in 1792, and was s. by his eldest son,

SIR JOHN BURTON, Knt. of Wakefield, co. York, b. in 1744, who m. 1st, in 1770, Honor, dau. of John Harvey-Thursby, Esq. of Abington, in Northamptonshire (the descendant of an ancient family which claims to be of Saxon origin), by Honor, his wife, dau. of Robert Pigot, Esq. of Chetwynd, in Salop, and had, to survive infancy, an only son, RICHARD, his heir. He m. 2ndly, Philippa-Irham Forster, of Buxton Vale, near Alnwick, in Northumberland, and by her had a son, John, b. and d. in 1801, and a dau., Philippa-Frances. Sir John d. in 1809, and was s. by his son, the present SIR RICHARD BURTON, of Sackett's Hill House.

Arms—Sa., on a chev. between three owls, arg., ducally crowned, or, a mural crown, gu., between two wreaths of laurel, vert.

The third son,

ADMIRAL SIR BENJAMIN CALDWELL, G.C.B., b. 31 Jan. 1738-9, was educated in the Royal Naval Academy at Portsmouth, and fought under Boscawen, Hawke, Rodney, and Howe. For some years of the American Revolutionary war, he commanded the Emerald frigate, of 32 guns, on the coast of America, and in the West Indies, with great success against the enemy; and on his return to Europe, in charge of a valuable convoy, was appointed to the Hannibal of 50 guns, and despatched to St. Helena, to escort the homeward-bound Indiamen from thence. On arriving in England, he was removed to the Agamemnon, of 64 guns, and in her bore a very distinguished part in Lord Rodney's memorable defeat of the French fleet, under the Count de Grasse, off Guadeloupe, the 12th of April, 1782. During the armaments of 1787 and 1790, he commanded the Alcide and Berwick, 74-gun ships; and on the breaking out of the war in 1793, hoisted his flag as a rear-admiral on board the Impregnable, of 98 guns, in the fleet under Earl Howe, in which ship he greatly contributed towards the destruction of the enemy, in the glorious victory of the 1st of June, 1794, though, like the late Lord Collingwood, and some others, not honoured with a medal for his services on that day. He, however, was named in the thanks of both houses of parliament, and soon afterwards sailed for the West Indies, with six sail of 74-gun ships, where he relieved Earl St. Vincent, and continued as commander-in-chief on the Leeward Island station till superseded by Sir John Laforey, in June, 1795. From that date he never solicited employment, but in 1820, his gallant services were recognised, by the Grand Cross of the Bath being conferred upon him. He m. 7 June, 1784, Charlotte, dau. of Admiral Henry Oshorn, vice-admiral of England, (cousin of the late Sir George Osborn, of Chicksand, co. Bedford,) and by her (who d. 22 Sept. 1819) had issue, CALLANDER OF CRAIGFORTH AND ARDKINLAS.

CALLANDER, JAMES-HENRY, Esq. of Craigforth House, co. Stirling, and Ardkinlas Lodge, co. Argyll, b. 17 Aug. 1804; m. 1st, 29 Aug. 1837, the Hon. Jane-Plumer-Erskine, youngest dau. of David Montague, Lord Erskine, and by her (who d. 30 March, 1846) has three daus.,

Fanny-Jane. Mary-Hermione. Jane-Sevilla.

He m. 2ndly, 1 July, 1847, Edith, only dau. of John Campbell, Esq., brother of Walter-Frederick Campbell, Esq. of Islay. Mr. Callander s. to the Craigforth estate on the death of his father, 18 Feb. 1824, and to Ardkinlas on that of his grandfather, in May, 1831. He is a deputy-lieutenant for Stirlingshire, and represented the county of Argyll in the first Reformed parliament.

Lineage.

The Ardkinlas family is a cadet branch of the ancient house of Argyll, as appears, from a charter of Sir Duncan Campbell, of Lochow, of the lands of Auchingown, dated 6 May, 1428, "dilecto et fideli nepoti suo Joanni Campbell, filio et hæredi fratris sui Colin Campbell de Ardkinlas." Of Ardkinlas, the Campbells of Ardintennie, Dunoon, Carrick, Skipnish, Blythswood, Shawfield, Rachan, Achwillan, and Dergachy, are branches.

SIR COLIN CAMPBELL, 1st "Knight" of Ardkinlas, (surnamed "Oig," or Lesser,) flourished in 1375. The Ardkinlas family then continued for many generations as independent feudal chieftains, and were much mixed up in the political struggles of the troublous times of Scottish history. About the beginning of the 18th century,

SIR JAMES CAMPBELL, of Ardkinlas, m. 1st, Margaret Campbell, heiress of Gargunnoch, and by her had only one dau. Sir James m. 2ndly, Anne Callander, of Craigforth, (widow of Colonel Blackader,) but by her had no issue. In 1732, Sir James's eldest dau. and heiress, HELEN CAMPBELL, m. Sir James Livingstone, Bart. of Glentirran and Dalderse. A mutual agreement was then made to unite the estates, after the death of Sir James Campbell, in the persons of Sir James Livingstone and his lady, and their descendants, who were to assume the name of Campbell, and to sink the family and estate of Glentirran in that of Ardkinlas. Their eldest dau., MARY LIVINGSTONE, m. JOHN CALLANDER, of Craigforth, and through her the families of Ardkinlas and Craigforth became subsequently merged in one. Sir James and Lady Livingstone (Helen Campbell) were s. by their eldest son, James, who, sinking his father's name of Livingstone, became

SIR JAMES CAMPBELL, of Ardkinlas. He m. Miss Campbell, of Shawfield, by whom he had several children. He was s. by the only survivor,

SIR ALEXANDER CAMPBELL, of Ardkinlas, who m. Miss Cheape, of Sauchie, and dying in 1810, without issue, was s. by his cousin-german, JAMES CALLANDER, of Craigforth, (son of JOHN CALLANDER, of Craigforth, and Mary Livingstone,) of him presently.

Callander of Craigforth.

The first Callander of Craigforth was Master-Armorer to JAMES VI. of Scotland, and purchased Craigforth from the Earls of Livingstone and Callander, about the time of JAMES VI.'s accession to the English crown (1603). His descendant,

JOHN CALLANDER, of Craigforth, m. Margaret, dau. of Sir James Nasmyth, Bart. of New Posso, and bad issue, JAMES, of whom presently; and Anne, m. 1st, to Colonel Blackader, (a name well known to the religious world;) and 2ndly, to Sir James Campbell, Bart. of Ardkinlas, (who, by his first wife, Margaret Campbell, heiress of Gargunnoch, was father of Helen Campbell, afterwards Lady Livingstone, of Glentirran.) Anne d. without issue. The only son,

JAMES CALLANDER, m. Catharine Mackenzie, of Cromarty, the lineal descendant of Sir George Mackenzie, the eminent lawyer and writer, who gained from the covenanters the appellation of "the bloodthirsty Mackenzie." James Callander predeceased his father, leaving an only son,

JOHN CALLANDER, of Craigforth, who s. his grandfather. He m. Mary Livingstone, eldest dau. of Sir James Livingstone, Bart. of Glentirran and Dalderse, by whom he had several children. He d. in 1789, and was s. by his eldest son,

JAMES CALLANDER, of Craigforth, b. in 1744, who assumed the surname of Campbell, on succeeding, in right of his mother, to his cousin-german, Sir Alexander Campbell, Bart., in the estate of Ardkinlas. He m. 1st, in 1768, Christian, youngest dau. of George Forbes, Esq. of Hitchener Hall, Surrey, and by her (who d. in 1771) had a son, GEORGE, of whom presently; and a dau., Mary, m. Capt. Lucius O'Brien, (cousin of Sir Lucius O'Brien, of Dromoland Castle, co. Clare,) and had issue six sons and one dau. He m. 2ndly, Miss Harriet Dutens, and by her (who d. in 1772) had an only child, Elizabeth, who m. Richard Magenist, Esq., M.P., and had issue an only son. He m. 3rdly, in 1776, Lady Elizabeth MacDonnell, dau. of the Earl of Antrim, and by her (who d. in 1796) had two sons and three daus., viz.,

Alexander-James, major in the 91st regt., d. unm.
 Randall-William, m. Miss Wilson, and had issue three sons and four daus.
 Georgina, d. unm. in 1839.

Caroline, m. Thomas Sheridan, son of the Right Hon. Richard-Brinsley Sheridan, (who d. in 1818,) and had issue four sons and three daus.
 Fanny, m. the Right Hon. Sir James-R.-G. Graham, Bart. of Netherby, and has issue three sons and three daus.

The eldest son,

FRANCIS-WILLIAM, b. 23 Oct. 1840.

Mr. Garden-Campbell, a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Banffshire, s. his father in June, 1826.

Tincage.

This family springs from a common ancestor with the ducal house of Argyll.

SIR DUNCAN CAMPBELL, of Lochow, who was created Lord Campbell of Argyll by JAMES II. of Scotland, m. Lady Marjory Stewart, dau. of Robert, Duke of Albany, and granddau. of ROBERT II., by whom he had two sons,

ARCHIBALD, his successor, from whom the House of Argyll derives; and

SIR COLIN CAMPBELL, upon whom his father settled the estate of Glenurchy, which had come into the Campbell family, temp. DAVID II., by the marriage of Margaret Glenurchy with John Campbell. Sir Colin m. 1st, Mary, dau. of the Earl of Lennox, but by her had no issue; he m. 2ndly, Margaret, second dau. and co-heir of John, 3rd Lord Lorn, with whom he got a third of that lordship; by this lady Sir Colin had an only son, DUNCAN (Sir), his successor; he m. 3rdly, Margaret, dau. of Robert Robertson, of Strowan; and 4thly, Margaret, dau. of Luke Stirling, of Keir, and by the latter had a son, John, ancestor of the Earls of Loudoun. The elder son and heir,

SIR DUNCAN CAMPBELL, of Glenurchy, married, and had issue. His eldest son was ancestor of the Marquess of Breadalbane. His second son,

ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL, provided to the fee of Glenlyon in 1502. From this Archibald the family of Glenlyon descended, in a direct line, to an heiress, who m. Balneaves, Esq. of Edradour, co. Perth, and was mother of an only dau. and heiress,

KATHERINE BALNEAVES, who m. PETER GARDEN, Esq. of Delgaty, co. Aherdeen, who thus acquiring the estate of Glenlyon, assumed the name and arms of CAMPBELL of Glenlyon. Mr. Garden-Campbell, by the heiress of Glenlyon, had issue, Alexander, d. unm.; Peter, d. unm.; FRANCIS, his heir; Peter-Henry; David; Helen, m. John Burnett, Esq. of Elrick; Jean; Katherine; Margaret, m. W. Farquharson, Esq. of Monaltree; Christian; and Mary, m. Thomas Burnett, Esq. The eldest surviving son and heir,

FRANCIS GARDEN-CAMPBELL, succeeded to the estates of Delgaty, Troup, &c. He m. in 1788, Penelope, dau. of Richard Smyth, Esq. of Ballynatray, co. Waterford, and by her (who m. 2ndly, Major-General Bruce) had an only son and heir,

FRANCIS GARDEN-CAMPBELL, Esq. of Troup and Glenlyon, who m. 1st, 23 Dec. 1815, Christian Forbes, dau. of Archibald Cumine, Esq. of Auchry, and 2ndly, 25 Sept. 1822, Maria, only dau. of Major-General Duff, of Carnoustie; and by the former had issue, FRANCIS, his heir.

Archibald.

Agnes, m. to John Kinloch, Esq. of that ilk, and Kilrie, co. Forfar.

Mr. Garden-Campbell d. in June, 1826, and was s. by his elder son, the present FRANCIS GARDEN-CAMPBELL, Esq. of Troup and Glenlyon.

Family of Garden.

The family of Gardyne, or Garden, has for many centuries possessed lands in the shires of Banff and Perth, and is mentioned at a very early period as Gardyne of that ilk, and of Bauchory. In 1551, the Laird of Bauchory received from Queen MARY a harp, as the prize for a piece of music, performed by him at a musical competition, held soon after the Queen's arrival in Scotland, and at which the laird attended, in the disguise of a minstrel. This harp was carried by a dau. of the Laird, on her marriage with the Laird of Luss, in Dumhartonsshire, into that family, and is still preserved.

In 1589, Gardyne of Bauchory was one of the gentlemen sent by JAMES I. to Denmark, on the occasion of the treaty of marriage betwixt him and the Princess Anne, afterwards his queen, and received a gold medallion, set with diamonds, containing a portrait of the princess, with the arms of Denmark on the obverse side. In the succeeding generation the lands of Bauchory, &c., were sold, and MAJOR ALEXANDER GARDEN, son of the last Laird of Bauchory, went with the troops, sent by CHARLES I., to GUSTAVUS of Sweden, and was present at the battle of Lutzen, where that great prince lost his life, in 1632. Major Garden remained several years at the Swedish court, high in favour with Queen CHRISTINA, and on her abdication in 1654, returned to Scotland, and purchased the lands of Troup. He m. Betty, dau. of Alexander Strachan, Esq. of Glenkindy, and was father of a son, ALEXANDER GARDEN, Esq. of Troup, who m. Bathia, dau. of Sir Alexander Forbes, of Craigievar, Bart., and was s. by his eldest son, ALEXANDER GARDEN, Esq. of Troup, who m. Jean, dau. of Sir Francis Grant, of Cullen, Bart., and had, besides three daus., (Jean, m. to Alexander Forth, of Freefield and Glenkindy; the second m. to Arthur Forbes, of Schwas; and the third m. to Joseph Cumming, of Auchry,) three sons, ALEXANDER, FRANCIS, and PETER. The eldest son and heir,

ALEXANDER GARDEN, Esq. of Troup, s. his father in 1740, and acquired great landed possessions. He represented the county in parliament for many years, and was considered the wealthiest commoner in the north of Scotland. He d. unm. in 1785, and was s. by his brother,

FRANCIS GARDEN, of Troup, Lord Gardenstown, one of the judges of the Court of Session. This gentleman was remarkable for his talents and eloquence, for the successful manner in which he conducted several important lawsuits, and particularly the celebrated "Douglas cause." In 1744, he was made sheriff of Kincardineshire, and in 1761, accepted the office of joint solicitor-general of Scotland, together with Mr. James Montgomery, under Mr. Pitt's administration. He also made great improvements in his extensive estates, built the town of Laurencekirk, co. Kincardine, and purchased a royal charter, erecting it into a burgh of barony, with a regular magistracy. Lord Gardenstown d. unm. in 1793, and was s. by his brother, PETER GARDEN, Esq., who had purchased the estate of Delgaty. He m., as stated before, the heiress of Glenlyon, and assumed the additional surname and arms of CAMPBELL.

Jane. Susan. Helen.

Mr. Carnegie, who was late a captain in the Royal artillery, is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for co. Angus, and Hereditary Fowler to the Kings of Scotland. He is representative of Lady Catherine, sister of King ROBERT III., wife of David Lindsay, 11th Earl of Crauford; of the Fullertons of that ilk, and of the Carnegies of Boysack; is the oldest cadet of the noble house of Northesk, patron of the parish of Spynie, co. Moray, and heir to the Barony of Spynie.

Tineage.

GODFRIDUS FULLERTON, of Fullerton, in the counties of Perth and Forfar, got from King ROBERT the Bruce a charter of the office of King's Fowler, the grantee and his successors being "obliged to serve the king's house with wild fowl when the king and his successors shall come to Forfar, where Fullerton shall be entertained, with a servant and two horses." From him descended

WILLIAM FULLERTON, of Fullerton, who m. about 1650, Margaret Lindsay, eldest dau. of the 2nd Lord Spynie, and sister to George, the 3rd and last Lord Spynie. Their only son,

WILLIAM FULLERTON, of Fullerton, by Susan, his wife, was father of

JOHN FULLERTON, of Fullerton, who m. Margaret Carnegie, and had (besides a dau., Jean, m. to Sir John Wedderburn, Bart. of Blackness) a son,

WILLIAM FULLERTON, of Fullerton, who m. Susanna Ogilvy, and was father of a son, WILLIAM, and a dau., Margaret, m. to Walter, commonly called Earl of Airlie, and d. s. p. The son,

WILLIAM FULLERTON, of Fullerton and Glenquich, who assumed the surname of LINDSAY, claimed the title of Lord Spynie, but was unsuccessful, under the supposition that the original grant had been made only to the 1st Lord Spynie's issue male; this has at last been clearly proved to have been wrong, by Mr. Riddell, the distinguished writer on Scotch peerage law. Mr. Fullerton-Lindsay m. 1st, Stewart, only dau. and heir of James Carnegie, of Boysack, representative of the Hon. Sir John Carnegie, second son of the 1st Earl of Northesk, and by her had an only son, JAMES, his heir. He m. 2ndly, Margaret, only dau. and heir of James Blair, Esq. of Ardblair, co. Perth, but by her had no issue. Mr. Fullerton-Lindsay, who was a lieutenant-colonel in the Spanish service, was s. by his only son,

CARY OF WHITE CASTLE.

CARY, GEORGE, Esq. of White Castle, co. Donegal, s. to the property (whilst an infant) upon the death of his father. He entered Winchester College as "Founder's kin," his descent being proved in the female line through the daughter of Walter Harris, of Gloucester, which dau. m. — Mason, Esq. of Knock, King's Co., Ireland.

* Anne, the other dau. and co heir, m. Edward North, Esq. of Benacre, in Suffolk.

Lineage.

The ancient family of Cary was seated for many ages in the counties of Devon and Somerset, and derives its name from the manor of Cary, or Karl, as it is called in Domesday Book, lying in the parish of St. Giles-in-the-Heath, near Launceston. Its representative in the fifteenth century, (see CARY OF TORR ABBEY, vol. i. page 194.)

PHILIP CARY, of Cockington, who m. Christian, dau. of Richard Orchard, and was father of

SIR WILLIAM CARY, who was an eminent Laneastrian, suffered death by decapitation after the battle of Tewkesbury. His first wife (Anne, dau. of Sir William Paulet, of Hinton St. George, in Somersetshire) was the mother of his eldest son, ROBERT CARY, from whom are descended the Carys of Torr Abbey and White Castle. From Sir William Cary's son, by his second wife, (Alicie Fulford,) sprung those branches of the Cary family which were afterwards raised to the peerage, viz., the Viscounts Falkland; the Barons Hunsdon, Earls of Dover; and the Earls of Monmouth.

ROBERT CARY, the eldest son of Sir William Cary, by his first wife, settled at Cockington, in Devonshire. He had three wives: 1st, Jane Carew, from whose second son descend the Carys of Torr Abbey; 2nd, Agnes Hody, (who had a son, William;) and 3rd, Margaret Fulkeram, of Dartmouth, by whom he had one son, ROBERT. This

ROBERT CARY had Clovelly, in the north of Devon, conferred on him by his father. He m. Margaret Milliton, by whom he had six sons, I. George; II. Robert; III. Gabriel; IV. Thomas; V. James; and, VI. Francis.

FRANCIS CARY, Esq., sixth son, m. Juliana Pyne, and had two sons, GEORGE and Robert, and four daus. The elder son,

GEORGE CARY, Esq., was recorder of Londonderry, and M.P. in 1613. He had a grant of Red Castle (an Irish estate in the barony of Innishowen, co. Donegal) from Sir Arthur Chichester, Baron of Belfast, who was lord high treasurer of Ireland in 1618. (Sir Arthur was second son of Sir John Chichester, of Raleigh, Devonshire.) This first George Cary, of Red Castle, m. Jane, dau. of Sir Tristram Beresford, and d. 22 April, 1640, having had, with four daus., five sons,

- I. GEORGE, of Red Castle, m. Alice Vaughan, and d. in 1669, leaving a son, FRANCIS, of Red Castle.
- II. EDWARD, of Dungiven: from this Edward descends the present possessor of White Castle, being the youngest and now sole remaining branch of the Dungiven line.
- III. Robert, of White Castle, m., and had five sons and three daus. He d. in 1681.
- IV. Tristram, lieutenant in the army, m. Eliza, dau. of Major Monkton, and had issue, five sons and three daus. V. Henry.

The second son,

EDWARD CARY, Esq. of Dungiven, m. Mrs. Brazier, widow of Paul Brazier, Esq., and dau. of Sir Tristram Beresford, and had three sons,

- I. EDWARD, who m. Martha Mervin, of Trelick, and had issue, HENRY CARY, of Dungiven, M.P. for Coleraine, who m. Anne Hamilton, niece to General Hamilton, of Waltham, co. Derry, and had five sons and three daus. The eldest son, the Right Hon. Edward Cary, M.P. for Dungiven, m. twice: 1st, Jane, dau. of Viscount Tyrone; and 2ndly, a Miss Gore, but had no issue. His four brothers, Frederick, Henry, George (in holy orders), and William, were called Cary Hamiltons, from their mother, and d. without issue. The eldest sister, Letitia Cary, m. William Blacker, Esq.; and the two younger, Martha and Anna, d. unm. Thus ended the eldest branch of the Dungiven Careys.
- II. George.
- III. TRISTRAM.

The youngest son,

TRISTRAM CARY, Esq., m. twice: 1st, Charity Staples, and had a son, GEORGE, of Turnaleague, from whom descended the Carys of Turnaleague. Tristram m. 2ndly, Margaret Cunningham, by whom he had one son,

TRISTRAM CARY, Esq., who m. three times, but had issue only by his first wife, Miss Baird, viz., six sons and two daus.,

- I. TRISTRAM, who m. Miss Hamilton: their male line is extinct.
- II. Thomas, who m. Miss Moore, and had issue a dau.
- III. George, who purchased White Castle, of whom presently.

* This lady's posthumous son, by her first husband, was heir to all the Red Castle property, but dying suddenly before he attained his majority, in 1796, after a few days' slight illness, the property reverted to his uncle, Francis-Lucius-Ferdinand Cary, Esq.

CATHCART OF CARBISTON.

CATHCART, TAYLOR, Esq. of Carbiston, co. Ayr, and of Pitcairlic, co. Fife, m. in 1823, Frances, eldest dau. of George Marcy, of Geneva and Kepp, in Jamaica, and has issue,

- I. JAMES. II. Robert. III. William-Taylor.
I. Frances.

Mr. Cathcart, for many years resident in Jamaica, s. his brother, the late Capt. Cathcart, R.N., of Carbiston, in 1833.

Lineage.

The Cathcarts of Carbiston, says Nisbet, are an "old branch of the family of Cathcart, as far back as the time of ROBERT III.;" but it would appear that a still greater antiquity can be claimed for them. They had a gift of the wardship of the lands of Carbiston, during the reign of DAVID II., in 1368. The oldest charter of the property in their possession is dated 1464. The last male representative of this branch was William Cathcart de Carbiston, who d. in 1547. He is mentioned as one of the heirs of entail of John, 4th Lord Cathcart, of certain lands in Ayrshire, in a charter dated 8 July, 1541. He was m. to Elizabeth Maxwell, whom, in his latter will, he appointed sole executor and tutor to his daughters, Margaret and Janet. In consequence of the death of Margaret, Janet became the sole heir of her father. She m. Allan Cathcart, of Duchray, another cadet of the family of Cathcart. His father, the first of the branch, was, according to Nisbet,

DAVID CATHCART, of Duchray, third son of John, Lord Cathcart, by Margaret, dau. of William Douglas, of Drumlanrig, his second lady. He obtained the four merk land of Duchray, in Coyllton parish, from his father, and had a remission for being concerned, along with the sheriff of Ayr, in the slaughter of the Earl of Cassilis. He m. Agnes, dau. of Sir George Crawford, of Liffluoris, by whom he had a son and heir, ALLAN CATHCART, of Duchray, who m., as already stated, Agnes, dau. and heir of William Cathcart, of Carbiston.

"ALLANE CATHCART, of Carbelstoun," the son, we presume of this marriage, is mentioned, 4 June, 1576, as "cautioner to deliver over the titles" of certain lands in King's Kyle, redeemed by James Cuninghame, of Polquharne, from "Hew Campbell, in Patterstoun, as lif-renter, and James Bannatyne, burges of Air, heretabill feur of the landis."* He was one of the assize on the trial of John Craufurd, of the Schaw, and others, for "the tressonabill fyir-ryssing and burning of ane byir pertening to Johnne Boiswall of Auchinleck," &c., 1577.† His name occurs in the justiciary records in the case of William Gil-mour, accused of witchcraft, in 1585. The next of the family was

WILLIAM CATHCART, of Carbiston. He was a witness, 14 April, 1574, together with his brother, "Gilbert Catb-cart, filio secundo genito," to a sasine of the xls. land of Mos-blowane, barony of Auchincruive, from Adame Cathcart, of Bardorach, in favour of his "sone and apperand air," William Cathcart, and "Margaret Fullertoun, Lady Fer-gushill, his spous."‡ He m. Janet, one of the daus. and co-heiresses of Sir Robert Fairlie, of that ilk. He must, however, have been twice married; for in 1580, (Aug. 27,) "William Cathcart, zonger of Carbastoun, and Margaret Lokhart, his spous, bayth personalie present, and to the langer levar of thame, in conjunct fe," &c., bad sasine from Robert Stewart, of Gass, "of all and baill bis eist equal half of the aucht merk land of Carbestoun of auld extent, witbin Kingis Kyle," &c.§ Besides his successor, he had a son, James,|| "who," says Nisbet, "went to Germany, and, for his merit, was advanced to honourable offices, by which he acquired a considerable fortune. He m. the dau. and heir of Balthasar-Schemet, Schemet-Felt, chancellor to the Duke of Deux-Ponts, in Germany. He was made one of the gentlemen of his bedchamber, master of the horse, and one of his counsellors; in which offices he continued till his death, and was solemnly interred in the great church of Heidelberg, where a noble monument was erected over him, with his arms; which last I have seen on his seals, affixed to his missive-letters to his cousin, the present Laird of Carbiston, whereupon were two oval shields accolée; that on the right hand, containing the arms of Carbiston, but the heart was not ensigned with an imperial crown; and that on the left hand, a deer springing, the arms of his wife; and both these oval shields accolée, under a large coronet. Their grandson, William de Cathcart, is one of the gentlemen of the bedchamber to Prince Palatine and Duke of Deux-Ponts, and enjoys his grandfather's estate near Deux-Ponts." William Cathcart, of Carbiston, was s. by his son,

JOHN CATHCART, of Carbiston, whose name occurs, together with that of his son, Robert, in a legal document, dated 22 Oct. 1586. Nothing farther is known of him. He was probably s. by his son,

ROBERT CATHCART, of Carbiston, who was the father of

FRANCIS CATHCART, of Carbiston, who is mentioned in the Ayr presbytery books as having quarrelled with the Laird of Laiglands, in the church of Coyllton, on a Sabbath day, in 1643, about the right to a seat. His name occurs in the testament of David Cuninghame, of Milncraig, as one of his debtors, in 1659. His son was

JAMES CATHCART, of Carbiston, who m. Magdalen, eldest dau. of Sir James Rothead, Bart. of Inverleith, by whom he had, COL. JAMES CATHCART, and Capt. Thomas Cathcart, the latter of whom was killed in the Spanish wars. Both the elder and younger of Carbiston are mentioned in the town's books of Ayr, as having given the magistrates a charge of horning for the stipends of Allo-way, in 1704. He was s. by his son,

COL. JAMES CATHCART, who, on his succession, became Col. James Rothead-Cathcart, of Inverleith and Carbiston. He d. unm., and was s. by his grand-nephew,

JAMES CATHCART, of Carbiston, who, 11 Aug. 1760, was seised in the lands of Carbiston, Little Thriepland, Duchray, Kirkton, and Rughall, in the barony of Dalmel-lington. He at the same time succeeded to the entailed paternal estate of Pitcairlic, in Fifeshire. He m. in 1764, Lucretia, eldest dau. of Robert Colquhoun, of St. Christopher's and Santa Cruz. He d. in 1795, and was s. by his son,

JAMES CATHCART, major in the 19th Dragoons, many years on active service in India. He was engaged in the storming of Bangalore and Seringapatam, and severely wounded at the battle of Assaye. He d. unm. in 1810, and was s. by his brother,

ROBERT CATHCART, captain in the Royal navy, an officer of distinguished merit. In the memorable battle of the Nile, he served as fifth lieutenant in the Bellerophon, and his captain having been wounded early in the action, and the four senior lieutenants killed, he had the glory of continuing the contest with the L'Orient, till the latter blew up. For the prudence and skill displayed by him on this occasion, he received the approbation of Admiral Nelson, and was promoted to the rank of master and commander. In 1808, for a most gallant attack in H.M. sloop, Seagull, against a vastly superior force in the Baltic, he was made a post-captain, and appointed to the Ganymede. In 1813, while in the Alexandria, 32 guns, he gave chase for eighty bours (H.M. sloop, Spitfire, 18 guns, in company) to the American ship, President, 50 guns, Captain Rogers—the latter only escaping by superiority of sailing. Captain Cathcart m. in 1814, Catherine-Scrymgeour, dau. of Henry Scrymgeour Wedderburn, of under my command, or others whom it may concern, to suffer him to passe with his servant, four horses, and equipage, and to repasse, without any lett, hinderance, or molestation. Given at Elswick, before Newcastle, the 19 of August, 1644.

"LEVEN."

The MS. of the foregoing is docquetted "Pass he Generall Lesly to Carhistoun." He was styled "of Carhistoun," possibly from his succeeding, by right of his mother, to the "eist equal half of the aucht merk land of Carhestoun," in which his father and mother were seised in 1580.

Seat—Pitcairrie, Fifeshire.

* * The Cathcarts of Carbiston at one time held considerable possessions in the county; but a small part only of Cuthcart now remains to them. The forty shilling land of Ducharay, and others, were in the possession of the Chalmers family by the end of the sixteenth century; and on the breaking up of the estate of Gadgirth, in 1695, they fell into the hands of Viscount Stair. Campbell of Shankston and Lord Cathcart also acquired part of the lands.

Tincage.

"The Chapman family," says Young, in his History of Whitby, "resided at Whitby, and in Yburn Dale, prior to the year 1400, as appears from the registers and rolls of Whitby Abbey. The late Sir Thomas Chapman of Ireland, and Admiral Chapman of Sweden, belonged to the family." "This family (we quote an old family MS.) was settled at or near Whitby, in the time of HENRY III., as appears by ancient records, and in the time of RICHARD II. some of them were prosecuted and imprisoned by the Abbot of Whitby, for maintaining their just rights and privileges, but were soon set at liberty by the abbot without paying any fees. They increased much in a century or two, and many of them were in the parliamentary army."

ROGER CHAPMAN and JOHN CHAPMAN were of Yburn, near Whitby, co. York, in 1381, from one of whom descended Robert Chapman, temp. HENRY VIII., who d. 2 Dec. 1607, and was father of John Chapman, b. 24th ELIZABETH, 1570, and d. 31 March, 1614, whose son, Robert Chapman, bapt. 9 Nov. 1603, m. Amy Acklome, and by her (who d. 24 March, 1687-8) had issue, i. John, d. s. p.; ii. James, d. s. p.; iii. Robert, bapt. 2 April, 1638, m. Hannah Hardwicke, and had two sons and two daus., viz., i. James, d. s. p.; 2. John, m. Elizabeth Waynman, and had issue; 1. Amy, m. 1st, to Giles Parker, and 2ndly, to John Hill; 2. Mary, m. to Francis Gill; iv. Ingram, bapt. 22 March, 1639-40, who, by Jane, his wife, had three sons and two daus., the elder of the latter, Esther, m. Robert Bowlby, whose eldest son, Adam, had an only dau., Dorothy, m. to Henry Askew, Esq., of Redbeugh, co. CHISENHALL, CHISENHALL, Esq. of Arley Hall, co. Lancaster. This gentleman, whose patronymic was JOHNSON, assumed his present surname on succeeding to the estates of his maternal ancestors. He is an acting magistrate for the county of Lancaster.

Chineage.

This family derives its surname from CHISENHALL, in the parish of Standish. At this place was born EDWARD CHISENHALL, Esq., who bore a colonel's commission in the royal army during the civil wars, temp. CHARLES I. He was one of the six captains selected by Charlotte, Countess of Derby, for the defence of Lathom House, at the memorable siege of that place, in 1644, where, with singular address, and a skilful manœuvre, he drew off the besiegers into a private place, and cut off 500 of them, under the specious pretence that the house was opened. For this exploit he was fined £800 for delinquency. Granger mentions another anecdote of him, that "he sallied forth just after the enemy had been boasting of their provisions, and stole their dinner." As a literary character, no less than a military one, he well deserves to be remembered, being the author of a Catholic History, collected out of Scriptures, Councils, Fathers, &c. occasioned by Dr. Thomas Vane's book, called The Lost Sheep Returned, 1653, small 8vo, the frontispiece of which presents a portrait of him, with various significant and emblematic figures.

The eventual heiress of the family, ANNE, dau. of Sir Edward Chisenhall, Knt., m. Stephen Hamerton, Esq., of Hellfield-Peel, co. York, (see vol. i. p. 530,) and the estate of Chisenhall is now possessed by his descendant, JAMES HAMERTON, Esq.*

From a younger branch of the family derived,

THE REV. JOHN CHISENHALL, M.A., of Arley, who left an only child and heiress, ANNE CHISENHALL. This lady, who was also heir to her uncle, DANIEL CHISENHALL, Esq., barrister-at-law, m. John Johnson, Esq., and had issue,

CHISENHALL JOHNSON.

Mary Johnson, m. to the Rev. Henry Tatlock. (See vol. ii. p. 1353.)

* The manor-house of Chisenhall is destroyed, and its site now occupied by a farm-house.

The son is the present CHISENHALL CHISENHALL, Esq. of Arley.

Tineage.

THORESBY, in his History of Leeds, p. 53, writes of the name of COOKE, that "the original name was Gale, or Gayle, but from the office of cook, undergone by some of their predecessors, the several branches at Beeston, Hunslet, Holbeck, Milnshay, &c. were for many years (as appeared by the parish registers) writ Gale alias Cooke, till in conclusion the name of the family gave way to that of the office, as that of Nevil, in the famous Archbishop of Armagh, did to Usher, because one of his predecessors had been usher to King JOHN." The same writer adds, that Robert and Alexander Cooke, who were vicars of Leeds, though registered at their baptisms by the name of Gale, were matriculated at the university by the name of Cooke.

Playfair (vol. vi. p. 564), after adverting to the foregoing observations of Thoresby, adds in a note, "This supposition is rendered very probable, by Norman the Cook and Robert the Cook being mentioned in Charlton's Whitby as witnesses to a grant by Henry de Percy to the church of Saint Peter and Saint Hylder at Wyteby: and both he and Robert, who is, in two instances, called Robert, and Robert Cooke, with his son Walter, are witnesses to other grants specified in the same work. But," continues he, "what perhaps more incontestably proves the origin of the name than anything we have already adduced, is the following circumstance. In the year 1150, Richard, by the grace of God, minister of the church of Whitby, with the consent and advice of the whole chapter, there granted and confirmed to Robert Cook, and Walter, his son, the being masters of the cook's office, to be hereditarily possessed of them in the same manner as this Robert had held the same theretofore under the Abbot Richard and his predecessors; and they covenanted to pay Robert and his heirs four shillings annually for that service." "This Robert" (adds Charlton) "had been known by the name of Cook in the days of all the three former abbots. From him the name of Cooke seems to have had its original; a family now (when he wrote) spread almost over all England."

In BURTON'S Monasticon Eboracense, we find the following early notices of the Cooke family, viz., "John Porter and Roger Cook, of Kirkstal, with King RICHARD II.'s licence, gave one oxgang of land here" (Kirkstal Abbey). "Roger Cook de Kirkstal and Peter de Bernolswyth, with King RICHARD II.'s licence, gave three acres of land in Pontefract to the same monastery." "Ealwise, daughter of Endo Cook (Cocē), of North Dalton, A.D. 1127, gave one oxgang of land to Walton Priory." "Herbert, son of Walter Cooke (Coci), of Cuton, gave a toftcroft and sixteen acres of arable land in Cuton Magna, and gave them (Fountains Abbey) six acres that he had given to his brother Henry, and three acres in the same field which he gave to Adel, his sister." "Robert Cooke, of Fishergate (in York), and Alice, his wife, quit claimed all their right to houses and lands in the street in favour of Keitham Priory."

In addition to the foregoing it may be added, on the authority of WILLIS'S Notitia Parliamentaria, that John the Cook (or, as he is there called, John le Cok) represented Berkhamstead, in Hertfordshire, in the eleventh council or parliament at Westminster in the reign of EDWARD III.

The change of name, such as Gayle into Cooke, was by no means uncommon. Thus, in addition to the example of Nevil, referred to by Thoresby, the name of Walter, or Fitzwalter, has been changed into Butler, in the Ormond family, on account of one of them having been butler to King JOHN; and the name of Millington, Ware tells us, has been changed into Synge, on account of one of that family having been a chantry-priest, and having had a good voice and some skill in music.

Having mentioned the foregoing notices of the name of Cooke in England, some references shall now be given to show the antiquity of the family in Ireland.

It appears from the register of Christ's Church, Dublin, that so early as "A.D. 1258, Slaney, the widow of Gillepatrick, butcher, granted to Ralph Cook a lot of ground in the parish of Saint Brigid, containing in front twenty feet, and extending backward to the river of Polls, paying thereout yearly to the prior and canons of Christ Church 12d.—Witnesses, Peter Abraham, mayor, and Simon Unred and Thomas Wrench, bailiffs." John Cooke was a conservator of the peace in the co. Wexford, A.D. 1404; for on the Patent Roll, in the 4th year of HENRY IV. (Rolls' Office, Dublin), membrane 19, is, "R. assign' John Roche, Mathen P' Henry, John Barry, and John Coke Just' et super sores pac' in Co' Weys'—Dub. 3 Feb." It is manifest from the Patent Roll, 10th HENRY VI., in the last-mentioned office, that John Cooke, Esq., resided at Kilkenny, A.D. 1432, and was very zealous in the English interest. The entry runs: "R. ob labores ac ona in resistente' Hibnicon' sustent' pdom' Joh' Coke ar' burgens' vil' de Kylk' sect' pac' p podicoib', &c. et oioda deb', &c.—Dub. 3 Sep." The Close Roll of the 20th year of the same reign (A.D. 1452) contains the following grant:—"R. thes', &c. ad petiō', &c. mand' gd Johi Coke de Kilken' 40s. a Re excess' ut regard' p lab' et cust' in svc Rs solvant.—Naas, 12 Nov." In the list of sheriffs of Dublin, published by Sir James Ware, is mentioned Nicholas Cook, as having been sheriff of that city so early as the year 1465, during the reign of EDWARD IV. In 1662, John Cook, of Waterford, was possessed of much landed property, and amongst other denominations was seised of the lands of Knockmore and Killinleagh, together with forty acres in the towns of Monyhinrie and Sharrydiffe, in the barony of Knocktopher, and county Kilkenny, as appears from an inquisition taken at St. Dominick's Abbey, 16 Jan. 1662. William Cooke was sheriff of Dublin in 1678, as was Samuel Cooke in 1698, during the reign of WILLIAM III. Exclusive of the forementioned authorities, we have that of the Abbé Macgeoghagan to support the assertion that members of the Cooke family settled in Ireland soon after the English invasion, and long prior to the reign of HENRY VIII. That historian, in page 83 of the second volume of his History of Ireland, treating of the origin of the Anglo-Irish, writes: "Outre les familles qu'on vient de rapporter après Cambden et Ware, on trouve les suivantes établies en Irlande dans le douzième siècle, et depuis jusqu'au règne d'HENRI VIII. on elles possédoient des terres. Dans Lagenie on trouve les Cooks, &c." In later times several members of the family now particularly written of, held the highest municipal honours in the city of Cork and town of Youghal. In the latter place no less than twelve of them were mayors and bailiffs, from the year 1634 to 1754. Their names are given in LORD'S History of Youghal.

Edward Cooke, a Quaker, of which society many of the family were members about the time of the Commonwealth, is reckoned among the writers of Ireland in HARRIS'S edition of WARE, on account of his having published a book in 1658.

The family of COOKE, of which this article particularly treats, was settled in Ireland previous to the reign of ELIZABETH, and obtained considerable grants of lands in that of JAMES I. It was a branch of the Norfolk family, and the family Christian names are still, after the lapse of centuries, identical, as Thomas, John, Edward, Robert, Joseph, William, &c.

PETER COOKE was resident in the co. Cork long previous to the war of 1641. He had four sons, viz., THOMAS, ROBERT, EDWARD, and PETER, all of whom were young when the war broke out. "Lord Broghill (WARE'S Writers, p. 170) having had an interview with the Protector in London, hastened to the south of Ireland, where he soon got together a troop of horse and 1500 foot well appointed." THOMAS COOKE, son of Peter, was then a minor, and became one of the officers in that levy of cavalry. His son was not of age in 1666, as appears from his petition to the Court of Claims, report and schedule thereon dated 25 Sept. that year. In consequence of his minority and the death of his father, the petition was presented on his behalf by his guardian, John Sherlock, a name which still continues allied to some of the Cooke family. The petition is No. 138, in the Surveyor-General's Office, Dublin, and shows his claim to have been on the lands of Knocknanare, in the barony of Orrery and Kilmore, co. Cork, on which it was allowed. It is from him the family of COOKE-COLLIS, of Castle Cooke, in that county, springs. The next son of Peter was CAPTAIN ROBERT COOKE,* who advanced money on the expedition, as well as being in the

* CAPT. ROBERT COOKE (brother of Thomas, of Lord Broghill's cavalry) had issue, ROBERT, (known by the appellation of Linen Cooke,) and William, of Youghal, who was a merchant. Robert, called Linen, was a very eccentric person; he fled to England in the time of King JAMES II., and resided some time at Ipswich, in Suffolk, as Archbishop King relates in his State of the Protestants. During his absence the parliament held at Dublin, 7 May, 1689, declared him to be attainted as a traitor, if he failed returning to Ireland by the 1st of September following. He had several estates in England, as Litchfield, &c., and in Ireland. He d. in 1726; it appears by his will that he resided at Cappaguin. His first wife was a lady from Bristol, and in consequence of his visits to that city, he caused a pile of stone to be erected on a rock in the Bristol Channel, which was denominated Cooke's Folly. The name of his second wife was Cecilia, or Cecily. His children were, John, also a merchant in Youghal; Robert; and Josiah, besides two daus. By his will he directed that he should be interred with his son John's family, in the church called Tempul, at Youghal, and that his shroud should be made of linen. In a letter to his wife, (registered as a testamentary paper in the Prerogative Office, Dublin,) he rates his property at £500 a year, no bad income in those days. He had his coach drawn by white horses. Smith, in the survey of the co. Waterford, gives a curious account of him, as one of the remarkable personages of that county. That writer says, "He was a kind of Pythagorean philosopher, and for many years before his death eat neither fish, flesh, milk, butter, &c., nor drank any fermented liquor, nor wore woollen clothes, or any other produce of an animal, but linen. He had a considerable estate in this county." In 1691, he published a curious explanation of his religious principles, supporting them by many texts of Scripture, and at the end of all was printed a long prayer; a copy of this paper is to be found at large in the book last quoted. He was upwards of fourscore years when he died. He had also several other peculiarities, such as his choosing to keep white cows instead of black, and having his coach drawn by white horses, as already mentioned. A fox, which had killed several of his poultry, being captured by some of his servants, Cooke assembled his tenants and workmen, and, from a kind of tribunal having harangued a considerable time on the crime Reynard had committed, condemned him to run the gauntlet; then, making all his people stand in two rows with rods in their hands, he had the fox whipped through the midst of them, and so let him go. The much celebrated Athenian Society wrote an answer to his paper on religion, and refuted his notions.

William Cooke the brother of Robert, (called Linen Cooke,) was an alderman and mayor of Youghal. He resided at Camphire, co. Waterford, m. Anne, dau. of Capt. William Greatreakes, of Affane, same co., by whom he had a son, Josiah, and a dau., m. to John Bagge, Esq. of Ardmore. The mayor d. 1 June, 1742. The said Josiah, who d. 7 Dec. 1754, m. Miss Bagges, by whom he was father of Robert (or Robin) Cooke, who, having served in the 2nd battalion of the Royals with the British army, in North America, was the first to enter the breach at Moro, for which, and other gallant services, on his return he was publicly entertained, and presented with the freedom of the city of Glasgow, in a silver box, on his marching the skeleton of his regiment into that town. This Robin m. Mary, dau. of — O'Brien, a lieutenant in the Irish brigade, in the service of France, and was father of Mary, m. in 1787, to Henry Wigmore, Esq.

profession of arms. By his petition, No. 170, in the last-mentioned depository, he claimed premises in the city of Waterford. EDWARD COOKE, (son of Peter), from whom are the Cookes of Kyltinan Castle, co. Tipperary, claimed lands in that county, by reason of his having lent money on the expedition. The petition of this Edward is in the same depository as the two last mentioned, and numbered 165. The remaining son of Peter, viz., PETER COOKE, resided at Tallagh, in the co. Waterford, and from him are descended the family of Cooke of Cordangan, co. Tipperary, and that of Cooke of Fort William, in the same county. The elder son of Peter,

THOMAS COOKE, Esq., had issue, THOMAS, Peter, and Zachary. The eldest,

THOMAS COOKE, was a very wealthy merehant in the city of Cork. It appears by his will, that exclusive of his landed possessions, he had extensive capital in trade, including many ships at sea, which he directed by his will to be sold. He was of the Society of Quakers, and his wife, Joan Harwood, whom he m. 29 Sept. 1661, was an English lady, and grantee of the Threadneedle-street charity. Amongst his extensive estates were the lands of Ballyhegan, Killnagoule and Sheebou, Ballylough, Mansellstown, Glanehoola, Ballygronekin, Ropoge, Dungalane, and Engaleeh, all in the co. Cork; Knoekfree in the suburbs of Cork; Ballyshcelans, Inehenamnek, East Cramna, Garrandelen, East Seartha, Shanballypooly, West Boranloart, and West Temeorry, co. Tipperary, besides several premises in the cities of London and Cork. By his will, he directed that he should be interred in the Quakers' burial-ground at Cork. He d. about 1706. Dungalane, on which was an old castle, was subsequently denominated Castle Cooke. He was adjudged a traitor for adhering to the cause of WILLIAM III., and was attainted as such by the parliament held under King JAMES II., at Dublin, 7 May, 1689. He bequeathed his estates to his only son,

PETER COOKE, Esq. of Castle Cooke, co. Cork, who having left Ireland during the civil wars in the time of JAMES II., was pronounced to be a traitor if he did not return by 1 Sept. 1689, by the parliament which was held at Duhlin in May of that year. Thus no fewer than three members of this family were, about the close of the 17th century, possessed of property sufficiently ample to attract the attention of the confiscators, who framed their statutes of attainder against none but those who had valuable possessions to forfeit! He m. 23 April, 1696, Elizabeth Mitchell, to whom, by his will, he bequeathed his chariot and best pair of horses or mares. He was the founder of the Quakers' meeting-house in Boat-lane, Clonmell. By Elizabeth, his wife, he had two sons and one dau., viz.,

1. THOMAS, his heir.
2. ZACHARY, who s. his brother, Thomas.
3. Elizabeth, m. to John Collis, Esq. of Cork, son of William Collis, by Mary, his wife, eldest dau. of the Rev. B. Cross, D.D., and had issue, WILLIAM, in holy orders, who m. his cousin, Martha, heiress of Castle Cooke, as hereafter.

MARTHA COOKE, who had m. her cousin, the Rev. William Collis, rector of Churchill and Kilgobben, co. Kerry, and had issue,

1. ZACHARY COLLIS, their heir, and in holy orders.
2. William, of Richmond, co. Waterford, barrister-at-law, m. Jane, eldest dau. of Peter Carey, of Careysville, co. Cork.
3. Martha, d. unn.

The elder son,

THE REV. ZACHARY COOKE-COLLIS, archdeacon of Cloyne, s., in right of his mother, to the Castle Cooke estates, and assumed the additional surname and arms of COOKE. He m. in 1782, Jane, dau. of Charles Leslie, Esq., M.D., of the city of Cork, by Anne, his wife, dau. of Alderman Lawton, of the same city, and had issue one son and three daus., viz.,

1. WILLIAM, now of Castle Cooke.

2. Anne-Leslie, m. to Thomas Perrott, Esq. of Upland, co. Cork.

COOKE OF KYLTINAN CASTLE.

COOKE, ROBERT, Esq. of Kyltinan Castle, co. Tipperary, J. P., m. Hannah, dau. of the late Sir Richard-Wheeler Cuffe, Bart. of Leyrath, co. Kilkenny, and had a son and heir, ROBERT, who m. Jane, sister of John Congreve, Esq. of Mount Congreve, co. Waterford, and d., leaving issue. Anne.

Lineage.

EDWARD COOKE, second son of the first PETER COOKE, and brother of THOMAS COOKE, ancestor of the Castle Cooke family, claimed lands in the co. Tipperary, in consequence of his having lent money on the faith of the parliamentary expedition in Ireland, and had a grant of 1300 acres in the counties of Tipperary and Limerick. He m., and left issue,

JOHN, of Kyltinan Castle.

Peter, in holy orders, who was sometime rector of Kells, co. Kilkenny.

The elder son,

JOHN COOKE, Esq., was one of the commissioners named in the statutes 9 WILL. III., c. 8, and 10 WILL. III., c. 3, for assessing the land and poll taxes in the co. Tipperary. On the 12 June, 1703, he purchased at the sale of forfeited estates, from the trustees at Chichester House, the lands of Old Castletown, in the barony of Imokelly, co. Cork, containing 300 acres; on the 27 April, 1702, Powerstown, alias Mountain Gariffe, about two miles from Clonmel, in the co. Tipperary; and on the 15 May, 1703, Lawlestown, in the co. Tipperary, about half a mile from the same town. The lands included in the two last-mentioned purchases, for which Cooke paid £797, had been the estate of King JAMES II., and were sold by the same trustees. Cooke was then resident at Kyltinan Castle, and is so described in the conveyance which bore date 31 May, 1703. He had also another deed of sale from the same commissioners, dated 19 June, 1703, of 361 acres of Clare, in the barony of Middlethirst, co. Tipperary, part, also, of King JAMES'S estate, for which he paid £1130. John Cooke's dau., Cecilia, m. Leonard Bagge, Esq. of Ardmore, co. Waterford, and his son and heir,

ROBERT COOKE, Esq. of Kyltinan Castle, was father, by his wife, a sister of Field-Marshal Wade, of the co. Cork, of

EDWARD COOKE, Esq. of Kyltinan Castle, who by his wife, Ahygale Green, of Greenville, co. Waterford, left a son and successor, ROBERT COOKE, Esq. of Kyltinan Castle, and a dau., Frances, who m. Lieut.-Colonel John Jackson Glover, of the 11th infantry and colonel-commandant of the Bath Loyal volunteers, and d. his widow at Bath, 27 Feb. 1847.

Mr. Cooke is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the co. of Tipperary.

Lineage.

PETER COOKE, Esq., youngest son of the first Peter Cooke, and brother of the ancestors of the Castle Cooke and Kiltinan families, resided sometime in the city of Cork, subsequently at Tallagh, co. Waterford, and occasionally at Cappoquin and with his relatives at Castle Cooke, co. Cork. In 1686, he purchased the castle and hurgary land of Knockgraffon, or Farronsbonick, co. Tipperary, from Sir Fenton Aylmer, the patentee. He also owned the iron-mines and lands of Arraglin. The school-lands of Solloghid, and a large tract near Tallagh, in the same co., now enjoyed by Lord Bandon, in right of a lady of the Cooke family, were also his. He was, by statute 10 WILL. III., c. 3, appointed a commissioner for assessing the proportion of £120,000 land-tax, to be paid by each inhabitant of the co. Tipperary. He died at Knockgraffon, co. Tipperary, and devised his property to his son and successor,

JOSEPH COOKE, Esq. of Arraglin, who was b. 11 Nov. 1669, and m. 1st, a lady of the Butler family, by whom he had issue two sons, viz.,

i. JOHN, of Cordangan, of whom hereafter.

ii. William, who m. a lady of the Bury family, in the Queen's County, but d. s. p.

Mr. Cooke, by his second wife, Anne Boyce, whose family resided in the co. of Cork, had also issue, viz.,

i. JOSEPH, of Gurrangreny, of whom hereafter.

ii. Samuel, who was an eminent solicitor, and resided at Clanmicken, co. Tipperary. His dau. m. Otway of Castle Otway, in the same co., from which alliance that family adopted the name of Cooke.

iii. Peter, who was in holy orders, and chaplain to Madam Stephen's Hospital, Dublin, where he became the intimate friend of the celebrated Dean Swift. By his wife, Anne, he was father of Hannah, mother of Henry Shewbridge, of Portumna, whose only dau. m. John O'Connor, M.D., of Oakly Park, and had issue, by him, two sons, who were accidentally drowned, in 1825. Peter Cooke had also a second dau., esteemed very beautiful, who d. unm.; and his third dau. was m. to a Mr. Smith. Many of Dean Swift's letters still remain in the hands of Mrs. O'Connor, of Dublin.

Joseph Cooke was entitled to the fee-simple estate of Shronehill, in the co. Tipperary, on which Mr. Damer, with whom he bartered it for the lands of Gurrangreny, in the same county, still enjoyed by his posterity, built a spacious residence known by the name of Damer's Court. He died at Arraglin, and was s. by his son,

JOHN COOKE, Esq. of Cordangan, who was an alderman, and resided some time at Youghal. He had a conveyance, in consideration of a sum of money, from the trustees of forfeited estates, 21 June, 1703, of the lands of Kilrush and Kippane, in the co. Cork. He m. Elizabeth Hobbs, and left (with a son, Samuel, barrister-at-law, who d. unm., and two daus., Elizabeth, wife of David Courtney, Esq., co. Mayo, and Anne, wife of John Waters, Esq.) a son,

JOSEPH COOKE, Esq. of Cordangan, who m. Anne Garriot, and had issue,

JOHN, his heir.

Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. Robert-Carew Armstrong, of Moycliffe, co. Tipperary.

Mary, m. to John Orpen, Esq. of Flintfield, co. Kerry.

The son and heir,

JOHN COOKE, Esq. of Cordangan, who s. his father Joseph, was a barrister-at-law, J. P. and deputy-governor of the co. Tipperary. He m. 10 March, 1783, Mary, dau. of Nicholas Taylor, Esq. of the Island of Antigua, descended from the Taylors of Nine Wells, Notts, and had issue,

JOSEPH, now of Cordangan.

Margaret, m. to Michael Bevan, Esq. of Cammas, co. Limerick.

Arms—Arg., a lion, passant, in bend, between two cottises, gu., on a chief, az., two estoiles, or.

Crest—A demi-lion, rampant, gu., holding between his paws a mallet, or.

Motto—Tu ne cede malis, sed contra audentior ito.

Seat—Cordangan.

JOSEPH COOKE, Esq. of Gurrangreny, son of Joseph, of Arraglin, by Anne Boyce, his second wife, m. Margaret Sheridan, by whom he had issue. Of this gentleman, there is a family tradition to the effect that the Whiteboys having, unnoticed, forced an entrance into his dwelling at Gurrangreny, in a lonely and sequestered part of the co. Tipperary, they tendered a book to him, and with fire-arms presented to his breast, required him to pledge himself to connive at their lawless doings in that quarter of the country. He took the book, but so astonished the nocturnal legislators by swearing hostility to them, that they retired in the greatest confusion without offering him any violence. He d. in 1778, a member of the established church, but his widow, who survived him, and was a Catholic, induced their surviving children to become of her religious persuasion. Joseph Cooke was the last Protestant of this branch of the family. His children were,

i. PETER, b. 3 March, 1725, m. Honora Butler, niece of the Most Rev. James Butler, of the Ballyragget branch of the noble house of Butler, and Roman-catholic Archbishop of Cashel from 1774 to 1791, by whom he had several children, including John, b. in 1764, whose sons Samuel, Peter, Milo, and John, went in 1827 on the unfortunate expedition to South America.

ii. Samuel, b. 16 March, 1727, had a son, Samuel, who entered the army, and was killed by the rebels at Castle-comer in 1798.

iii. JOHN, of Rathmoy, of whom hereafter.

iv. Joseph, b. 12 June, 1737, m. 1st, Miss Harden, sister of John Harden, Esq.; and 2ndly, Margaret, sister of John Cahill, Esq. He d. leaving issue by both marriages.

v. William, b. 9 Nov. 1747, d. unm., and before his father, 8 Dec. 1777.

i. Anne, b. 19 March, 1735, wife of John Lahey.

ii. Hannah, b. 19 Feb. 1741, the wife of Nicholas Bidulph, (father of Lady Waller, and grandfather of Nicholas Bidulph, of Congor House, co. Tipperary, J. P.) by whom she had Hannah, wife of John Green, Esq. of Cappagh-morra, co. Tipperary, father, by her, of Nicholas Green, Esq. of Cappagh-morra, J. P., co. Tipperary.

iii. Margaret, wife of William Ryan, Esq.

iv. Mary, b. in 1750, was wife of William Hunt, Esq. of Glangoole, brother of Vere Hunt, of Curragh, who was created a Baronet, 14 Dec. 1784.

JOHN COOKE, Esq. of Rathmoy, s. his father. He was b. 3 March, 1729-30, and m. 1st, Anne, sister of John Carey, Esq. of Strawhall, co. Cork, whose family was descended from the President of Munster, temp. JAMES I. She d. 4 Oct. 1759, having borne him issue,

i. RICHARD, of whom hereafter.

ii. Joseph, b. 9 June, 1758, m. Miss Meagher, by whom he had John, b. in Oct. 1790, d. before his father, unm., and without issue.

Mr. John Cooke, of Rathmoy, m. 2ndly, Margaret Carey, cousin-german to his former wife, and sister of James Carey, Esq. of Ballymacmoy, co. Cork, by whom he also had issue. He was a man of great loyalty and courage. During his last illness, early in the summer of 1798, the rebels of that period attacked his house for arms and ammunition. He ordered them to be fired on, and after a short, though sharp contest, in which several shots were exchanged, the assailants deemed it prudent to retire. He d. 14 May, 1798, and was s. by his son,

RICHARD COOKE, Esq. of Burrisleigh, co. Tipperary, b. 6 Dec. 1756, who m. 7 Feb. 1780, Mary,* dau. of Jere-

* This lady was, through her father, descended from Major Jeremiah Lalor, who, in 1666, settled, from the Queen's Co. in the co. Tipperary. He fought under JAMES II. at the battle of the Boyne, in 1690, m. the dau. of Kedragh O'Meagher, Esq., by whom he had several sons, of whom,

i. JEREMIAH, of Barnagrotty, was the eldest; of him hereafter.

ii. John.

iii. Mathias, of Killough, who, by his wife, Miss Keily, was father of Elizabeth, who, by James Butler, Esq. of Park, co. Tipperary, was mother of James Butler, Esq., now of Park, m. to Gertrude, dau. of the late Sir John Craven Carden, Bart. of Templemore.

iv. James, of Clobmackoge, who was father of John Lalor, an officer in the 73rd Highland regiment, who marked the ford through the river Cavery for the troops under the Duke of Wellington to storm Seringapatam, in the East Indies, and was killed leading the forlorn hope there, 4 May, 1799. In the prints representing that action, justice is done to the memory of this officer by miah Lalor, Esq. of Barnagrotty, in the King's County. She was b. 8 June, 1759, and d. 25 March, 1835. Richard Cooke d. 22 Feb. 1822. There is an elegant marble cenotaph erected to his memory in the Roman-catholic chapel at Burrisileigh, by his son Thomas. By his wife, Mary Lalor, he had, with several other children, who d. young,

i. WILLIAM, late of Fortwilliam, co. Tipperary, b. 22 March, 1782, and d. in April, 1825. By Margaret, dau. of John Cahill, Esq., he was father of Richard; John, a harrister-at-law; and Agnes, wife of Joseph-William Coppinger, of North Frederick-street, Dublin.

ii. John, of Rathmoy, b. 31 May, 1784, father of Richard, Peter, and several other children.

iii. Richard, b. 16 Aug. 1786, d. unm., 20 May, 1838.

iv. Peter, b. 17 May, 1789, entered the army, by purchase, in the second battalion of the 44th, or East Essex regiment, and was killed while bearing the King's colours at the battle of Quatre Bras, in Belgium, under the Duke of Wellington, 16 June, 1815.

v. Thomas-Lalor, of Parsonstown, King's Co., b. 2 Nov. 1792, m. 18 April, 1816, Lucinda, only dau. (by Ellis, his wife, sister of the late Peter Burke, Esq., J.P., of Elm Hall, co. Tipperary) of John Antisell, Esq., late of Parsonstown, (derived from Christopher Antisell, Esq., who purchased, in 1709, Sraduffe, in the co. of Tipperary, still the seat of his descendant,) and has issue,

1. WILLIAM-ANTISELL. 2. Richard-Plunkett.

3. John. 4. Peter-Burke.

5. Ella, m. in 1847, to Arthur Nugent, Esq. of Cranna, co. Galway.

vi. Samuel, of Brownstown, co. Tipperary, b. 8 Feb. 1796, m. Margaret, dau. of Capt. George Delany, J. P. of the co. Kilkenny, by whom he has issue, George-Delany, and several others.

i. Maria, m. John Max, Esq. of Ballytarsna, co. Tipperary, by whom she has issue.

ii. Anne, relict of Thomas Fitzgerald, Esq. of Cork, who d. without issue.

iii. Susan, relict of Martin Ligan, Esq., deceased, who d. without issue. Since his death she entered a convent, having previously disposed of her property amongst the children of her brother John.

COPE OF DRUMMILLY.

COPE, ANNA GARLAND, of Drummilly, co. Armagh, m. 3 March, 1814, Nathaniel Garland, Esq. of Michaelstow Hall, co. Essex, and Woodcote Grove, co. Surrey, and by him (who is deceased) has issue, EDGAR-WALTER GARLAND, Esq. of Michaelstow Hall, m. Amelia, second dau. of Robert Robertson, Esq. of Auchleeks, co. Perth.

giving a portrait of him, leading on his devoted party in the midst of fire and slaughter.

v. Richard, of Shanakill, m. Eleanor Lidwill, sister of Thomas Lidwill, Esq., late of Clonmore, co. Tipperary.

Major Lalor d. 9 July, 1709, aged 83 years, and was s. by his son,

JEREMIAH LALOR, of Barnagrotty, who m. Miss Smith, of Lisduff, and had issue, John, of Longorchard, who, by Elizabeth, sister of John Doherty, Esq. of Outrath, co. Tipperary, became grandfather of Edmund-Thomas Lalor, now of Cregg, co. Tipperary, of which co. he is a J. P. and D. L., and has served the office of high-sheriff; of Anastasia, relict of Edmund Power, Esq. of Gurteen, co. Waterford, and now wife of the Right Hon. Richard Lalor Shiel, who takes the name of Lalor in consequence of his marriage with her; and of John Lalor, Esq. of Gurteen, co. Tipperary. The last-mentioned Jeremiah Lalor was also, by his said wife, father of JEREMIAH LALOR, Esq. of Barnagrotty, who s. him, and m. Susan Lacroix, dau. of Lacroix, a French physician, (a very learned man, author of a treatise on the Calculus, and several other mathematical works,) by Susan Busmay, a French lady. By her, Jeremiah Lalor had several children, amongst whom were Mary Lalor, mentioned in the text; and Thomas Lalor, Esq. of Killoran, co. Tipperary, who, by his wife, Miss Scully, grand-aunt of Denis Scully, harrister-at-law, and author of a book on the Penal Laws, was maternal grandfather of Solomon Lalor Cambie, Esq. now of Killoran, J. P. The last-mentioned Jeremiah Lalor d. in March, 1778, aged 75 years, and his relict, Susan Lalor, alias Lacroix, d. in January, 1793, aged 76 years. Mary Cooke, alias Lalor, was thus cousin-german both of Thomas Lalor, Esq., father of Thomas-Edmund Lalor, aforesaid, now of Cregg, and of John Lalor, Esq., late of Cranagh, co. Tipperary, a J. P. and deputy-governor of that co., the father of Anastasia, wife of the Right Hon. Richard Lalor Shiel.

Nathaniel-Arthur Garland, in holy orders, of Nonington, co. Kent, m. Mary, eldest dau. of the Rev. Ferdinand Faithful, of Headleigh Rectory, co. Surrey, and has issue, Arthur-Nathaniel.

COPPINGER OF CARHUE.

COPPINGER, STEPHEN, Esq. of Leemount, in the city of Cork, b. in 1791, s. his father in 1829; m. in 1834, Juliana-Maria-Josephina, only dau. of John Walsh, Esq. of Blarney Hill, near Cork, and has issue,

i. THOMAS-STEPHEN.

i. Stephanie.

ii. Mary-Anne.

iii. Margaret.

Mr. Coppinger was called to the Irish bar in 1818.

Lineage.

This family is of great antiquity in the city of Cork. So long since as 1319, the name of Stephen Coppinger appears amongst the list of local officers, (see SMITH'S History of Cork, vol. i. p. 421.) Several old deeds of office of the Coppingers, mayors of Cork in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries, are in the possession of Mr. Coppinger, along with "statutes staple." This family has nearly all its papers preserved.

STEPHEN COPPINGER, mayor of Cork, temp. ELIZABETH, was grandfather of ALDERMAN JOHN COPPINGER, who served corporate office in 1610. He had issue,

I. THOMAS, of whom afterwards.

II. JAMES, whose will, bearing date, 12 April, 1690, bequeathing several estates to his nephew Stephen, is in Mr. Coppinger's possession. He d. unm.

The elder son,

THOMAS COPPINGER, purchased, 18 July, 1636, the estate of Carhue, in the barony of Muskerry, co. Cork, from Callaghan-McDonogh-McCarthy, one of the old chieftains of Muskerry. He m. in 1640, Miss Elizabeth Saarsfield, of Cork, of the family afterwards represented by the titular Earl of Lucan, and had issue,

I. STEPHEN.

II. ROBERT, m. in 1660, Miss Margaret Roche, dau. of Dominick Roche, Esq. of Cork, but had no issue. Amongst the family relics in possession of Mr. Coppinger, is a beautiful gold ornament presented by Robert Coppinger to his wife on her marriage, in 1661. It is stated to be the workmanship of Benvenuto Cellini. In the locket are three exquisite carvings of the Nativity, the Offerings of the Wise Men, and the Crucifixion.

STEPHEN COPPINGER, Esq. of Carhue, the elder son, m. in 1670, Katharine, dau. of Henry Hayes, Esq. of Cork, and was father of

THOMAS COPPINGER, Esq. of Carhue, who m. in 1710, Katharine, dau. of William O'Mahony, Esq. of Ballinamona Abbey, and had issue,

I. STEPHEN, his heir.

II. JOHN, m. Miss Rose Goold, and had issue, two sons: the younger, Henry, was killed in a duel by William Penrose, Esq. of Shandangan; the elder,

THOMAS-JOHN COPPINGER, Esq., filed a bill of discovery against his cousin, Thomas-Stephen Coppinger, Esq. of Carhue, in 1777. He m. Mary, dau. of James Goollock, Esq. of Forest, co. Cork, and had issue,

1. John-Rye, m. 1st, in 1810, Emily, dau. of Henry Leader, Esq. of Mount Leader; and 2ndly, Christabella, eldest dau. of Mathias Hendley, Esq. of Mount Rivers, but had no issue.

2. Thomas, a captain in the 96th foot, who distinguished himself at Waterloo, where he was severely wounded. He m. the relict of Benjamin Friend, Esq. of Limerick, but had no issue.

3. Mary, m. James Thorne, Esq., a captain in the 56th foot, and left issue,

1. Henry, who, pursuant to the will of his uncle, John-Rye Coppinger, assumed his name, and is the present HENRY THORNE COPPINGER, Esq. He m. Anne, only dau. of Roger O'Connor, Esq. of Fort Robert, co. Cork, and niece to Gen. Arthur O'Connor.

2. George, an ensign in the 56th regiment of foot.

III. THOMAS, d. unm. at Gottenburgh. He was a zealous adherent of Charles-Edward; was engaged in diplomatic service on behalf of the Stuart family, and received several marks of favour at the French court. Amongst other relics of the Stuarts, Mr. Coppinger has now in his possession a mother-of-pearl snuff-box, inlaid with precious diamonds, and containing a miniature of the old Chevalier, given to Thomas, at Rome, by Pope BENEDICT XIV.

I. Elizabeth, m. to Richard Hennesey, Esq. of Killavullen.

II. Margaret, m. her cousin, Robert O'Mahoney, of Ballinamona.

The eldest son,

STEPHEN COPPINGER, Esq. of Carhue, m. in 1743, Miss Mary Goold, of Ahaballogue, and had issue,

I. THOMAS-STEPHEN, his heir.

I. Elizabeth, m. Denis O'Leary, Esq., commonly called "The O'Leary," head of the O'Learys of Eveleary, and had issue,

1. Denis, of Coolmountain Lodge.

2. Richard, of Hedgefield House.

The only son,

THOMAS-STEPHEN COPPINGER, Esq., possessed Carhue in 1776; but he was a Catholic, and by the penal laws a member of a Catholic family, on becoming a Protestant, and filing a bill of discovery, could compel the estate to be broken up, and go by gavelkind. Under this law his cousin, Thomas-John Coppinger, filed a bill in 1777 against him, and obtained possession of half the estates of Carhue. It was the last time in Ireland that the operation of the penal laws, in their more severe form, was put in force. Thomas-Stephen was dispossessed of the demesne lands of Carhue, and built a mansion at Leemount. He was a very interesting character, being a most accomplished gentleman, a scholar, and a traveller. At the time the bill was filed against him for being "a Papist," it was likely that the law would be repealed, and some friends recommended him to conform to the established church for a brief period, but he refused to do so, and said that "he would sooner be a victim to the law than an apostate to his conscience." (For an account of him, see a work entitled, Ireland and its Rulers, vol. ii. p. 201.) He m. in 1788, Helena, dau. of Geoffrey-O. Hanlahan, Esq., and had issue,

I. STEPHEN, the present head of the family.

II. THOMAS, of Sandy Hill, m. in 1824, Margaret, relict of David Barry, Esq. of Macroom, and dau. of Owen Madden, Esq. of Convoys House (see MADDEN OF DUHALLOW,) and left issue, one son, THOMAS-STEPHEN, who s. him in 1837.

III. RICHARD, of Green Lodge, m. Anne, only dau. of Stephen McCarthy, Esq. of Cork, and has issue,

1. Mary-Anne.

2. Margaret.

IV. DOMINICK,

V. WILLIAM,

I. MARY-ANNE,

} d. unm.

Mr. Coppinger d. in 1829, and was s. by his eldest son, the present STEPHEN COPPINGER, Esq. of Leemount, who, prior to the concession of the Catholic claims, in 1829, played a prominent part in political affairs. Having been secretary to the Catholics of Munster, he was a leading member of the Catholic Association, and on various occasions received its thanks.

Crest—A demi-lion rampant.

Motto—Virtute non vi.

Seats—Carhue Hall and Leemount, co. Cork.

COPPINGER OF MUSKERRY.

COPPINGER, THOMAS-STEPHEN, Esq. of Sandy Hill, in the barony of Muskerry, b. in 1824, and s. his father in 1837. (See preceding article.)

Arms, &c.—The same as COPPINGER OF CARHUE.

Seats—Sandy Hill and Bealnagree Lodge, both in co. Cork.

HOLLAND-CORBETT OF ADMINGTON HALL.

HOLLAND-CORBETT, CORBETT, Esq. of Admington Hall, co. Gloucester, b. in 1794; m. in 1829, Louisa, seventh dau. of the late John Elmslie, Esq. of London. This gentleman, a magistrate for the counties of Gloucester, Worcester, and Warwick, is son of Francis Holland, Esq. of Crossthorpe, co. Worcester, by Anne, his wife, dau. of Michael Corbett, Esq. of Quinton, co. Gloucester, and assumed by letters patent, 2 May, 1839, the additional surname and arms of CORBETT, on succeeding his maternal uncle, Michael Corbett, Esq., in the Admington Hall estate. He has one brother and five sisters, viz.,

Francis Holland, Esq. of Crossthorpe, near Pershore, co. Worcester, J. P., who m. Jane, eldest dau. of the late — Warry, Esq. of co. Somerset, and has issue two sons and a dau., viz.,

Francis-Dermock.

Corbett.

Jane-Corbett.

Maria-Corbett, m. to Frederick Vandeburgh, Esq., M.D., of Liverpool.

Mary-Anne.

Elizabeth, m. to — Addame, Esq. of co. Somerset.

Susan, m. to J.-T. Addam, Esq. of Cheltenham.

Caroline, m. to Charles Best, Esq. of co. Worcester.

COULTHART OF COULTHART AND COLLYN.

COULTHART, WILLIAM, of Coulthart, co. Wig-toun, and Collyn, co. Dumfries, Esq., Chief of the name, COULTHART, b. 21 March, 1774; m. 3 Sept. 1801, Helen, second dau. of the late John Ross, Esq. of Dalton, co. Dumfries, a descendant of the Rosses of Hawkhead, co. Renfrew, and collaterally connected through that family with the Earls of Glasgow. Mr. Coulthart has issue,

JOHN-ROSS, b. 24 June, 1809, a banker at Ashton-under-Lyne, co. Lancaster.

Margaret, m. 25 March, 1833, to James Macguffie, Esq. of Crossmichael, co. Kirkcudbright, and has issue,

1. William, b. 12 Oct. 1835.
2. John, b. 11 March, 1839.
3. James, b. 8 Feb. 1841.
4. Thomas, b. 13 Sept. 1843.
1. Helen, b. 19 Jan. 1834.
2. Agnes, b. 1 Feb. 1837.
3. Margaret, b. 13 Sept. 1843.
4. Mary, b. 3 July, 1846.

Mr. Coulthart s. to the estates of the family, and the chiefship of the name, on the death of his father, in 1807.

Lineage.

The Coultharts are of the highest antiquity in the south of Scotland, and derive their name and descent from COULTHARTUS, a Roman Lieutenant, who, according to Tacitus, contracted marriage with Marsa, dau. of Kadalayne, chief of the Novantes, and thereby acquiring possessions at Leucaphibia, settled in that part of North Britain, soon after the decisive engagement under Agricola, at the foot of the Grampian mountains. In Ptolemy's time, Coulthartus dwelt near Epicum, and Bede records that in A.D. 707, descendants of the same Roman officer lived near Candida Casa, which historians agree refer to the same locality, namely, the Whithorn of modern maps. In the early chronicles, we find John de Coulthart, a lineal descendant of Coulthartus, actively engaged, as a cadet under Walwein, in resisting the encroachments of the King of Northumbria, when that powerful prince subdued the Strathclyd Britons, and added the kingdom of Galloway to his other possessions. As further evidence of the great antiquity of the Coultharts, it may be mentioned that there is carefully preserved by the present representative of the family, a marriage settlement, bearing date the twenty-first year of the reign of King KENNETH III., made between one Angus de Cumin, near Quhytherne, of one part, and Waluain de Cumin and Rouland de Duffus of another part, whereby certain lands, situated near Quhytherne, were conveyed in trust to the said Waluain de Cumin and Rowland de Duffus, by the said Angus de Cumin, in contemplation of her marriage with William de Coulthart and Largmore. Also in the records of the parish of Carsperne, mention is made of Robert de Coulthart and Largmore giving ten merks to the poor in the eighteenth year of the reign of King ALEXANDER II., but from that date till 1427, neither the historical narratives of the times, the registers of the surrounding parishes, nor the private papers of the family, afford information sufficient to connect the lineal descent. Confining our details, therefore, to the evidence of documents clearly authentic, and commencing our chronicle at a period of the family history which is subsequently corroborated by concurrent testimony, we deduce the genealogy from

SIR ROGER DE COULTHART, CHIEF OF COULTHART, co. Wigtoun, and of Largmore, in the stewardry of Kirkcudbright, who m. (covenants dated on the eve of St. Martin's feast, in the third year of the reign of King JAMES I. of Scotland) Margery, dau. and co-heiress of John the Ross, of Renfrew, Knt., and maternally co-heiress of Macknyghte, of Macknyghte and Glendonyn of that ilk. By that heiress, Sir Roger had (with other children),

ROGER (Sir), his heir.

Lincage.

This very ancient Irish family claim to be a branch of the "Hy Niall" race, descended from Eogan, son of Niall of the Nine Hostages, from whom sprang many illustrious families of the ancient Irish; amongst others, that of "O'Niall," always Kings of Tyrone, and sometimes monarchs of Ireland; even so late as the reign of ELIZABETH, "O'Niall" was obeyed as monarch by his own sept. Collateral with the family of "The O'Niall of Ulster, Chief of Tyrone," was "O'Craoibhe," "Creavh," or "Creagh," as it has been written for centuries. Some writers, and the tradition in the family, account for the change of name from O'Niall to Creagh, as follows:—"One of the princes of the Hy Niall dynasty led his clan from Ulster to the assistance of Limerick, against the Danes, and they being expelled therefrom, through his timely aid, the citizens placed green boughs in the head-stalls of their deliverers' horses; thence the chief was named "O'Niall na Creavh," signifying, "O'Niall of the Green Branch." In commemoration of this event, the crest of the family has since been, "The head of a war-horse, bearing a laurel branch in the head-stall of his bridle." We find the family settled in Limerick and its neighbourhood in the beginning of the 13th century, and Mr. Creagh possesses property in that city, part of the estates of "O'Niall of the Branches," granted to him by the grateful citizens, which was never forfeited, paying neither quit nor crown rent, his title being antiquity of possession.

That branch of the descendants of the Hy Niall prince now before us was settled in the city of Cork, in or previous to the time of EDWARD III., where they continued to reside, having attained great opulence as merchants, and intermarried with the leading families within the city, until expelled therefrom (with the other ancient Irish inhabitants) about the year 1644, when they lost their great wealth, and a few of the family returning after the troubles, others settled in the county.

JOHN CREAGH, the earliest settler in Cork of whom anything has been ascertained, left a son,

WILLIAM CREAGH, father of

JOHN CREAGH, living in the early part of the reign of RICHARD II., or end of that of EDWARD III. He m. a dau. of the family of Wynhedon, and dying about 1420, left a son,

STEPHEN CREAGH, who lived in the reigns of HENRY V. and HENRY VI., and d. in that of EDWARD IV., about the year 1466, leaving, by Joan Skiddy, a son,

WILLIAM CREAGH, who m. Jane Galway, and dying about 1521, left a son,

CHRISTOPHER CREAGH, b. in 1486 or 1487, and living 8 ELIZABETH, was mayor of Cork in 1541, and a man of great influence and power amongst the native Irish. He was appointed, in conjunction with the Earl of Desmond, the Bishops of Cork, Ross, and Waterford, and others, by the then lord-deputy, Sir Anthony St. Leger, and the privy council, judges and arbitrators in Munster, to hear and determine all controversies amongst the natives for the future, instead of their Irish Brehons. He m. Mary, dau. of Dom'nick Roche, of the family of the Lords Roche, or De la Rupe, of Fermoy, and was s. by his son,

JOHN CREAGH, who m. (articles dated 15 May, 1557) Mary, dau. of Michael, and granddau. of John Waters, (an eminent citizen of Cork, who was executed for aiding Perkin Warbeck, in 1492,) and d. about 1601, leaving issue,

Elizabeth, m. in 1786, Major Daniel Mahony, of Dunlough Castle, in the co. Kerry, and left issue, inter alios, Daniel, now of Dunlough,

The eldest son of William Creagh and Ellen Roche,

JOHN CREAGH, b. in 1631, m. Julia, or Giles Verdon. John Creagh was one of those denominated "ancient Irish inhabitants," and, when a boy, was, with his father, William, expelled the city, to which he never returned, but d. and was buried at Clonfert, near Newmarket, co. Cork. He left issue,

i. JOHN, of whom presently.

ii. William, m. Catharine Rice, of the co. Kerry, and left Michael, m. Joanna, dau. of Charles McCarthy, of Stonefield, co. Cork, and had a son,

William, of Oldtown, near Doneraile, in the said county, m. in 1770, Sarah Nagle, of Annakissy, in the same shire, and left issue, three sons and four daus.,

1. Michael, d. s. p.
2. Pierce, m. Isabella Leeson, settlement dated 19 Feb. 1803, and has issue,
William, b. in 1811.
Isabella, m. in 1836, to Edmond Barry, of Middleton, co. Cork.

3. James.

1. Jane, m. to William Hickie, of Lishton, co. Kerry.

2. Hannah, m. Murtagh O'Connor, of Abanagran, in the same shire, a descendant of "The O'Connor, Kerry."

3. Teresa, m. to Edward Nagle, of Cloghers, co. Cork.

4. Eliza, d. unm.

iii. Stephen, d. without issue.

iv. Dominick, m. Margaret Barrett, and settled in Kerry. He left a son,

Francis, m. Jane Mason, who left (with a younger son, Francis) a son,

John, m. Anne Carey, and, left with a younger son, Moncton, now living, unm., an elder son,

Francis, m. Martha Mason, of Ahamore, co. Kerry, and left issue,

John, now of Dromartin, co. Kerry.

The eldest son of John Creagh and Julia, or Giles Verdon,

JOHN CREAGH, Esq., b. in 1667, was of Kilowen, co. Cork. He m. in 1695, Elinor, dau. of Col. John Barrett, who forfeited, in 1688, his estates, and castle of Castlemore, for his adhesion to the cause of King JAMES, and fled to Spain; by her (who, with her husband, lies buried at Clonfert, near Newmarket, in his father's tomb) he had issue six sons and one dau.,

CREAGH OF DANGAN.

CREAGH, RICHARD, Esq. of Dangan, co. Clare, became representative of the family, on the death of his uncle, the late Robert Creagh, Esq., in 1842. Mr. Creagh has been declared a lunatic, and the estates are now vested in the Court of Chancery.

Lineage.

The Creaghs are descended from the O'Neils, whose name they originally bore, and which was changed into "Creagh," signifying in Irish, "a green bough;" according to tradition, upon an occasion when a tribe of the O'Neils, affording assistance to the citizens of Limerick in expelling the Danes, exhibited great valour, and wore green boughs in their hats. The head of the clan and his descendants settled at Adare, and acquired considerable influence in the neighbouring city of Limerick, where for centuries they were connected with its municipal government. Richard Creagh, of Limerick, Archbishop of Armagh, who d. in the Tower of London in 1587, was of this family.

PIERSE CREAGH, Esq. of Adare, mayor of Limerick in 1651, son and heir of PIERSE CREAGH, Esq. of Adare, M.P. for the city of Limerick in 1639, was deprived of his estate of Adare for having corresponded with the Duke of Ormonde, and forced to take refuge on the Continent, where he remained in the service of the French King until the Restoration, when he returned, and applied to the Court of Claims for a restitution of his estates, which had been parcelled out among CROMWELL's officers and soldiers. In this he was unsuccessful, but through the interest of the Duke of Ormonde, King CHARLES II. granted, by patent enrolled 10 Oct. 1666, to him and his heirs, the castle, town, and lands of Dangan, Carlrudurick, Gurteen, and various other townlands, all in the county of Clare, which lands were further secured to him by the 17th and 18th CHARLES II., and were erected into a manor, with divers manorial rights and privileges. This Pierse Creagh m. in 1639, M. MacNamara, of Creattalough, or Cratloe Castle, co. Clare, and d. in 1670, at his Castle of Dangan, as is recorded on an ancient monument in the old Franciscan Abbey of Ennis. He was s. by his son,

SIMON CREAGH, Esq. of Dangan, who m. Mary MacMahon, of the Castle of Clenagh, niece to the famous Mauriah Rhu MacMahon, wife of Sir Donat O'Brien, Bart. of Dromoland, and was father of

PIERSE CREAGH, Esq. of Dangan, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of George Matthew, Esq. of Thomastown, co. Tipperary, (by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Sir John Pointz, Bart. of Acton, co. Gloucester, and relict of Thomas, Viscount Thurles, eldest son of Walter, eleventh Earl of Ormonde,) and aunt to the first Lord Llandaff, and had issue a son and dau, PIERSE, his heir; and Elizabeth, m. to Davoren, of Lisdoonvarna, and had an only surviving child, Elizabeth, m. to Bartholomew MacNamara, cousin to Major MacNamara, M.P. for Clare, and had a dau., Dora, m. to her cousin, Simon Creagh, Esq. Mr. Pierse Creagh, on his marriage, built the mansion at present standing at Dangan, and the family removed from the Castle. He was s. by his son,

PIERSE CREAGH, Esq. of Dangan, who m. thrice: 1st, in 1738, Catherine, dau. of Valentine Quin, of Adare, and aunt to the first Earl of Dunraven and Mountearl, but had no surviving issue; 2ndly, in 1755, Gertrude Maghlin, of Brickhill, and by her had a son, ROBERT, his heir, of whom presently; and 3rdly, in 1759, Lavinia, dau. of Richard Pennefather, of Newpark, and aunt of the present Chief Justice of Ireland and Baron Pennefather, and by this lady had two sons and a dau.,

Richard, m. Christina O'Callaghan, of Maryfort, and d. in 1836, leaving two sons, RICHARD, present representative, and Cornelius, deceased.

Simon, m. his cousin, Dora, dau. of B. MacNamara, Esq., by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Davoren, of Lisdoonvarna, and d. in 1815, leaving four sons, 1. Pierse (next in remainder to the Dangan estate), m. in 1836, Belinda, dau. of Walter Butler, Esq. of Bunmahow, co. Clare, and has a son, Simon, and two daus., Henrietta and Belinda; 2. Simon; 3. MacNamara; and, 4. Richard.
Charity, m. to Gerald Carrick, Esq.

Mr. Creagh d. in 1780, when he was s. by his eldest son, ROBERT CREAGH, Esq. of Dangan, who became a lunatic in 1792, when his property was vested in the Court of Chancery. He d. s. p. in 1842, when the representation devolved upon his nephew, RICHARD.

Arms—Arg., three laurel-branches, ppr., on a chief, az., as many bezants.
Crest—A horse's head, fully caparisoned, with a laurel branch in the head-stall of the bridle.

This gentleman was served heir of line in general to James Crichton, 1st Viscount Frendraught, in June, 1839.

Lineage.

The family of Crichton is one of the oldest and most distinguished in Scotland.

WILLIAM CRICHTON, high-chancellor of Scotland, (son of John Crichton, of Crichton, whose second son, Stephen, of Cairns, was father of the Earl of Caithness,) made a conspicuous figure in Scottish history in the reigns of Kings JAMES I. and II. His first public appearance was in 1423, when he went to England to wait upon King JAMES I., and conduct him home. According to Fordun, he was created Lord Crichton in 1445, and re-appointed high-chancellor in 1447. The next year he passed on a solemn embassy to France, to renew the alliance with that kingdom, and conclude the marriage of King JAMES II. with Mary, dau. of Arnald, Duke of Guelders, which he happily settled. On the chancellor's return home, he founded the collegiate church of Crichton, 26 Dec. 1449, and continued prime minister of Scotland till his death, in 1454. By Agnes, his wife, he had a son,

JAMES CRICHTON, 2nd Lord Crichton, knighted by King JAMES I. at the baptism of his eldest son, in 1430. He m. Lady Janet Dunbar, eldest dau. and co-heir of James, Earl of Moray, with whom he got the barony of Frendraught. He was, under the designation of Sir James Crichton, of Frendraught, appointed great chamberlain of Scotland in 1440, and held that office till 1453. He d. about 1469, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM CRICHTON, 3rd Lord Crichton, who having joined the Duke of Albany in his rebellion against King JAMES III., garrisoned his castle of Crichton on behalf of the duke, for which he was forfeited by the parliament of Scotland, 24 Feb. 1483-4. He m. the Princess Margaret of Scotland, second dau. of King JAMES II., who was son of King JAMES I., by the Lady Joan Beaufort, his queen, granddau. of John of Gaunt, Duke of Lancaster. (See BURKE'S Royal Families, Pedigree CVII.) By this illustrious alliance, Lord Crichton had a son,

SIR JAMES CRICHTON, who m. Catherine, eldest dau. of William, Lord Borthwick, by whom he had a son,

WILLIAM CRICHTON, of Frendraught, who, by Agnes Abernethy, his wife, was father of

SIR JAMES CRICHTON, of Frendraught, who, by Lady Johanna Keith, his wife, sixth dau. of William, 4th Earl Marischal, left a son,

JAMES CRICHTON, of Frendraught, who, by Janet, his wife, dau. of Alexander Gordon, of Lesmoir, had issue,

JAMES, his heir.

Anne, m. to William Seton, of Meldrum.

Mary, m. to Patrick, Lord Oliphant.

JAMES CRICHTON, of Frendraught, the only son, had the family estates made over to him by his father. He m. 25 Feb. 1619, Lady Elizabeth Gordon, eldest dau. of John, 12th Earl of Sutherland, by whom he had a son,

JAMES CRICHTON, of Frendraught, who was, in the lifetime of his father, advanced to the peerage, in consideration of his father being heir male of Lord Crichton, and created VISCOUNT OF FENDRAUGHT, and Lord Crichton, to him and his heirs whatsoever, by patent, dated at Nottingham, 27 Aug. 1642. His lordship accompanied the Marquess of Montrose in his last expedition, and was with him at Invercharron, when he was defeated by Strachan, in 1650. Montrose's horse being shot under him, he was generously remounted by the viscount, and thus escaped for a few days. "The Viscount of Frendraught," says Douglas, "being made prisoner, to prevent public vengeance, preferred a Roman death." His lordship m. 1st, Lady Janet Leslie, second dau. of Alexander, 1st Earl of Leven, by whom he had a dau.,

JANET, of whom presently.

His lordship m. 2ndly, 8 Nov. 1642, Marion, dau. of Sir Alexander Irvine, of Drum, and by her had two sons,

JAMES, 2nd VISCOUNT OF FENDRAUGHT, s. his father in 1665, m. Christian, dau. of Sir Alexander Urquhart, of Cromarty, and relict of Lord Ruthven, and by her (who m. 3rdly, George Morison, of Bognie) had a son and heir, WILLIAM, 3rd VISCOUNT OF FENDRAUGHT, s. in 1678, d. in his minority, unm., previously to 9 Dec. 1686, and was s. by his uncle.

LEWIS, 4th VISCOUNT OF FENDRAUGHT, s. his nephew. He m. Lady Marion Seton, and d. s. p. 26 Feb. 1698, when the title became dormant.

The dau. of the first marriage,

THE HON. JANET CRICHTON, m. in 1665, SIR JAMES MAKGILL, of Rankeilour, eldest son and heir of David Makgill, Esq. of Rankeilour, and was mother of an only son, Elizabeth-Charlotte. Charlotte-Susanna.

Mr. Croft s. his mother, who d. at Chichester, 9 Sept. 1832.

Lineage.

The family of Croft, which is of Saxon origin, settled in Herefordshire at a very remote period. Camden, in his description of that county, says, "Not far off (from Richard's Castle) stands Croft Castle, belonging to the very ancient and knightly family of the Crofts;" and in Domesday Book, Bernard de Croft is mentioned as holding the lands of Croft, which his descendants inherited until the close of the 18th century.

From an almost uninterrupted line of knights, distinguished alike in council and in arms, descended

SIR JOHN DE CROFT,* Knt. of Croft Castle, co. Hereford, capt. of Merk Castle, near Calais, who was frequently employed in negotiations in Flanders, between 1402 and 1404. He m. Janet, dau. and presumed co-heir of Owen ap Griffith Vychan, Lord of Glynrdwrdwy, in Merionethshire, the renowned OWEN GLENDOWER, representative of the Princes of Powys, (see HUGHES of GWERCLAS,) and was father of WILLIAM DE CROFT, whose son was

SIR RICHARD CROFT, Knt. of Croft Castle, high-sheriff of the co. of Hereford, the captor of Prince Edward, son of HENRY VI., at the battle of Tewkesbury, in 1471. This gallant soldier was appointed treasurer of the household to HENRY VII., and had the high honour of knight-baneret conferred upon him at the battle of Stoke, in 1487. He m. Eleanor, dau. of Sir Edward Cornwall, of Burford, and widow of Sir Hugh Mortimer, Knt., and d. 29 July, 1 HENRY VIII., 1509, leaving (with other issue) an elder son and heir,

SIR EDWARD CROFT, Knt. of Croft Castle, sheriff of Hereford, 20 HENRY VII., and 5, 9, 21, and 25 HENRY VIII., and appointed one of the learned counsel to the Princess Mary, (afterwards Queen,) 17 HENRY VIII. He m. Joyce, dau. and sole heir of Sir Walter Skull, of the Holt, co. Worcester, and was father (with other children) of

RICHARD CROFT, Esq., who m. Katherine, dau. of Sir Richard Herbert, Knt. of Montgomery, and was father of

SIR JAMES CROFT, Knt., M.P. for the co. of Hereford, lord-deputy of Ireland in 1552, and subsequently privy-councillor and comptroller of the household to Queen ELIZABETH. He m. Alice, dau. of Richard Warcombe, and relict of William Wygmore, and d. 4 Sept., 32 ELIZ., 1590, and was s. by his eldest son,

EDWARD CROFT, Esq. of Croft, M.P. for Leominster in 1571 and 1586, who m. Anne, dau. and heir of Thomas Browne, of Aldborough, co. Norfolk, and d. 29 July, 1601, when he was s. by his elder son,

SIR HERBERT CROFT, Knt., M.P. for the co. of Hereford, temp. ELIZABETH and JAMES I. This gentleman, espousing the doctrines of the church of Rome, in 1607, became a lay-brother of the Benedictine monastery at Douay, where he d. 10 April, 1622. He had previously married, and left four sons and two daus. Sir William, the eldest son, fell, gallantly fighting under the royal banner, at Stoke Castle, near Ludlow, 9 June, 1645. Sir James, the second son, was also an officer of rank in the royal army, as was Robert, the fourth son, and all d. without issue. The third son,

HERBERT CROFT, s. his father. This gentleman, after Sir Herbert's adoption of the Roman-catholic faith, was removed from Oxford to Douay, and thence to the English college of Jesuits at St. Omer's, where he became reconciled to the church of Rome. Immediately, however, after his father's death, he returned to England, and being acquainted with Morton, Bishop of Durham, was induced by that prelate to return to the church of England, and at the desire of Dr. Laud, re-entered the university of Oxford. He subsequently took orders, and was advanced, in 1660, to the bishopric of Hereford, and appointed, in 1667, dean of the chapel-royal. His lordship m. Anne, dau. of the Rev. Jonathan Brown, D.D., dean of Hereford, and dying 12 May, 1691, was s. by his only son,

SIR HERBERT CROFT, M.P. for the co. of Hereford, who had been created a Baronet, 18 Nov. 1671. Sir Herbert m. Elizabeth,† dau. of Thomas Archer, Esq. of Umberslade, co. Warwick, by whom (who d. in 1709) he had (with others),

CROMPTON OF CROMPTON, LANCASHIRE,

With Collaterals, including CROMPTON OF DRIFFIELD.

The representation of CROMPTON OF CROMPTON is vested in the descendants of three co-heirs, severally wives of Hamer, Nuthall, and Hide, in 1664; and that of the eldest branch of the CROMPTONS OF DRIFFIELD in Lord Lyttleton.

The possession of the FEE OF CROMPTON by this family, before assumption of the local name, and in the time of King JOHN, is proved by existing charters consequent on litigation between the monks of Roche Abbey and SIMON DE LA LECH, alias DE CROMPTON. The lands contested formed part of Crompton township, in Oldham chapelry and Prestwich parish, in Lancashire, but on the mountainous edge of Yorkshire.

From ROBERT DE CROMPTON (named therein as son of SIMON DE LA LECH) an almost unbroken deduction has been traced, from the Hide deeds in the Harleian MSS., wills, and inquisitions, down to 1664, when the direct line ended in three co-heirs, severally wives of Hamer, Nuthall, and Hide of Denton. To the last of these, Dugdale allowed the arms proved by ancient seals, "Gules, a fesse, wavy, between three lions, rampant, or."

Three distinct branches of Cromptons are referred to this parent line by heraldic evidence more or less direct, and descent is also claimed by families of the name near the old locality.

I. A line settled in London, temp. HENRY VIII., which divided into two branches, severally purchasers of STAFFORD PRIORY and STONE ABBEY. To the second of these, Vincent assigns the arms of the Lancashire line, but both afterwards adopted a different bearing, "Arg., on a chief, vert, three pheons, or."

These branches produced Sir Thomas Crompton, Judge of the Admiralty Court, temp. ELIZABETH; Richard Crompton, of Bedford Grange, Lancashire, and of Checkley, Staffordshire, a learned legal writer of the same reign; and Thomas Crompton, of Stone Park, Colonel of the local parliamentary forces. Descendants also settled at Bache Hall, near Chester.

II. A second branch, to which Randle Holmes assigns the same arms, was at BRIGHTMET FOLD, in Bolton parish, Lancashire, temp. HENRY VII. or VIII., and, subsequently, a leading family there. Much is said of them in "The Life of Oliver Heywood," who m. a dau. of this house, and from one of their numerous ramifications came a second line, (also of Brightmet,) from which the non-conformist Derby line descended.

III. The third collateral line, and the best authenticated of these branches, is that generally known as CROMPTON OF DRIFFIELD, to which the arms of the parent line were successively allowed by Dethick about 1586, and by Dugdale, in the Yorkshire Visitation of 1666.

JOHN CROMPTON, their progenitor, a younger brother or very near relative of the parent house, was (according to the Hulton pedigree, Coll. Arm.) of Prestolee, in Prestwich parish, (immediately adjacent to Darcy Lever, in Bolton parish, hereafter mentioned,) and m. Catherine, dau. of Alan Hulton, of Farnworth, about the time of HENRY VII., as by the Visitation of 1567.

JOHN CROMPTON, of the same place, (successor and seemingly son of the preceding,) m. Anne, dau. of Ralph Assheton, Esq. of Great Lever, and agreeably to a pedigree by Vincent, (Coll. Arm.,) confirmed by Wills, had issue,

I. JOHN, steward of the royal manor of Beverley, Yorkshire, supposed s. p.

II. THOMAS, auditor of the Exchequer, of whom hereafter.

III. RICHARD, hereafter mentioned in the account of CROMPTON OF HACKING.

THOMAS CROMPTON, (second son of John Crompton and Anne Assheton,) m. Mary, dau. of Robert Hodgson, of London, Auditor of the Exchequer to Queen ELIZABETH, to which office he succeeded. From this, from extensive connexions with the court, and from family connexions with the Asshetons and Braddyls, who were great grantees of monastic lands, he was enabled to establish a crown agency of almost unprecedented extent. Of this, abundant evidences will be found in the Records of the Rolls, and range through the greater portion of the English counties. "Crompton's Buildings," in the Inner Temple, rebuilt by him, according to Dugdale, formed his London residence. His country seats were Houndslow Priory, Middlesex, where he was interred in 1601; Skerne Lordship, near Driffield, in Yorkshire; and Bennington Park, Herts, where he left his widow surviving, by whom he had the following issue,

I. THOMAS (Sir), noticed below.

II. John (Sir), of Skerne Manor, co. York, heir male to his brother, knighted in 1608, and buried in the Temple Church, in 1623, leaving issue by his wife, (a sister of Sir Herbert Crofts, of Suffolk,) Sir Robert Crompton, who, by his wife, Catherine, (sister of Sir John Holland,) had one dau. and heiress, Catherine. This lady d. unm. in 1669, devising her estates to Henry North, Esq., whom she was engaged to marry, as by her memorial at West Woodhay, Berks.

III. Robert, of Great Driffield, Yorkshire, thrice m., and leaving issue, of whom the eldest, an active and suffering royalist, had allowance of the family arms in Dugdale's Visitation of 1666.

- iv. Edward, of Leckenfield.
 - i. Mary, wife of Sir William Gee, Knt. of Bishop Burton, Yorkshire.
 - ii. Sarah, wife of Francis Theobald, Esq.
 - iii. Frances, wife of Sir Robert Fenne, Knt., Clerk Comptroller of the Household.
- And other daus.

SIR THOMAS CROMPTON, son and heir of the Auditor, was knighted at Hanworth, in 1603, and was slain by a robber, near Abbeville, in 1606, leaving issue, one dau. and heiress, CATHERINE, by his wife, Meriall, (sister of Henry, first Lord Falkland,) who d. in 1600, soon after her daughter's birth, and has a monument at Aldenham, Herts.

CATHERINE CROMPTON, (sole dau. and heiress of Sir Thomas Crompton,) b. in 1599, brought her estates, in marriage, to Sir Thomas Lyttleton, of Frankley, with whom she suffered much for the royal cause during the Civil War. Nash and Collins speak highly in her praise, and give her monumental memorial, in Worcester Cathedral, where she was interred in 1666.

The collateral representative is the present LORD LYTTLETON.

Arms—As CROMPTON OF CROMPTON, before mentioned; for difference, a crescent.

Crest—On a wreath, a talbot, sejant, or; according to Dugdale, elevating the dexter paw; according to Dethick, resting it on a coiled rope, gules.

CROMPTON OF HACKING, CO. LANCASTER,

And Collateral Line of CROMPTON OF PILKINGTON.

The direct male line of the eldest branch of CROMPTON OF HACKING terminated about the middle of the last century.

That of the collateral line of OLD HALL, in PILKINGTON, is represented by the descendants of three co-beirs, living, as follows, in 1847:—

- I. GEORGE ORMEROD, Esq., D.C.L., F.R.S., of Tyldesley and Sedbury; for whose paternal descent, see vol. ii. p. 974.
- II. HORNBY ROUGHSEGE, Esq. of Foxghyll, co. Westmorland; for whom, see vol. ii. p. 1149.
- III. GEORGE TOMLINE, Esq. of Riby, co. Lincoln, M.P., and Mrs. HARRIET MALTBY, of Bath, as co-heirs of Rebecca Crompton, wife of John Rigby, Esq. of Oldfield, co. Chester.

The descent of Crompton, of Hacking Hall, in Darcy Lever, (Bolton parish, Lancashire,) as entered in the College of Arms, commences in the reign of HENRY VIII., with RICHARD CROMPTON, considered, from documentary evidences, and circumstances of property and connexions, to be identical with Richard Crompton, (third son of John Crompton, by his wife, Anne Assheton,) named in the preceding article. On his death, in or shortly before 1598, James Crompton, a younger son, (contrary to the tenure in Darcy Lever,) entered into possession of the estate and hall, which is an ancient timber fabric, partly rebuilt in 1604, and separated by the stream of the Eagley from Great Lever, formerly the seat of the Assbetons, and previously mentioned in the account of CROMPTON OF DRIFFIELD.

JOHN CROMPTON, son and heir of Richard, subsequently repossessed himself, by proceedings in the Duchy Court in 1602, and dying in 1614, left issue,

- i. ELLIS, son and heir.
 - ii. Thomas, of Darcy Lever and Brightmet, a benefactor to the school and church of Bolton, and there buried in 1628.
 - iii. Robert.
- And several daus.

ELLIS CROMPTON, son and heir of John, d. in 1632, (as appears by two inquisitions, post mortem), holding Hacking direct from the lordship of Manchester, (the mesne tenure under Darcy Lever having been changed,) and was s. by his grandson, JOHN, son of John Crompton.

JOHN CROMPTON, (who thus d. before his father, Ellis,) left issue,

JOHN, heir to his grandfather.

Rebecca, wife of Henry Crompton, representative of a collateral line of the Brightmet family, and elder brother of John Crompton, M.A., the excellent and well known nonconformist rector of Brailsford, who was progenitor of the families of the same name settled at Woodend, Milford, and Chorley, and of other branches.*

JOHN CROMPTON, grandson and heir of Ellis, and aged fifteen years at his death, in 1632, m. Cecilia, dau. of — Crompton, of the same parish, and by her was father of,

- i. John, who d. s. p. in 1703.
- ii. Ellis, heir to his brother, from whom, in the third descent, JOHN CROMPTON, by whom and his sisters, Hacking Hall was sold in 1735. It has been united subsequently to the Great Lever estate, by purchase of the late Earl of Bradford.
- iii. James.
- iv. JOSHUA, of Old Hall, in Pilkington, of whom below.
- v. Samuel.
- vi. Joseph, of Haugh Hall, in Bolton parish, from whom male issue.
- i. Grace, wife of James Fernyside, by whom two daus., namely,

1. Esther, wife of Peter Baron, of Redivals, in Bury parish.
2. Elizabeth, wife of Richard Hardman, of Roehdale, merchant, and mother of James Hardman, Esq. of Allerton Hall, and of John Hardman, M.P. for Liverpool in 1754. A tribute was paid by the pen of Roscoe to the memory of the relict of the elder of these brothers, (Jane, dau. of George Leigh, Esq. of Oughtlington,) who attained the age of ninety-two. Allerton Hall was afterwards the residence of the accomplished biographer mentioned.

The collateral line, settled at OLD HALL, in PILKINGTON, as already mentioned, commenced with—

JOSHUA CROMPTON, (third surviving son of John and Cecilia Crompton, of Hacking,) who m. in 1679, Susanna, sole dau. and heiress of Richard Nuthall, of Golyndrode in Walmersley, a family which branched from the elder house of Nuthall, in the time of RICHARD II., as recorded in the College of Arms. Lancashire charters, however, carry the parent line to the time of HENRY III., in connexion with the adjacent Chase of Holcome, to which the shack-bolt and hound, in their bearings, are considered allusive. The issue of this marriage were seven daus.,

- i. ESTHER, named below.
- ii. Susanna, d. unm. in 1704.
- iii. Mary, wife of Robert Wareing, of Bury, merchant, whose granddaughter and heiress (Elizabeth, wife of the Rev. R.-H. Roughsedge, M.A., rector of Liverpool) was mother of Hornby Roughsedge, Esq. of Foxghyll, co. Westmoreland, living in 1847—see vol. ii. p. 1149.
- iv. Sarah, wife of John Fairborne, co. York, and afterwards of John Foxe, of Rhodes Hall, in Prestwich, an ancient demise from the house of Derby, whom this family had served in the French embassy of Earl Henry, and in the defence of Lathom House.
- v. Anne, d. unm. in 1710.
- vi. Phoebe, wife of John Parr, of Kearsley, co. Lancaster, whose issue d. unm.
- vii. Rebecca, wife of John Rigby, Esq. of Oldfield Hall, co. Chester, by whom John and Ann, (who d. s. p.), and Elizabeth, (wife of Thomas Maltby, Esq. of Norwich, and of Gernons, co. Bucks,) mother of Elizabeth, wife of Edward Tomline, D.D., successively Bishop of Lincoln and Winchester, and of Harriet, living unm. at Bath, in 1847.

ESTHER CROMPTON, eldest dau. and co-heiress, m. Samuel Wareing, of Bury and Walmersley, merchant, (descended of a collateral line of the Wareings, or Warines, of Amounderness,) and had issue, four daus. and co-heiresses, all surviving at her death in 1742.

- i. Anne, wife of Richard Nangreave, Esq. of Netherton, co. Chester, barrister-at-law, by whom, 1. Richard; 2. John; 3. Samuel-Wareing; and 1. Mary, who all d. unm.
- ii. and iv. Hester and Mary, d. unm.
- iii. SUSANNA, mentioned below.

* See BURKE'S Peerage, Calamy, and Glover's Derbyshire. This line adopted the arms of the Staffordshire Cromptons, combining the bearings of the Rodes family with the same.

SUSANNA WAREING, (in whose issue the representation vested) m. in 1742, Thomas Johnson, Esq. of Tyldesley and Manchester, eldest son of Thomas Johnson, of Tyldesley and Bolton, by his wife, Mary, dau. of Christopher Norres, of Bolton, a collateral of the house of Speke.* Mr. Johnson was sheriff of Lancashire, 1755, and by his first wife (Anne, dau. of William Sudall, Esq. of Blackburn) had one dau. only, Anne, wife of Charles Ford, Esq. of Claremont, (see vol. i. p. 429), but left issue, by this second marriage, four children, surviving at his widow's death in 1798,

i. THOMAS JOHNSON, son and heir.

ii. Susanna, d. unm. in 1814.

iii. Elizabeth, widow of George Ormerod, Esq. of Bury, co. Lancaster, who left issue surviving at her death, in 1822, one son, GEORGE ORMEROD, Esq., then of Chorlton, in Cheshire.

iv. Mary, d. unm. in 1839.

THOMAS JOHNSON, Esq. of Tyldesley and Manchester, last mentioned, was in the commission of the peace for, and a deputy-lieutenant of, Lancashire, and d. unm. in 1823, closing a life distinguished by the support and improvement of local charities, and by active public services and generous contributions to his country in the French and American wars.

On his demise, the representation of this branch of the family vested in his nephew, GEORGE ORMEROD, Esq.

Arms of CROMPTON OF HACKING, as those of DRIFFIELD, excepting that the talbot in the Crest is passant. A mullet (marking the degree of mutual relationship) occurs repeatedly among old carvings at Hacking.

Arms of CROMPTON OF PILKINGTON, as before; for difference, on a canton, or, a mullet, gu.; borne by ORMEROD of Tyldesley and Sedbury, with other quarterings, entered in the College of Arms.

CUSACK OF GERARDSTOWN AND CLONARD.

CUSACK, JAMES-WILLIAM, Esq., M.D. of Feltrim, co. Dublin, and of Kildare-street, in the city of Dublin, m. in April, 1818, Elizabeth-Frances, eldest dau. and co-heir of Joseph Bernard, Esq. of Greenhills, King's Co., and granddau. of John Bernard, of Straw Hill, co. Carlow, and Elizabeth, his wife, dau. and co-heir of Sir Gilbert Pickering, Bart. of Nova Scotia, and has issue by her (who d. 4 Sept. 1837), HENRY-THOMAS, barrister-at-law, b. 20 Oct. 1820.

Ralph-Smith, barrister-at-law, b. 16 Nov. 1821.

James-William, b. 6 Aug. 1824.

Thomas-Bernard, b. 11 Dec. 1831.

Mary-Ann, m. in 1844, to Robert-Henry Tilley, Esq. Elizabeth-Jane.

* ALEXANDER NORRES, progenitor of the Bolton branch of Norres of Speke, (which is duly recognised by the College of Arms,) had issue four sons, undermentioned, surviving in 1620, and named in the following order, in the will of Robert Norres, whose inquisition post mortem was taken in that year,

i. Robert Norres, (aforesaid), of Great Bolton, ultimately represented by his daughter, Margaret, wife of John Blackburne, Esq. of Newton and Orford, as by inquisition after the death of her mother, Isabel, 13 CHARLES I. (See vol. i. p. 100.)

ii. Rafe Norres, of Great Bolton, m. there in 1589, Ales Ouldman, and great-grandfather of Christopher Norres, whose dau. and ultimate heiress, Mary, (wife of Thomas Johnson, Esq. of Tyldesley and Bolton,) was b. in 1680.

iii. John Norres, father of Christopher, eldest son; of John, and Alexander, who compounded in 1646, and of numerous other issue.

iv. Christopher Norres, of Tonge, (inquisition post mortem, 16 CHARLES I.,) whose son, Alexander, was treasurer of the committee of Lancashire in 1645, and father of Alice, wife of John Starkie, Esq. of Huntroyd, (see vol. ii. p. 1291,) and of Anne, wife of William Bordman, both living in 1674.

Mr. Cusack m. 2ndly, 10 Sept. 1838, Frances-Rothwell, relict of Richard Rothwell, Esq. of Hurlestown, co. Meath, and dau. of the Rev. S. Radcliff. Mr. Cusack is President of the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland, and 24th in descent of the Cusacks of Gerardstown.

Lineage.

Two early descents are given by different writers of this family, one deducing the line from the Sieurs de Cusac, who are stated to have been one of the most ancient and illustrious families in Guicenne at the end of the ninth century, and where there are several towns of the name, a member of which family is said to have come over to England with WILLIAM the Conqueror, his descendants afterwards going to Ireland with King JOHN. The name was certainly in good repute several centuries afterwards in France, for we find Charles Cusack summoned to a conference of the three estates of the realm, by the Duke of Normandy, to take measures for the release of JOHN, King of France, taken prisoner at Poitiers, and mentioned as one "who bore the principal rule in the city, (Rouen,) and a leader in all discussions of the estates," at which conference he made so bold a speech against the King's officer, that he was imprisoned; and in the year 1451, le Sieur de Cusac, one of the generals in the army of Count Gastou de Foix, besieged Bayonne, and was made a knight for his valour by the count. The other descent is given by several old Irish writers, who deduce it from Olioll Olum, King of Munster, who d. in A.D. 234; eleventh in descent from whom was Isog, ancestor of the Clan Isog, or Clan Cusack, of Clare, where they held, at a very early date, large possessions as a sept of the Macnamaras, in a very early rental of which family is given the number of silver ounces paid by the Clan Cusack as tribute, and where the name exists to this day. The Macnamaras bear, also, the same crest as the Cusacks. The name was spelt in several different ways, Cusac, Cusak, Cusacke, Cusack, Cusake, Cusacque, Cussac, Cusaack, Cuisac, Cuysac. Without entering into the merits of the two descents, we will begin with

GEOFFREY DE CUSAC, living at the time of the invasion of Ireland; his name appears in the early charters of St. Mary's Abbey, Dublin, relative to various disputes concerning tithes, and again as a donor of vestments to the altar of the Abbey, (MSS. British Museum.) He had issue,

ADAM, his heir.

Amory, witness to the agreement of marriage made, in 1214, between King JOHN and the Earl of March.

William, who, in 1216, gave one hundred marks for his marriage with Agnes, his wife.

ADAM DE CUSACK, named in the same roll as his brother William. He left issue,

GEOFFREY DE CUSACK, Lord of Killeen, Gerardstown, Folystown, Clonard, &c., all held under Hugh de Lacy, in Meath, and of Tyrrawly, in Connaught. He m. the dau. and heir of Adam Petit, and had with her the manors of Cloury and Gonock, in frank marriage. He was summoned to the first parliament held in Ireland, in 1295; he left issue,

i. ADAM, Lord of Killeen, his heir, surnamed "Ciosogach," or, head of the Cusacks. His granddau. and heir, Margery, marrying Richard Tuite, Knt., conveyed Killeen to her husband. She had an only dau. and heir, Joan, Lady of Killeen, who m. Walter Cusack, a cadet of Gerardstown, and their granddau. and heir, Joan, marrying Sir Christopher Plunket, conveyed to him Killeen Castle, which is still possessed by the Earls of Fingal, Viscounts Killeen.

ii. ANDREW, Lord of Gerardstown.

iii. Nicholas, who d. in 1299, twenty years Bishop of Kildare.

iv. Geoffrey, d. in 1300, Bishop of Meath.

v. William, ancestor of the line of Cussington.

The second son,

SIR ANDREW CUSACK, inherited Gerardstown. He d. in the year 1295, leaving issue,

i. JOHN (Sir), his heir.

ii. Simon (Sir).

iii. WALTER (Sir), living in 1290 and 1299, who m. Maud, co-heir, with her sister, Isabella, Lady Howth, of William Pilate, of Pilatestown, and was ancestor of the CUSACKS, Lords of Culmolyn, Dangan, and Dunsaney.

The eldest son was,

SIR JOHN CUSACK, 2nd Lord of Gerardstown, &c. He and his brothers participated in the battle of Doudalk, where Edward Bruce was defeated and slain, and where Sir John and his brothers, Simon and Walter, were made knights on the field for their distinguished valour. Sir John left issue, by Margaret, his wife, dau. of Thomas, second son of Maurice, Lord of Offaley,

I. JOHN (Sir), his heir, Lord of Gerardstown.

II. Walter (Sir), m. Joan, heiress of Killcen.

III. Simon (Sir).

IV. Adam. V. William.

VI. Geoffrey, who had two sons, Barnabe, of Rathcarran, and John, mentioned in Plea Rolls and Pat. Rolls, 1379, 1382, and 1389.

VII. Richard. VIII. Henry.

IX. Lucas.

X. Raymond. XI. James.

The eldest son,

SIR JOHN CUSACK, 3rd Lord of Gerardstown, had several summonses to parliament; he left issue, by Isolda, his wife, dau. and co-heir of Barnabe Withington, WALTER, his heir; and Adam, a friar, Bishop of Meath, who d. in 1430. The elder son,

SIR WALTER CUSACK, 4th Lord of Gerardstown, was knighted by Lionel, Earl of Ulster, in 1361. Champion says, that he and those who were knighted with him were the worthiest then in chivalry, and that their deeds were, even to his day, held in great worship. He left a son and heir,

BARNABE CUSACK, 5th Lord of Gerardstown; he also held Folystown, Ross, Bragnolkstown, Morvill, and Robynstown. He paid five marks as fine for pardon of intrusion into Gerardstown, in 1407. He m. Eliza, dau. and co-heir of Nicholas Crompe, of Ardrath, and his wife, Ela, dau. and co-heir of Simon Cusack, Lord of Dangan, and had issue by her, an only son,

DAVID, who d. before his father in 1438, leaving issue,

WALTER, heir to his grandfather.

Thomas, who d. young.

Christopher, of Taragh. He m. Roxanna Bellew, of Westown, and had issue by her, Barnabe Cusack.

Walter Cusack, who was treasurer and archdeacon of St. Patrick's Cathedral, Dublin. He had pardon, 25 HEN. VIII., Pat. Rolls.

James Cusack, of Macetown. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Luttrell, of Luttrellstown, co. Dublin, but d. without issue.

Barnabe Cusack d. in 1454, and was s. by his grandson,

SIR WALTER CUSACK, who was made coroner of the Cross of Meath, 3 Oct. 1450, by Richard, Duke of York, viceroy of Ireland; he d. on St. John's day, in 1487, having m. 1st, Joan, dau. of the second Lord Killeen, of the Plunket family, by whom he had issue,

NICHOLAS, his heir.

Thomas, ancestor of Rathaldron line.

Sir Walter Cusack m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Mareward, Baron of Serine, who was killed 10 May, 1414, at the head of his troops in the rebellion of O'Connor Faly, and had issue by her, (who had Ballymolgan in frank marriage,)

RICHARD, of Ballymolgan, which he inherited in right of his mother: he was ancestor of the Rathgar line.

The elder son,

NICHOLAS CUSACK, s. at Gerardstown. He m. Joan, dau. and heir of Thomas Oweus, Esq. of Diswelstown, co. Dublin, and had issue by her,

CHRISTOPHER, his heir.

Nicholas, of Portlester, who m. Joan, dau. of Patrick St. Lawrence, Lord Howth.

Catherine, m. to Simon Birford, of Killcrow.

The elder son,

CHRISTOPHER CUSACK, s. to Gerardstown, Clonard, &c., and was high-sheriff of Meath in 1511; he wrote an account of that county, still preserved in Trinity College Library, Dublin. He m. Anne, dau. of Peters Travers, Esq. of Cortilagh, and had issue,

THOMAS, his heir.

Walter, of Tullaghard.

Nicholas, of Duleek.

John.

James, m. Joan, dau. of Hussey, Baron Galtrim.

Thomasine, m. to Peter Nangle, Esq.

Alison, m. to Patrick Netterville, Esq. of Dowth.

Genet, m. 1st, to Robert Bctagh, Esq. of Moynalty; and 2ndly, to Richard Plunket, Esq. of Rathmore.

Catherine, m. to Oliver Plunket, Esq. of Gibstown.

Joan, m. to Walter Cruise, of the Naul.

Elizabeth, m. to Robert Barnwell, of Staffordstown.

Catherine, m. to William Forster, of Santriffe.

The eldest son,

THOMAS CUSACK, s. to Gerardstown, &c. He m. 1st, Joan, dau. and heir of Sir John Tuite, of Stidalt, and had issue by her, who d. in 1508, PATRICK, his heir; Richard, m. Mary-Ann, dau. of Gerard Nugent; and Aune. Thomas Cusack m. 2ndly, Anne, dau. of Nicholas St. Lawrence, Lord Howth, and granddau. of Joan Somerset, co-heir of the Duke of Somerset, and had issue by her, John, Walter, and Christopher, who d. young, and two daus., Elizabeth, the wife of Patrick Delafield, of Painstown, and Eleanor.

PATRICK CUSACK, Esq., son and heir, who inherited Staffordstown on his mother's death; and had pardon of intrusion, 8 HENRY VIII. He was named sheriff of Meath during the Queen's pleasure, in 1558, and one of the commissioners for executing martial law. He m. Alison, dau. of George Netterville, of Castletown, and had by her a son,

PATRICK CUSACK, who s. to Gerardstown. He m. 1st, Frances, dau. of Sir — Dillon, Bart., of Riverstown, and 2ndly, Ellinor, dau. of Edmond, Lord Killeen, and had issue by her,

I. THOMAS, his heir.

II. Walter.

I. Catherine, m. to Edward Ledwick, Esq. of Ballyda.

II. Maria, m. to Edward Nugent, of Carlanstown. Her grandson, Edmond Nugent, was father, by Clara Cusack, of Staffordstown, of a son, Michael, whose son was created Earl Nugent, whose grandson was Richard, 1st Duke of Buckingham and Chandos, and Earl Nugent.

III. Ellinor.

Patrick Cusack m. 3rdly, Elenor, dau. of Richard Forster, and had by her three sons and two daus. The eldest son, THOMAS CUSACK, s. at Gerardstown. He m. Geuet, dau. of Robert Cusack, of Cussington, and had issue,

I. Christopher, who d. s. p. in 1587.

II. ROBERT, his heir.

III. Walter, who m. Ellen, dau. of — Fleming, Lord Slane. His descendants settled in Lorraine. His great-grandson was Michael Cusack, one of the body-guard of Leopold, Duke of Lorraine. He died in 1742, leaving issue, Nicholas, b. in 1736.

James-Hyacinth, vicar-general and canon of Condons, b. in 1738.

Elizabeth-Catherine.

Mary-Ann.

All living in 1767, and unm.

IV. John, made Esquire, and killed at the battle of Portlester in 1641. He m. Mary, dau. of Sir Henry Plunket. His descendants in the third degree were,

1 Gerald-Alexander Cusack, Knight of St. Louis, Lieut.-col. in St. Rothe's regiment, d. s. p. in 1753, having served fifty-three years.

2 Charles Cusack, who entered the Spanish service in the regiment of Lce. He became captain-general and grandec, and Knight of St. James, &c., in Spain, and d. Governor of Malatia, s. p.

3 Richard-Edmond Cusack, marshal of France, and Knight of the Orders of the King of France, served at Malplaquet, Minden, &c. &c.; received, in 1755, the public thanks of the King of France for his services at Maestrick; was governor of the towns of Guerande, Croisic, and St. Naviaire, when JAMES III. embarked for Scotland. He enjoyed a pension from the French government. He m. 1st, Mary-Ann-Bridget Fitzgerald, and had an only dau. and heir, MARIA-MADELINE-JOSEPHINE, b. 25 Oct. 1725, who m. Itiene de Lespenasse, Marquis de Langac. He m. 2ndly, Maria de la Rache, widow of the Marquis de Moulins, but had no issue by her.

The second son,

ROBERT CUSACK, became 14th Lord of Gerardstown, on the death of his brother. He m. 1st, Margaret Porter, of Kingstown, co. Meath, and had issue by her, an only son, James, who predeceased him, leaving issue, by Margaret Bermingham, his wife, one son, heir to his grandfather; he m. 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of Oliver, Lord Louth, and had issue by her, (who m. 2ndly, William Dillon, and in 1637 remitted her dower of the lands held by Patrick Cusack, grandson of Robert Cusack, and his heir, for 500*l.*, secured by statute staple.) Robert Cusack d. 28 April, 1632, (will dated 1632,) and lies buried under a tomb, with his wives and son James, in Killeen Church. He left surviving issue by his second wife.

THOMAS, to whom his father gave Staffordstown estate. He m. Cecilia, dau. of Edward Cusack, of Lismullen, and Lucinda, his wife, sister of R. Talbot, Duke of Tyrconnell. He became eventually representative of the Lismullen branch, and one of the heirs-general to the duke. His granddau. and eventual heir, carried the representation to her husband, James Cusack.

Christopher.

Patrick. Adam.

And several daus.

PATRICK CUSACK, s. his grandfather, Robert, in 1632, and was then aged 20 years. He was outlawed, as one of the Catholic confederacy, and his name appears in the proclamation issued by the government, offering rewards for the heads of the leaders of that movement. On the restoration of CHARLES II., he was treated by that monarch with the same ingratitude as all others who had lost their estates through their attachment to the royal cause; and thus having lost the hereditary possessions of his family, through the unchangeable loyalty of his name, consummated in the outlawry of every branch of his family, and the loss of every one of their estates, without an exception, for their loyalty to JAMES II., and in the death of several of his descendants, fighting at Culloden. He d., leaving issue, by Catherine, dau. and heir of David Sutton, and his wife, Catherine, dau. and co-heir of Patrick, 3rd Lord Louth, a son.

JAMES CUSACK, captain in the navy, who fitted out a privateer, in which he was very successful, but on his return home he was taken by pirates on the coast of Africa, and narrowly escaped with his life. He returned home and settled at Clonard, one of the ancient places of his family. He m. Alison, sole heir of John Golding, and Alison, his wife, dau. of Edward, 18th Baron Howth, who, on the decease of her brother, Richard, 19th lord, became co-heir to the lineal heirship of whatever honours accrued to the family of Howth by the marriage of Robert St. Laurence with Joan, one of the co-heirs of Prince Edward, Duke of Somerset, Marquess of Dorset, by the Princess Elenora, co-heir of the Earl of Warwick. He left issue.

ATHANASIUS CUSACK, of Clonard, his heir, who made his will in 1679, and was buried in the chancel of Clonard Church, leaving issue, by Bridget Barnewall, dau. and heir of Patrick, son of Francis Barnewall, of Beggstown, son of Nicholas, Lord Kingsland, a son and successor.

JAMES CUSACK, of Clonard, served in King JAMES II.'s army at the battle of the Boyne. He d. in 1722, having made his will in 1720, leaving issue, by Catherine, his wife, dau. and eventual heir of Robert Cusack, of Staffordstown.

ATHANASIUS, his heir.

HENRY, who had Clonard. He m. Margery, dau. of John Martley, of Ballyfallon.

The elder son,

ATHANASIUS CUSACK, inherited his father's lease of Moyaugh. He made his will in 1743, (proved in 1745,) and was buried in the church of Athboy, leaving issue, by Catherine Lloyd, his wife, relict of Mr. Martley, of Ballyfallon, with several daus.,

i. James, who d. in 1776, leaving no issue, by his wife, Maria, dau. of William Brownley, of Dublin.

ii. HENRY.

The second son,

HENRY CUSACK, Esq. of Moyaugh and Girley, had administration, in 1776, of his brother's effects. He made his will in 1787, and dying in 1792, was buried in St. Thomas's Church, Dublin, leaving issue, by his wife, Esther, dau. of Thomas Chamny, Esq. of Platten, ATHANASIUS, his heir.

James, of Jamestown, m. Eliza Jones, and d. intestate. John.

Thomas, d. off Halifax, signal-lieut. to Sir John Collier.

Patrick.

William.

Margaret, twin with John.

Catherine. Catherine-Easther.

The eldest son,

ATHANASIUS CUSACK, Esq. of Laragh, co. Kildare, Moyaugh, and Girley, d. in 1813, aged 64, and is buried in St. Thomas's, Dublin. He m. 1st, in 1778, Mary-Ann, only dau. of Edward Rotheram, Esq. of Crossdrum, and by her had issue,

i. HENRY, of Girley, who m. Anne, dau. of Richard Rothwell, of Barford, co. Meath, by his wife, Anne, a dau., and co-heir with her sister, Lady Chapman, of George Lowther, of Hurlestown, and d. in 1817, leaving issue two daus., Mary, m. in 1836, to Charles-Cutcliffe Drake, of Devonshire; and Anne.

ii. Edward, in holy orders, m. Alicia, dau. of — Wolfe, Esq. of co. Kildare, but had no issue.

iii. JAMES-WILLIAM, now of Feltrim, present heir-male.

iv. George, now of Moyaugh, a magistrate for Meath.

i. Elizabeth, m. to Alexander Battersby, Esq. of Daffey Lodge, co. Kildare.

Mr. Cusack m. 2ndly, Katherine, dau. of Samuel Forster, of Kilmury, co. Meath, and relict of Thomas Chamny, Esq., and left issue by her,

v. Samuel, M.D., who m. Sarah, dau. of Johnston Stoney, Esq. of Oakley Park, co. Tipperary, and by her has issue, Samuel and Margaret.

ii. Frances, m. to Capt. John Kelly.

iii. Alicia, m. to Robert Warren, Esq. of Killiney Castle, co. Dublin.

Arms—Per pale, or and arg., a fesse, counterchanged, quartering, with many others, the arms of PLANTAGENET, Earl of Kent; BEAUFORT, Duke of Somerset; BEAUCHAMP, Earl of Warwick; HAMILTON, Viscounts Strabane; DOUGLAS, Earl of Morton; BARNEWALL, Viscounts Kingsland; FITZGERALD, Earls of Kildare; PLUNKET, Lords of Fingal, and Lords of Louth; NETTERVILLE, Viscounts Netterville; ST. LAURENCE, Lords of Howth; GENEVILLE, Princes of Joinville; &c.

Crest—A mermaid, sa., holding in the dexter hand a sword; sinister, a sceptre.

Supporters—Two mermen, sa., holding in the hands a banner of the arms.

Mottoes—"Ave Maria plena gratia;" and, "En Dieu est mon espoir."

Lismullen Branch.

JOHN CUSACK, of Cussington, fifth in descent from John Cusack, and Joan, dau. and heir of Robert Cosyne, by whom he got Cussington, and sixth from William Cusack, of Ballyveke, m. 1st, Alison, dau. of William Wellesley, of Dangan, and had issue, with many others,

SIR THOMAS CUSACK, lord-chancellor and lord-justice of Ireland, one of the most distinguished men of his day, and the only man the English government could "rely on." He married three times, and dying in 1571, was buried at Trevet: his first wife was Johan, dau. of Hussey, Baron Galtrim, from whom he was divorced, each being fourth in descent from John Dillon, and had by her, with others, ROBERT CUSACK, Baron of the Exchequer, who became ancestor of the Cussington branch. Sir Thomas m. 2ndly, Maud, dau. of John Darcy, of Platten, and had issue,

EDWARD CUSACK, of Lismullen, granted to the chancellor by EDWARD VI., on the dissolution of the Priory. He married three times: 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Aylmer, of Lyons, and Elinor Fleming, only dau. of George Fleming, of Derpatrick, and Margaret, sister of Pierce, Earl of Ormonde; and their descendant, Cecilia, wife of Thomas Cusack, of Staffordstown, became eventual heir of Lismullen; 2ndly, Marian, dau. of Hussey, Baron Galtrim; and, 3rdly, Mary Wellesley. The daus. of the Chancellor, by his second marriage, were, Elizabeth, m. to Christopher Bellew, ancestor of the Lords Bellew.

Alison, m. Thomas Aylmer, of Lyons, ancestor of the Lords Aylmer.

Anne, m. to Andrew Tuite, of Moneyleagh, privy-councillor.

Mary, m. to John Butler, 3rd Lord Cahir, now represented by the Earl of Glengall.

Margaret, m. 1st, Murrough, Lord Inchiquin, from whom descends the present Marquess of Thomond, and 2ndly, Christopher Cruise, of the Naul.
 Catherine, m. to Sir Henry Colley.
 Ellenor, m. Gerald Wellesley, of Dangan, from whom descends the present Earl of Mornington and the Duke of Wellington.

CUTCLIFFE OF DAMMAGE.

The representation of this ancient family at present vests in the sisters and co-heirs of the late Lieut.-Col. John-Mervyn Cutcliffe, K.H., of Webbery, of whom the eldest, FRANCES, m. ZACHARY-HAMMETT DRAKE, Esq. of Springfield, co. Devon, and has issue. (See family of DRAKE.)

Lineage.

This ancient family has long been seated in the county of Devon. Johannes de Rupecissa, or Cutcliffe, a learned Divine, who, in the fourteenth century, wrote several works against the doctrines and manners of the clergy, and, according to Fuller, "against the Pope himself," was of this family, and born at Dammage, their seat in the parish of Ilfracombe, the possession of which, together with other inheritance in that parish, has lineally descended, and is still retained by them. The pedigrees enrolled at the College of Arms commence with

THOMAS CUTCLIFFE, who m. Johanna, sister and co-heir of Thomas Grenoune, and by her he had issue, (amongst others,)

LAWRENCE CUTCLIFFE, who m. and had one child,

JOHN CUTCLIFFE, son and heir, who m. Catherine Hext, and had a son,

THOMAS CUTCLIFFE, of Dammage, who m. Anne, dau. of Reynell, of Holworthy, co. Devon, and had,

CHARLES CUTCLIFFE, eldest son and heir, "Squire of Dammage," aged 40, anno 1620. He m. Grace, dau. of John Chichester, Esq. of Hall, co. Devon, by whom he had one child. Mr. Cutcliffe d. 25 Oct. 1637, and his wife on the 8 Nov. 1637; they were both buried in the parish church of Ilfracombe, where a handsome monument is erected to their memory.

JOHN CUTCLIFFE s. his father at Dammage, and m. twice; his first wife being Eleanor, eldest dau. and co-heir of Tristram Chichester, Esq. of Swimbridge, co. Devon, by whom he had issue,

CHARLES, son and heir, d. s. p., and is buried in Swimbridge Church, where, above a monument to his memory, is a portrait of him painted on copper.

John, second son, m. Miss Burgoyne, and had three sons and four daus.; the former, however, all d. s. p., when the male line of this branch became extinct.

He m. 2ndly, Grace, dau. of — Newell, Esq., and widow of — Challacombe, by whom he left three sons and two daus.

CHARLES CUTCLIFFE, Esq. of Weach, near Bideford, co. Devon, eldest son and heir, m. Avice, dau. of — Nash, Esq., and dying 30 August, 1745, left by her, four sons, the eldest of whom was

CHARLES CUTCLIFFE, Esq. of Weach, who s. his father, and m. Elizabeth, dau. of Humphrey Dean, Esq., of Horwood, co. Devon, by whom he had a numerous issue; he d. in 1791, aged 82, and was s. in the family estates by his eldest son,

CHARLES-NEWELL CUTCLIFFE, Esq. of Dammage, b. in 1746, who m. Margaret, dau. and co-heir of John Mervyn, Esq. of Marwood Hill, representative of the Devonshire branch of the ancient family of Mervyn of Fountayne Gifford and Pertwood, co. Wilts. Mr. Cutcliffe, who was a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Devon, d. Dec. 1813, leaving issue,

JOHN-MERVYN CUTCLIFFE, of Webbery, in Alverdiscott, co. Devon, b. in 1778, lieut.-colonel 23rd regiment of Lancers, C.B., K.H., member of the Imperial Ottoman Order of the Crescent, and in the commission of the peace for the co. of Devon. This gallant officer, distinguished in the Peninsular war and at Waterloo, d. in 1822. He m. the Honourable Charlotte Talbot, youngest dau. of Margaret, Baroness Talbot de Malabide (who survived him), of which marriage, however, there was no issue, and his sisters became his co-heirs and the representatives of the "Cutcliffes of Dammage."

FRANCES, the eldest dau., m. to Zachary-Hammett Drake, Esq. of Springfield, co. Devon.

ANNE.

MARY, d. unm.

EMMA.

Arms—Quarterly, CUTCLIFFE and MERVYN (see BURKE'S General Armory).

DAKEYNE OF DERBYSHIRE.

DAKEYNE, HENRY-CHARLES, Esq., b. 7 Aug. 1797; m. Mary, only dau. of the late John Gaunt, Esq. of Leek, co. Stafford, and has issue, HENRY-FITZ-ROY, Francis - Woolryche, Anna - Maria, and Mary-Isabelle.

Lineage.

JOHN DALKIN, or DAKYNS, of Biggin Grange, "præpositus of Hartington, co. Derby, 7 HENRY VII.," and who was the great-grandson of Richard Delkyn, or Dawkyn, of Hatton and Biggin, in the said county, returned amongst the gentry, 12 HENRY VI., and which Richard was the great-grandson of Humfrey Dakeny, or De Akeny, brother to Sir Thomas Dakeny, Knt. of Northwold, in Norfolk, temp. EDWARD I. and II., both of whom held lands in the Peak, (Fine Rolls and Records in Augmentation Office), m. Alice, dau. and co-heir of John de la Pole, of Hartington,* Esq., son of Sir John de la Pole, Knt. of that place, and left issue, three sons,

I. ROBERT, of Biggin Grange, of whom presently.

II. Humphrey, who d. A.D. 1600, and whose descendants s. to the estate of Linton, in the East Riding of York.

III. Arthur, of Linton and Hackness, who was returned amongst the gentry of the East Riding, in 1564, was a J. P., a general in the army, and M.P. for Scarborough, 7 EDWARD VI. He d. in 1592, aged 76, and was buried at Hackness, which manor he purchased on the marriage of his dau. and heir with her first husband. This lady, Margaret, m. 1st, to Walter Devereux, Esq., brother to the Earl of Essex; 2ndly, to Thomas Sydney, Esq., son of the Rt. Hon. Sir Henry Sydney, K.G., and who d. in 1595; and 3rdly, to Sir Thomas-Posthumous Hoby, Knt., to whom she left the manor of Hackness. She d. s. p. in 1635; her mother was Thomasine, dau. of Thomas Guy, Esq., captain of Seyilly, and Alicia, his wife, sister of Sir Wynyard Carew, of Anthony, co. Cornwall. Arthur Dakyns had a grant of arms in 1563, differing from his ancient ones, and which were also adopted, with a slight variation, by the Dakeynes of Stubbing Edge Hall, co. Derby, and confirmed to them by St. George, in 1611.

The eldest son,

ROBERT DAKYNS, Esq. of Biggin Grange, m. Agnes, dau. and heir of Humfrey Beresford, Esq. of Newton Grange, co. Derby, by his wife, Elizabeth Fitzherbert, of Tissington; she was the widow of George Fitzherbert, Esq. of Tissington, who d. in 1535, leaving issue.† By this lady Robert Dakyns was the father of

JOHN DAKYN, Esq. of Biggin Grange and Snitterton, who was returned amongst the gentry of Scarsdale Hundred, in 1569. He had one-fifth of the manor of Darley-in-the-Dale, by gift of his nephew, Ottiwell Needham. He m. Dorothy, dau. of Ottiwell Needham, Esq. of Thornsett, Snitterton, and Cowley, co. Derby. She d. in 1574, and was buried at Darley, in the church where she was also married. John, her husband, was buried in the same

* The De la Poles of Hartington were the second branch of the De la Poles of Radbourne, co. Derby, and were descended from Alianore, sister, and at length sole heir of Sir John Chandos, K.G., the illustrious warrior of the martial reign of EDWARD III. The ancestor of this branch was John de la Pole, of Hartington, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Nicholas Longford, Knt. of Longford.

† The Beresford family was of great antiquity. John de Beresford was Lord of Beresford, co. Stafford, 1 WILLIAM II. John de Beresford, of Beresford, the twelfth in descent, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Bassett, of Blore, by whom he had two sons. From John de Beresford, the elder son, descended the Beresfords of Beresford Hall; and from Thomas, who m. Agnes, dau. and heir of Robert Hassall, of Arcluyd, co. Chester, who d. in 1467, descended the Beresfords of Penny Bentley and Newton Grange, &c. Humphrey Beresford, of Newton Grange, was the seventh son of Thomas de Beresford and Agnes Hassall, and the grandfather of Agnes, who m. 1st, George Fitzherbert, of Tissington, the ancestor of the Fitzherberts of that place; and 2ndly, Robert Dakyns, of Biggin Grange, as stated in the pedigree. From George Beresford, the second son of Humphrey, descended Nicholas Beresford, of Otford, co. Kent, living in 1574, from whose third son, Tristram, are descended the Irish Beresfords, whose chief is the present Marquess of Waterford.

placc. His will bears date, 3 June, 1574, and was proved in Doctors' Commons in 1581-2, the overseers being, "his brother-in-law, Richard Needham, of Snitterton; Henry Needham, of Kirklington; Robert Fitzherbert, of Tissington, Gentleman, his worshipful brother; Richard Wendesley, Esq. of Wendesley; and his cousin, Richard Coke, Esq. of Trusley." He bequeathed his lands in Hartington, Biggin, Heathote, Pigton, Haden, Fairfield, and Sheldon, to his elder son, RICHARD, and an annuity to his son, ROBERT: of his four daus., Clemence, m. to Dionysius Woodward, Gent.; and 2ndly, to Nicholas Browne, Gent. of Matlock; Bridgett, m. to William Middleton, Esq. of Wansley, co. Notts; and Clare and Jane, m. to Bryan and Turner, Gentlemen.

RICHARD DAKEYNE, Esq., elder son and heir, of Biggin Grange, &c., living in 1588. He purchased Stubbing Edge Hall, parish of Ashover, in the reign of ELIZABETH, which he made his chief residence. He m. 1st, Catherine Strange, or Schange, dau. of Patrick Strange, Gent. of Edinburgh, the favourite attendant of MARY Queen of Scots. In the draft will made at Sheffield, this unfortunate queen left her a legacy of 400 francs, (Cotton MS., resp. exvi.) She is believed to have been one of those who attended her on the scaffold. By Lysons, and other authorities, she is called sister to the Earl of Rothes; whatever her maternal descent may have been, she clearly was not his sister, as a reference to her deed of naturalization, by Queen ELIZABETH, in 1595, will prove, (see Add. MS. 6674, fol. 82, Brit. Mus.) After her death, the said Richard Dakeyne m. Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Hunloke, Esq. of Wingerworth, and widow of William Crich, Gent. of Ashover, and formerly of Stubbing Edge Hall, who d. s. p. His will was proved at Lichfield, 9 Oct. 1610: in this will his name is spelt "Daken and Deakin," but his signature to it is spelt "Dakeyne." By his first wife he left issue, two sons, JOHN, whom he disinherited; and ARTHUR, whose descendants enjoyed the Stubbing Edge Hall, and other estates, until 1720, when those properties passed away with an heiress into the family of the Hopkinsons of Bonsal, co. Derby.

JOHN DAKEYNE, Gent. of Ashover, the elder but disinherited son, married and resided at Bonsal; whom he married it is not known, from the circumstance of the registers of that place being all lost previously to 1740, but this marriage, from invariable family tradition, lost him his inheritance; it may, therefore, be presumed, that she was a person of humble birth. He was 25 years old at his father's death, having been born in 1587; he was not named in his father's will, but in the Inq. p. m., 11 JAMES I., "Rici Daken," the jury conclude in these words:—"Aeqd. Jobes Daken est filius et heres ppinquior pdiect. Rici Daken, et fuit tempore mortis pdei Rici etatis vigint. et quinq. annos." It appears from this inquisition that his father, Richard, had by deed entailed all his estates upon his younger son, Arthur, and his heirs, and in default of such, upon Francis Fitzherbert, Esq. of Tissington, and his heirs; then upon Wendesley Blackwall, Esq. of Dethie; then upon John Needham, Esq. of Osmaston; then upon John Beresford, Gent. of Newton Grange, with remainder over to the aforesaid Wendesley Blackwall. John Dakeyne d. in an uncertain year, for the reason already given, probably from 1650 to 1660. He left issue by his wife, several children, viz.,

- I. JOHN, of whom presently.
- II. Richard, of Ashover, his second son, buried in 1653.
- III. Thomas, of Bonsal, buried in 1659, ancestor of the Dakeynes of Darley Dale, and of the late Daniel Dakeyne, of Holt House, co. Derby, and of the Middle Temple, barrister-at-law, a poet and celebrated antiquary, who collected materials in seven folio vols. MS., for a history of his native county, to which Noble and Glover were much indebted. He was the friend of Adam Wolley, of Matlock, and contributed to his great collection, now in the British Museum. He was born in 1763, d. in 1806, and was buried at Darley.
- IV. Arthur, of Ashover, buried in 1655.
- V. Daniel.
- VI. Robert.
1. Katherine.

The eldest son,

JOHN DAKEYNE, Gent. of Bonsal, m. a lady whose surname is not known; but her Christian name was Frances, and she was buried in 1683, at Bonsal, where her husband was buried in 1681. By her he left a dau., Grace, who d. in 1663, and a son,

JOHN DAKEYNE, or DEAKIN, who was bapt. 1 Aug.

1661, and who left Bonsal, and resided at Fairfield, co. Derby. He m. a Miss Mary Eyre, of a branch of the ancient Derbyshire family of that name, and left issue, an only son,

JOHN DEAKIN, vel DAKEYNE, who settled at Attercliffe, co. York, having inherited a small estate there. He m. Martha, dau. of Zephaniah Needham, Gent. of Darnal, also of Derbyshire descent, and left issue, at his decease, several children, viz.,

- I. JOHN, b. 16 May, 1732, a merchant at Sheffield, m. Mary, dau. of Gerard Kirke, Gent. of Cowley Hall, and left (with other children, who d. s. p., excepting one dau., the wife of Charles Bamforth, Esq. of High House,) Charles Deakin, of Sheffield, merchant, who, marrying Anne, dau. of John Oddie, Gent., had issue a son, John-St. John Deakin vel Dakeyne.
- II. George, d. s. p.
- III. JOSEPH, of whom presently.
- IV. Samuel, of Sheffield, merchant, formerly of Moor Hall, d. in 1807. He m. Miss Brightmore, and left issue two daus., Martha and Ellen, and a son, Joseph Deakin, of Sheffield, merchant, who is married and has issue.
- V. William.
1. Martha, d. unm.

The second surviving son was

JOSEPH DEAKIN, vel DAKEYNE, Gent. of Tinsley, co. York. He m. Anne, dau. of J. Taylor, Gent. of Tinsley and dying in 1795, left issue,

- I. JOHN, his eldest son.
- II. Joseph, who d. unm.
- III. Jonathan, who d. in 1835, leaving issue.
- I. Hannah, who m. Hugh Spooner, Esq. of Broomsgrove Hall, near Sheffield, and had issue a son, Hugh, who d. s. p.
- II. Sarah, who m. Mr. Hartopp, of Attercliffe, merchant, and left one dau.
- III. Anne, who m. the aforesaid Hugh Spooner, on the death of her sister.

The eldest son,

JOHN DEAKIN, or DAKEYNE, of Bagtborpe House, in the parish of Basford, co. Notts, b. in 1764, m. Anna-Maria, widow of Osmond Beauvoir, Esq. of Downham Hall, co. Essex, and dau. and co-heir of Henry Whirlidge, or Wolrich,* Gent. of Coleorton, co. Leicester. She d. in Nottingham-place, St. Marylebone, 20 May, 1838, and was buried in a vault in the chapel of St. John's Wood, and her husband d. 9 April, 1803, and was buried in the chancel of the church of Basford. They left issue,

- I. HENRY-CHARLES DAKEYNE, Esq., now of Hamilton-terrace, St. John's Wood.
- II. John-Osmond, M.A., rector of South Hykeham, co. Lincoln, and a magistrate of the county, m. Frances, dau. of the Rev. Jacob Mountain, D.D., rector of Blunham, co. Beds, and has issue.
- I. Anna-Maria, m. Duncan-Penrose Slocock, Esq., an officer in the 4th Dragoon-guards, fourth son of Samuel Slocock, Esq. of Newbury, co. Berks, banker, both of whom are deceased, leaving issue.
- II. Frances - Margaretta, m. 8 Jan. 1824, Frederick Polhill, Esq., son of the late John Polhill, Esq. of Howbury Park, co. Beds, and has issue, living, one son, Frederic-Charles, an officer in the 6th Dragoon-guards, and one dau., Georgiana.

Arms—Gu., a lion, passant, guardant, and two mullets, in pale, or, between as many fhaunches, arg., charged with a lion, rampant, sa., granted, in 1563, to Arthur Dakyns, Esq. of Linton and Haekness, co. York, and confirmed by St. George, at Chesterfield, A.D. 1611, to Richard Dakeyne, Esq. of Stubbing Edge Hall, co. Derby, with griffins, sa., instead of lions, in the fhaunches; also, arg., a cross, gu., between four lionscells, gu., ancient, for DAKEYNE.

Crest—A right arm, embowed, ppr., issuing out of a naval crown, or, holding a battle-axe, ppr., on the wrist a ribbon, azure.

* This branch of the Whirlidge or Wolrich family, who were of Salopian descent, had been settled for a century and a half at Coleorton, where they at one time possessed considerable landed property, a part of which now forms a portion of Sir George Beaumont's park, still known by the name of Whirlidge's Fields. Henry Whirlidge, above named, married two wives. His first wife was the dau. of Joseph Boulbee, Gent. of Swannington, her sister marrying the Rev. H. Harris, vicar of Colcorton; his second wife, who was the mother of Anna-Maria, m. to John Deakin, was the dau. of H. Burton, Gent. of Worthington, a branch of the Burtons of Bedworth, which was the second branch of the Burtons of Lindley. In the church of Coleorton is a mural monument to Francis Whirlidge, who d. in 1741, and to Mary, his wife, who d. in 1759. She was a Villiers. He was b. in 1680, (see Nichols' Leicestershire.) The churchyard contains a very large vault belonging to the family. Mr. Dansey is a magistrate for Shropshire and Herefordshire.

Lineage.

The DANSEYS, originally DAUNTESEYS, rank with the most ancient families in Herefordshire, a county remarkable for old and eminent houses. Their original place of residence was in Wilts, in which shire Camden records that William Dautesey held lands by knight's service, 7 HENRY III. The same antiquary also mentions that Richard Dautesey was possessed of estates, both in Wiltshire and Herefordshire, in the reign of EDWARD I. The representative of the Herefordshire line, temp. HENRY VIII., was

JOHN DANSEY, Esq. of Brinsop, who m. Jane, dau. and co-heir of Nicholas Delamere, Esq. of Little Hereford, and thus became possessor of the manor and estate of Little Hereford. His son and heir, DAUNT OF OWLPEN AND GORTI-GRENANE.

DAUNT, MARY, of Owlpen, co. Gloucester, and Gortigrenane, co. Cork, m. in July, 1815, THOMAS-ANTHONY STOUGHTON, Esq. of Ballyhorgan, co. Kerry, and has issue, THOMAS-ANTHONY and Charles-William.

Lineage.

Several writers on heraldry identify the name of Daunt with that of Dauntre, which occurs on the roll of Battel Abbey. Glover and others assign to Daunt of Gloucester, the arms which Gwilym assigns to Dauntre, viz., Sa. three beacons with ladders, or, fired, gules. These arms are also appropriated to Daunt of Gloucester, in a very ancient MS. in the Heralds' Office, Dublin. The earliest ancestor, however, to whom the existing families of Daunt trace their origin, is,

SIMON DAUNT, living in co. Gloucester, circa A.D. 1380. At his decease, he was s. by his eldest son, NICHOLAS DAUNT, who m. Alice, dau. of Sir John de Tracy, Knt. of Sudely and Toddington, co. Gloucester, ancestor of Lord Sudely of Toddington, and by her had a son, NICHOLAS DAUNT, who was living in 1446. He m. Alice, dau. and co-heiress of Sir Walter Jordan, Knt. of Camme, Dorsetshire, by whom he had issue, Nicholas and JOHN. Of Nicholas we have no further record; the second son,

JOHN DAUNT, m. Anne, dau. of Sir Robert Stawell, Knt. of Cotherston, co. Somerset, ancestor of the Lords Stawell of Somerton. By her he had issue, I. JOHN; II. Thomas; III. Stephen; I. Mary; II. Maud; and, III. Alice. Having espoused the Lancastrian side in the wars of the Roses, he was called on by Prince Edward, son of King HENRY VI., and Margaret of Anjou, to aid the House of Lancaster in resisting EDWARD IV. The following is a copy of the Prince's letter to John Daunt:—

"Trusty and well beloved, Wee greet yowe well; acquainting yowe that this day wee he arrived at Waymoth in safety, blessed he our Lorde, and at our lauding wee have knowledge that the King's great rehell Edward, Earl of March, our enemy, approacheth him in armes towards the King's highness; which Edward wee propose, with God's grace, to encounter with all haste possible. Wherefore wee hartely pray yowe, and in the King's name charge yowe, that yowe incontinent after the sighte heerof, come to us wheresoever wee be, with all such fellowship as yowe canne make in your most defensible aray, as our trust is that yowe will do.

"Written at Waymoth aforesaid, the xiii day of Aprill." [1471.]

"Moreover wee will that yowe charge the Bayliffe of mēr rân Pārtan, to make all the people there to come in their beste aray to us, in all haste, and that the said bayliffe bringe with him the rent for our Lady Day last past, and hee nor the tenants fayle not, as hee intends to have our favour.

"EDWARD.

"To our trusty and well beloved, John Daunt."

The eldest son and heir,

JOHN DAUNT, m. Margery, dau. and sole heiress of Robert Owlpen, lord of the manor of Owlpen, in co. Gloucester, and became possessed of the manor of Owlpen, in right of his wife, by whom he had, I. CHRISTOPHER; II. John; III. George; IV. Robert; V. William; I. Jane; and, II. Alice. Dying in 1522, he was s. by his eldest son,

CHRISTOPHER DAUNT, of Owlpen, who m. Anne, dau. of Giles Basset, Esq. of Yewley, co. Gloucester, by whom he had issue, I. THOMAS; II. William; III. Giles; and, I. Alice, the wife of John Rogers, Gent. He was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS DAUNT, of Owlpen, who m. Alice, dau. of William Throckmorton, Esq. of Tortworth, co. Gloucester, and aunt of Sir William Throckmorton, Bart. by whom he had, I. Henry; II. THOMAS; III. Giles; IV. WILLIAM, of whom hereafter; I. Elizabeth, wife of Christopher Kingscote, Esq. of Kingscote, co. Gloucester; II. Mary, wife of Robert Thorne, of Somersetshire; and, III. Joyce, wife of Humphry Thorne. Henry Daunt succeeded to Owlpen; he m. a dau. of Giles Hussey, Esq. of Motcombe, co. Somerset, but left no male issue. His father (Thomas) d. 29 Nov. 1574. Owlpen, on the death of Henry, passed, with the representation of the family, to the second brother,

THOMAS DAUNT, who was lord of the manor of Owlpen in 1608. He also acquired the lands of Traeton Abbey, co. Cork, by lease; and the estate of Gortigrenane, in the same county, by purchase, from Sir Warham St. Leger, in 1595. One of the conditions of this purchase was, that Daunt should furnish a light-horseman for Queen ELIZABETH's service, whenever the Munster Undertakers should be called on to serve. He m. Mary, dau. of Bryan Jones, of Glamorganshire, who d. in 1631: by her he had issue, I. THOMAS; and, II. Margaret, wife of Baroehiah Baker, Esq. of Carrigrohane Castle, co. Cork. He d. in 1620, and was s. by his son,

He d. in 1670, and was s. in Gortigrenane by his fourth son,

GEORGE DAUNT, of Nohoval and Gortigrenane, co. Cork. He m. Martha, dau. of Major Turner, of Bandon-bridge, co. Cork, by whom he had issue, I. THOMAS; and, II. HENRY, of Knoeknamana, co. Cork, ancestor of the DAUNTS of FAHALEA, NEWBOROUGH, and SLIEVERON. He d. in 1697, and was s. by his eldest son,

THOMAS DAUNT, of Owlpen and Gortigrenane, who m. in 1697, Elizabeth, dau. of the Rev. George Syngé, and granddau. of the Right Hon. and Right Rev. George Syngé, alias Millington, Lord Bishop of Cloyne, privy councillor, &c. By her he had issue, I. THOMAS, a twin; II. ACHILLES, a twin; III. Kingseote; I. Martha, wife of Richard Bourne, Esq. of Burren, co. Cork; II. Hanuab, wife of her cousin, George Daunt, of the city of Dublin, surgeon; and, III. Elizabeth. He d. in 1745, and was s. first, by his eldest son, THOMAS, failing whom, without issue, the representation devolved upon the second twin,

ACHILLES DAUNT, of Owlpen and Gortigrenane, who m. in 1742, his cousin, Anne, dau. of Henry Daunt, Esq. of Knoeknamana, co. Cork, by whom he had issue,

THOMAS DAUNT, of Owlpen and Gortigrenane, b. in 1755, who m. Mary, dau. of George Baker, Esq. of Cork, and dying without male issue, in 1803, his estates devolved on his dau. and sole heiress, MARY DAUNT, of Owlpen and Gortigrenane, who m. in 1815, Thomas-Anthony Stoughton, Esq. of Ballyhorgan, co. Kerry.

Lineage.

A full account of the ancient family of DAVIES OF GWYSANEY having appeared in vol. i., page 254, we shall now confine ourselves to the direct male line from Cynric Efell, affording such additional particulars, since derived from public records and private muniments, as will give completeness to the whole, and perfect the line of descent.

CYNRIC EFELL, the elder of the twin sons of Madoc ap Meredith, Prince of Powys, on the decease of his father—succeeded to the lordship of Eglwys Egle, a division of the lordship of Bromfield, containing the townships of Ithihisham, Broughton, Stanstye Villa, Acton, Morton Walliarum, and Erddig; and he acquired also, as portion of his inheritance, a part of Rhuabou, in Denhighland, and of Ystrad Alyn Yweh Gwysaney, (a commot in Cantref-y-Rhiw, in Powys,) which, by the name of Molsdale, with the continuation of it, then called Hopesdale, was, in the first regulation of the Welsh counties by King HENRY VIII., annexed to the county of Denhigh; but in the 33rd year of the same monarch, was assigned to Flintshire. The armorial bearings of the Lord of Eglwys Egle, which continue to be borne by his descendants, were, "Gu., on a bend, arg., a lion, passant, sa." Cynric Efell, who was living A.D. 1200, m. Golle, (the Brilliant,) dau. and heiress of Griffith ap Howel, fifth in descent from Elystan Glodrydd, Prince of Ferlys, founder of the IV. Royal Trihe of Wales, and had issue,

- I. LLEWELYN.
- II. Madoc.
- III. Cynric-Vyehan, who had issue.
- IV. Iorwerth.
- V. Howel.
- VI. Ririd, Lord of Llwydiarth, in Powysland and Dinas Cerdin, in South Wales, who m. Arddyn, dau. of Ithel Goeh, of Burgedin, in Powys, derived from Meredith, younger son of Bleddyn ap Cynfyn, King of Powys, and had a dau. and heiress, Gwladys, who m. Ririd ap Cynddelw, Lord of Llwydiarth, in Powys, derived from Aleth, Prince of Dyfed, and had a son, Celynn, Lord of Llwydiarth, ancestor of the LLOYDS of DOLOBRAN, and the Davies's of Marsh, co. Salop, from whom deduces descent, LIET.-COLONEL THOMAS-HENRY-HASTINGS DAVIES, of Elmley Park, co. Worcester.

The eldest son,

LLEWELYN AP CYNRIC EFELL, a noble of Molsdale, m. Efa, dau. of Bleddyn ap Gwion, Lord of Uwch Aled, in Denhighland, derived from Hedd Molwynoc, Lord of Uwch Aled, founder of the IX. Noble Trihe of North Wales and Powys, and had two sons and a dau.

GRIFFITH AP LLEWELYN, eldest son of Llewelyn, and grandson of Cynric Efell, the founder of this line, s. at the decease of his father. He m. and had issue,

- I. GRONO.
- II. Madoc Ddu ap Griffith, who m. Myfanwy, dau. of Ednyfed Gam ap Iorwerth Voel, of Pengwern, derived from Tudor Trevor, Lord of Hereford, by whom he had a dau. and heiress, Isabel, m. to Grono ap Einion ap Owen ap Trahaern, derived from Ednyfed ap Gwernwy, founder of the Tribe of Dyffryn Clwyd and Allington, in North Wales. From this marriage derive the Aimers of Almer, co. Flint.

- III. Griffith Ddu, ancestor of the ROBERTS's of NERQUIS.

The eldest son,

GRONO AP GRIFFITH, m. and had issue, I. MEILIR AP GRONO; II. Meirick ap Grono, living in 1318; and III. David ap Grono. The eldest son,

MEILIR AP GRONO, is referred to in a grant of 1318, 2 EDWARD II., from David Lloyd ap Kadwgan, to Iorwerth and Eignion, Meilir's sons. He m. Agnes, dau. of Cadwgan Goch ap Gwion, of Yale, in Denhighland, ap Hwfa ap Ithell Velyn, Lord of Yale, son of Llewelyn Aurdorchog, Lord of Yale, progenitor of the WALCOTS OF WALCOT, co. Salop, and had issue,

- I. EIGNION AP MEILIR, of whom presently.
- II. Griffith Graeh ap Meilir, who m. Efa, dau. of David Hen ap Grono, of Lai, co. Flint, ap Iorwerth ap Howel ap Moriddig ap Sande Hardd, Lord of Burton, bad a son,

Grono ap Griffith Graeh, ancestor of the EYTONS OF LEESWOOD, (see vol. i.)

- III. Iorwerth ap Meilir, grantee with his brother Eignion, in the deed of 2 EDWARD II. He m. Gwenllian, dau. of Ievan ap Howel ap Meredith ap Eignion ap Gwgan, and had two sons,

1. Ievan ap Iorwerth, witness to a deed of 37 EDWARD III., A.D. 1363.
2. Meilir ap Iorwerth, father of David ap Meilir.

The eldest son,

EIGNION AP MEILIR, is, under the designation of "Eignion Filius Meilir ap Grono," a grantee of land in the township of Soughton, co. Flint, together with his brother Iorwerth ap Meilir, 2 EDWARD II. He m. Gwenhwyfar, dau. of Adda Wyddel, of Dol Edeyrn ap Idnerth ap David Goeh, whose arms were, "Gu., a chev., arg., between three roses, or," and had issue,

- I. CYNRIC AP EIGNION, of whom we treat.

- II. Ievan ap Eignion, ancestor of the Lewis's of Hendrebriffa, whose heiress, Jane, dau. and heir of Richard Lewis, of Hendrebriffa, m. Hugh Jones, of Denbighland.

- I. Gwenllian, m. to Madoc Goeh ap Heilin Vyehan.

The eldest son,

CYNRIC AP EIGNION, by the designation of "Kynric ap Eignion ap Meilir, ppetarius in villis de Gwyssaney et Wrennwrch," grants to his sons Griffith, Bleddyn, Madoc, and Grono, all his lands and tenements in Montcalto, (Mold,) in the township of Gwysaney, and co. Flint, by deed, dated 37 EDWARD III., A.D. 1363. He m. Gwenllian, dau. of Ievan ap Bleddyn, "as appareth by a deed [that of 37 EDWARD III.] that Mr. Davies, of Gwysaney, hath," (Harl. MSS. 1969, fol. 60,) and was s. by his eldest son, GRONO AP CYNRIC, who, with his brothers already mentioned—namely, Griffin, Bleddyn, and Madoc, was co-grantee under the deed of 37 EDWARD III. The "tenement" of Madoc, the third son, is mentioned in the will, dated 1467, of Llewelyn ap David, of Gwysaney, to which we will refer in the sequel.

EIGNION AP GRONO, the eldest son of Grono ap Cynric, was father of

GRONO AP EIGNION, who m. and had, with a younger son, Richard ap Grono, an elder son,

DAVID AP GRONO, living in 1440, described in the will of his son, Llewelyn, as "David ap Grono ap Eignion." He m. Angharad, dau. of David ap Iorwerth Vyehan, of Caervallweh, in Northop, co. Flint, derived from Edwin, Lord of Tegaingl, and had issue,

- I. LLEWELYN AP DAVID, of whom presently.

- II. Grono ap David, father of

GRIFFITH AP GRONO, living 19 EDWARD IV., one of the executors of the will of his uncle, Llewelyn, described in that instrument as Griffith ap Grono ap David ap Grono.

- III. Griffith ap David, who had two sons,

Eignion ap Griffith, executor with his cousin, Griffith ap Grono, of the will of their uncle, Llewelyn ap David.

Llewelyn ap Griffith, who d. before 19 EDWARD IV., leaving a son, John ap Llewelyn, mentioned in the deed of 19 EDWARD IV.

The eldest son,

LLEWELYN AP DAVID, of Gwysaney, in the parish of Mold, township of Gwysaney, and co. Flint, by the designation of "Llewelinus ap David ap Grono ap Eignion de Monte Alto," made his will, "dat. apud Gwyssaney xxiiij die mensis Novembris, Ano. dni m. cccclxvii." by which he devises his tenement "quondam Madoc ap Kendrick ap Eignion pertinent: post mort. Mali verel Madoc, uxor meæ," and directs that his body be buried "infra ecclesiam de Monte Alto." He m. Mali, already named, dau. and heir of Madoc ap Bleddyn, of Leeswood, co. Flint, descended from Ithell Velyn, Lord of Yale, son of Llewelyn Aurdorchog, Lord of Yale. By this lady (whose will bears date 6 May, 1469, and who d. 9 EDWARD IV.) Llewelyn ap David had issue,

- I. GRIFFITH AP LLEWELYN, of whom presently.

- II. Madoc ap Llewelyn, to whose sons and daus. bequests are made by the will of their grandfather, Llewelyn ap David.

- III. Leiki, living in 1467, m. to Madoc ap Llewelyn.

The elder son,

GRIFFITH AP LLEWELYN, of Gwysaney, was one of the executors, under the designation of "Griffith ap Llewelyn ap David ap Grono," of the wills of his father and mother, and also a grantee under a deed, dated 19 EDWARD IV., 1480, from John ap Llewelyn ap Griffith ap David ap Grono, of certain lands in Flintshire. His wife was Emma, dau. of Jenkin ap Tegin ap Ievan, of Kinnerton, co. Flint, derived from Edwin, Lord of Tegaingl, in Flint, and by her he had issue,

- I. DAVID AP GRIFFITH, of whose line we treat.

- II. Robert ap Griffith, whose wife was Gwen, dau. of John ap Griffith Lloyd. He was killed with his brother John.

- III. Llewelyn ap Griffith, 7 EDWARD IV.

- IV. Nicholas ap Griffith, living 6 May, 1469, the date of his grandmother's will under which he has a bequest.

- V. John ap Griffith, also a legatee under his grandmother's will. He m. Katharine, dau. of Griffith ap Belyn, derived from Ithell Velyn, Lord of Yale, and was father of ROBERT AP JOHN, of the Tower.

- I. Gwenllian, m. Griffith ap David, of Bestre.

- II. Catherine, m. Griffith Lloyd ap David.

Griffith ap Llewelyn was succeeded by his eldest son, DAVID AP GRIFFITH, of Gwysaney, who m. Angharad, dau. (by Catherine, dau. of Piers Stauley, of Eulowe, co. Flint) of Edward Lloyd, of Hartsheath, co. Flint, a scion of the line of Edwin, Lord of Tegaingl, and had issue,

- i. John.
- ii. Robert, a Sergeant to HENRY VIII., m. the widow of Alderman Puleston.
- iii. Ievan, m. Margaret, relict of Thomas ap Rees, and dau. of Howel ap Robert ap Rees, of Mertyn, and was great-grandfather of Thomas Davies, of Arddynwent, co. Flint.

David ap Griffith's successor,

JOHN AP DAVID, of Gwysaney, assumed the name of DAVIES, from this time the patronymic of his descendants. He m. Jane, widow of Richard Mostyn, and dau. (by Jane, dau. of Robert Massie, of Coddington, co. Chester, Esq., and Dorothy, his wife, dau. of Sir Hugh Calveley, Knt.) of Thomas Salusbury, of Leadbroke, co. Flint, grandson of Thomas Salusbury, of Leadbroke, Esq., third son, by Margaret, his wife, dau. and heir of John Hooke, of Leadbroke, Esq., of Sir Thomas Salusbury, of Lleweny, co. Denbigh, Knt., representative of the knightly, and eventually baronetical house of Salusbury, seated at Lleweny from the year 1230. By this lady, (whose third husband was John Parry, of Ruddland,) John Davies had issue,

- i. ROBERT, his heir.
- ii. John Davies, Esq., living in 1578, ancestor of the family of Davies of Marrington Hall, co. Salop, (see vol. i.)
- i. Catherine, m. Edward Morgan, Esq. of Golden Grove, co. Flint, and was mother of EDWARD MORGAN, Esq. of Golden Grove, ancestor of the MORGANS of GOLDEN GROVE, represented by Edward Morgan, Esq. of that place, derived, through Ednyfed Vychan, Lord of Brynfenigl, from Marchudd, Lord of Abergeleu, founder of the VIII. Noble Tribes of North Wales and Powys.

The elder son,

ROBERT DAVIES, of Gwysaney, Esq., was living 20 April, 1581, when he obtained from the College of Heralds a confirmation of the family arms, and also the grant of the crest borne by his descendants, "A lion's head, erased, quarterly arg. and sa., langued, gu." This gentleman m. 1st, Catherine, dau. of George Ravenscroft, of Bretton, co. Flint, Esq., and niece of Elizabeth Ravenscroft, wife of Thomas Egerton, Lord Ellesmere and Viscount Brackley, Lord High Chancellor of England. By this lady he had issue,

- i. ROBERT, his heir.
- ii. Thomas, Lieut.-Col. for CHARLES I., and Constable of Hawarden Castle in 1643. This gentleman m. his cousin, Dorothea, dau. of Robert Morgan, Esq. of Golden Grove, co. Flint, by Catherine, dau. of Sir William Jones, of Castel-y-march. Colonel Davies was buried at Mold, 7 March, 1655, and his wife on 18 April.
- iii. John, d. s. p.
- i. Dorothy, m. 1st, Edward Price, of Eglwysegle; and 2ndly, Thomas Llewelyn, Gent., of Salop.
- ii. Mary, m. John Price, of the township of Gwysaney.

Robert Davies m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, relict of John Haynes, Esq., and dau. and heir of Lancelot Lowther, of Holt, Esq., by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. and heir of Randle Mynsull, and by her, who was buried 11 March, 1616, he had,

- i. Luke.
- ii. Mark.
- iii. Matthew, living in 1632.
- i. Katherine, m. to Harry Lloyd, of Hartsheath, co. Flint.

Mr. Davies d. in 1600, and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT DAVIES, of Gwysaney, Esq., b. at Chester, and baptized in St. John's Church there, 29 July, 1581, who served the office of High-Sheriff for Flintshire, of which county he was a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant. Mr. Davies, who was lay rector and patron of the living of St. Winefrede, in Flintshire, which before the dissolution belonged to the Abbey of Basingwerk, in the same county, munificently transferred to Jesus' College, Oxford, the right of nomination to the advowson, by deed dated 1626, whereby it was declared that as often as this incumbency became vacant, the grantor and his heirs should freely and "Charitatis intuitu et absque aliqua morosa cunctatione," present a native of Wales, rightfully and canonically nominated by the College. This gentleman m. Anne, only dau. and heir of John Haynes, Esq., co. Salop, receiver to Queen ELIZABETH of her revenues in Wales, (who d. 27 May, 33 ELIZABETH,) by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. and heir of Lancelot Lowther, of Holt, Esq., and afterwards wife of Robert Davies, of Gwysaney, Esq. Mr. Davies, who d. 27, was buried at Mold, 29 January, 1633, and his inquisition post mortem was taken at Mold, 3 August, 10 CHARLES I. By his lady, who was buried at Mold, 31 August, 1636, he left a son and successor, ROBERT DAVIES, of Gwysaney, Esq., 17 years and 29 days old at his father's death, b. there, 19 Feb. 1616, and baptized at Mold, 22 December following, who was placed under the joint guardianship of his uncle, Colonel Thomas Davies, and of Sir Peter Mutton. He was high-sheriff for the county of Flint, in 1644-5-6 and 1600, and a release granted to him by Oliver Cromwell, dated 1658, is still preserved. This gentleman, a stanch cavalier, garrisoned the old mansion of Gwysaney during the civil wars, and defended it until the 12th of April 1645, when Sir William Brereton, the parliamentary general, compelled it to surrender. At the Restoration, his name appears among those deemed qualified for the knighthood of the Royal Oak, "he having an estate of 2000*l.* per annum." Mr. Davies m., aged thirteen, at the parish church of Gresford, co. Denbigh, 20 July, 1631, Anne, dau. and coheirss (with Eleanor, wife of Kenrick Eyton, of Eyton, co. - vii. Margaret, bapt. at Mold, 5 April, 1655, and m. at Gwysaney Chapel, 24 Dec. 1673, John Holland, Esq. of Treirdan.

Robert Davies, who was buried at Mold, 4 Oct. 1666, where there is a monument to him, was s. by his eldest son,

MUTTON DAVIES, of Gwysaney, Esq., who inherited, in right of his mother, the estate of Llanerch. This gentleman was high-sheriff of Flintshire, in 1670. He was b. 19, and baptized at Mold, 24 Feb. 1634, and m. Elizabeth, only dau. of Sir Thomas Wilbraham, of Woodhey, co. Chester, Bart., ninth in direct descent from EDWARD III., King of England, (see BURKE'S Royal Families, Pedigree CIV.) by Elizabeth, second dau. and co-heiress of Sir Roger Wilbraham, of Bridgemere, co. Chester, Knt., Solicitor-General to Queen ELIZABETH, and Master of Requests; and by her had issue,

- i. ROBERT DAVIES, Esq. of Gwysaney and Llanerch Park, High-Sheriff for Flintshire, in 1704. This gentleman, who collected the valuable library of MSS. at Llanerch, was an able naturalist and Welsh antiquary, and several of his letters to men eminent in those studies still remain.

He m. Letitia, sister of John Vaughan, 1st Viscount Lisburne, &c., dau., (by Letitia, dau. of Sir William Hooker, Knt.) of Edward Vaughan, Esq. of Trawscoed, co. Cardigan, M.P. for that county, (son of the eminent patriot, Sir John Vaughan, Knt., Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, M.P. for Cardiganshire :) by this lady, afterwards wife of Peter Pennant, Esq. of Bychton and Downing. co. Flint, Robert Davis had issue,

i. ROBERT, his heir, of Gwysaney and Llanerch Park, ancestor of the Davis's of Gwysaney and Llanerch, now represented by PHILIP DAVIS COOKE, Esq. of Owston and Gwysaney.

ii. THOMAS, of whom presently.

iii. Roger, buried at Mold, 30 March, 1677.

iv. John, D.D., rector of Kingsland, co. Hereford, precentor of St. David's, and prebendary of Hereford and St. Asaph. He m. twice: 1st, Honora, widow of Thomas Ravenscroft, Esq. and dau. of Ralph Sneyd, Esq. of Kyle, co. Stafford, by Frances, dau. of Sir John Dryden, Bart. of Canons Abbey, co. Northampton, M.P. for Northamptonshire in 1640; and 2ndly, Isabella, dau. of Samuel Danvers, Gent. by Beata, dau. of Sir John Bridges, Bart. and relict of John Hardinge, D.D., Bishop of Ossory. By the latter, who d. at Bath, 23 May, aged 82, and was buried 4 June, 1760, at Kingsland, where there is a monument erected to his memory by Ann Hardinge, her daughter, Dr. Davies had no issue. Dr. Davies d. at Bath, 14, and was buried 21 Dec. 1732, at Kingsland, where there is a monument to him. By his first wife, who was buried at Kingsland, 29 July, 1714, he had four sons, John; Sneyd, D.D.; Thomas, and William.

v. Richard, vicar of Rhuabon, co. Denbigh, precentor of Brecon, and canon of St. Asaph and St. David, d. 25, and buried 28 May, 1746, aged 73, at Mold, where there is a monument to him. Mr. Pennant gives in his Tours in Wales, a poem by this gentleman on Caractacus.

i. Anne, living unm. 24 Oct., 36 CHARLES II., and living 16 Dec. 1716.

ii. Mary, living unm. 24 Oct., 36 CHARLES II., and living 16 Dec. 1716, m. the Rev. Thomas Holland, of Berow, co. Anglesey.

iii. Elizabeth.

iv. Katherine, living unm. 24 Oct., 36 CHARLES II., second wife of Sir William Williams, Bart., M.P., ancestor of the Williams-Wynns, Barts. of Wynnstay, co. Denbigh, and the Williams's, Barts. of Boddylywyddan, co. Flint.

Mutton Davies d. at Gwysaney, after four days' illness, 29 Oct., and was interred 6 Nov. 1684, at Mold, where there is an inscription to his memory, on his father's monument.

THOMAS DAVIES, Esq., second son of Mutton Davies, Esq. of Gwysaney, by Elizabeth, his wife, only dau. of Sir Thomas Wilbrabam, Bart. of Woodhey, was b. in 1660, and m. in 1687, Margaret, dau. of Owen Madoc, Gent. This gentleman, to whom his maternal grandmother, Lady Wilbraham, bequeathed an annuity for life, left at his decease, in 1697, a son and heir.

THE REV. OWEN DAVIES, b. in 1689, who m. in 1714, Jane, dau. of William Lloyd, Esq., and d. in 1766, leaving an only son,

OWEN DAVIES, Esq., b. in 1715, who m. 9 Sept. 1756, Sarah, dau. of James Stockell, Gent. of Westbury, co. Salop, and d. in 1805, leaving a son and successor,

THOMAS DAVIES, Esq., seated at Trefynant, co. Denbigh. He was b. 8 Nov. 1757, and m. Margaret, dau. of John Peplow, Esq. of Peplow, co. Salop, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of Edward Hill, Esq. of the last-named shire, and by her (who d. 24 Jan. 1809, aged 49) had issue,

i. THOMAS, Lieutenant of Engineers, E.I.C.S., b. 7 Nov. 1789, killed in action on the night of the 18 May, 1818, at Malegaume, in India, commanding engineer of the army of the Deccan. Though brief was the career of this gallant officer, the brilliant service and splendid promise which distinguished it in so eminent a degree, rendered his untimely end a severe national loss, and augmented, if that were possible, the sorrow of his immediate family. For more particular details of the preeminently distinguished career of Lieut. Davies, see page 256, vol. i.

ii. OWEN, second, but eventually eldest son and heir.

i. Elizabeth, m. 27 March, 1800, to William Hughes, Esq. of Pen-y-clawdd, co. Denbigh. (See vol. i. p. 603.)

Thomas Davies, of Trefynant, d. 24 Jan. 1840, and was s. by his second, but eventually eldest son and heir, the present OWEN DAVIES, Esq.

DAWSON OF LANGCLIFFE AND OF HORNBY CASTLE.

DAWSON, PUDSEY, Esq. of Hornby Castle, co. Lancaster, of Langcliffe and Great Stainforth, in the West Riding of Yorkshire, and of Sinnington Manor, in the North Riding of the same county; a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the counties of Lancaster and West Riding of York, and a magistrate for Westmoreland; m. 1st, in 1808, Sarah, eldest dau. of George Bigland, Esq. of Bigland Hall, (see p. 96,) and by her (who d. at Bigland Hall, in Dec. 1816) had a son, Hugh Pudsey, B.A. Oxford; d. at Madaira, 30 June, 1831, aged 22, unm.

He m. 2ndly, 9 May, 1821, Jane-Constantine, second dau. and one of the co-heiresses of the Rev. Richard Dawson, of Halton Gill, and rector of Bolton-by-Bowland, in the West Riding of Yorkshire, a descendant of a second son of the same family. Mr. Dawson, who served as high-sheriff of Lancashire in 1845, s. to the estates at Langcliffe, on the death of his father, 19 April, 1816, and to the Hornby Castle property, under the will of his kinsman, the late Admiral Sandford Tatham, who d. 24 Jan. 1840.

Lincage.

The Dawsons of Halton Gill, in the parish of Arncliffe, and Langcliffe Hall, in the parish of Giggleswick, both in the West Riding of Yorkshire, have been of highly respectable descent, and seated at the former place for many generations.

JOSIAS DAWSON, Esq., the only son of CHRISTOPHER DAWSON, Esq. of Halton Gill, upon his marriage in 1646, with Mary, only dau. of William Foster, removed to Langcliffe Hall. His eldest son,

CHRISTOPHER DAWSON, Esq. of Langcliffe Hall, m. 27 May, 1673, Margaret, third dau. of Sir Thomas Craven, of Appletrewick, in Craven, co. York, and sister of Sir William Craven, Knt. of Combe, co. Warwick, whose son, William, succeeded to the title of Baron Craven, according to the limitation, in 1665. (See BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.) By this lady Mr. Dawson left two sons: Josias, who d. unm. aged 16; and

WILLIAM DAWSON, Esq. of Langcliffe Hall, a major in the Yorkshire militia, and a magistrate for the West Riding of Yorkshire, who m. 1st, Jane Pudsey, eventually the sole heiress of her father, and brother, Ambrose Pudsey, of Bolton Hall, in Craven, and by her had two sons,

CHRISTOPHER, who s. to the estates at Bolton, &c., on the death of his maternal uncle, Ambrose Pudsey, Esq., and d. unm. in 1786, aged 81, and was s. by his brother, AMBROSE, heir to his brother and father, and of whom presently.

Major Dawson m. 2ndly, Elizabeth Marsden, dau. of Henry Marsden, of Gisburne Hall, co. York, and Wennington, co. Lancaster, first cousin of his first wife. By this marriage he had a son and a daughter, from whom are descended the Dawsons of St. Leonard's Hill, co. Berks, and the Cooksons of Leeds. Major Dawson was the personal friend of Sir Isaac Newton, who paid him frequent visits at Langcliffe. His acquirements in classical literature and mathematics were very considerable. His second son,

AMBROSE DAWSON, Esq. of Langeliffe Hall, and of Bolton, m. in 1742, Mary, dau. of Richard Aston, Esq., and sister of Sir Willoughby Aston, Bart., and to Sir Richard Aston, one of the judges of the Court of Queen's Bench, and by her had issue, PUDSEY, his heir.

William, m. Eleanor Lee, and has issue four sons and three daus.

Richard, m. Elizabeth Crosbie, and has issue two sons and three daus.

Mary, m. to William Crosbie, Esq., and had one son and one dau.

Elizabeth, m. to Col. Charles Rooke, and left issue two sons and two daus.

Mr. Dawson was brought up to the medical profession, and practised for several years as a physician in Grosvenor-street, London, eventually becoming the oldest member of the Royal College of Physicians. Upon retiring from the profession, and removing into Yorkshire, he received from the parish of St. George, Hanover-square, a handsome piece of plate, with the following elegant inscription:—"The parish of St. George, Hanover-square, to Ambrose Dawson, Esq., M.D. Infirmitas et visitatis me." Mr. Dawson d. in Dec. 1794, aged 88, and was s. by his son,

PUDSEY DAWSON, Esq. of Langeliffe Hall, and of Bolton Hall, b. in Grosvenor-street, London, 16 Feb. 1752; who m. Miss Elizabeth-Anne Scott, dau. of James Scott, Esq. of Amsterdam, (who d. 2 Feb. 1837, aged 86,) and had issue, PUDSEY, present representative.

William, post-capt. R.N.; d. at Madras, in 1811, s. p., aged 28. This gentleman, while cruising in the St. Fiorenzo, in the Indian Seas, in 1808, having succeeded as first lieutenant in the command, on the fall of the gallant Capt. Hardinge, captured the "Piedmontaise," after one of the most gallant actions of the late war, and three successive days' fighting. The colours taken on board her, are hung up in Bolton Hall.

Richard, m. in 1813, Mary-Anne Perkin, and has issue, a son, RICHARD PUDSEY; and a dau., Mary, m. to Henry-R. Hoskins, Esq., and has a son, Alexander.

Ambrose, B.D., senior Fellow of Brazenose.

Henry, capt. 52nd light infantry, killed in Spain, 17 Nov. 1812, in his 24th year, unm.

Charles, lieut. in the same regt., d. and was buried at Chantilly, in France, having been repeatedly wounded in the Peninsula and at Waterloo, in his 23rd year, unm.

Edward, m. Eliza Liot, and d. in Jan. 1843, at Bermuda, aged 46, leaving one dau., Elizabeth-Anne Pudsey.

Mary, m. in 1809, to Anthony Littledale, Esq. of Liverpool, and has issue. Mrs. Littledale is now the possessor of Bolton Hall, by purchase from Col. Bolton, who had bought it, in 1804, from the late Pudsey Dawson, Esq.

Jane, m. in 1832, to the Rev. John Jennings, canon of Westminster and rector of St. John, and d. in childbirth the following year, leaving a son, Ambrose-Dawson Jennings.

Mr. Pudsey Dawson served the office of mayor of Liverpool in 1799 and 1800, and commanded the royal regiment of Liverpool Volunteers, from its enrolment to the peace in 1802, when it was disembodied. The noblest act, however, which endears his memory to the town of Liverpool, was his being one of the founders there of a school for the indigent blind,* the first institution of that nature which had been established in this country. His bright and benevolent example was happily soon followed, and many and lasting are the benefits derived from such foundations. He d. at Everton, near Liverpool, 19 April, 1816, and was s. by his eldest son, the present PUDSEY DAWSON, Esq. of Langeliffe, and Hornby Castle.

Family of Pudsey,

REPRESENTED BY THE PRESENT PUDSEY DAWSON, ESQ.

UGHTRED DE BOLTON, living temp. HENRY I., held among other possessions the manor of Bolton by Bowland.

* In the hall of the Institution is a marble tablet raised to his memory in 1817. The sculpture consists of a graceful female figure, representing Charity, leading two blind children to a sarcophagus, on which is a medallion of Pudsey Dawson, each with a wreath in the hand, as though to crown him. Beneath is the following inscription: "To Pudsey Dawson, in grateful recollection of the unwearied care with which he watched over the interests of this Institution during a period of twenty-five years, this memorial was erected in 1817."

Seventh in descent from him was RICHARD DE BOLTON, bow-bearer of the Forest of Bowland, upon whose death, without issue, temp. EDWARD I., the manor of Bolton devolved upon his nephew, JOHN DE PUDSEY, son and heir of his eldest sister and co-heiress, Catherine, by her husband SIMON DE PUDSEY, living temp. EDWARD II. John de Pudsey's son and heir, HENRY PUDSEY, Esq. of Bolton Hall, m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of John Layton, of Barforth, and was father of SIR JOHN PUDSEY, Knt., Lord of Bolton, 3 HENRY IV., who m. Margaret, dau. of Sir William Eure, Knt., by Maud, his wife, dau. of Lord Fitz-Hugh, and had a son, SIR RALPH PUDSEY, Knt., Lord of Bolton 31 HENRY VI., who concealed his royal master for several weeks at Boltod Hall, after the fatal battle of Hexham;* whose son and heir, by his first wife, Margaret, dau. of Sir Thomas Tunstal, Knt. of Scargil, SIR JOHN PUDSEY, Knt. of Bolton, m. Grace, dau. of Lawrence Hamerton, Esq. of Hamerton, and was father of HENRY PUDSEY, Knt. of Bolton, who d. in 1520, leaving by Margaret, his first wife, dau. of Sir John Conyers, Knt. of Hornby Castle, in Yorkshire, an eldest son and heir, Thomas Pudsey, Esq. of Bolton and Barforth, who m., temp. HENRY VII., Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Roger Pilkington, of Pilkington, co. Lancaster, and was s. by his eldest son, HENRY PUDSEY, Esq. of Bolton and Barforth, who d. 8 Dec., 34 HENRY VIII., (1542,) leaving by his first wife, Joan, dau. of Sir Ralph Eure, Knt., an eldest son and heir,

THOMAS PUDSEY, Esq. of Barforth and Bolton, to whom, who lay with the army of reserve, the Earl of Surrey, on the march of the English army to Flodden Field, of which he held the command, addressed an important letter from Newcastle, the last day of May, 1513, which is still in the possession of Mr. Pudsey Dawson, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Lord Scrope of Bolton and Masham, and was father of WILLIAM PUDSEY, Esq. of Bolton, living 19 ELIZABETH, who left by his first wife, Elizabeth Banister, an eldest son, AMBROSE PUDSEY, Esq. of Bolton, father, by his first wife, Bridget, dau. of Sir Richard Sandford, Knt. of Howgill Castle, co. Westmoreland, of AMBROSE PUDSEY, Esq. of Bolton, colonel of a regiment of foot, who m. Jane, dau. of Sir Thomas Davison, Bart. of Blakiston, co. Durham, and was father of AMBROSE PUDSEY, Esq. of Bolton, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Henry Marsden, Esq. of Gisburne Hall, co. York, and of Wennington, co. Lancaster, and had, with other issue, who d. in infancy, a dau., Jane, m. in 1705, to William Dawson, Esq. of Langeliffe, as above; and Bridget, who d. aged 80, unm., devising her property to her nephews, Christopher and Ambrose Dawson.

DAY OF KERRY.

DAY, THE REV. EDWARD, of Beaufort, co. Kerry, Rector of St. John's, Sligo, m. in June, 1825, Anne, dau. of Richard Holmes, Esq. of the city of Dublin, and has issue, EDWARD, b. 12 May, 1826.

Arthur. Richard. John. William.

Elizabeth, m. 24 Dec. 1844, to Thomas-Yates Ridley, Esq. of Heysham, Lancashire.

Harriett. Lucy.

* The boots, gloves, and spoon of HENRY VI., given "to his loyal friend and adherent, Sir Ralph Pudsey, of Bolton Hall, in Craven, co. York, in token of grateful regard (in the moment of his flight, and the only one within his power in those disastrous times to bestow) for the zealous attachment shown to his royal person, and for the hospitality and security afforded in concealing him from his enemies for several weeks at Bolton Hall, after the fatal battle of Hexham," are in the possession of PUDSEY DAWSON, Esq., the direct descendant and heir of Sir Ralph Pudsey.

† Ambrose Pudsey and his son both served the office of high-sheriff of the county of York, and represented the borough of Clithero in 1661, 1695, 1701, 1702.

Lineage.

The Days of Kerry are a branch of a very ancient and widely-spreading family in the sister kingdom, and are very numerous in Norfolk and Suffolk. They claim descent from Geoffrey D'Eye, a follower of the Norman conqueror, who received a large grant of lands in Suffolk, afterwards erected into a manor, part of which now forms the parish of D'Eye.

The original surname still continues to be borne by the Rev. Nathaniel D'Eye, the acknowledged head of the family, to mark his descent from the Norman soldier.

At what period precisely the branch before us settled in Kerry has not been ascertained, but the first of the family, of whom anything is known, was

JONATHAN DAY, living in the year 1654, whose son, NATHANIEL DAY, a member of the society of Friends, m. Mary Kitchener, an English lady, and left two sons, EDWARD, of whom presently.

Nathaniel, a confidential agent of the house of Stuart in this country. Mr. Day suffered death in June, 1713, for enlisting men and collecting arms for the Pretender.

The eldest son,

EDWARD DAY, of Tralee, m. in 1697, Ellen, dau. of Philip Quarry, of the city of Cork. Mr. Day was engaged in mercantile pursuits, and acquired a considerable property, which is still possessed by the family. It would also appear that Mr. Day adopted the tenets of the Reformed church, from the fact of both his sons being in holy orders. Mr. Day left two sons and two daus., viz.,

I. JOHN, of whom hereafter.

II. Edward, in holy orders, m. Mary, dau. of John Rowan, Esq. of Castle Gregory, granddau. of Dean John Leslie, famed for his loyal services in 1688, and left issue.

DENISON OF OSSINGTON.

DENISON, JOHN-EVELYN, Esq. of Ossington Hall, co. Notts, b. 27 Jan. 1800; m. 14 July, 1827, Lady Charlotte Bentinck, third dau. of the present Duke of Portland. Mr. Denison is M.A. of Christ Church College, Oxford, and has been a member of the House of Commons since the year 1823. He first represented Newcastle-under-Lyme; in the next parliament he sat for Hastings; and in 1831, was chosen for the borough of Liverpool and the county of Nottingham, for the latter of which he made his election to serve. After the division of the county, he represented the Southern district in two parliaments, and in 1841 and 1847 was returned for Malton. He was Lord of the Admiralty in Mr. Canning's administration, and is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for the county of Nottingham.

Lineage.

The founder of this family was

WILLIAM DENISON, an opulent merchant at Leeds, who had two sons,

WILLIAM, his heir.

Thomas (Sir), a distinguished lawyer, appointed one of the judges of the Court of King's Bench, 16 Feb. 1742. He d. 8 Sept. 1765, and was buried in Harewood Church, Yorkshire, where a handsome monument, surmounted by a cast of the Judge, is erected to his memory. The inscription was written by his friend, Lord Mansfield. Mr. Justice Denison left no issue, and on the death of his widow, his large estates passed, under his will, to Edmund, son of the late Sir John Beckett, Bart., who has assumed the surname of Denison, (see vol. i. p. 324.)

WILLIAM DENISON, Esq. of Leeds, the elder son, was also engaged in the mercantile pursuits of that town, and having realized a large fortune, purchased the manor of Ossington. He served as high-sheriff of Notts in 1779, and *d. at Bath in 1782, leaving issue,

JOHN, his heir.

Nathaniel, of Daybrook, Notts, m. Elizabeth, eldest dau. of Robert Huish, Esq. of Nottingham.

JOHN DENISON, Esq. of Ossington, son and heir, was M.P. for Chichester, and afterwards for Minehead. He m. twice: by his first wife he had two daus., of whom, the elder, Charlotte, m. the Right Hon. Charles Manners Sutton, speaker of the House of Commons; by his second wife, Charlotte, dau. of Samuel Estwicke, Esq., M.P., Mr. Denison had issue,

I. JOHN-EVELYN, his heir, present representative of the family.

DENTON OF WARNEL DENTON.

DENTON, THE REV. CHARLES-JONES, M.A., Curate of East Walton, co. Norfolk, became the representative of this ancient family on the death of his father in 1828.

Vintage.

BUETH, the Saxon, Lord of Denton, was, as had been his ancestors long before him, lord of all the lands included in the harony of Gillesland, and dwelt at the Tower of Denton, or at Denton Hall, when Earl Ranulf de Meschines conquered Cumberland.† Bueth was driven out of house and hold by the Normans, and d. in banishment, in Scotland, temp. WILLIAM the Conqueror, who granted his lands to Hubert de Vallibus. He was father of

* In Ossington Church there is a magnificent mausoleum to the memory of Mr. Denison.

† Judge Thomas Denton, whose MSS. are considered of the very highest authority in all matters relative to the descent of families and lands in Cumberland, says, in his pedigree of this family, "Some believe that the family of Denton came into Britain with the Romans; first, because it is a Roman name, as appears in two epigrams in Martial 'In Dentonem;' 2ndly, from Julius Dentatus, a consul in Rome, who, after his consulship, came into England with Julius Agricola, and built a tower upon the Picts' Wall, and called it Denton, supposed to be this Denton Hall. Others believe it to be a Saxon family, because of the termination of the word in 'on.' The ancestors of the Denton, now at Warnel Hall, have certainly dwelt at Denton Hall and Carlisle ever since the Conquest or before." The Rev. Josiah Relph, a celebrated Cumberland antiquarian, who lived in the end of the 17th century, and beginning of the 18th, says, "It appears in a history of the Roman empire, that Julius Dentatus, after he had been consul at Rome, came over into England with Severus the Emperor, and built a tower upon the Picts' Wall, which, in all probability, may be that old tower at Denton Hall which stands very high that old wall, and there never was any other known of that name. The first inhabitant I read of here was one Bueth, a Saxon, whose ancestors were lords thereof long before the Conquest. This Bueth, also, was Lord of Gillesland, until he was banished into Scotland by WILLIAM the Conqueror, who granted the barony of Gillesland to Hubert de Vallibus."

GILLES FITZ BUETH, who aided DAVID, King of Scots, in the conquest of Cumberland, temp. STEPHEN, and had, in requital, his claim as heir to Bueth's lands supported by the Scottish monarch against Huhert de Vallibus; but not long after, HENRY II. of England, regaining Cumberland, confirmed Robert FitzHubert de Vallibus in the harony of Gillesland. Controversy, however, still continuing, Robert de Vallibus killed Gilles Bueth, and, in expiation, built the Priory of Lannercost. Gilles had issue, WESESCOB, or WESECOB, of whom presently.

Addock, m. 1st, Alda, Lord of Bothcastre, to whom she brought Over Denton, and had a son, Thomas, Lord of Over Denton. She m. 2ndly, Robert FitzOdard, Lord of Grimsdale, living temp. Kings STEPHEN, HENRY I., and HENRY II., and had issue, Ankelin, or Askelin de Denton, who had a son, Robert de Denton, who m. his cousin, Sirith, second dau. of BUED BUETH'S BARN, and of whom presently.

Robert de Denton, built the Hall of Carlisle, and purchased of Robert, son of Ankelin de Denton, the rectory of Grimsdale, Denton Holme, and other lands, near that city. He m. and had a son, Gilbert de Denton, whose son, Robert de Denton, was father of Gilbert de Denton, whose son, Alan Denton, had a son, Henry Denton, who was father of Thomas Denton, otherwise called Thomas, of the Hall of Carlisle, who purchased Denton Hall and Nether Denton, in Gillesland, of his kinsman, Sir Richard de Denton. He had two sons, DESCHAMPS OF EALING, CO. MIDDLESEX.

Lineage.

This family came over from France at the period of the revocation of the famous edict of Nantes, in 1685, when above half a million of the most useful and industrious subjects deserted their native country, and exported, with immense sums of money, those arts and manufactures which had chiefly tended to enrich that kingdom. The family had been among the number of eminent merchants in Rouen, France, and they prosecuted the same vocation in London after their expatriation.

PETER DESCHAMPS, the emigrant, d. 19 Jan. 1732, aged 76, and was buried in St. Stephen's Church, Walbrook, leaving issue (with others) a son, Ianthe.

Mr. Dixon, with his brother, s. to the estates of their kinsman, Robert-Henry-MacDonald, Esq., M.D., 31 July, 1838.

Lineage.

The family of Dixon was located at Beeston, and were large landed proprietors there long antecedently to the first date in the following pedigree, but the monumental inscriptions and the parish registries do not enable us to trace the descent higher with any degree of certainty.

ABRAHAM DIXON, of Beeston, co. York, who d. in 1671, leaving by Elizabeth, his wife, (who d. in 1670,) a son,

RALPH DIXON, who m. Dorothy, dau. of Ralph Beeston, Esq. of Beeston,* by Susan, his wife, dau. of Henry Hall, Esq. This lady was the last of the very ancient family of De Beiston, or Beeston, of Beeston, co. York, where it can be shown that they resided in the year 1207, in which year Mrs. Dixon's ancestor, Adam de Beiston, witnessed a charter, granted to Leeds by King JOHN. The manor of Beeston was long held by the family, and so far back as the 15th century, Ralph Beiston, Esq., who d. in May, 1496, gave to Kirkstall Abbey four acres of land in Beeston, called Palishenge, and a meadow at Holbeck, called Holbeck Rode. By Dorothy Beeston, his wife, Mr. Dixon left at his decease, in 1708, a son,

BRYAN DIXON, who m. Mary, dau. of James Blackbeard, Esq., and by her (who d. in 1695) had at his decease, in 1710, a son,

RALPH DIXON, citizen of London, who d. in 1712. He m. twice: by his first wife, Rachel, dau. of Paul Alestree, Esq., he had no issue; but by his second, Mary, dau. of John Passil, Esq. of London, he left a son, JOHN, and four daus., Rachel, Mary, Elizabeth, and Anne. The son and heir,

JOHN DIXON, was father, by Rebecca, his wife, dau. of the Rev. Samuel Wright, of a dau., Maria, and two sons, John and Samuel. The latter,

SAMUEL DIXON, d. in 1809, aged 80, leaving by Margaret, his wife, dau. of — Tyerman, Esq., (with five daus., Harriet, wife of the late J.-P. Gassiot, Esq., and mother of John-Peter Gassiot, Esq., F.R.S., of Clapham Common, Surrey; Mary; Anne; Martha; and Frances,) four sons, John, who d. in 1764; Ralph, who d. in 1768; Thomas, who d. in 1823; and SAMUEL, who d. 18 Jan. 1842, aged 71. This

SAMUEL DIXON, Esq., m. Mary-Julian, dau. and heiress of Capt. J.-B. Wessels, H.M.S., by Elizabeth,† his wife, who was the dau. of William MacDonald, Esq., M.D., of Perth, who d. in 1782, and Hannah, his wife, who d. in 1780, widow of J. Richardson, Esq., of St. Anne's, Jamaica. By Mary-Julian, his wife, Mr. Samuel Dixon had issue,

i. JAMES-HENRY.

ii. Robert-William, now of Seaton Carew, who m. Mary-Anne Atkinson.

iii. Edward, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of the late William Langhorne, Esq. of Gray's Inn, and d. in 1834.

i. Anne-Elizabeth, wife of Robert-Busbell Rampling, Esq. of Fleetwood, Lancashire.

* This Ralph Beeston was the son of Robert Beeston, Esq., and Margaret, the dau. and heiress of Sir William Calverley, Knt. of Calverley.

† Mrs. Wessels was the sister of the late Robert-Henry MacDonald, Esq., M.D., of Durham, a freeman and burgher of Renfrew, and was granddaughter of William MacDonald, Esq. of Perth, (who died in 1777, aged 97,) and was lineally descended from the MacDonalds of Clanranald, and Elizabeth, his wife, one of the Lowthers of Swillington. The said Robert-Henry MacDonald was the last male-heir of the family, and died 31 July, 1838, without issue, and his estates passed by devise to James-Henry Dixon, Esq. of Seaton Carew, and his brother.

DOWDALL OF IRELAND.

DOWDALL, THE REV. LAUNCELOT, A.M., Vicar of St. Andrew's, alias Ballyhalbert, co. Down, m. in April, 1846, Maria, fourth dau. of John Downing, Esq. of Rowsesgift, formerly Judge of the Supreme Court of the Kandian Provinces, and niece of George-Alexander Downing Fullerton, Esq. of Ballintoy Castle, co. Antrim, and of Tockington, co. Gloucester.

Lineage.

This family is of considerable antiquity: in the year 1435, we find ROBERT DOWDALL, Esq., serjeant-at-law, afterwards created chief justice of the Common Pleas, by patent, bearing date, 1446, (24 HENRY VI.) To Sir Robert s. his son, SIR THOMAS DOWDALL, who m. Elizabeth, widow of James, 3rd Barou of Delvin, dau. and co-heir of

* Family of Ludford.

This very ancient family is one of the oldest in England, and can be traced by authentic evidence, as possessed of the estate of Ansley, co. Warwick, from the close of the 14th century. The name was derived from the village of Ludford, near Ludlow, in Shropshire, at no great distance from the site of their late settlement. The chief line, that seated at Ansley, became represented by a female, Jane, dau. of John Ludford, Esq. of Ansley, and wife of the Rev. Thomas Bracebridge. Her son, Samuel Bracebridge, inheriting the estates of his maternal ancestors, assumed the surname and arms of LUDFORD, and d. in 1727, leaving a son, John Ludford, Esq. of Ansley, father, by Juliana, his wife, dau. of Sir Richard Newdegate, Bart., of JOHN-NEWDEGATE LUDFORD, Esq. of Ansley, who d. in 1822, leaving three daus., Elizabeth-Juliana, wife of John Chetwode, Esq.; Frances-Millicent; and Mary-Anne, m. to the Rev. Francis Astley, of Everley. While the chief line thus passed through heiresses, a younger branch preserved a male succession, and was represented by the late JONATHAN-ANDERSON LUDFORD, Esq., M.D., of Warwick Park, Jamaica, b. 19 June, 1770, who d. 11 Aug. 1818, and was buried in Trinity Church, New York. He had m. Rachel, dau. of James Hay, Esq. of Banif, second son of Andrew Hay, Esq. of Mount Blairy, (a cadet of Rannes,) by Mary, his second wife, dau. of James Allardice, of Allardice.

Sir Robert Hollywood, of Tartayne, or Artaine, co. Dublin, by his wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Christopher, 3rd Lord Killen, and by her had issue an only child, Eleanor, m. to John Nangle, styled Baron of Navan, whom she survived; and m. 2ndly, William, 2nd Viscount Gormanston.

In the year 1450, we find SIR JOHN DOWDALL, of Newtown and Termonfeichan, in possession of Artaine, He m. Maud, dau. of Jenico D'Artois, who survived him, and m. 2ndly, Sir Rowland Eustace, of Harristown, co. Kildare, Baron of Portlester, and lord-chancellor and treasurer.

To Sir John Dowdall s. SIR THOMAS DOWDALL, created Master of the Rolls, by patent, bearing date 1478.

SIR WILLIAM DOWDALL succeeded in the year 1510, and in his time flourished a distinguished member of the family, GEORGE DOWDALL, "Primate of all Ireland and Metropolitan," appointed by HENRY VIII. to the see of Armagh, in the year 1543. This prelate withdrew from his archbishopric in the reign of EDWARD VI., being, as the historian informs us, disgusted with the recent ecclesiastical chauges. The death of Archbishop Goodacre, however, who had been appointed in his stead, enabled Queen MARY to restore Dowdall to the privileges and honours he had formerly enjoyed, as primate of all Ireland, a title which he had established as rightfully and exclusively appertaining to him and to his successors being Archbishops of Armagh.

To Sir William s. SIR JOHN DOWDALL, and to him his son, SIR JOHN DOWDALL, b. about the year 1570.

At this period the younger branches of the family were in possession of the valuable estates of Moncktown, or Mountown, Athlumey, and Brownstown, in the co. Meath,* and of Termonfeichan and Artreston, in the co. Louth.

Sir John Dowdall, last mentioned, m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Thomas Southwell, of Polylong, co. Cork, and had issue by her several daus., but no son.†

The eldest dau., Anne, m. her relative, John Southwell, Esq. of Rathkeale. Sir John Dowdall, about 25 April, 1623, made a settlement of his property, consisting of the several denominations hereinafter mentioned; and on 24 March, 1638, by virtue of a commission for remedy of defective titles, and the fine of £113 3s. 7½d., English, paid by the said John Southwell, and Anne, his wife, King CHARLES I. confirmed the lordship and manor of Knockbillingslie, the circuit of the monastery of Rathkeale, the castle, town, and lands in the barony of Connalloe and co. Limerick, to hold to them and the heirs of her body; remainder to Anthony Dowdall and his heirs; remainder to the right heirs of their father, with several other dispositions of parcels of the premises, all which were created into the manor of Knockbillingslie, otherwise Mount Southwell, with usual privileges.

* A celebrated member of the family of the Meath branch, James Dowdall, Esq. of Knocke, (mentioned as one of the executors in the will of Thomas, 2nd Lord Louth,) became solicitor-general in 1554, second justice of the Queen's Bench in 1565, and chief justice of the King's Bench in 1583. This Sir James was highly complimented upon his promotion—"for his good services already done We have been pleased to choose and appoint him to that place. Wherefore Our will," &c. &c.—SMYTH's Chron. He is mentioned also in the will of Sir John Plunket, of Dunsaghy, Knt., chief justice then of the same court, who bequeathed him the testator's "gown furred with madin."

James Dowdall, another member of the family, was third justice of the Common Pleas about the same period.

The Termonfeichan branch became connected with the Dunsany family: for Genet, dau. of Patrick Dowdall, Esq. of that place, m. Oliver, 4th Lord Dunsany, about the year 1590.

The Artreston branch became connected with the Louth family; for the dau. of Anthony Dowdall, of that place, m. Alexander, son of Sir Oliver Plunkett, Knt. of Kilsaran, who was created Baron of Louth, by letters patent, 15 June, 1541, (33 HENRY VIII.)

The Athlumey branch became connected with the Barnwall, or Kingsland family; for Thomasine, dau. of Edward Dowdall, of that place, m. Sir Richard Barnwall, the 2nd Bart.; as appears by inquisition, 15 July, 1629, he had a special livery of his estate.

Nicholas Dowdall is described as of Brownstown, co. Meath, in the will, dated 24 July, 1662, of Christopher Aylmer, Esq. of Balrath, co. Meath, who thereby appointed him trustee for certain uses therein mentioned. This testator was ancestor to the Lord Aylmer.

† Lady Dowdall survived Sir John, and m. Donough, son and heir of Daniel O'Brien, 1st Viscount Clare, by Catherine, third dau. of Gerald, 16th Earl of Desmond. Daniel was the youngest brother of Donough O'Brien, Earl of Inchiquin.

The second dau., Elizabeth, was m. to Sir Hardress Waller, of Castletown, co. Limerick.*

The youngest dau., Honor, was m. to her relative, Laurence, son and heir of Edward Dowdall, of Mountown, aforesaid, by whom she had issue an only dau., Elizabeth.

EDWARD DOWDALL, of Mountown, whose son thus allied himself by marriage to his kinsman, Sir John Dowdall, m. Margaret, dau. of Henry Piers, Esq., grandson of Sir William Piers, Bart. of Tristernagh, co. Westmeath, and by her had issue several children (besides Laurenee).

One of the sons, Launcelot, m. Mary, dau. of Archdeacon, and granddaughter of Archbishop Launcelot Bulkeley, appointed to the see of Dublin, 11 Aug. 1619. This prelate was the sixth son of Sir Richard Bulkeley, of Beaumaris and Cheadle. The issue of the marriage of Launcelot Dowdall and Mary Bulkeley were two sons, Bulkeley, who d. unm.; and Launcelot, who m., but left no issue.

In the year 1739, EDWARD DOWDALL, the then proprietor of the Mountown estate, by his will of that date, entailed this, among other properties, upon his five sons successively in tail male; remainder to his dau. and her issue; remainder to his own brother, Laurenee, and his heirs for ever. These properties, however, were afterwards alienated by the eldest son, and are no longer in the possession of the Dowdall family.

LAUNCELOT DOWDALL, the eldest son of the vendor, instituted a suit to set aside the sale, but by his death the suit abated, and was never afterwards revived. This Launcelot was in holy orders, and rector of Duleek, co. Meath. He m. Miss Blacker, and had issue two sons, LAURENCE, who settled in the north of Ireland; and LAUNCELOT. The second son,

LAUNCELOT DOWDALL, m. Anne, dau. of the Rev. John Gibson, prebendary in the cathedral of Armagh, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of the Rev. Dr. Raymond, (mentioned in the writings of Swift as the deau's friend and associate,) of the family of Raymond of Ballyloughran, co. Kerry, and had issue,

- I. LAUNCELOT, of whom presently.
- II. John, one of the officers of the Ordnance department in Ireland, who enjoyed, as devisee, under the will of his relative, Major Anthony Botet, a valuable estate in the co. of Kerry. He d. unm. in 1834.
- III. Elizabeth, who m. William Studdert, third son of Maurice Studdert, Esq. of Elm Hill, co. Limerick, (see vol. ii. page 1326,) and d. in 1845, leaving surviving issue (with four daus., the eldest Anne, m. to the Rev. R.-M. Kennedy, rector of Powerscourt, and prebendary of Stagonil, in the diocese of Dublin) two sons,
 1. The Rev. John Studdert, precentor of the diocese of Killaloe, who m. Elizabeth Villiers, eldest dau. of T.-E.-Villiers Tuthill, Esq. of Rathgar House, co. Dublin.
 2. Launcelot Studdert, Esq., A.B., a member of the Irish bar.

The elder son,

THE REV. LAUNCELOT DOWDALL, D.D., became principal of the Royal College of Dungannon. He m. Hannah-Cassandra, dau. of Richard Eaton, Esq. of the city of Dublin, and had issue, LAUNCELOT, A.M., now vicar of St. Andrew's, alias Ballyhalbert, co. Down.

John, A.B., in holy orders, who settled in Somersetshire, and d. in 1844.

Mr. Drew is fourth son of the late JOHN DREW, Esq. of Meanus, Rockfield, and Listry, co. Kerry, and of Frogmore, near Youghal, co. Cork, eldest son of the late FRANCIS DREW, Esq., M.D. of Mocollop Castle, co. Waterford, who represented the Drew family in Ireland.

Lineage.

This is a junior branch of the Norman family of DREW, of Drewseliff, Hayne, and Sharpham, in Devon, descending from Riehard, Duke of Normandy, the CONQUEROR's grandfather, and now represented in England by EDWARD DREW, Esq. of the Grange, co. Devon. The following is the preamble of the Drew pedigree, as arranged by Ulster, King of arms, given under his official seal, and registered in his office of arms, in Dublin, viz., "The pedigree of the ancient and knightly family of Drew of Devonshire, the lincal deseendants of Drogo, or Dru, a noble Norman, son of Walter de Pouz, and brother of Richard, ancestor of the Cliffords, who accompanied WILLIAM the Conqueror into England, and of the several branches, &c. &c." This WALTER, or WILLIAM DE PONZ, or PONCE, or POUZ, was Earl of Arques and Thoulouse, and third son of Richard, Duke of Normandy, grandfather of WILLIAM the Conqueror, and came to England with his victorious and Royal nephew, (see BURKE'S Peerage, Barony of De Clifford.) "He had issue three sons, Walter, DREW, and Richard," (see COLLINS' Peerage, second edition, 1712,) of whom, RICHARD, the youngest, was father of Walter, surnamed De Clifford, from the castle of Clifford, which he got with Margaret, his wife, dau. of Ralf de Toney, a descendant from William Fitz-Osborn, Earl of Hereford, who built it. From this Walter sprang the great and illustrious family of Clifford; his eldest daughter was "The Fayre Rosamond," of whom King HENRY II. was so deeply enamoured, and by whom he had a gallant and chivalrous son, William Longspee, Earl of Salisbury. The beautiful but unhappy

Rosamond was interred in the chapter-house of the nunnery at Godstow, where near the high altar she had a hearse covered with silk and surrounded with numerous burning lights, and the following epitaph inscribed on her tomb, viz.,

"Hic jacet in Tumbâ, Rosa mundi, non Rosa munda, Non redolet, sed olet quæ redolere solet."

Of the eldest son of this great Baron, Walter de Ponz, nothing more is known than that "he possessed divers lordships." But DREW, the second son, was, as Prince expresses himself, the "stirp" of the family of Drew, in Devon, where he had no less than seventy-three manors at the time of the Domesday survey, (see LYSONS' Britannia, and Domesday Book.) Among the various Christian names, which after the Conquest continued as surnames, this of DREW is one, (see CAMDEN'S Remains, page 130.) Camden derives it thus: "Dru in Latine, Drogo, or Drogo, suhtile, as callidus in Latine, if it come from the Saxon or German; but if it come from the French, lively and lusty, (Nicotius)." — See Remains, page 66. Also PRINCE, in his Worthies of Devon, remarks: "'Tis possible to carry this family higher yet, even up to Drogo de Teign, from whom is denominated a famous parish in this county, called at this day Drew's Teignton, the town of Drew standing nigh the river Teign. Here lived Drogo de Teign, in King HENRY II.'s days, (withiu a hundred years of the Conquest,) which name we now call Drew, as Sir William Dugdale tells us." In SIR WILLIAM POLE'S Collections for a description of Devon, page 244, he says: "Tignton Drew both gave name and tooke name of the possessor thereof in King HENRY II.'s tyme. Hee was called Drew, or Drogo de Teigne." RISDON, also in his Survey of Devon, page 167, speaking of the change of the name Drogo to Drew, says: "the first parish that taketh name from Teign river, is Drew's Teignton, honouring the name of its ancient landlord, Drogo de Teign, by time's continuance molified into Drew." Prince also gives a copy of an ancient Latin deed connected with this family, and dated 4 King EDWARD IV., 1464. The object of it was to provide a chaplain of honest and good report to pray for the souls of Henry Drew, Esq., Agnes, Alice, and Joan, his wives, and for the souls of Sir Richard Campernon, Sir Thomas Carew, Walter Regnell, Robert Hill, son of Robert Hill, the judge, and several others. The ancient seats of this family were Drewscliffe and Hayne, in the parish of Newton St. Cyres, near Crediton, in Devon, in which county they have flourished in great honour, from the Norman Conquest to the present day. Through the heiress of Prideaux of Adeston, the Drew family in general descends in a direct line from JOHN, King of England; DERMOT M'MURROGH, King of Leinster; the King of Connaught; Lewelync, Prince of all Wales; the King of Man; the Earl Strongbow; Hugh de Laci, justice of Ireland; the Bigods, Earls of Norfolk; the Genevilles, Lords of Trim, in Ireland; the Mortimers, Earls of March; and the Montacutes, Earls of Salisbury, (see BURKE'S Royal Families of England, &c. &c., and their descendants.) The Irish branch, resident for so many generations at Mocollop Castle, co. Waterford, descends, through the heiress of Pomeroy, from King HENRY I., and the distinguished Norman and noble families of De Mules, De Camville, De Vitrei, De Vere, De Veruon, and De Valletort. The same branch also descends, through the co-heirs of Godfrey, in a direct line from King EDWARD I.; the great houses of Ormond and Thomond, from McCarthy More and Sir Valentine Browne, of Ross, ancestor of the Earls of Kenmare, in Ireland.

WILLIAM DREW, Esq. of Drewscliffe and Hayne, in the parish of Newton St. Cyres, co. Devon, and, jure uxoris, of Sharpham, m. Joan, dau. and heir of John Prideaux, Esq. of Adeston, co. Devon, by Amy, his wife, eldest dau. and co-heir of Robert French, Esq. of Horneford, by Matilda, his wife, dau. and heir of Robert Wynard, Esq. of Harcomb, and was, by this lady, father of

WILLIAM DREW, Esq. of Drewscliffe, Hayne, and Sharpham, who m. Joan, dau. and heir of Matthew Worsford, Esq., and was s. by his son,

RICHARD, his heir.

Edward, of Sharpham, serjeant-at-law to Queen ELIZABETH, whose eldest son and successor, SIR THOMAS DREW, Knt. of The Grange, is now represented by EDWARD DREW, Esq. of The Grange, co. Devon.

The elder son,

RICHARD DREW, Esq. of Drewscliffe and Hayne, was father of

JOHN DREW, Esq. of Drewscliffe and Hayne, who m. Joan, dau. of — Williams, Esq. of Ivesbridge, and had two sons,

RICHARD, of Drewscliffe and Hayne, m. Matilda, dau. and heir of John Farr, Esq. of Asburton, and was father of EDWARD DREW, Esq. of Drewscliffe and Hayne, whose line terminated with an heiress, MARY, who m. 1st, Walter Northcote, Esq. of Crediton; and 2ndly, Dr. Barnabas Potter, Bishop of Carlisle.

FRANCIS, of whom we treat.

The latter,

FRANCIS DREW, Esq. of Kilwinny, co. Waterford, and of Meanus, co. Kerry, went to Ireland, a captain in the army of Queen ELIZABETH, in or about the year 1598, being then a young man. He was expelled by the Irish from the co. Kerry, with all others of English blood, in 1641. His title-deeds were seized by a famous rebel, one Cahir Teigue O'Connor, and he d. the same year, administration granted to his second son, Barry, in 1665. He m. 1st, a dau. of Captain Hart, of co. Limerick; and 2ndly, Susanna, dau. of Leonard Knowel, Esq. of Ballygally, co. Waterford, and by the latter only (who* survived him, and m. 2ndly, Col. J. Admiral Drummond is a magistrate and deputy-lieutenant for Perthshire.

Lineage.

The Drummonds of Concraig derived from SIR MAURICE DRUMMOND, of Concraig, second son of Sir Malcolm Drummond, 10th Thane of Lennox, ancestor, by his eldest son, of the Drummonds, Earls and Dukes of Perth, and Earls of Melfort, whose present chief is GEORGE DRUMMOND, Duc de Melfort.

SIR JOHN DRUMMOND, 3rd Knight of Concraig, coroner and seneschal of Strathern, was involved in a serious contest with the Murray family, in vindication of his judicial authority, which led, in the sequel, to the death of the Earl of Strathern, by the hand of Sir John. The cause and consequences of this misfortune, are very interesting circumstances in the history of the Drummonds;* and

* Sir John was a brave and gallant gentleman, but unfortunate, in consequence of the violence he was forced to commit.

About the year 1391, Sir Alexander Murray, of Ogilface, (grandson of Sir Maurice Murray, of Drumshargart, the brother of Andrew Murray, governor of Scotland) who had married a dau. of Hugh, Earl of Ross, sister of Queen EUPHEMIE ROSS, had, by a fatal accident, killed a gentleman named William Spalden, for which he was summoned to appear on a certain day, and take his trial before Sir John Drummond, of Concraig, justiciar-corum and steward of Strathern, in a justice court, to be held at Fowls. Sir Alexander, either out of fear, or through pride and disdain, declined to attend; yet at last he found it convenient to present himself, and by a formal instrument declined the jurisdiction of the court, by an appeal to the ancient law of the Clan MacDuff. One privilege granted by this law was, that if any person within the ninth degree of kindred to any of the Earls of Fife should commit unpremeditated slaughter, upon his performing of certain ceremonies at MacDuff's Cross, near Newburgh, in Fife, and paying twenty-four merks, if a gentleman was killed, and twelve merks for a common man, he was to be adjudged free from the slaughter. The judges not being satisfied with this plea, charged him again to appear. He obeyed this summons, and gave in the following appeal and protestation, viz. :—

"In the year of God, 1391, upon the 17th day of December, a notary public and witnesses underwritten, a noble and potent man, Sir Alexander Moray, Knight, with his prologutors, Sir Bernard Hadden, Knight, and John Logie, being called by the acts of indictment concerning the killing of William Spalden, appeared before the justices, Sir John Drummond, Knight, Malcolm Drummond, and John MacWilliam, sitting in judgment, at Fowls, in a justice court, and did protest, that since he was once before indicted for the killing of the said William Spalden, and called in judgment before them, and was repledged to the law of Clan MacDuff, by Robert, Earl of Fife, he was not, nor could not be holden to answer before any other judge for the foresaid slaughter, so long as the said law of Clan MacDuff did use its privilege concerning him, and was in vigour. And, therefore, he did appeal to the said law, protesting withal that he should not be any more vexed by them or their judgments."

The judges upon this agreed to proceed no farther against the feuds that arose from it, forced the Drummonds of Concraig to maintain so many followers, that their fortune became greatly injured, and they had to part with many of their lands. From DOUGLAS'S Peerage, it clearly appears that the barony of Concraig, spreading over an extensive district, was purchased from them by Sir John Drummond, of Cargill and Stobhall, and the high dignities of Seneschal or Stewart of Strathern, justiciary-croner of the whole country, and ranger of the forest, (all of which were heritable, and had been conferred on the Concraig Drummonds by King DAVID BRUCE,) were conveyed by Maurice Kier-Drummond, 6th Baron of Concraig and Stewart of Strathern, (who was married to a daughter of Sir Andrew Murray, of Ogilface and Abercairny,) to John Drummond, of Cargill, the 1st Lord Drummond. Forced to dispose of his broad lands, and his honourable and lucrative offices, Maurice Kier-Drummond preferred thus selling them to his chief, to alienating them to other parties connected with him, who had long endeavoured to obtain them. The second son of Sir John Drummond, 3rd Knight of Concraig, JOHN DRUMMOND, to whom his father granted the lands of Lennoch, in Strathern, was ancestor of the DRUMMONDS OF LENNOCH, whose representative, in 1640,

JOHN DRUMMOND, 8th Baron of Lennoch, purchased from Sir George Hay, ancestor of the Earl of Kinnoul, the barony of Megginch. He m. Jean, dau. of Colin Campbell, of Aberuchill, uncle of John, Earl of London, and by her was father of an only dau., Anne, m. in 1673, to Alexander Duncan, of Seaside, ancestor of the Duncans of Lundie; and of a son,

ADAM DRUMMOND, 9th Baron of Lennoch, and 2nd of Megginch, who was a privy councillor of Scotland, and, in 1695, one of the commissioners to inquire into the slaughter of the McDonalds of Glencoe. He m. Alison, him at present, but refer the matter to the lord-justice-general, the Lord Brechin, and his council, that they might determine in it as they thought fit; upon which protestation and answer, Sir Alexander took instruments in the hands of John Simon, notary public, and witnesses.

The lord-justice-general having advised the cause, gave judgment that the law of Clan MacDuff should not liberate Sir Alexander from his ordinary judge, but that he should return and make his defences before the same court he had declined. This he was obliged to do; and though there was not so much rigour shown in the prosecution as there might have been, yet in the event it occasioned much animosity between the two families and their friends and dependants. Sir Alexander, and his friends and successors, used every means to be freed from that jurisdiction, or to procure the administration of it to themselves, which the family of Concraig as rigorously endeavoured to prevent, until upon a new occasion in the reign of King JAMES III., a liberation was granted to some of the Murrays, and secured to their posterity.

A few years after the above prosecution, Patrick Graham, having married the heiress of Strathern, he thereby became earl thereof. Sir Alexander Murray and his friends importuned him, with great earnestness, to deprive Sir John Drummond of his office of steward and justician of Strathern. The earl endeavoured to persuade Sir John to resign to him as superior, but he obstinately refused, insisting that himself and his predecessors had an unquestionable title to it long before he had any to the earldom. This occasioned a variance between the earl and Sir John, who was his brother-in-law, but their friends accomplished a reconciliation, which, in testimony of their sincerity, was confirmed by their taking the holy sacrament together. Yet not long thereafter, Sir Alexander Murray, taking advantage of the earl's laziness of temper, and making use of the influence which he had with the countess, who was grandchild to his lady's sister, extorted one day a promise from the earl, that he should either have the power of the disposal of the steward's office, or lose the Earldom of Strathern. Thus they incensed him against his brother-in-law to that degree, that, in pursuance of his rash promise, he went with a retinue from Methven, the place of his residence, with a resolution to disperse Sir John's court, then sitting at the Skeall of Crieff; but Sir John, having intelligence of his design, advanced with his friends to meet the earl, who was killed at the first encounter; but there was no more bloodshed, nor did the earl's followers attempt to avenge their master's slaughter.

Sir John and his attendants immediately fled to Ireland. They afterwards embarked for England, but the violence of the weather forced them into Scotland, where they were apprehended, and, as Bishop Leslie and Adam Bell, in their histories of Scotland, write, were brought to execution; but John Fordun says, that none suffered by the hands of public justice but William and Walter Oliphardo, and that the unfortunate knight himself died in Ireland long after.

DRURY OF KNIGHTSTONE.

DRURY, THE REV. CHARLES, M.A., F.A.S., of Knightstone, in St. Mary Ottery parish, co. Devon, Prebendary of Hereford, and Rector of the second portion of Pontesbury, Salop, b. at Harrow-on-the-Hill, co. Middlesex, in 1788.

Lineage.

This family is descended from the very ancient house of the DRURYS of Suffolk. The founder of it came into England with the CONQUEROR, as is recorded in the Battle Abbey Roll. He settled first at Thurston, and subsequently at Rongham, near Bury St. Edmunds, co. Suffolk, and his descendants continued in possession of that estate for about six hundred years and more.

From this house branched off the DRURYS of Hawsted, Suffolk, who built Drury House, in London, temp. ELIZABETH, the road leading to which has ever since retained the name of Drury-lane. It stood a little behind the site of the present Olympic theatre.

Of another branch of this family was SIR DRUE DRURY, who, together with Sir Amias Powlett, had, at one period, the custody of MARY Queen of Scots.

A remarkable pedigree of the Drury family, from the Conquest until the middle of the reign of JAMES I., with its several branches, may be found printed in SIR J. CULUM's History of Hawsted. It was drawn up, temp. JAMES I., by THOMAS DRURY, Esq., of the Inner Temple, for Sir Drue Drury, and is said to be now in the possession of the family of Wake, co. Northampton, who descended in the female line from Sir Drue. The original rough draft of this pedigree came, by some means, to the branch of which this page treats, and is now in the hands of the Rev. H. Drury, of Bremhill.

The immediate descent of DRURY OF KNIGHTSTONE is from JOHN DRURY, third son of SIR ROBERT DRURY, of Rougham, Suffolk, b. temp. ELIZABETH. This gentleman became possessed of, and removed to, Leviate Halt, parish of Ashwyhen, near Lynn, in Norfolk, in the reign of JAMES I. His descendants, in the third generation, alienated that property to the family of the Lord Keeper North. There is no trace that any of this branch of the Drurys again became possessors of landed estate, until the latter part of the last century, when

THE REV. JOSEPH DRURY, D.D., prebendary of Wells, purchased lands at Dawlish, in Devon, and built a seat thereon, called Coekwood House. Dr. Drury was for several years Master of Harrow, but he relinquished that post in 1804. He m. Louisa, dau. of Benjamin Heath, Esq., LL.D., of Exeter, author of many learned works, and had, with one dau., m. to John-Herman Merivale, Esq. of Benton Place, co. Devon, (by whom she has numerous issue,) three sons, the youngest and only survivor of whom is the present REV. CHARLES DRURY, M.A., of Knightstone. The two elder sons, who are both deceased, married and left issue; the son of the eldest, the Rev. HENRY DRURY, M.A., vicar of Bremhill, Wilts, being the present representative of the family.

DUNSCOMBE OF MOUNT DESERT.

DUNSCOMBE, NICHOLAS, Esq. of Mount Desert, near Cork, b. 23 Aug. 1807; m. 2 April, 1839, Jane, fourth dau. of Robert Carr, Esq. of the city of Cork. Mr. Dunscombe s. his father, 3 March, 1835; he is a magistrate of the county of Cork.

Lineage.

The family of Dunscombe are of Saxon origin; their native county was Devonshire, where, in ages now forgotten, ere the Norman subjugated the Saxon, they gave name to Higher and Lower Dunscombe, and, in common with others of their race, suffered under Norman sway. It has been handed down in ancestral archives, that the progenitor of the first William Dunscombe, Esq., hereinafter mentioned, was engaged in the Crusade to Palestine, as a knight's attendant. Having survived his perilous expedition, and after braving many a danger, and enduring privations still greater, his eyes were at length gladdened with the sight of the land of his fathers. He arrived in London, where he became located.

As respects their standing in Ireland, Edward Dunscombe Esq., resided at Saint Finnharry's, in the city of Cork, in 1590, and, beyond question, the family of Dunscombe is one of the oldest in that city, and with it the name is indelibly identified, for on Dunscombe's Marsh the greatest portion of the flat of the city has been built.

WILLIAM DUNSCOMBE, Esq. of London, b. in 1475, d. in 1540, leaving, by his wife, named Clement, a son,

CAPTAIN CLEMENT DUNSCOMBE, who d. in 1590, leaving

Lineage.

YNWR AP CADFORCH, Lord of both Maelors, Oswestry, and Whittington, in Powys, one of the barons of that kingdom, m. Rhiengar, dau. and sole heir of Lluddoca ap Caradoc Vreichfras, Lord of Hereford, in South Wales, and was by her father of a son,

TUDOR TREVOR, (so called, because born or nursed at Trevor,) Lord of Hereford, Whittington, and both Maelors, and founder of the tribe of the Marches—an appellation derived from the numerous families seated in the marches of England and Wales, descended from him. Tudor Trevor's chief seat was Whittington Castle, of which he is said to have been the founder, and the Welsh heralds assign to him as ensigns, "Parted, per hend, sinister, ermine and ermines, over all a lion, rampant, or," which, as chief arms, or quartered, have been borne by all his descendants. The Lord of Hereford and Whittington m. Angharad, dau. of Howell Dha, King of South Wales, A.D. 907, the celebrated lawgiver of Cambria, and had issue,

- I. Gronwy ap Tudor Trevor, Lord of Hereford, who m. Morfydd, dau. of Llewelyn Aurdorchog, Lord of Yale in Denbighland, and was father of a dau. and heiress, Gwen, who m. Cyhelyn ap Ivor, Lord of Buith, and was mother of Elystan Glodrydd, Prince of Ferlys, founder of the iv. Royal Tribe of Wales.

* The family of PHILIPPS is of the most remote antiquity. CADEFOR, Lord of Dyvett, now Pembrokeshire, died in 1084, and was buried at the priory, near Carmarthen. He had married Eleanor, dau. and sole heiress of the Lord of Kilsaint, in the county of Carmarthen, and had a son and successor, BLEDRI, Lord of Dyved, who, after the revolution in Pembrokeshire, in 1098, retired to Kilsaint, in Carmarthenshire. He m. Ancreta, second daughter of Rhys, Prince of South Wales, and sister to Gwenllian, wife of Ednyfed Vychan, ancestor of Owen Tudor, grandfather to King HENRY VII. By this lady he had two sons, Aaron, Lord of Kilsaint, and a younger son, who founded the family at Cwmgwilly, who for more than a century has represented the borough of Carmarthen in parliament. The two sons of Bledri, accompanying the Lion-hearted RICHARD to Palestine, there achieved so high a reputation, that that monarch created the elder a Knight of the Sepulchre of our Saviour, and granted to both for their arms, the lion, rampant, sa., gorged and chained. From Sir Aaron descended the Philippses of Picton Castle, and many others.

- II. Llydoch ap Tudor Trevor, Lord of both Maelors and Oswestry, whose grandson, Rhys Sais ap Ednyfedd, Lord of Oswestry and Whittington, had issue,
 1. Tudor ap Rhys Sais, ancestor of the MOSTYNS or MOSTYN.
 2. Elidyr ap Rhys Sais, Lord of Eyton, in Denbighland, ancestor of the EYTONS of EYTON, and EYTONS of RHUABON, co. Denbigh.
 3. Idhon ap Rhys Sais, progenitor of, I. the EDWARDES'S of KILHENDRE; II. EDWARDES'S of SHREWSBURY, BARTS.; and III. VAUGHANS OF BURLTON.

III. DYNGAD AP TUDOR TREVOR, of whose line we have to treat.

The third sou,

DYNGAD AP TUDOR TREVOR, m. Cicely, dau. of Severus, son of Cadivor ap Gwenwynwyn, Prince of Powys-Wenwynwyn, and was father of RHYWALLON AP DYNGAD, whose wife was Lettice, dau. of Cadwaladr ap Peredir Goch. Their son,

CYNRIC AP RHYWALLON, Lord of Whittington, Christionydol, Cynric, and Maelor Cymraeg, in Powys, who was slain A.D. 1073, m. Judy, dau. of Ivor Hên, Lord of Rhos, and had issue. The third son,

NINNAU AP CYNRIC, was father of

IEUAF AP NINNAU, who m. Efa, dau. of Einion ap Howel ap Ievan, Lord of Arwystli, derived from Elystan Glodrydd, Prince of Ferlys, and had issue,

- I. IORWERTH VYCHAN AP IEUAF, continuer of the line.
- II. Eñuon ap Ieuaf, whose descendant, Llewelyn ap Ednyfed, of Sonlley, was father of two sons,
 1. David Eyton, of Eyton, Constable of Holt, progenitor of the EYTONS of EYTON.
 2. Morgan Sonlley, of Sonlley, from whom derived the SONILLEYS of SONLLEY.

The eldest son,

IORWERTH VYCHAN AP IEUAF, of Llwynon, co. Denbigh, m. Mali, widow of David ap Rhys, 5th Baron of Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, co. Merioneth, ancestor of the Hughes's of Gwerclas, Barons of Kymmer-yn-Edeirnion, and third dau. of Ievan, living 6 HENRY VI., son of Einion ap Griffith, of Cos-y-Gedol, co. Merioneth. By this lady Iorwerth Vychan had issue,

- I. GRIFFITH AP IORWERTH.

II. Hwfa ap Iorwerth, of Hafod-y-Wern, who m. Margaret, dau. of Llewelyn ap Ynwr O'fal, Lord of Gelligynan, (see LLOYD of GLOSTER,) and was father of GRONO AP HWFA, of Hafod-y-Wern, who m. the dau. and co-heir of Ievan ap Howell, of Henllys, in Cefn-y-Farm, derived from Collwyn ap Tangno, Lord of Eñonydd. The son of this marriage, IEVAN AP GRONO, of Hafod-y-Wern, was father, by his wife, Erdhglad, dau. and heiress of Iorwerth Goch ap Madoc, derived through Elidyr ap Rhys Sais, from Tudor Trevor, of GRONO AP IEVAN, of Hafod-y-Wern, whose wife was Alsion, dau. of Kynrick ap Meredith Ddu, of Anglesey. Their son, HOWELL AP GRONO, of Hafod-y-Wern, was father of a dau. and heiress, ALSION, who m. Howell ap Ievan, of Bersham, of the Tribe of Tudor Trevor, and was mother of a dau. and heiress, ALSION, who m. John Puleston, son of Madoc Puleston, second son of Robert Puleston, Esq. of Emrall, co. Flint.

- III. Iorwerth Vychan, from whom, seventh in descent, was

EDWARD AP JOHN, of Chirkland, in North Wales, who m. Catherine, dau. of Ievan ap William, of Mold, co. Flint, and was father of a third son, THOMAS EDWARDES, who, by Sage, his second wife, dau. of Thomas Tucker, had a son, OWEN EDWARDES, living in 1613, and then m. to Elliw, dau. of Morgan Voel, of Haverfordwest, by whom he had a son, JOHN EDWARDES, father, by Anne, his wife, of

OWEN EDWARDES, Esq. of Trefgarne, co. Pembroke, who m. about the middle of the seventeenth century, Damaris, dau. of James Perrott, Esq., Lord of Wellington, by Dorothy, his wife, dau. of Sir Thomas Perrott, Bart., and the Lady Dorothy Devereux, his wife, sister of Robert, 2nd Earl of Essex, the ill-fated favourite of Queen ELIZABETH. By this lady Mr. Edwardes had issue,

- I. JOHN, his heir.
- II. Francis, who m. the Lady Elizabeth Rich, only dau. of Robert Rich, second Earl of Holland, and fifth Earl of Warwick, by the Lady Ann Montagu, dau. of Edward, Earl of Manchester, his second countess, and inheriting the possessions of the Earl of Warwick, in right of his wife, made a will and entailed these estates (failing his own male issue) on his brother, John Edwardes, of Trefgarne, and his children. Francis had issue,

WILLIAM, of Johnston, who was created a peer of Ireland, by the title of BARON KENSINGTON, 20 July, 1776, (see BURKE'S Peerage and Baronetage.)
Lucy, m. to Essex Meyrick, Esq. of Bush, in the co. of Pembroke.

The eldest son and heir,

I. Anna-Frances. II. Elizabeth-Martha.

Mr. Elmhirst s. his brother in 1835.

Lineage.

"Ouslethwaite, Houndhill, Elmhirst," says HUNTER, in his History of Doncaster, "have all been at different periods in the possession of one family, which has been seated in this valley from the earliest era to which we can usually ascend, when we find one Robert called de Elmhurst, that being then the place of his residence. Elmhurst is still the property of his descendant, William Elmhirst, Esq. of Round Green, and so is Ouslethwaite and Genne House, Ouslethwaite being a late purchase; but Houndhill passed at the beginning of the last century, by an heiress, to the Copleys of Nether Hall, near Doncaster.

The Elmhirsts have produced their own genealogist, in the person of Richard Elmhirst, of Houndhill, the head of the family in the 17th century. He was known to Dr. Johnson, who gives this account of him: "That he was a person of good judgment, and learned in the laws; he had the collection of the recusants' rents, payable to the crown, under the Earl of Strafford. It might have been added, that he was much employed by the Earl of Strafford in the administration of his private affairs. He was also employed under him, in the court of the lord president of the North, and was well esteemed by the neighbouring gentry. In the civil wars, he fortified his house for the king, to defend himself from common plunderers, but yielded it to Sir Thomas Fairfax, who came in person to demand the surrender of it. Some of the soldiers would have killed him, but Sir Thomas, who had a kindness for him, prevented it. He got rich, and purchased considerable lands, of which the manor of Newton, on Derwent, for which he gave £650 to William Gower, Esq., appears to have been the chief. He stands in the Catalogue of Compounders for no less a sum than £566. He began the family pedigree, which was continued by his son, a physician, who lived at Houndhill till the beginning of the last century."

"The word Elmhirste signifies a grove, holte, or wood of elms. There are divers families in Germany of the same name, or very little differing from it, but in England no other than that of which we are about to treat.

"The name has been written most usually, Elmhirst, sometimes Elmhirst, otherwhile Elmhurst; in some ages, Helmhurst; in Germany, they write Elmenhorste."

The first ancestor from whom can be drawn a lineal descent, was "Robert de Elmhirst, who lived in the time of EDWARD I. and EDWARD II., and had issue, John de Elmhirst, Richard de Elmhirst, and William de Elmhirst, among whom (as it seems) he distributed his lands, for after the death of the said Robert de Elmhirst, at a court houlden at Worsbrough, die Jovis (lynnes worne out), anno regni Regis Edwardi tercii xv., Johes filius Roberti de Elmhirst fecit fidelitatem pro uno messuagio et diversis terris et boscis in Worsbroughdale, and at the same court, Ricus filius Roberti de Elmhirst fecit fidelitatem pro uno messuagio et bovato terræ in Worsbroughdale, as by the court roll remayning in St. Mary's Tower at York doth appeare; and about three score years after, at another court houlden at Worsbrough, Matilda uxor Rogeri Genne filia et heres Johis de Elmhirst venit in curiam et clamat de jure hereditario unum messuag et unam bovatom terræ cum suis ptin post decessum Willelmi filii Willelmi de Elmhirst, cujus heres ipsa est, ut de san? nat que concessa sunt pefat Matild tenend sibi et beredibus suis secund consuetud manerii.

"John de Elmhirst had yssue, the said Mawde, married to Roger Genne, of Ouslethwaite, which Mawd (yt seemes) dyed without yssue; William de Elmhirst, youngest son of Robert had yssue, William de Elmhirst, of Barnsley, a priest, and vicar of Bolton-on-Dearne, which he resigned, A.D. 1401. He dyed without yssue, and his lands were claimed by Maud Genne, his aunt, the sister of his father, as heir, as just stated.

"Richard de Elmhirst, second sonne of the said Robert, ffeſto St. Martini, anno regni Regis Edwardi tertii quadragesimo primo, purchased certain lands in Worsbrough, of one Robert de Cliffe, as appeares by the entry of his fealty for the same in a court roll of the manor of Worsbrough. The same Richard (who appeares to be the same man by a deed of release to him made under the seal of the Prioress and Convent off Nunappleton, dat. apud Apleton die Lun vicessimo die mensis Novembris, anno Domini, 1363, whereby Idonea de Gaynesburg prioressa de Nunapleton et convent loci ejusdem Relax Rico filio Roberti de Elmhirst) had yssue, John de Elmhirst.

"John de Elmhirst, sonne of said Richard, (who was owner of Elmhirst in the time of the reigne of King Henry the fowerth, as appeares by a deed dated xvj die Aprilis, 1409, whereby Robert de Pilley concessit Johanni de Elmhirst duo acerta terre jaecen ex pte boreal de Elmhirst meares,) had yssue, Johu and William de Elmhirst."*

ROBERT DE ELMHIRST, living temp. EDWARD I., the first ancestor from whom an unbroken line is deduced, m. and had issue,

- i. JOHN, who did fealty for lands in Worsbroughdale, after the death of his father. He m., and had a dau., Matilda, m. to Roger Genne, of Ouslethwaite, and d. s. p.
- ii. RICHARD, of whom presently.
- iii. WILLIAM, whose son, William, of Barnsley, a priest, and vicar of Bolton-on-Deane, which he resigned in 1401, d. s. p.

The second son,

RICHARD DE ELMHIRST, did fealty for lands in Worsbroughdale, after the death of his father. In 1363 he purchased lands of the Priory of Nunapleton, and in 1368 he bought lands in Worsbrough of Robert de Cliffe. He had also lands in Hoyland Swaine, granted to him by Cecillia and Emma Went, as appears by MS. Dods. 53, fol. 59. He was s. by his son,

JOHN DE ELMHIRST, who bought, in 1409, lands of Robert de Pilley, jac. ex pte boreal de Elmhirst. He was father of

WILLIAM DE ELMHIRST, whose will is dated in 1472. By Alice, his wife, he had a son and successor,

ROBERT DE ELMHIRST, whose wife's name was Margaret. By her he had,

- i. Robert,
- ii. Henry,
- iii. Robert,
- iv. James, a priest, who was cross-bearer to Cardinal Wolsey, and afterwards rector of St. Swithin's, in London.
- v. WILLIAM, of whom presently.

- ii. Margery, who d. in 1604, and was buried at Worsbrough. She m. Robert Genne, of Ouslethwaite.

The youngest son,

WILLIAM DE ELMHIRST, got possession of the lands of his father after the death of his mother. He m. Agnes, dau. of — Hall, of Smithley, in the parish of Darfield, (about this time an heiress of — Hall, m. William Rayner, of Tyas Hill, near Ederthorpe, in the parish of Darfield.) She d. in 1577, a widow, and was buried at Worsbrough, leaving issue,

- i. ROGER,
- ii. Agnes, m. 1st, to John Ffoster; and 2ndly, to Thomas Addy, of Ederthorpe, in the parish of Darfield.
- iii. Jannet, m. to John Cawood, of Robroyd, near Houndhill, in the township of Worsbrough.

The only son,

ROGER ELMHIRST, of Elmhirst and of Houndhill, purchased the manor of Silkstone and some lands at Kendall Green, which belonged to Bretton Abbey. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Marsh, of Dey or Dairy House, in the parish of Darton, co. York, and by her (who d. in 1580, and was buried at Worsbrough) had issue,

- i. ROBERT, of whom presently.
- ii. John, who lived at Lewdine, in Worsbroughdale. He m. 1st, in 1597, Elizabeth, dau. of Robert Oxley, of Nether Swaithie, in Worsbroughdale, and by her (who was buried at Tankersley, 16 June, 1602) had issue,
 1. John, b. in 1598, M.A., and fellow of University College, Oxford.
 2. Joshua, of Pilley, who was baptized, in 1606, at Tankersley, m. and had (with other issue) a dau., Dorothea, bapt. in 1635, m. in 1678, to John Turton, who lived at Elmhirst; and a son, the Rev. Joshua Elmhirst, bapt. 20 March, 1647, M.A. in 1680, who was for nineteen years vicar of Bosbury, and twenty-three years archidiaconus. He d. 20 July, 1708, aged 62, "morte ejus a paræris et vicinis multum defetâ," as appears by his tombstone in Bosbury Church. By Jane, his wife, he left several children.

3. Francis, d. in 1601, and was buried at Worsbrough.
4. Roger, lived at Lewdine, b. in 1611, and d. in 1638.
5. Jacob, d. 22 March, 1619.
6. William, b. in 1602.
7. Richard, b. in 1606, d. in 1609.
8. Caleb, b. in 1610.
9. Elizabeth, b. in 1599, m. in 1628, at Worsbrough, to Robert Allot, of Lewdine, in Worsbroughdale.
10. Sarah, b. in 1603, m. to Godson, of Odiham, Hants.
- John Elmhirst m. 2ndly, in 1615, at Worsbrough, Dorothy, relict of Robert Allot, of Lewdine, and by this second marriage had issue,
 11. Francis, b. in 1615, and d. an infant.
 12. Nathaniel, b. in 1616, d. in 1620, and was buried at Worsbrough.
 13. Jonathan, of London, b. in 1619.
 14. Nathaniel, b. in 1624, d. young.
 15. Susannah, b. in 1621, d. young.

- iii. William, b. in 1572, collector of Customs in London.
- iv. Roger, b. in 1576, d. s. p., Customer of Limerick, in Ireland.
- i. Mary, b. in 1580, m. at Worsbrough, in 1604, to John Allot, of Doncaster, alderman, and mayor in 1624.
- ii. Elizabeth, m. 1st, in 1585, at Worsbrough, Robert Castleford, of Darley Cliffe, in Worsbroughdale, and 2ndly, to John Booth, of Hansworth Woodhouse, and of Darley Hall, in Worsbroughdale. His will is dated in 1613, and was proved at Loughton-en-le-Morthen.
- iii. Margaret, m. at Worsbrough, 19 April, 1603, to Roger Genne, of Ouslethwaite, who d. in 1647.
- iv. Agnes, m. to Needham, of Rotherham.
- v. Joan, b. in 1574, m. to Nicholas Staniforth, of Tinsley.
- vi. Frances, b. and d. in 1575, buried at Worsbrough.

Roger Elmhirst, of Elmhirst and Houndhill, m. 2ndly, in April, 1582, Margaret, relict of Charles Jenkinson, Esq. of Slade Hooton, but by her had no issue. He d. in 1594, and was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT ELMHIRST, of Houndhill, bapt. at Worsbrough, 13 Jan. 1559, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of William Thornton, of Thornton and Tysal, by his wife, Beatrice, dau. of Henry Tempest, of Braewell, and his wife, Ellinor, dau. and heiress of Christopher Mirfield, of Tonge. She was relict of Mark Foxcroft, of Kirkstall, near Leeds. By this lady (who d. in 1647) he had, with other children, who d. young, two sons,

- i. RICHARD, his heir.
- ii. William, b. in 1606, entered, in 1626, at University College, Oxford, and graduated as M.A. of Wadham. In 1635, he was instituted to the vicarage of Ledsham, to which he was presented by Thomas, Earl of Strafford. He d. in 1638, and was buried at Ledsham.

Robert Elmhirst d. and was buried at Worsbrough, 9 April, 1618. His eldest son,

RICHARD ELMHIRST, of Houndhill, was much employed by Lord Strafford, both respecting his own concerns, and in the collecting the recusants' rents, as well as in affairs connected with the presidency of the North: he was also employed by the second Earl of Strafford. He fortified his house at Houndhill at the time of the civil war. He purchased several lands, and a house in Stonegate, in the city of York, which he occupied. He was a compounder for no less a sum than £556. This Richard commenced the pedigree of his family, and traced it down to his own time. He m. 1st, in 1628, Margaret, dau. and co-heiress of Richard Micklethwaite, son of Elias Micklethwaite, of Swaithie Hall, in Worsbroughdale, and by her (who d. at York, and was buried 2 Oct. 1632, in St. Helen's Church) had issue,

- i. Thomas, b. in 1631, and buried in 1632, at Worsbrough, where a brass plate, with a curious inscription, records his death.
- i. Elizabeth, b. in 1629, and buried in 1638, at Worsbrough.

He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Waite, of Haxby, near York, and by her (who d. at York, and was buried along with her husband in St. Helen's Church, as is stated in the will of William Elmhirst, her son) had issue,

- ii. RICHARD, bapt. 1 Jan. 1639, who lived at Houndhill. He recorded the pedigree at Dugdale's Visitation, in 1665; his will bears date, 12 Feb. 1673, and was proved 24 March, 1673. He m. Alice, dau. of Gervase Dickson, of Woodhall, in the parish of Darfield, and by her (who d. in 1673, and was buried at Worsbrough) had issue,
 1. Joshua, b. in 1669, and d. 22 Aug. 1683, aged 14. He was buried at Worsbrough, and his death is recorded by a brass plate.

* From the old pedigree on parchment, and supposed to have been signed by Dugdale, at his Visitation in 1665: the arms are annexed.
